DETROIT GETS KILLER SUSPECT

59TH ASSEMBLY ADJOURNS; MAY RETURN IN FALL

Horner Signs the Pension Bill.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 29.—[Special.]—Sine die adjournment was taken by the Illinois general assembly early tonight after it had killed the insurance code and the women's eight hour day bill and had been informed that Gov. Horner had signed the old age pension measure.

In signing the pension bill, Gov. Horner pointed out to the legislators who were grouped in his office that it had been drawn without reference to the federal social security act. He said that it must be amended "so Illinois can participate fully in the benefits provided in federal legislation, which can be done at a special session."

"However," the governor said, "I am signing this bill now because I want you and the country to know I am a hearty subscriber to the theory of old age pensions."

Provides Dollar a Day.

The measure approved by the governor provides for disbursement of $1 a day to persons of 65 years old or more. These persons must have been residents of Illinois for at least ten of the fifteen years immediately preceding application for a pension. The assembly has passed an appropriation of 5 million dollars to finance the pensions, which will begin Jan. 1.

Senate action on the insurance code, which was prepared by a legislative commission with the advice of Ernest Palmer, state director of insurance, was taken in one of the quiet interims of a somewhat otherwise noisy last day on the part of both the senate and the house.

Little argument was raised on the bill. This was the fourth time within two weeks that the senate had been asked to approve the code, which had had a rough passage through the house, and its sponsors were content to say merely that the senators had knowledge of its provisions.

Director Is Disappointed.

The vote was 20 ayes and 10 nays. Sitting on a chair at the side of the senate chamber as the vote was cast, Director Palmer voiced disappointment but not defeat. He said he would resubmit either at a special session of the 59th general assembly—the one that adjourned today—or at the next regular session.

The women's eight hour bill went down to defeat for the lack of a single vote, it requiring 26 tallies, but gaining only 25 throughout a day when Martin Durkin, state director of labor, wandered about the senate floor, anxious to see it passed.

Senator Francis J. Loughran [Dem., Chicago] called the bill for passage. He was assisted by Senator John M. Lee [Dem., Chicago] in appeals for enactment for the measure. On the first roll call it failed according to an unofficial tally by three votes.

Postponement Is Won.

Loughran moved for postponement of consideration, and when it was not readily granted Lee said:

"What's the trouble here. I've seen the time here when there was a postponement of many hours and even days."

He gained his point. Several hours later when the bill was called again, two more votes had been obtained for it, but the one additional vote that would have meant passage eluded them, many senators, although being present, only staring at the clerk as the roll was called, the absentees paged, and the roll verified.

More than an hour was consumed in the senate over consideration of the teachers' oath bill which was fought by T. V. Smith [Dem., Chicago] and Noah M. Mason [Rep., Oglesby], former president of the Illinois State Teachers' association. The vote on the bill was 9 ayes and 28 nays.

Dying on the house calendar was the Ward bill which would have permitted the sale of liquor in governmental buildings, no part of which was used for government purposes.

Sine die adjournment was taken in daylight, for a change—as the sun coasted down behind the bluffs of the Sangamon river. The house beat the senate to adjournment, ending its deliberations at 6:47 p. m., and the senate quitting at 7:06 o'clock.

The sizzling temperature of the day had been reflected in the words and actions of the legislators. In both

LEWIS STAGES CRISIS, AND THEN ROOSEVELT ACTS

Aim to Force Guffey Bill Passage.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—With palpably clumsy theatrics, a staged crisis, rigged up to influence congress to pass the Guffey bill to create a little NRA in the coal industry, played a one night stand, here today.

The plot put President Roosevelt in the rôle of a hero by a last minute averting of the strike of 400,000 soft coal miners, called for Monday. The President knew his lines well, because he had aided in staging the drama.

The first act was run off in the morning, when a joint conference between John L. Lewis, president, and other officials of the United Mine Workers and representatives of the Guffey bill, broke up without reaching an agreement.

Play Parts Like Actors.

The second act followed in the afternoon, when Lewis called the strike. In issuing strike orders he warned his district leaders to be orderly and frowned upon demonstrations.

The third and final act came in the office of Secretary of Labor Perkins, when, after hours of wrangling, Lewis finally was induced to agree to a postponement in front of reporters. The newspaper men, placed in the rôle of drama critics, agreed that the principals played their parts like the actors in a third rate company of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Secretary Perkins called in reporters and doing her best to look gloomy, announced that efforts toward peace had failed. Lewis and his group and Duncan Kennedy and the operators' representatives did their best to glare defiantly at one another.

Lewis Overstudies Lines.

Secretary Perkins turned slowly to Mr. Lewis.

"I want to ask Mr. Lewis, on behalf of the administration—I have consulted the President and we believe the public good demands it—if the United Mine Workers can see their way clear to call off the strike for at least 30 days."

Lewis appeared to study a moment and then his lines came out as though he had overstudied them: "The United Mine Workers will acquiesce to the wish of the President as expressed by the secretary of labor."

He added hastily that he did so in the hope that legislation would be passed "to stabilize a debauched and stricken industry." Although he did not mention the Guffey bill every one present understood his reference was to the measure under which high wages will be maintained, prices would be fixed and the coal consumers charged with an additional 100 million dollars a year for fuel.

Can't Speak for Operators.

Kennedy hastened to say that he could not speak authoritatively for the operators, but was sure that they would agree to the plan to postpone the strike until July 31 with the hope that the bill would be enacted. Pro-Guffey operators and the mine union officials are cordially coöperating because such operators loudly proclaim they cannot pay even the expiring wage scale unless the Guffey measure is passed.

As an entrée act to the day's drama, Secretary Perkins called at the White House to see President Roosevelt after Lewis had called the strike. She announced that she would have an important announcement to make during the evening, hinting that the announcement would be a postponement of the strike.

It was the second time within a fortnight President Roosevelt played his rôle. Two weeks ago the White House announced that he had "persuaded" Mr. Lewis to withhold the strike call until July 1.

Operators Call It Life Saver.

The operators opposed to the Guffey bill view the strike call with equanimity. They said there is enough coal above the ground to last several months and that the strike could not continue two or three months without breaking up the union.

Arnold Gerstell of Philadelphia, vice president of the Puritan Coal corporation, told the ways and means subcommittee yesterday that the Guffey bill is looked upon as a life saver by the "busted" operators of high cost mines, who were given a new lease of

AN AMERICAN PIONEER GETS SOME POINTERS ON ALASKAN WILD LIFE

PALMER, Alaska, June 29.—(AP)—Harry Campbell, late of Michigan, and now a Matanuska colonist, told today how he had learned about wild life in the far north.

On his way to camp from Palmer yesterday he met a black bear. It came at him rampant. Campbell shinnied up the nearest birch tree. He sat on a limb. The bear sat on the ground, eyes uplifted.

After a time the bear wandered away into the woods. Campbell slid to the ground. Out popped the bear from a clump of brush a few feet away. The colonist ran. So did the bear. The bear gained. Campbell dodged into the woods. He lost the bear. The bear lost him. Then Campbell lost himself.

Hours later the colonist dragged himself into camp, dog-tired and hoping the bear was the same.

EYE, LOST BY ONE PATIENT, TO GIVE ANOTHER SIGHT

Within a day or two, Stanley May, 18 years old, of Independence, Mo., will know whether an operation on his right eye, performed at the Passavant hospital, has been effective in restoring the sight of that organ. The boy lost his vision in the eye as a result of an ulcer that clouded the cornea, which is the transparent part of the eye ball. Specialists at the hospital took the cornea from another human eye, which it had been necessary to remove from another patient, and grafted it on young May's eye. Dr. Irving S. Cutter of the hospital stated that, while the operation is a delicate one, it is by no means unusual.

Finds Purse and $118 Thief Snatched Two Years Ago

Oakland, Cal., June 29.—(AP)—Two years ago, Mrs. E. C. Adams, then an Oakland club woman, was the victim of a purse snatcher, losing $118. Today, Donald Spans found the pocketbook, apparently tossed aside by the thief—and the money was inside. Mrs. Adams now lives in Washington, D. C.

Expect Hoover to Announce He'll Not Run

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—Former President Herbert C. Hoover will formally announce late this summer that he will not seek the Republican nomination for President next year, according to Republican senators who were advised of his attitude this week.

His position was made clear to several United States senators who have been on the point of requesting a statement of his political intentions in a public letter to him.

Curtis Willing to Ask.

Former Vice President Charles Curtis was willing to write such a letter, it was said, but was discouraged following the word from Mr. Hoover. After the publication of the senate group's proposed plan to "smoke out" Mr. Hoover the intimation came to this group that the former President would regard such a course as "presumptuous and unnecessary."

The advice, coming directly from Mr. Hoover through an emissary, that he would declare in a statement or letter to be made public late this summer, perhaps during the period of the "Hi-Jinks" performance of the Bohemian club of San Francisco, that he intended to remain in private life and already had arranged his future career along that line, and that he had been active in criticizing administration policies because as the titular party leader he thought that some direction to the party's course was necessary in the absence of virile leadership in congress.

Will Get Behind Nominee.

He is said to intend to get behind the nominee for President next year and actively enter the campaign, and he is represented as believing that with the party united the chances for winning next year were increasing every day and would be immeasurably enhanced if economic conditions and employment are not more improved than now appears probable.

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—The Wagner-McLaughlin bill, incorporating the American National Theater and Academy and naming an imposing list of patrons of the arts as the original incorporators, was passed unanimously by the house late today. The bill already had been passed by the senate and now will go to President Roosevelt.

The corporation is set up without federal endowment, to present productions of the highest type in the theater, stimulate public interest in the drama, advance this interest by the production throughout the country of the best plays [acted by the best actors at a minimum cost], encourage the study of the drama in schools, universities and colleges, and develop the art and technique of the theater through a school within the proposed National academy.

SQUIRREL, 'HURT,' BITES THE HAND OF BENEFACTOR

John Mette, 24 years old, 4023 South Rockwell street, an employé of the Chicago park district, stopped in Jackson park yesterday to pick up a squirrel that was lying on the ground. Mette believed the animal was either sick or injured, but it was only asleep. Resenting being handled, it bit Mette on the right hand and hurriedly climbed into a tree. Mette's injury was treated at the Illinois Central hospital.

Whittler Forgets Self; "Strikes" Knife on Leg

Popular Bluff, Mo., June 29.—(AP)—Dr. H. M. Henrickson asked today: "Did you say absent minded?" and then laughed out loud. His latest patient is a Stoddard county farmer who got his match and whittling knife mixed. He stopped whittling, fumbled for a match to light his pipe, shifted his position—then swiped the knife across the back of his right leg.

Europe Hit by Storm, Flood, Heat; Many Die

LONDON, June 29.—(AP)—Tornadoes, floods, electrical storms, and stifling heat took heavy toll in Europe today. Many persons died and property damage was heavy.

Portugal was ravaged by tornadoes and cloudbursts, which killed and injured an undetermined number of persons.

Twelve persons died in France and Italy as the suffocating libeccio [southwest wind] drove mercuries to record highs.

Heavy electrical storms over Germany and Austria broke heat waves that caused several fatalities yesterday. Lightning killed six persons in East Prussia.

Blazing sunshine gave London and southern England another hot day. No deaths were reported.

Town Buried Under Sand.

Oporto, in Portugal, was panic stricken when swift striking storms plunged the city into darkness. Moncorbo was flooded and several children were missing.

Vianna do Castello was almost buried under blinding sand. In rural districts live stock was swept away by floods; orchards, vineyards, and crops were destroyed, and buildings were unroofed. Huge hailstones and lightning increased the damage.

Nine persons succumbed to sunstroke in usually cool northern Italy, where temperatures generally passed 101 degrees Fahrenheit. Florence, sweltering at 98 degrees, learned June's weather had been the hottest of more than 120 years.

The mercury reached 105 at some places in France and 120 at Nimes, where three persons died. In Paris it was 86. Thousands sought seaside resorts.

Temperatures in Germany dropped 24 degrees within 24 hours after rainstorms began, averaging only 71 degrees today. Electrical storms played over East Prussia and 250 pigs burned to death at one place where lightning struck farm buildings.

Vienna, in Austria, reported many deaths yesterday when the temperature reached 97. Thunderstorms today brought relief.

75 DEAD IN JAPAN.

TOKIO, June 30.—[Sunday.]—(AP)—The death list in the floods that devastated western Japan mounted to 75 this morning. The floods are subsiding, but a heavy rainfall in the prefecture of Fukuoka has swollen the Chikugo river dangerously and is menacing the city of Kurume.

The damage from the storms and floods, the worst in the last half century, is estimated at 40,000,000 yen (about $11,600,000). Most severely ravaged was the industrial region of the empire. Osaka, Kyoto, and Kobi were particularly hard struck.

With communications shattered, it was believed the toll of death and damage would be increased with fuller reports.

Thousands throughout the stricken area were left homeless, with preliminary surveys of the affected area indicating at least 150,000 houses and buildings were inundated.

THREE WOMEN FRIENDS TAKEN FROM INDIANA

Traced by Telegram to Relative.

Detroit, Mich., June 29.—[Special.]—William Lee Ferris, alias Schweitzer, widely sought as a suspect in the slaying of Howard Carter Dickinson, was arrested this afternoon at Fort Wayne, Ind., in the company of three young women.

The four were hurried over the state line this evening and after a brief halt in the state police barracks at Jonesville, Mich., were brought here for questioning. As Ferris was led from the barracks at Jonesville he told officers "If any talking is done I'll do it. You can ask me all the questions in the world and I won't answer them. I won't talk until I get ready.

"I don't know these girls, or this Dickinson, or anything about a murder."

Wife Retains Attorney.

On arrival in Detroit Ferris and the three women were taken to jail where he was booked on a technical charge of suspected murder. The women were held for questioning. Ferris' wife had retained an attorney, but police refused to let him interview his client immediately.

The body of Dickinson, New York attorney and a nephew of Charles Evans Hughes, chief justice of the United States, was found early Thursday in Rouge Park, ten miles west of Detroit's business center. He had been shot through the head and chest and, apparently, tossed from a moving automobile into a roadside ditch.

Taxi Driver Gives Clew.

Suspicion was directed toward Ferris by a taxicab driver, Andrew Smygen. Smygen told police that Ferris had informed him Wednesday evening that he and two girls were going on a party with a lawyer named Dickinson, and added: "Dickinson's got a lot of money with him." Dickinson's friends previously had reported that he carried a large sum, all of which was missing when the body was discovered.

The cabman's information set police, under Commissioner Heinrich Pickert, on the trail of Ferris, who in 1930 was tried on a murder charge but was acquitted on a plea of self-defense.

It was, for a time, a cold trail. Ferris, 26 year old police character who made a practice of scraping acquaintance with strangers and offering them entertainment, was missing from the small hotel in which he lived.

Telephone Calls Revealed.

The police belief in his importance as a factor in the case was corroborated, however, when it was learned Dickinson on Wednesday had called twice from his own room in the Book-Cadillac hotel to Ferris' hotel.

The fugitive was caught through a telegram forwarded by Loretta Jackson, 24 years old, one of his three companions. The other girls are Loretta's sister, Flossie, 27 years old, and Jean Winles, 24 years old. The trio had been dancers in Detroit burlesque shows.

Arriving early this morning in Fort Wayne, Loretta Jackson, the sweetheart of Ferris, sent a message to her mother here, announcing that she was on a vacation and having a fine time, but would be back soon.

Four Seized at Hotel.

Detroit police, watching for such a telegram, notified Fort Wayne authorities and the latter traced the four persons to a hotel and seized them.

Ferris denied that he had been in Detroit recently. He had gone to Fort Wayne, he said, from Kansas City, via Chicago. Also, he insisted his name was Art Reynald. Fort Wayne authorities were unimpressed and after comparing his finger prints with those of Ferris, locked him in a cell, where he attempted to burn the identification marks on his clothing.

The three girls maintained that they had met Ferris in Chicago and displayed canceled bus tickets to prove they had taken the ride. Jean Winles asserted that she never had seen Ferris, or Reynald, until they met in Chicago late yesterday.

Hurried Across State Line.

Satisfied with the identification of the man, Commissioner Pickert asked that Ferris and the three girls be held in Fort Wayne until he and his chief of detectives, Fred Frahm, could arrive there. This was in the late afternoon. While the police officials were driving to Fort Wayne, detachments of Indiana and Michigan state police placed the four prisoners in two automobiles and carried them across the state line, supposedly to avoid extradition difficulties.

The party had been gone an hour when Commissioner Pickert arrived.

and he followed to Jonesville. While Ferris was on the way he refused to talk with his guards about Dickinson, it was said, insisting that he be allowed a conference with a lawyer. Loretta Jackson, also known as Bobby, fainted twice in the second automobile, in which she, her sister, and the Winles girl rode between Fort Wayne and Jonesville.

Catching up with the prisoners at Jonesville, the Detroit commissioner ordered that Ferris be brought here while he and Chief Frahm remained to question the women in the barracks.

Particularly the police wished to learn whether any of the girls had been with Dickinson the evening of Wednesday, and whether one of them had checked a brief case belonging to Dickinson at the Book-Cadillac hotel Thursday afternoon. The woman who left the brief case departed from the checkroom before her identity could be established.

No plausible reason for the meeting of Ferris and Dickinson—if there was one—has been advanced.

In Detroit On Estate Claim.

However, the New Yorker is known to have been in Detroit in connection with a huge claim against the 40 million dollar estate of the late William H. Yawkey, and it is regarded as possible that Ferris might have been collecting information for him.

The claim is that of Mrs. Elizabeth Carmichael Witherspoon, former actress, and is based on her belief that she is the daughter of Yawkey. Her interests are being handled by Attorney Arthur Carmichael who, like herself, was adopted as an infant by James Carmichael, a friend of Yawkey. Mrs. Witherspoon commented on the case for the first time today.

"Upset," Says Ex-Actress.

"I felt so upset when I heard about the murder I left my hotel and went to the home of a friend for a few days," she said. "Though I didn't know Mr. Dickinson personally, I had been told he was a very nice gentleman."

She said she had been trying to keep her claim to the estate quiet for the sake of Tom Austin Yawkey, adopted son of the late William Yawkey, who inherited the estate. Tom Yawkey is the owner of the Boston Red Sox ball team.

Detroit police still were seeking Dickinson's topcoat, which he carried on his arm when he left the Book-Cadillac Wednesday night. His body was fully clothed when found in the park except for his suit coat and vest. The coat was found two miles from where a park attendant stumbled across the body.

Boy Finds Vest.

The New Yorker's vest was turned over to police last night by a boy who found it Thursday morning near the spot where the coat was discovered. The boy, Travis Ladd, threw the vest away after removing a fraternity pin which had Dickinson's name engraved on the back.

Later the boy read of the slaying, noted the victim's name was the same as the one on the pin, and returned and recovered the vest. Then he and his father took the bloodstained garment to the police.

FIND FERRIS' CHECKS HERE

Three checks found in a hastily abandoned room on the south side of Chicago yesterday indicated to police that William Lee Ferris and three women, now under arrest in Detroit in connection with the Howard Carter Dickingson slaying, hid out here at least one day.

First information came to Deputy Chief of Detectives Walter Storms from a woman, whose name was kept secret, who said that she had rented a room to a man and three women whose descriptions tallied with those of the suspects captured in Fort Wayne, Ind., and taken to Detroit.

Two of the three checks were made out to William Ferris and each was for $50. Both were signed by the Sunnyside Acres Dairy of Detroit, per George Tierney. One was pre-dated Aug. 25, 1935, and the other Aug. 5, 1935. A third check, for $4, was made out to A. S. Buchan. The $50 checks were drawn on the Bank of Hamtramck, Mich., a suburb of Detroit.

After communicating with Detroit authorities, who declared their belief that Ferris had abandoned his Hupmobile sedan in Chicago, Chief Storms ordered a hunt on the south side for the machine.

RIVER FOREST SADDLE CLUB RAZED BY FIRE

The frame clubhouse of the River Forest Saddle club, 830 West North avenue, in Proviso township, was burned to the ground yesterday by fire which started in the kitchen, apparently from an explosion in a kerosene stove.

Fire companies from River Forest and Melrose Park were handicapped in fighting the flames because of the lack of water mains at the club. Tanks holding several hundred gallons of water were emptied on the fire, but to no avail.

The owner of the club, Joseph Blais, estimated the damage at $800 to $1,000.

GOV. MURPHY FIGHTS TO KEEP VOTE RIGHT FOR FILIPINO WOMEN

MANILA, P. I., June 29.—(AP)—A bachelor was the Filipino women's hope today of retaining their right to vote.

Frank Murphy, the bachelor governor general of the islands, at whose request the 1933 insular legislature enfranchised women, said he was studying means of preventing the 1935 legislature from eliminating the feminine vote.

It was authoritatively indicated that the former Detroit mayor may veto the pending electoral bill, enacted by the recent special legislative session. This bill provides for a commonwealth election on Sept. 17 and makes women ineligible to participate. They voted in the May 14 plebiscite which made the September election possible.

ASK POLICE HUNT MISSING MAN.

500,000 BRITONS THRILLED BY AIR PAGEANT STUNTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 29.—More than 500,000 Londoners turned out today to watch the sixteenth annual Royal Air force pageant at Hendon airdrome. The crowd was thrilled by daredevil acrobatics carried out at 400 miles an hour by a pilot who told the crowd by radio what he was about to do.

The crowd was given an unexpected thrill when a pilot, flying crazily to show how an airplane should not be flown and how it might be flown by a nervous pupil on his first solo flight, did the job too thoroughly and crashed. The machine was wrecked, but the pilot was uninjured.

The machine every one wanted to see was the much talked of robot target plane Queen Bee, but although it was on view in a special enclosure, no demonstration was given. In fact the machine's mechanism was covered up and the public was only permitted a long distance view of its fuselage.

AUSTRALIA PLANS BIG EXPANSION IN TWO INDUSTRIES

[Copyright: 1935: the New York Times.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 29.—Regaining courage and confidence after several years of depression, Australia is making plans for great expansion in two big industries—air transportation and motion pictures.

Within twelve months the government hopes to have all the state capitals linked by regular air services for passengers and mail. The services are to be conducted by private companies, subsidized by the government. When these services are in operation the next step will be to bridge the Tasman sea by air.

Australia's ambition to possess a flourishing motion picture industry is receiving wide encouragement. New South Wales recently adopted legislation compelling exhibitors to show a quota of Australian films rising to 60 full length pictures by 1940. Similar legislation has been introduced in the Victorian parliament. This movement will either reduce the United States film business in Australia or compel the American companies to establish units here.

60 HUGE PATROL, BOMBING PLANES BOUGHT BY NAVY

Washington, D. C., June 29.—(AP)—Secretary Claude A. Swanson today awarded a contract to the Consolidated Aircraft corporation, Buffalo, N. Y., for sixty huge patrol planes.

The contract calls for payment of $6,506,000, the navy department furnishing engines and propellers.

Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Engine company of Hartford, Conn., received the contract for 150 engines with spare parts for $1,764,787.

Contract for 150 propellers, with spare parts, went to the Hamilton Standard Propeller company, East Hartford, Conn., $236,250.

The planes will be constructed at Consolidated's new plant at San Diego. The model was selected after a design competition.

The new planes will have a wing span of 104 feet, length of 63 feet, and height of 17.6 feet. Adaptable for bombing as well as patrol purposes, they are of a similar type to the patrol planes which made a mass flight from San Francisco to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, in 1934. However, they are of markedly greater speed and greater range.

WATERS 3 MILES APART GIVE UP 2 BOUND BODIES

New York, June 29.—[Special.]—Bound hands and feet, the bodies of two men were recovered under similar circumstances from stretches of water three miles apart today.

One of the cases was later set down as a suicide, the victim being Arthur M. Collens Jr., 22, son of a Hartford insurance man who was found dead in a swimming pool near the Blythewood sanitarium at Greenwich, Conn., from which he had disappeared earlier in the week. Collens' hands and feet were both bound with pieces of stout cord, but authorities decided he had adjusted his bonds himself and then dived to his death.

The other trussed body, tentatively identified as that of Joseph Goodglass, 40, was found floating off the shore of the sound at Port Chester and the police have little doubt he was murdered. Goodglass was reported missing last April 22. From the appearance of the body, which was dressed in a winter suit and a light topcoat, detectives surmised that death occurred at least two months ago.

Cards in Pockets.

In the dead man's pockets police found $10 in cash, business cards of Joseph Goodglass, president of the Hydrox Linen Supply company of Brooklyn, a chauffeur's license issued to him at that address and a collection of receipted hotel bills. Upon the victim's left wrist was a rectangular gold watch, the hands of which pointed to 11:35.

It was recalled that when Owen [Owney] Madden, the gangster, was trying to avoid being sent back to Sing Sing for violation of parole, he asserted that he was employed at the Hydrox Laundry. At that time, Israel Levy, then president of the laundry company, denied that Madden had any connection with his firm. Efforts to reach Mr. Levy tonight were unsuccessful.

The man's legs were tied together with several wrappings of cord an eighth of an inch thick. Examination indicated that the hands too were tied but that the cord had worked loose.

Arrested Feb. 4.

Police records in New York City disclosed that on Feb. 4 the man whom the police believe was tossed from a boat in Long Island Sound with his arms and feet bound was arrested and charged with possessing a blackjack. Subsequently he was discharged in court but the circumstances surrounding his arrest interested detectives trying to solve the manner in which he was killed.

Goodglass was last seen alive on April 16 when he left the Hotel Kimberley, where he shared a room with a man named Sam Schuber or Scheeber. Six days later Schuber or Scheeber visited a police station and informed the detectives there that his roommate had disappeared.

WAIVE EXAMINATIONS FOR WEST POINT DUE TO CADET SHORTAGE

Washington, D. C., June 29.—(AP)—To meet a threatened shortage in West Point cadets, Secretary Dern today waived entrance examinations for this year and sent out a hurry up call for congressmen to fill their appointment quotas.

The war department chief also announced that candidates might enter the military academy at any time during July, instead of on June 1, the customary enrollment date.

Failure of many candidates already named to pass their examinations and lack of time for preparation for entrance before July 1 has cut the entering class far below expectations. Dern liberalized entrance conditions for the first time in many years to meet the emergency.

Congress recently increased each member's appointment quota from two to three, but because of the lack of time for preparation many youths named failed to report for examination or were unable to qualify.

To maintain uniformity in the size of classes qualifying examinations were waived for this year only.

Fractures Neck Vertebra Diving Into Foot of Water

Jack Cashmore, 23 years old, 643 Mill court, Waukegan, fractured a vertebra in his neck yesterday when he dove into a foot of water near a boat landing at Druce's lake in western Lake county, after he and his brother had made a successful flat dive. He was taken to St. Theresa's hospital, Waukegan.

EGAN HEADS HUNT FOR 12 SLUGGERS IN UNION ATTACK

Prosecutor Drafts Jury Action Tuesday.

Police Lieutenant Charles Egan, attached to the state's attorney's office, yesterday was placed in charge of the search for the twelve union sluggers who on Thursday invaded the home of Joseph Lid, 6529 West 29th street, Berwyn, and beat him with brass knuckles and blackjacks because he hired a plasterer whose union dues were not paid to date in work on an addition to his home. Lid, who is 55 years old, owns and operates a dairy plant.

Lieut. Egan expressed confidence, as he organized the hunt for the sluggers, that all of the dozen terrorists eventually will be captured. He has learned, he said, that those sluggers among the 12 whose identity has been tentatively established are reported to have left the Chicago area hurriedly after the assault on Lid.

State's Attorney Presses Quiz.

Meantime assistant state's attorneys, headed by Charles S. Dougherty, were conducting a separate investigation and preparing evidence for presentation before the grand jury on Tuesday, when Prosecutor Dougherty will ask the indictment of the twelve men on charges of assault, assault with a deadly weapon with intent to murder, and conspiracy to commit an illegal act.

A fountain pen dropped by one of the men as he swung a blackjack in the course of the assault in the Lid home bore the name of Seth Piper. There is an official of the electricians' union who bears the same name. The name of Henry J. Mock of the carpenters' union also was given to police, as that of one of the members of the gang of sluggers; a third slugger was identified as "Dalton," and was said to be affiliated with the plasterers' union.

The viciousness of the attack on Lid, who offered no resistance when the sluggers threatened a carpenter and two plasterers who were completing their work in his home and ordered them to pack their tools and leave, led to a demand by Berwyn village officials that the attackers be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Labor Basis of Slugging.

Lid has been building a one floor addition to his one story frame cottage, the upper floor to be occupied by his son Jerry, who is married and has two children. A union carpenter was engaged and when it came time for the plastering, Lid asked for bids from nearby plasterers. He rejected one bid of $80 and hired Stanley Jaros, 2610 South Homan avenue, a union member in good standing, who agreed to do the work for $50.

Jaros hired as his assistant Frank Sleichert, 2501 South Central Park avenue, who had been a member of the plasterers' union for twelve years until a year ago when he was unable to pay his dues and was forced to go on relief. The two plasterers worked two days and had completed their work and were preparing to pack their equipment when the crew of union sluggers arrived.

"One business agent would have been sufficient if the intention was merely to call a strike on the Lid job," Police Chief Joseph Pilot said. "But instead, twelve of them appeared. They forced their way through the Lid home and to the upstairs where the union carpenter was ordered to get off the job. No attempt was made to harm the workmen, but the sluggers vented their wrath on Lid, who was unable to fight back because of his age and their numbers.

SLUGGING IN EVANSTON

Robert Seaberg, 45 years old, 1934 South boulevard, Evanston, reported to police yesterday that he was slugged by three men Friday night while attending a meeting of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, local 1307, in the Odd Fellows hall in Evanston. Seaberg said he was beaten after suggesting that the union elect a new set of officers. He incurred a fractured rib and several head bruises and cuts.

AUTOIST SLUGGED; ATTORNEY OWENS, BROTHER SEIZED

John Owens, an attorney, of 4528 North Lincoln street, was arrested last night by Policeman Merwyn Rodin of the Park police, on a charge of slugging and seriously injuring another motorist on Lake Shore drive near Melrose street in a minor trafic dispute.

The injured man, Charles Purvis, 32 years old, 2514 Berwyn avenue, was wearing glasses. The blow smashed Purvis' glasses, lacerating his forehead and face, cutting a half-inch slit in his eyelid, and grinding part of the glass into his face. He was taken to Burrows hospital for treatment.

Owens' brother, Thomas, with whom he was riding, also was arrested on a charge of attacking Purvis' passenger, Charles Tyler, 4943 Sheridan road.

The Owens brothers were locked up at Town Hall police station. Later they were released when Joe Ginsberg, a professional bondsman, signed bonds of $100 for John and $50 for Thomas. They will be arraigned in Town Hall court tomorrow.

WIFE OF CHICAGO DOCTOR IS NAMED IN $100,000 BALM ACTION

Mrs. Jay Liebmann, wife of a St. Louis physician, has filed a $100,000 alienation of affections suit in federal court here against Mrs. Maude Lepman, 5555 Everett avenue, it was announced yesterday by Attorney Martin Crane. The suit, filed on Friday, was suppressed for service on the defendant, who is the wife of Dr. Horace I. Lepman and sister of B. F. Lindheimer, chairman of the Ilinois commerce commission.

Mrs. Liebmann, who now is living in Clayton, Mo., filed suit for divorce on Friday in St. Louis naming an unidentified Chicago woman as co-respondent. Mrs. Lepman could not be reached at her home last night, but her husband when informed of the suit expressed surprise.

"I don't know anything about such a suit and I don't think my wife does either," Dr. Lepman said. "The Liebmanns are very good friends of both of us. I can't imagine what could have occasioned an alienation of affections action against Mrs. Lepman."

Dr. Lepman said that when Mr. and Mrs. Liebmann lived in Chicago the two families were on terms of close friendship.

PEORIA RAILROAD OFFICIAL IS SUED IN BALM ACTION

Peoria, Ill., June 29.—[Special.]—Wallace McDonald Snow, prominent Peoria railroad man and bachelor, was today named defendant in a $50,000 breach of promise suit filed by Attorney John M. Niehaus Jr., in behalf of Evelyn Moore of New York.

Snow, who is general trafic agent for the New York Central lines, is prominent in Peoria society. He is the son of William B. Snow, superintendent of schools at Boston, Mass., and a graduate of Harvard.

SUBJECT OF SUIT

FILE BALM SUITS FOR $500,000 TO BEAT NEW LAW

Illinois Ban Will Go Into Effect Tomorrow.

In three hours yesterday morning before the close of the court day at noon brought the deadline, outlawing heart balm suits in Illinois, lawyers for eight men and women filed bills in the Circuit and Superior courts asking a total of $500,000 either for lost affections or for breach of promise to marry. The bill to abolish such suits, passed last spring by the general assembly, becomes law Monday.

There were five alienation suits filed, and three for failure to keep marriage promises. This brought to 22 the number filed this month. It was estimated by court attachés that 75 such suits are now pending in the two courts. The total amount of damages they ask was placed at $4,500,000.

Expect No More Suits.

Several lawyers whose principal business has been in the divorce, separate maintenance, and heart balm field said they doubted if any one would file a balm suit after July 1 to test the legality of the new law.

The largest suit yesterday for breach of promise was filed in the Superior court against Sidney M. Spiegel Jr., secretary of the Essaness Theater corporation, 540 North Michigan avenue, by Miss Dorothy Appleby, 25 years old, of the Pearson hotel, divorcée, beauty contest winner, and film actress. She asks $250,000.

Spiegel is the son of the vice president of the Spiegel Furniture company. His former wife, Fay Lanphier, who was "Miss America" of 1925, divorced him in Reno, Nev., in 1929, and was reported to have obtained a $100,000 out of court settlement.

Miss Appleby, whose home is in West Quincy, Mass., reached stardom in Hollywood less than five years after winning a beauty contest in Madison Square Garden. She is the ex-wife of Morgan H. Galloway, a film actor.

Miss Appleby's bill, filed by Attorney Phil R. Davis, alleged that Spiegel promised on April 26 and numerous other occasions to make her his wife. The wedding was to be May 18, she stated.

On April 26, the bill averred, Spiegel telephoned Miss Appleby in Hollywood where she was awaiting more work after her part in "Let 'Em Have It," and persuaded her to come here.

"Plans for Honeymoon."

Here he set her up in an apartment at 40 East Oak street, the bill continued, paying all the bills and buying her "trousseau." He even went as far as to engage passage for them on the Ilé de France for May 18, Miss Appleby alleged, promising her they would be married at sea. On the day before they were to start, the actress said, Spiegel told her it was "no go."

Attorney Davis said his client was very anxious to get back some love letters she had written Spiegel, and which he has refused to give up. He added that she might even be willing to drop the suit if the letters are returned. Spiegel's attorney, Edward Blackman, explained his client was out of town, but that the "whole bill is a product of the girl's imagination. We will deny everything."

Publishing Executive Sued.

Another suit, for $100,000, was filed by Attorney Ben Copple for John Larvin Markham, 3800 Lake Shore drive, wealthy official of the Markham Coal and Supply company, against Herbert J. C. Henderson, 1420 Lake Shore drive, vice president of the American Weekly. Markham is asking damages for the loss of the affections of his wife, the former Wanda Dillion, daughter of Mitchell Benedict Dillion.

Markham declared that he was married to Miss Dillion on July 19, 1928. Since Sept. 1 last year, however, his bill related, Henderson began a course of "willful and wicked" conduct to draw Mrs. Markham from her husband. The result, Markham declared, was his wife's instituting separate maintenance proceedings.

Changes Bill, Gets Divorce.

Yesterday Mrs. Markham, who lives at the Pearson hotel, appeared before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court, amended her suit to a divorce and obtained a default decree. She was reported to have received a small out of court settlement. Henderson was a former advertising director of the Fisher Body corporation and a sales manager for the Ford Motor company.

Miss Dorothy Appleby files suit for $250,000, charging Sidney M. Spiegel Jr. broke a promise to marry her.

In a third suit asking damages of $25,000 Mrs. Daisy Buckwalter, 1001 Grove street, Evanston, charged Mrs. Gladys Lamond, 852 Lafayette place, a divorcée and the mother of two children, with alienating the affections of her husband, Clarence J. Buckwalter, president of the Buckwalter Radio corporation, 2632 Prairie avenue.

Other Suits Filed.

The five other suits filed yesterday were as follows:

Miss Dorothy Rieff, 22 years old, 1530 South Turner avenue, breach of promise, $50,000, against Daniel Sears, 35 years old, owner of a shoe company at 2756 West Division street. The suit charges Sears has promised many times during the last five years to marry Miss Rieff, but has not kept the promise.

Anthony Sleeter, 5103½ Wentworth avenue, a tailor, $10,000 for alienation, against Edward Scott, said to be an official of the Continental Can company. Sleeter accused Scott of intimacies with his wife, Victoria, who filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Circuit court.

Mrs. Clara L. Barker, 4537 North Hamilton avenue, $5,000, alienation of affections, against Mrs. Vera Goddard, supervisor of the Edgwater branch of the telephone company. Mrs. Barker has a divorce suit pending against her husband, William R. Barker, a taxi driver.

400 Persons Are Plunged Into Creek.

Nanticoke, Pa., June 29.—(AP)—Almost 400 picnickers, many of them mothers with their babies, were hurled about 30 feet into the shallow, rocky Hunlock creek today when an old barn dance pavilion straddling the stream collapsed at the height of a sudden thunderstorm.

About 250 persons were injured, at least four of them seriously in the collapse, which occurred during a baby pageant, a feature of the picnic at Croop's Glen, a few miles from here.

Immediate alarms brought doctors, nurses, and ambulances from surrounding communities, and more than 50 state troopers were hurried from their barracks to the scene.

Panic Precipitated.

The accident precipitated a panic among most of the crowd of about 3,000 attending the picnic. Mothers and fathers screamed as their children were hurled to the shallow creek, or to the rocks bordering it.

The added weight of the crowd which jammed the pavilion to get out of the storm as well as to witness the baby contest was believed to have caused the floor to sag in the center. The flooring gave way with a tremendous crack, and the screaming, frantic mass was hurled through the hole, as through a giant funnel.

Surgeons worked in every available space at the scene, and said many of the injured had suffered broken arms and legs. Dressing stations were set up on the picnic grounds to take care of those needing immediate attention.

Screams of the injured mingled with the frightened shouts of those outside the pavilion who had witnessed the collapse.

The picnic, given for unemployed miners and their families, had brought a huge crowd to the small pleasure park, six miles from Nanticoke, this morning. They had come from every part of the surrounding country, and many of the families had entered their babies in the contest.

JUNE'S BUSINESS HUMDRUM FOR CUPID IN COUNTY

June has been "just an ordinary month" for the marriage license bureau, according to Clerk Sidney Summerfield. Since June 1, he said yesterday, the bureau has issued only 4,956 licenses. During the corresponding month last year, 5,145 were issued. The number of licenses issued during the first six months of this year amounted to 19,735, a figure 422 short of last year's 20,157. Yesterday 247 couples obtained licenses and fifty-seven marriages were performed in the county marriage court.

LEWIS STAGES CRISIS AND THEN ROOSEVELT ACTS

Aimed to Force Passage of Guffey Bill.

life by the late NRA, while the solvent operators are against the measure because it would soak the consumer and reduce the consumption of coal.

"Please understand that I hold no brief for the consumer," said Mr. Gerstell. "I have no interest in the purchaser except only in so far as he is of use to me. My personal attitude regarding him has nothing to do with the case. I have to live with him, just the same, and in that respect the coal industry generally has nothing on me individually.

"From 1895 till 1917 the production of bituminous coal in the United States increased at the rate of approximately 10 per cent annually. In 1917, under the McAdoo railroad régime, freight rates were doubled. Nevertheless, under the stress of war, production reached an all-time peak of nearly 600 million tons in 1918. Gradually thereafter production decreased annually, falling to 358 million tons in 1934.

Freight Rates Remain Up.

"With slight variations rail freights have continued at wartime levels since 1917. The famous Jacksonville wage scale agreement, forcing miners' wages up to the untenable figure of $7.50 per day; the strike of 1919, the railroad strikes of 1920, the strike of 1922, British labor troubles following the war, and the British coal strike of 1926 kept the delivered price of coal to the American consumer up to an unprecedented altitude over a period of nine years.

"These prices drove consumers to expend millions of dollars in modernizing their coal burning equipment in order to reduce fuel costs. During that period public service companies dropped the consumption of coal from more than two pounds per kilowatt hour to something less than eight-tenths of a pound. The railroads reduced their fuel usage per ton-mile in a similar fashion.

"High coal prices made feasible the development of hydro-electric projects which would have been otherwise impractical. Oil cut in. Long distance pipe lines were constructed to carry natural gas, thereby directly displacing gas made from the carbonization of coal. Other developments of like character took place along the same lines, all because the price of coal to the consumer was more than the trafic would bear.

Prices Hit Toboggan in 1927.

"Regardless of its continuous shrinkage in tonnage after 1918, the coal industry did not hit the toboggan slide until 1927. General industry was running at that time at peak levels. Nevertheless, coal prices began to melt, wages toppled, and this condition continued through 1928, '29, '30, '31, and '32. In 1933 free on board mine prices were below pre-war figures. Six years of low prices had put the weaker operators out of business. Overcapitalized companies, high cost mines, and low grade producers were all washed up. The coal industry had been liquidated. Further capital was not available. Wages had gone down with prices to distressing levels. The bottom had been reached. Inevitably the slightest improvement in market conditions at that time would have brought higher wages, and it would have been not only impractical but impossible to deny or to delay wage increases of commensurate suitability.

"Unquestionably an upswing was in the making, but almost at that very moment a wave of political evangelism swept the country completely from its moorings. Overnight a new philosophy was embraced. Engendered under the efflorescent torridity of NRA, it came to maturity in a remarkably short time.

Given License to Exploit.

"Succinctly, that new philosophy was this: 'Cut production. Pay labor whatever it asks. The government gives industry a license to exploit. Let the consumer pay the bill. He will get his returns through higher prices. The increased purchasing power accorded labor will enable the manufacturer to sell his product for more money. Everybody will be happy.'"

The fallacy involved therein, Mr. Gerstell explained, was that labor cost of manufactured products, especially in the heavy industries, generally is but 70 per cent of the total production cost. Thus the laborer's purchasing power when he went to buy his goods off the shelf fell 30 per cent short of the figure he could afford to pay, and it was on this rock, fundamentally, that the NRA was wrecked. No force was strong enough, penalties and all the rest of it attached, to compel a consumer to pay when he lacked the wherewithal to pay.

"Under code regulations the wages of coal miners were doubled," Mr. Gerstell continued. "Free on board mine prices also were doubled. From a mean level of about $1 per ton they went to approximately $2. But the purchasing power of the miner remained unchanged. It was left relatively as before.

"On April 1, 1935, the mine wage scale negotiated under the emotional hysteria coincidental to the establishment of the coal code expired. The handwriting was on the wall. The miners realized that the continuance of NRA was an extremely weak crutch to lean upon. Hence the Guffey bill.

"This bill was provocative initially of little more than general amusement. Slowly, however, and with sly acumen, certain operators began to evince a serious interest in it, and this interest was growing rapidly when the Supreme court broke its decision on the NRA.

"With no horse and buggy at hand, the operators as a whole suddenly found themselves with no place to go and with fewer facilities for getting there. Immediately their ranks broke sharply into two camps—pro-Guffey and anti-Guffey—the 'busted' ones pro and the solvent anti.

Lift Costs to Consumer.

"The foregoingly mentioned advance of $1 per ton in the free on board mine price of coal, that took place under two years of NRA, lifted the cost of coal to the consumer by approximately 700 million dollars, and the minimum prices to be forthcomingly established under the Guffey bill are those which in the aggregate shall be equal to the average total cost of production.

"As to the aggregate cost of production only one set of figures are presently available. They are those which have been already gathered and tabulated under the NRA. They show that the totality of coal produced under the NRA code was sold, believe it or not, at less than cost of production!

"From this point forward the Guffey bill starts climbing the ladder. All the high cost mines, resurrected under NRA, are back again, and a price structure for the consumer is to be reared upon a foundation that rests on the average cost of producing coal throughout the entire country. This elusive intangibility is reduced by computation based on NRA figures to a nebulous sort of formula that works out at something in excess of the per ton average realization derived from the sale of coal at prices established under code authority.

Average a Synonym for Chicanery.

"The thing therein to which attention is particularly directed is the use of that tricky word 'average'—a word that seems recently to have become a synonym for more sophistry and chicanery than Machiavelli ever dreamed of.

"By way of pinning this word down to the carpet the classic propaganda used widely to prove the advantage of a college education is typical. Commonly it is asserted that the average salary of this or that class so many years out of college is maybe $10,000 a year.

"When claims of this sort are checked up it is almost always revealed that several members of the class have slipped into the shoes of rich daddies, while the remaining members draw down the old reliable salary of $3,000 or less. Manifestly no sane employer would be idiot enough to hire all the members of his old college class at $10,000 per year each.

"In this Guffey bill, mark you, it is precisely this sort of class average that is employed as a base structure upon which the price of coal to the consumer is to be fixed. Accordingly it is not strange that many operators are supporting the bill with ardor and affection. They forget the consumer.

"Hazarding an estimate concerning the enormousness of the load that this bill would foist on the consumer, it is safe to say that it would be not less than 100 million dollars annually over and above the increased cost passed along to him under the code.

"Why, by stealth or by legal stric- can he be forced to pay it. ture, attempt to garrote the man who, above all others, makes the coal business possible? Again, therefore, it is repeated that the coal industry cannot survive without customers."

Most Extravagant Peace Time Fiscal Year to Close Today

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—The most extravagant fiscal year in the peace time history of the United States will officially close tomorrow. And the spending will go on in even greater proportion in the fiscal year which opens Monday morning.

In the last twelve months the New Dealers spent more than 7 billion 250 million dollars at the rate of $13,812 every minute every day of the year. With the 7 billion 100 million dollars spent in the first year of the administration, total cost of the New Deal to date is more than 14 billion 350 million dollars. In the 1934-'35 fiscal year just ending the government poured out money at the rate of approximately two dollars for every dollar taken in. All of the money taken in came from taxpayers' pockets and the money borrowed will ultimately come from the same source.

Further Into Debt.

Brain trusters ran the government into debt 3 billion 500 million dollars during the year. The deficit was about 330 million less than that incurred in the 1933-'34 fiscal year, but revenue was 700 million dollars greater than in 1933-'34.

At the close of the fiscal year the public debt is approximately 28 billion 700 million dollars. This is an increase of 1 billion 700 million dollars over the debt at the close of the 1933-'34 fiscal year of 27 billion dollars.

As the easy money gushes out in the new fiscal year the debt will continue to mount to approximately 35 billion dollars. This would place a per capita debt on every man, woman and child in the country of $270.

In the new fiscal year, as in the one just ended, the New Dealers are planning to dole out 4 billion dollars on works relief and continuing their huge helpings for farm benefits, burocratic maintenance and easy money loans.

Where Money Went.

According to an unofficial table made public by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, here is where the bulk of the unprecedented seven and a quarter billion dollars went:

General.
Departments	$ 355,000,000
Army and navy	535,000,000
Veterans administration	555,000,000
Agricultural Adjustment administration	560,000,000
Interest on public debt	810,000,000
Sinking fund	575,000,000
Emergency.
AAA	$ 150,000,000
Farm Credit administration	112,000,000
Federal emergency relief	1,250,000,000
Emergency conservation work	430,000,000
Department of agriculture relief	80,000,000
Public Works administration	1,055,000,000
Reconstruction Finance corporation	372,000,000

The general expenditures total, according to the unofficial figures, is 3 billion 700 million dollars. The emergency expenditures total 3 billion 555 million dollars, which is slightly more than the deficit incurred.

The official figures will not be available until the books of the 1934-'35 fiscal year are closed Monday. It is expected that the total spending for the year will then be about 7 billion 260 million dollars.

Income-Outgo Summary.

A summary of the government income and outgo in the last fiscal year as compared with the 1933-'34 fiscal year is as follows:

1934-'35.
Expenditures	$7,260,000,000
Receipts	3,790,000,000
Deficit	3,470,000,000
1933-'34.
Expenditures	$7,105,000,000
Receipts	3,116,000,000
Deficit	3,989,000,000

With the crucial test of the government's credit under the impact of New Deal spending still to be met, the brain trusters are searching for new taxes with which to prop up their top heavy budget. Already President Roosevelt has signed the bill continuing the nuisance taxes for two years and he is holding congress in Washington's sweltering heat to enact his "swat the rich" tax measure.

Wrangle Over Measure.

New Dealers are wrangling over what the latter measure will do toward meeting the deficit. Some see the bill as bringing in 340 million dollars a year, while others are equally certain the return will be less than 100 million. Even the most sanguine estimate is but a drop against the three and a half billion deficit. Observers declare this can only mean further taxation.

Internal revenue—	Fiscal year of 1935.	Fiscal year of 1934.
Income tax	$1,100,000,000	$ 810,000,000
Miscellaneous	1,650,000,000	1,487,000,000
Processing tax	520,000,000	352,000,000
Customs	341,000,000	311,000,000
Miscellaneous Receipts.
Proceeds of government owned securities:
Principal foreign obligations	67,000	400,000
Interest, foreign obligations	601,000	20,033,000
All other	38,000,000	57,000,000
Panama Canal tolls etc	25,000,000	27,000,000
Seigniorage	58,000,000	231,000
Other miscellaneous	58,000,000	52,000,000
Total	$3,790,668,000	$3,116,664,000

Bulk Spent on Pets.

The bulk of the New Dealers' emergency expenditures was in their pets, the Public Works administration and the Federal Emergency Relief administration. The PW Aspent 1 billion 55 million and the FERA 1 billion 250 million. The two units spent more than half the emergency expenditures total.

None of the regular branches of government was able to compete with the alphabetical units in spending. The highest listed regular expenditure in the unofficial figures was 555 million for the veterans administration. The army and navy ranked second with 535 million.

ROOSEVELT AIDS LOBBY IN HOUSE FOR UTILITY BILL

Patronage, Works Cash Used as Whip.

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—Former Representative Charles O. West, President Roosevelt's personal lobbyist, and Emil Hurja, Postmaster General Farley's right hand man and patronage dispenser, were sent to the house of representatives today with instructions to use all threats and blandishments at their command to reinstate the "death sentence" in the pending Wheeler-Rayburn public utility bill.

West and Hurja circulated through the corridors and cloakrooms as debate proceeded in the house, telling members in effect that they would vote to reinstate the "death sentence" for holding companies or else receive no consideration from the administration, either in the way of patronage or the distribution of the 4 billion dollar work relief fund.

Foes Assail Lobbying.

Foes of the "death sentence," who accorded a tremendous ovation yesterday to Representative George Huddleston [Dem. Ala.,] when he denounced this provision in the senate bill, indignantly referred to the activities of West and Hurja as the most brazen interference with the legislative will in their experience. They recalled President Roosevelt's attack upon utility holding companies at yesterday's press conference, in which he indicated that he wold veto the bill without the "death sentence," and there were angry cries of "dictatorship" in the corridors and cloakrooms.

The patronage and four billion threats were not the only pressure being exerted upon recalcitrant members, for administration leaders were making trades with the advocates of the Frazier-Lemke 3 billion dollar inflation bill to refinance farm mortgages.

Supporters of the "death sentence" were signing the petition to force this bill out of committee, in exchange for promises to vote for reinstatement of the "death sentence." More than 200 signatures had been obtained, and only 218 are required.

Radicals Hail La Follette Man.

Radical members of the house stood up and cheered today when Representative Harry Sauthoff, a La Follette Radical of Wisconsin, defended President Roosevelt's stand on the holding companies and referred to the house committee bill as "the bastard brat of the power trust." Sauthoff also attacked Representative Huddleston, who had contended that the Wheeler-Rayburn bill as passed by the senate violated not only the Democratic platform but the constitution as well.

Representative Charles L. Gifford [Rep., Mass.] said the bill was "like all the other crazy socialistic schemes" of the New Deal and that it came with little grace for Mr. Roosevelt to denounce "the power lobby" when the White House was "spewing propaganda in favor of the measure."

Representative Charles V. Truax [Dem., O.], speaking in favor of the senate bill, charged that the galleries were filled with "the lobbyists for the power trust."

The Wheeler-Rayburn bill, as passed by the senate, decrees death for all utility holding companis beyond the first degree by 1940, with a two year stay of execution permitted, in the discretion of the securities and exchange commissions. The house interstate commerce committee, however, amended this provision to confer upon the SEC discretionary power to require simplifications of holding company structures.

A vote on a motion to reinstate the mandatory "death sentence" is expected Monday, but the outcome still is in doubt. Administration leaders assert they have the necessary votes, with 18 to spare, but opponents of the measure dispute these claims.

McGill Assails Tactics.

The administration tactics in behalf of the bill were denounced by Dr. Hugh S. McGill of Chicago, president of the American Federation of Utility Investors. In a statement Dr. McGill said:

"The President has become peeved because free citizens dare defend their property against the death sentence in the utility bill which he is determined to force through an unwilling congress. He cries out against what he calls a terrible lobby.

"The President evidently makes his complaint to divert attention from the fact that he has filled the cloak rooms of congress with his minions who buttonhole congressmen and, with threats and promises, seek to induce them to vote for the death sentence. Nothing can compare with the lobby the President himself has set up. Every congressman knows this is true.

Sees Peril to Democracy.

"The implications contained in the White House lobby constitute the most sinister peril to our democratic form of government that has ever threatened our people.

"The fact is the functions of free government in America are being prostituted. Instead of the government protecting the property of its citizens, as they have a right to expect, millions of innocent investors in utility securities are forced to fight for the protection of their property against the death sentence decreed by this would-be Caesar in the White House."

COURT FIXES FEES FOR ATTORNEYS IN COAL COMPANY SUIT

East St. Louis, Ill., June 29.—[Special.]—Thomas Reath Jr., Thurlow G. Essington and George B. McKibbin, Chicago attorneys who handled most of the litigation in the year old reorganization of the Franklin County Coal company, received a fee of $25,000, according to the final federal court decree.

The case was concluded here today. "There is more than two million dollars involved," Judge Fred L. Wham said.

Besides the $25,000 fee, McKibbin and Essington received $2,500 for services to the company before it filed for reorganization, Oct. 1, 1934, under the national bankruptcy act.

Charles E. Feirich, attorney for the mortgagee, the Pennsylvania company for insurance and issuing annuities, received $1,000. Gallagher, Rinaker, Wilkinson and Hall, law firm that asked the board of directors for $5,000, received $3,900. They represented certain stockholders in the suit. The Girard Trust company, agent for the company, received $1,750 for attorney fees.

ROTARY TO HEAR MAJ. IMRIE.

Maj. Norman Allan Imrie, traveler and war veteran, will speak at the Tuesday luncheon of the Rotary club in the Hotel Sherman. Charles A. Dostal, vice president of the club, is chairman of the luncheon.

RADICALS PERIL ROOSEVELT PLAN TO 'SOAK RICH'

Find Bill Will Bring Only 100 Millions a Year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—A revolt among the radicals of both parties which might force drastic increases in President Roosevelt's share the wealth tax program or imperil its enactment at all before the next session was predicted by well informed senators today.

The radical Republicans, as well as Huey Long and other wild Democrats, have received private estimates from treasury experts that the tentative program agreed upon to carry out President Roosevelt's demands will yield less than 100 million dollars a year, instead of the 340 millions promised by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], chairman of the finance committee.

Does Not Promise Enough Revenue.

This development is almost universally disappointing in congress, to the radicals because it does not promise enough revenue, to the conservatives because it is not a revenue but a social reform measure, and to members otherwise indifferent who feel that it is not worth while to stay here all summer to enact a program that will bring in less than 100 million dollars.

Senator Harrison, upon leaving another White House conference, today expressed the forlorn hope that no efforts would be made to expand the tax program beyond the outlines of the President's message, but at the same time it became known that Senator Robert La Follette [Radical, Wis.] would demand action on his billion dollar taxing program. La Follette will be supported by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], who has a companion measure of his own providing drastic increases in the corporation excess profits tax.

Although Senator Harrison said President Roosevelt had renewed his demands for early action on the soak the rich program, confusion and despair stil prevailed in congress as members contemplated the hot summer ahead and speculated on the possible adjournment date. Senator Harrison and Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson, having been left out on a limb by President Roosevelt's repudiation of the administration's own immediate program last Wednesday, made no predictions, but pursued their uncertain course like flotsam and jetsam in a sea of doubt.

Charges of Insincerity.

One veteran senator, who is regarded as an astute observer of political phenomena, said President Roosevelt had committed an almost incredible blunder in blandly tossing out his social reform tax proposals at this time. He not only left himself open to charges of insincerity on the part of Huey Long and the Republican radicals, this senator declared, but was forced, by an indignant public opinion, to repudicate an agreement with his own leaders to jam the new taxes through congress on the 500 million dollar nuisance tax extension resolution.

The President's "share the wealth" program is a "natural" for the La Follette bloc, which will have to be listened to if the administration leaders wish to avoid lending some credence to Huey Long's charge that the tax message was "an empty gesture." On the other hand, what the administration leaders least want is higher taxes if they are going to hit anybody except the extremely rich—at least before the election next year.

Smell Dead Rat in Woodpile.

The talk of staying in session at least two more months, emanating chiefly from Speaker Joseph W. Byrns, is regarded as propaganda to induce the ways and means and finance committees to get busy and report out a bill so the members can go home. Unless the tax program is complicated by the threatened radical revolt, informed observers say, it can be put through both houses early in August.

President Roosevelt refers to his tax program as partly for revenue and partly for social reform, but one radical Republican said today that it was "ninety per cent social reform and ten per cent revenue."

"The dead rat in the woodpile is beginning to smell," he added.

The President's tax increases would affect only individual incomes of a million dollars or more, of which there were 46 last year; corporations will net taxable profits of more than $100,000, which excludes the great bulk of all the corporations in the country, and net inherited estates of $300,000 or more. The graduated taxes of from 10 to 17½ per cent, treasury experts say, would result in a net loss over the existing rates, for all having net income of less than $100,000 would have their rates decreased.

Senator La Follette's taxing scheme would soak the middle man and little man directly, and raise, he estimates, one billion dollars additional revenue a year. He would decrease exemptions on individual incomes from $2,500 for married persons to $2,000 and from $1,500 for single persons to $1,000.

GEN. WOOD TO QUIT WORKS BOARD POST TOMORROW, HE SAYS

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co. of Chicago, today notified President Roosevelt that he will terminate his duties as member of the works allotment board of the 4 billion dollar works relief program Monday.

Gen. Wood was the representative of business on the board. The White House announced that at the time his appointment was made two months ago, Gen. Wood said he would not serve beyond July 1.

He will remain a member of the President's business advisory counsel.

EUROPE REFUSES TO SELL GUNS TO ETHIOPIAN ARMY

African Emperor Charges Favoritism to Italy.

BY WILL BARBER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, June 29.—Four European nations have refused to permit shipments of arms to Ethiopia, with the result that the African empire is almost defenseless and lies at the mercy of sudden attack by Italy. The nations are Belgium, France, Denmark and Czechoslovakia. The latest refusal was made known today at the very moment when a large shipment of arms was due from Belgium.

Angered by what it terms favoritism to Italy and worried by the hopeless failure of the talks of Capt. Anthony Eden, British minister for league of nations affairs, with Premier Mussolini, the Ethiopian government decided to publish the facts regard-official publication confirms what THE TRIBUNE said in a dispatch last Monday about the efforts of Great Britain, about the efforts of Great Britain, France and Italy to prevent Ethiopia from getting guns and ammunition. Except at this particular moment Ethiopia has made no attempt to buy arms from Britain.

Entitled to Buy Arms.

It should be noted at the outset that Ethiopia is entitled to buy arms as freely as any other country which cannot manufacture them. As the British foreign office explained last month, the only restriction is Ethiopia's voluntary agreement to keep arms from falling into the hands of irresponsible individuals especially the warlike tribes along the French, British, Italian Somaliland frontiers. Otherwise, France, England and Italy are bound by treaty to permit the shipment of arms for the Ethiopian government across their territory.

As a result of the European nations' action, Ethiopia, an official of the Addis Ababa government said, may be "obliged to tighten her relations with Japan." That means Ethiopia may attempt to buy arms from Japan and also may turn to the United States as one of the few friendly nations to buy munitions from American manufacturers.

According to observers, the Belgian action is a particularly choice example of how European nations help the strong at the expense of the weak. Weapons and ammunition for Ethiopia were already at a Belgian port and, according to one report, were even aboard a ship when the Brussels government clamped down its embargo.

Emperor Becomes Angry.

Then came the explanation containing the following phrase which particularly angered Emperor Haile Selassie I:

"The step was taken to avoid the reproach of participating in the armament of Ethiopia."

Since no one ever decided whether Ethiopia or Italy is guilty of the Ualual and other border incidents, the "reproach of participating in the armament of Ethiopia" is considered here to be a gratuitous insult.

A strong protest was drafted by the Ethiopian government and submitted to the emperor for approval. The protest will be lodged with the Belgian government without delay.

It is understood that a protest also may be made to the French government. In this instance there was no official refusal on the part of the French government to ship arms to the African kingdom, but the Ethiopians were informed by the French manufacturers that the government intimated that no munitions must be made and shipped to Ethiopia. One French firm offered to manufacture them in Belgium, indicating that Haile Selassie's inability to buy arms is solely due to the French government's instructions.

Money Is Returned.

Czechoslovakian manufacturers informed Addis Ababa that "force majeure"—force of circumstances—prevented the fulfilment of the Ethiopian order and prepayments were returned.

It was first believed here that the Czech government was worried over a rearmed Germany, but when the other nations refused to send arms the Ethiopians expressed their conviction that the Czechs, as well, were favoring Italy.

Ethiopia, being an exclusively agricultural country, is unable to manufacture its own munitions and it is a question of life or death for her to buy arms abroad.

According to Ethiopian leaders, it is extremely important to obtain French, Czech, and Belgian muitions so that national armaments could be unified.

If the African empire is forced to buy arms from Japan and the United States it will be months before the orders can be filled, and even then the weapons may not be the same as those now used in Ethiopia.

Italy Piling Up Munitions.

Every possible factory in Italy, by official admission, is manufacturing munitions. The Italian colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland are crammed with troops. In the opinion of responsible Ethiopians, the Italians may start hostilities any day. Premier Mussolini's troops would have a tremendous advantage of trained men and modern weapons such as tanks, airplanes, and gas. On the other hand observers here agree that the rifles carried by the rich Ethiopians in all parts of the country are hopelessly out of date.

Ethiopia is determined not to yield to Italy, as one official puts it, but because of inability to get arms she "may have to resist invasion with spears, swords, and other primitive weapons and methods."

An official close to Haile Selassie said that Ethiopia in her effort to avert an armed conflict and invasion by Italy is determined to push action through the league of nations, despite the hostility of European governments. Ethiopia intends to act before the council, then take the dispute to the league assembly as China did in the Manchurian dispute with Japan, Ethiopians fear a similar outcome unless the European governments suddenly change their minds, which Addis Ababa feels they are unlikely to do. After that or before, war is practically a certainty.

BRITAIN RENEWS FIGHT TO SAVE TRI-POWER PACT

Baldwin Tries to Calm France and Italy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 29.—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, addressing a crowd of 40,000 Conservatives at a national government demonstration at Leeds, today reiterated Great Britain's determination to support the league of nations and stoutly defended the recently concluded Anglo-German naval pact.

"We shall continue in the future as we have done in the past to follow unswervingly the paths of peace and reconciliation in Europe and everywhere else," he said. "The covenant of the league of nations is the sheet anchor of British policy. There is no need for me to affirm our intention to fulfill all our obligations in the treaty of Locarno."

Baldwin made another effort to reconsolidate the Anglo-Franco-Italian common front which was shaken by the Anglo-German pact. He assured France and Italy that the agreement meant no weakening of the ties between the former allied powers of Europe.

"The Anglo-German naval pact," he said, "implies no deviation from that whole hearted coöperation between this country, France, and Italy, which was recently reaffirmed at Stresa.

"The agreement appears to us to be a practical, forward step toward eventual international limitation of armaments. I regret profoundly the observations of a certain member of the house of commons that you cannot trust the Germans to keep their word. When you are trying to initiate disarmament, what can you do if you do not trust? You revert to jungle laws and no progress is possible.

"The Germans and ourselves have entered into this compact, in my belief, with equally honorable motives"

CHIAPPE, MAYOR OF PARIS, SHOOTS ENEMY IN A DUEL

Bullet Hits Hip and Falls to the Ground.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 29.—Jean Chiappe, former prefect of police and newly elected president of the Paris municipal council, might have killed his adversary, Pierre Godin, his predecessor as council president, in a duel today if his seconds had not taken the precaution customary in French duels of putting a minimum charge of powder in the pistols.

At the second exchange of shots, a bullet from Chiappe's pistol hit Godin in the right hip, but the bullet was already spent and did not penetrate the flesh. Godin calmly picked it up and put it in his pocket.

The duel was staged with all the traditional ceremonies immortalized by Mark Twain, in the garden of Mme. Coty, widow of the millionaire perfumer, at the edge of the Bois de Boulogne. Two surgeons were in attendance to stop the fighting at the first sign of bloodshed.

Long Barreled Pistols Used.

Long barreled dueling pistols were loaded by Armand Massard, who directed the duel. Massard is a Paris councilor and chairman of the French Olympic games committee. His wife is an Omaha heiress.

Massard, who also acted as principal second for Chiappe, is a famous fencer and often a duelist. A few months after he married Miss Brandeis in 1924 he won a sword duel with the late Lucien Gaudin, acknowledged as the world's greatest swordsman. The duel, it was reported at the time, followed Gaudin's exhibition of admiration for Mme. Massard during the couple's honeymoon on the Riviera.

Chiappe's duel with Godin began at 8:30 a. m. The opponents stepped off 25 paces. Seconds gave the word. Both fired and missed. Again the word was given and Chiappe's bullet found its mark.

Duelists Are Unreconciled.

The duelists left the field unreconciled, while the seconds and surgeons drew up a protocol of the encounter. The protocol said that honor was satisfied.

The duel was the outgrowth of Chiappe's election to the Paris council last May. In that election a Chiappe candidate defeated Godin.

Godin, who is 60 years old, wrote a bitter open letter to Chiappe, 57 and a fiery Corsican, charging him with winning the election by fraud.

Chiappe challenged. Seconds were selected. They decided upon the weapons and the date for the duel was fixed.

ITALY TO SPEND $82,000,000 MORE ON ARMED FORCES

ROME, June 29.—(AP)—Italy, gathering her forces for possible hostilities with Ethiopia, will spend an additional billion lire [about $82,000,000] on her colonies, army, navy, and air force during the first six months of the coming year.

The official gazette today announced this expenditure had been budgeted in additon to the ordinary defense budget and the special sum of 1,200,000,000 lire Benito Mussolini set aside last year for renovation of the nation's aerial defenses.

The new appropriation will be divided as follows: 500,000,000 lire for the colonies, 120,000,000 for aviation, 100,000,000 for the navy, and 280,000,000 for the army.

Another communique disclosed that 800,000 men, from every branch of the service, in July and August will play at warfare near the Brenner pass separating Italy from Austria. The sham war will involve the biggest peacetime army Italy has ever put in the field for summer maneuvers.

'HOUSECLEANING' OF U. S. COLONY IN ALASKA BEGUN

"Profiteer" Prices Cut; Official Ousted.

PALMER, Alaska, June 29.—(AP)—A "housecleaning" for the Matanuska colonization project—beginning with a reorganization of the commissary—was started today by Eugene Carr, "trouble shooter" for the Federal Relief administration.

Fresh from a West Virginia project on which he established similar camps of 140 settlers, Carr was in action early this morning, after taking over control for the time from Don Irwin, resident manager.

Prices Are Cut.

Reorganization of the commissary, which some dissatisfied colonists had accused of charging unduly high prices, started with the removal of its manager. Some colonists were put to work on its accounts. Prices on numerous articles were cut and the practice of giving sales slips on merchandise was introduced.

The six dissatisfied families who decided to return to the United States were selling their household goods today to straighten out their bills. They will start back the first of the week. A few other families have said they would join them.

Some families were found to have incurred large obligations at the commissary. One large family had a bill of more than $200 for two months. Other colonists said they had been charged for things they never bought.

Promises Adequate Homes.

Carr's arrival apparently revived the morale of the colony. Even before he did any extensive investigating or listened to the small group which sent protests to Washington last week, he assured the colonists they would be provided with adequate homes by autumn. Carr also said more labor would be brought here, if needed, and that "discordant elements" would be eliminated.

"I'll see the Matanuska project through as I did in West Virginia," he said. "If there isn't enough labor, skilled or otherwise, on the job, we'll get it."

At Anchorage he conferred with city officials over the number of unemployed available there to be brought here, if necessary.

GEORGIA PAPER AGAIN GRANTED FARLEY RESPITE

Lifts 6th Postal Ban on New Deal Critic.

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—Another chapter in a recurrent New Deal censorship comedy was closed today when Postmaster General James A. Farley lifted a ban on the Georgia Market Bulletin, weekly publication of the Georgia state agricultural department.

The entire issue of the Bulletin has been impounded at Atlanta six times in as many weeks for attacks on the administration. Each time Farley has lifted the ban to avoid attack for fostering New Deal censorship.

Becomes a Game.

Every time he has granted respite Farley has done so with the hope that the editor of the publication will soften his bitter editorials. And each succeeding issue has come to his desk with a more caustic editorial page.

The publication is edited by State Agricultural Commissioner Linder, an appointee of Gov. Talmadge, outspoken foe of the administration and President Roosevelt. Linder's attacks have centered on Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and the AAA program, but embrace criticism of brain trust government in general.

Claims Legal Right.

Livingston argues that under second class mail regulations state publications like the Bulletin are forbidden to carry political matter.

With equal force Commissioner Linder argues that his editorials are not political matter but economic discussions. He insists every phase of government activity has a direct influence upon agriculture and that stoppage of his editorials would be a gagging of the press.

Linder has charged that Secretary Wallace is behind Postmaster Livingston. He declares that Wallace is persecuting him for his criticisms. This is denied by Wallace.

Farley's aids report the postmaster general believes his subordinate at Atlanta is right when he holds the Bulletin is violating the postal regulations. But, they say, he has no wish to bring down a hornet's nest of censorship about his head, as he has had his share of troubles in office.

SIX RUSSIAN KILLERS SENTENCED TO DEATH; COURT CROWD CHEERS

TAGIL, Ural Area of U. S. S. R., June 29.—(AP)—The cheers of 1,200 spectators resounded in a soviet courtroom today when six persons were sentenced to death for the murder of Grigori Bykov, bolshevik author. Paul Pestov, former official of the city soviet, was one of the condemned. Nine others, including two women, were sentenced to varying terms of forced labor.

KILLED IN CRASH.

Dowagiac, Mich., June 29.—[Special.]—William Bowman, 70, was killed today when he drove out from a side road into the path of a truck loaded with wood. Emmeritt Weaver, Goshen, Ind., driver of the truck was seriously hurt.

GIRL, 17, BURNS TO DEATH AS CAR STRIKES TRUCK

Brother and Sister Killed in Borrowed Auto.

Miss Virginia Brown, 17 years old, 3719 Seminary avenue, was burned to death yesterday morning when the automobile in which she was riding burst into flames after it crashed into a truck at Torrence avenue and 186th street, near Lansing. William Kirsch, 46 years old, uncle of the girl and driver of the car, was seriously injured. The Lansing police held David Ness, 19 years old, of New Ross, Ind., driver of the truck, for the inquest.

Kirsch was driving his niece to his home at 4850 Elm avenue, Hammond, when the accident occurred. Lansing, police said, was driving on the wrong side of the highway. At St. Margaret's hospital in Hammond, where Kirsch was taken, it was said he probably will die.

Two Die in Borrowed Car.

Louis Foltos, 18 years old, and his sister Florence, 17 years old, of Aurora were killed yesterday morning when the borrowed automobile in which they were riding with their six younger brothers and sisters and two neighbor children skidded on the wet pavement in the main street of Batavia and crashed into a tree. The others were not injured. Victor Payne, owner of the Arcade Beauty shop in Aurora, where Louis Foltos was employed, loaned him the automobile.

The deaths, Miss Brown and two others brought the Cook county motor toll for 1935 to 446. Until 2 p. m. yesterday 355 had been killed this year in trafic accidents within the city limits and 7,662 injured. However, total automobile deaths in Cook county for the first six months of 1935 showed a decrease of almost one-fourth compared with the same period last year. Up to June 30, 1934, there had been 586 automobile deaths as against the 446 so far in 1935. The other deaths:

Marian Beck, 8 years old, 166 Whiting street. Killed when a hit-and-run automobile struck her at Oak and Wells streets. The body of the little girl was hurled clear to the sidewalk, and the death car sped away, making no effort to aid the child.

James Curry, 9 years old, colored, 1731 West Roosevelt road. Killed when struck by a truck in front of 1857 Roosevelt road. The driver of the truck, Robert Griffin, 3203 South Parkway, also colored, was held for the inquest.

19 Bus Passengers Periled.

Three persons were injured seriously and nineteen passengers on a New York bound bus were endangered yesterday morning when an automobile in which three were riding crashed into and overturned the bus at 114th street and Avenue O. None of the bus passengers, including three children, was injured except for minor cuts and bruises.

Those injured are Sygmund Antoziwski, 23, of 8338 Houston avenue, driver of the car; John Jaskulski, 31, of 8051 Houston avenue, and Stanley Bielechi, 30, of 8643 Exchange avenue. Jaskulski was the most seriously injured, incurring internal injuries it was said at the South Chicago hospital where the three were taken.

Sentenced on Nuptial Eve.

Thomas Rutherford, 35 years old, 1632 Taft avenue, Berkeley, was sentenced to ten days in the Bridewell and fined $100 yesterday by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in the South State Street court for reckless driving. Rutherford's car collided with a truck driven by George Sachs, 337 South Karlov avenue, at Cullom and Kimbark avenues Friday night, slightly injuring Sachs' wife. Rutherford admitted he "had had a few drinks" to celebrate his intended marriage yesterday to Miss E. Minoll, 4533 North Christiana avenue, who was driving with him.

Three Hurt in Crash.

Three women were injured in a collision between a private automobile and an ambulance at Main and Hough streets in Barrington. They are three sisters, Esther, Rose and Margaret David, all of 1508 Marengo street, Forest Park.

The three were riding in the automobile of William Jones, 41 years old, 7420 West Madison street, Forest Park. His machine was struck by the private ambulance of W. C. Foelschow, 45 years old, 402 Main street, Barrington. Jones' car was overturned, and driven into a lamp post. Jones escaped injury, as did Foelschow.

Three Killed, Two Injured When Auto Strikes Train

Reed City, Mich., June 29.—(AP)—Three persons were killed and two others seriously injured today when their automobile crashed into the side of a freight train near here. The dead were Randolph Johnson, 23, a dental student at Northwestern university; Lahn Wolff, 19, and Miss Florence Berger, 25, a newspaper reporter. Jac A. Cooper, 23, managing editor of the Osceola County Herald, who was engaged to be married to Miss Berger, suffered a possible skull fracture, as did Jack Hannon, 23. All of the dead and injured lived here.

JIMMY WALKER WILL RETURN TO N. Y. THIS FALL

New York, June 29.—(AP)—James J. [Jimmy] Walker, New York's erstwhile "playboy" mayor, will return to Manhattan in September, his sister, Mrs. Nan Walker Burke, said today.

She said that letters from her brother said that his health was improved and that he would come back to New York to take up a law practice not later than this fall.

"He just had to get away from it all and get his strength back," she said when questioned concerning his two year residence in England and on the continent.

BEGIN ENFORCING LOOP NO PARKING LAW TOMORROW

Police Ordered to Give All Violators Tickets.

Rigid police enforcement of the city ordinance forbidding auto parking in the loop area during business hours, will be started tomorrow, Capt. David Flynn, in charge of the trafic division, announced yesterday. Acting on orders of Police Commissioner Allman, who issued a warning against illegal parking a week ago, Capt. Flynn will instruct the 235 trafic policemen assigned to the loop area, to issue tickets to every violator, regardless of political connections.

The ordinance in question forbids parking between the hours of 7 a. m. and 6 p. m. on busines days in the district bounded by Wacker drive on the north and Harrison street on the south, Franklin street on the west and Michigan avenue on the east.

Hours Shortened on Saturday.

On Saturdays the hours in which parking is prohibited are from 7 a. m. to 3 p. m. Parking on Sundays and certain holidays is permitted under the ordinance. The holidays are New Year's day, Memorial day, the Fourth of July, Thanksgiving, and Christmas days.

Capt. Flynn said that he would warn all trafic officers that any "winking" at violations will result in disciplinary measures against the offending officer.

"The public has been sufficiently warned and a motorist should have no complaint if he is given a ticket for illegal parking," Capt. Flynn said. "With ticket 'fixing' eliminated, the motorist must realize that when he is given a ticket he will have to appear at the 'cafeteria' court and pay a fine of $1 or otherwise be arrested and taken to the Trafic court where the fine is likely to be much heavier."

Allowed Time to Unload.

Capt. Flynn pointed out that the ordinance makes it permissible for passenger automobiles to be parked sufficiently long to allow for unloading of passengers. The maximum time allowed for this purpose is three minutes, he said. Commercial trucks are permitted a maximum of 30 minutes to load or unload.

The decision to enforce the law strictly was made after numerous complaints had been received recently at the police commissioner's office.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

BUTCHER BOY ADMITS RAPING AND SLAYING NINE YEAR OLD GIRL

Greenville, N. Y., June 29.—(AP)—District Attorney John C. Welch of Greene county tonight said Alfred Volckmann, Greenville butcher boy, had made a "full and detailed" confession of the "thrill" slaying of 9 year old Helen Glenn.

Welch said Volckmann, 19 year old former military school student, confessed he raped the little girl and then carried her to the swamp where her body was found Friday afternoon and threw her in a small stream.

Then, Welch said, Volckmann admitted he stabbed her through the breast with a butcher knife he had taken from his father's store.

"He has made a full and detailed confession," Welch said.

BALLOTS ISSUED FOR JUDICIAL VOTE TOMORROW

The board of election commissioners completed yesterday the distribution to 624 voting areas in Chicago of ballots and registration books for tomorrow's judicial election. At the same time workers under County Clerk Michael J. Flynn distributed ballots and books to voting places in forty-four country towns of the county.

In regular elections polls are open in 3,127 precincts in the city and in 364 country towns, but the "coalition" ticket offered for the twenty-one Superior court judgeships eliminated contests and as an economy measure the board ordered only one of every five polling places open.

John S. Rusch, clerk of the election board, predicted yesterday that less than 100,000 votes would be cast in the judicial election.

FORCE RELIEF CLIENTS TO TAKE JOBS: JOHNSON

New York, June 29.—[Special]—Any man or woman on relief who gets a chance for job in private industry should be forced to take that job, even though the pay is less than the relief allotment.

This pronouncement was made today by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, new federal work relief administrator for New York. The difference between private industry pay and relief pay, Gen. Johnson believes, should be made up in some way by relief payments.

The statement, assailed as a severe blow to the rehabilitation theories of the New Deal and to ideals of economic justice, was inspired by the refusal of migratory farm workers to abandon the comparative security of the relief rolls for temporary jobs at what they consider starvation wages in the berry patches of southern New Jersey.

$74,676,206 OF 1933 REALTY TAX NOW COLLECTED

MOSES REAPPOINTED AS MEMBER OF N. Y. BRIDGE AUTHORITY

New York, June 29. — [Special.] — Park Commissioner Robert Moses' reappointment for a full three year term as a member of the Triborough Bridge authority was officially announced today in Mayor F. H. La Guardia's absence.

There had been some confusion as to whether the appointment would be a "holdover' designation, which would make Mr. Moses subject to dismissal at any time, or a regular appointment, subjecting him to dismissal only on charges.

Yesterday the mayor and Mr. Moses clashed in statements about the appointment.

The mayor, told that Mr. Moses threatened to resign his park job unless he was formally reappointed to the bridge authority for a full term, characterized the threat as "baby talk."

Mr. Moses' willingness to make an issue of the reappointment goes back to the last winter's wrangle with Secretary Ickes, who issued an order which would have removed Mr. Moses from the bridge authority. Mr. Ickes finally made a ragged retreat. Promptly the mayor said Mr. Moses would be reappointed.

DICTATOR RULE ROOSEVELT AIM, SAYS BINGHAM

Eastern Point, Conn., June 29.—(AP)—Former United States Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut branded President Roosevelt "a tory" tonight in charging the chief executive with a desire to change the constitution so as to give himself the power possessed by the heads of the nations of Europe.

"It is evident that we have a tory for President," he said in addressing the two day conference of the Young Republicans of New England.

"At last the issues of the next campaign are clear," the former senator said. "The President has made them so. He wants to change the constitution so as to give him the power possessed by the heads of the nations of Europe."

Vets of 11 Nations to Meet Germans in Peace Talk

PARIS, June 29.—(AP)—German veterans of the world war today accepted the invitation of French ex-soldiers to come to Paris next Monday to engage in peace talks with their former enemies of the allied armies. The wartime soldiers of eleven allied nations, including the United States, will discuss measures for peace with the Germans under the auspices of the French Veterans' association.

LINCOLN'S HEAD OMITTED FROM FARLEY'S STAMPS

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—Abraham Lincoln is without honor on the postage stamps of Postmaster James A. Farley. There is no likeness of the great Republican President on any regular stamp issue nor has his head appeared on any of the many special issues of "Postmaster Jim."

The last printing of Lincoln's head on 3 cent stamps was in July of 1932. At that time in observance of the Washington bicentennial a special series was run off to honor the first President. Lincolns head had been on the stamps for 10 years.

On June 16, 1932, Farley's predecessor, Postmaster Walter F. Brown, made the Washington 3 cent stamp a regular issue. A month later Lincoln was taken off the stamps. Democratic Farley has seen no reason to change this order to honor a Republican.

Jewelry Store Sues Over Damage by Bomb Next Door

South Bend, Ind., June 29.—[Special.]—The Kraus Jewelry Store, Inc., was not protected by explosion insurance last January when the Palace café, next door, was wrecked by bombing. The jewelry firm, however, has seen a way around that difficulty and today filed suit in Superior court to collect $3,200 from an insurance company on the grounds it suffered loss of that amount from burglars who made off with merchandise shortly after the explosion.

MARRIAGE MONTH COMES TO CLOSE WITH 4 WEDDINGS

200 See Marjorie Bertha and O. H. Schell United.

BY JUDITH CASS.

Four weddings of especial interest to north shore residents yesterday brought June, the traditional month of brides, to a fitting climax.

In a service at 4:30 in the afternoon Miss Marjorie Bertha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Bertha, was married to Orville H. Schell Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Orville H. Schell of New Rochelle, N. Y. About 200 relatives and friends heard the young couple exchange their wedding vows at an improvised altar in the living room of the Winnetka house at 745 Sheridan road that Mr. and Mrs. Bertha have taken for the summer.

The bride was stunning in a severely simple gown of white satin designed with a high round neck, long close fitting sleeves and a medium length train. Her billowy tulle veil was held in place by a narrow band of waxed orange blossoms. She carried an unusual bouquet of white iris and gladiolas.

Brother Attends Bridegroom.

The bride was unattended but Mr. Schell had his brother, William, for his best man. Receiving with the young couple after the service were Mr. and Mrs. Bertha and Dr. and Mrs. Schell who came west for the ceremony. Mrs. Bertha was gowned in printed chiffon and wore a corsage of white orchids. Mrs. Schell's dress and hat were of matching green chiffon and her flowers were lavender orchids.

Mr. Schell and his bride have left by motor for New York where they will sail Wednesday on the Conte Grande to spend six weeks in Europe. Upon their return they will take an apartment in New York City.

Hedly-Buckley Wedding.

Clear blue skies and brilliant sunshine contributed not a little to the picturesqueness of yesterday's weddings. Miss Marion Hedly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Hedly of Pine Knoll, Libertyville, was lovely as she left the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest after her marriage to Robert William Buckley. The service was read at 4 o'clock by Dr. Herbert W. Prince and then all of the guests moved on to the Hedly home for a reception that overflowed into the gardens.

The bride's gown of a heavy silver satin was distinguished by a four foot train, long sleeves puffed above the elbows, and a high neck. The close fitting cap that held the tulle veil in place was edged in tiny waxed calla lilies. These matched the bridal bouquet of calla lilies.

The Bridesmaids.

The bridesmaids wore dresses of sweet pea pink mousseline de soie designed with puffed sleeves and tiny buttons in the back from the neckline to the waist. Their gloves were of pink lace and their hats and slippers, a deep orchid in color, matched their bouquets of spring flowers. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Herreford, Mrs. Richard Atherton, Miss Betty Stahelin of Detroit, Miss Barbara Ann Sargent of Winnetka, Miss Charlotte Fleming of Lake Forest, and Miss Mary Lynch of Kenilworth. As maid of honor for her sister Miss Madeline Hedly wore an orchid gown of design similar to that of the bridesmaids and carried a bouquet of pink flowers.

As the procession moved down the aile little June and Jane Grayling, twin sisters, as the flower girls, and small Milton Sandling Jr. of Battle Creek, Mich., as the ring bearer, attracted not a little attention.

Wacker-Sheffield Ceremony.

In the presence of the immediate families Miss Ellen Wacker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Wacker, and Thomas C. Sheffield, son of L. T. Sheffield of New London, Conn., and Mrs. Herbert Dittler of New York City were married at 4:30 yesterday afternoon in the Wacker home in Lake Forest. A reception for the friends of the young couple followed the ceremony.

The bride, who was unattended, wore her mother's empire wedding gown of white velvet brocaded on chiffon. The train fell from the shoulders and the billowy tulle veil was held in place by a strand of orange blossoms that Mrs. Wacker had also used on her wedding day. The veil was edged in old lace. The bride's flowers were an old fashioned bouquet of white carnations.

Kennedy-Parker Nuptials.

Miss Anna Margaret Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Archer Kennedy of Evanston, wore a gown of ice blue satin last evening for her marriage to James Peabody Parker, son of Dr. and Mrs. Fred W. Parker of Glencoe. The dress was lovely, fashioned with peasant sleeves, a high neck, and a long square train. The bridal bouquet combined delphinium with white sweet peas and queen's lace.

Dr. Ernest F. Tittle, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Evanston read the wedding service at 8:30 in the home of the bride's parents at 2715 Sheridan road, Evanston, and then there was a large reception.

Miss D'Arcy Kennedy was her sister's only attendant.

After a motor trip east Mr. Parker and his bride will make their home at 1402½ Central street, Evanston.

In the garden of the George Woodruffs' penthouse home at 1500 Lake Shore drive, Miss Elizabeth Ellen Fishback, daughter of Mrs. Lillian Boyer Fishback, and William Crackel Gould, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Scott Gould of Detroit, will be married at 4:30 this afternoon.

Mrs. Martha Baur will be matron of honor for her sister and Louis Huck will serve Mr. Gould as best man. Lathrop Moss and Leonard Morton Prince will usher.

J. R. Richardson to Wed.

New York, June 29.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Richardson of Chicago, arrived here today to attend the wedding of their son, John R. Richardson II., and Miss Elizabeth Chew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Chew of Scarsdale, N. Y. The ceremony will take place at the Church of St. James the Less at Scarsdale, Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The bride will be attended by Miss Loris Ellman, as maid of honor and Mrs. Richard Hanshaw Jr., as matron of honor. Mr. Richardson will have Benson Martin of Chicago as his best man.

After a brief honeymoon at Narragansett, the couple will motor to Chicago and thence to Denver where they will make their home.

ATTORNEY WEDS JENNIE DOLLY IN SURPRISE RITES

B. W. Vinissky Takes Famous Stage Twin as Bride

Jennie Dolly of the noted Dolly sisters and Bernard W. Vinissky, Chicago attorney, were married in a suddenly arranged ceremony last evening at the Drake hotel apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Netcher. Mrs. Netcher is the former Roszika Dolly, twin of Jennie, who was known on the stage as Yancsi Dolly. The Dolly sisters won fame in America and Europe as a dancing team.

The wedding had been set for July 12, but when news of the engagement became known Jennie and Mr. Vinissky decided to get married at once. Miss Dolly telephoned her father, Julius, in New York at noon, she explained, and instructed him to fly here in time for the ceremony at 7 p. m., which he did.

Wedding Gown Due Tomorrow.

Vinissky's mother, Mrs. Clara Vinissky, 3300 Lake Shore drive, attended the wedding, her son explained, without the gown she had ordered and which was not to be delivered until tomorrow.

The bridegroom said he first met Miss Dolly when she and her sister appeared here in 1926, a year before they retired from the stage, in "Sitting Pretty." The next meeting was after she returned here from France in April with Mrs. Netcher following a three year convalescence from injuries received in a motor accident.

Bride Previously Wed.

Miss Dolly formerly was married to Harry Fox, a comedian. Vinissky was graduated from the University of Chicago law school in 1916 and has practiced here since.

They will make their home at the Drake hotel and leave for a delayed wedding trip some time in July. In the fall they will send for the two little girls whom Miss Dolly adopted in Budapest three years ago and who now are in school in England. The children, Klari and Manci, both 10 years old, are being trained as dancers and musicians.

310 POUND FRENCHMAN SHOWS MILWAUKEEANS HOW TO GUZZLE BEER

Milwaukee, Wis., June 29.—(AP)—A 310 pound Frenchman tonight ducked his red thatched head into a foaming bucket and showed the good Milwaukee burghers how to drink beer.

Competing in the Fond du Lac Avenue Advancement association's beer guzzling contest, billed as the first and only public event of its kind in the middle west, Floyd Verette put down a half gallon of suds in 37 seconds.

Milwaukee Germans stood wide eyed as the hulking Frenchman tilted his pail higher and higher, but forgot national preferences and burst into tumultuous "hochs" for Verette when the master of ceremonies announced his startling time.

Second among the early finishers was "Whitey" Berghausen, onetime pugilist who found managing more profitable than personal participation in the cauliflower ear industry.

"Whitey" emptied his pail in 1 minute 10 seconds, but quickly developed a peculiar green color around the eyes. Erv Schneider was in third position, 15 seconds behind Berghausen.

Finals for the Wisconsin guzzling championship will be staged at the association's picnic tomorrow afternoon.

Girl Shot by Mistake as Chicken Thief Is Dead

Princess Natalie Paley Here on Journey to Film Capital

Princess Natalie Paley, half-sister of the grand duchess of Russia, passed through Chicago yesterday en route to Hollywood for her first venture in American motion pictures. She wore a costume designed for her by her husband, Lucien LeLong, the Parisian couturier. Accompanied by a maid and a dog, her conversational efforts were directed toward the problem of finding suitable American made biscuits for the dog.

Rear Admiral Andrews to Be Navigation Chief Today

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—Rear Admiral Adolphus Andrews, who was in command of the presidential yacht Mayflower in the Coolidge administration, will become chief of the navy's bureau of navigation tomorrow, succeeding Rear Admiral William D. Leahy. The latter is to assume command of the battleship divisions of the battle force of fleet, with the accompanying rank of vice admiral.

Peasant Chief Threatens Revolt Against King Carol

CLUJ, Rumania, June 29.—(AP)—Fifty thousand farmers today heard Julius Maniu, peasant leader, deliver an address that contained broad hints of revolt against the Bucharest government. "The peasants want no constitutional changes which would increase the powers of King Carol," Maniu said. "The farmers have started three revolutions in 120 years, and are ready for another if necessary."

DROWNING HELD ACCIDENT.

The death of Theodore Karki, 11 years old, 4039 Lincoln avenue, who drowned June 16, while fishing with his family on the lake shore, yesterday was termed accidental by a coroner's jury.

PLANE ROMANCE CULMINATES IN WEDDING HERE

Personnel of the United Air lines, including pilots, co-pilots, and stewardesses, attended the marriage yesterday of Miss Ida C. Barth, air stewardess, and Joseph E. Baer, Chicago meat broker. The wedding in St. Ambrose Catholic church at 47th street and Ellis avenue climaxed a romance begun two years ago aboard a Chicago-Cheyenne plane.

Miss Barth, the daughter of Max M. Barth of Omaha, became a stewardess in the United Air lines service after her graduation from a nurses' training school in Omaha. It was during the early part of her 500,000 miles of air travel that she met Bear, who is the son of Mrs. Carrie Bear of Austin, Minn.

59TH ASSEMBLY ADJOURNS; MAY MEET NEXT FALL

house and senate collars wilted. Coats had been flung aside. Tempers had frayed. Voices had grown querulous, revealing impatience and sometimes anger.

The heat was not the only disturbing influences. Throughout the house on three occasions, the last in the face of a warning from Speaker John P. Devine, firecrackers boomed like salvoes of light artillery fire, submerging senatorial oratory some distance away. The presence of Sally Rand was said to have quickened many an assemblyman's pulse.

Guidance Is Expert.

But work progressed under the guidance of Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan, the presiding elder of the senate, and Speaker Devine, who ruled over the chamber on the other side of the capitol building's center well. What remained on the calendars from yesterday fast disappeared, only the tardy going into the discard.

Before the middle of the afternoon had been reached it became apparent that this session would have one distinguished contrast to previous sessions. Leaders were striving for "daylight" adjournment, hoping thus to escape the disorders and sharp practices in getting bills passed that have attended sessions at which the clock was stopped at midnight and work continued into the early morning hours. Their success was a delight to all.

Many Hope to Return.

Senators and representatives flew about their respective chambers saying a last goodbye to secretaries, assembly employés, colleagues and sweethearts, to the latter by those legislators who are not married. Many were hopeful, though, that they would be back in special session in September.

"I want to get through early," Senator Richey V. Graham [Dem., Cicero], senate president pro tempore, told his colleagues immediately after the session opened.

"If senators aren't here to ask for concurrence or nonconcurrence in house amendments to their bills, we can't wait for them. We'll act on the amendments without the advice of the bills' sponsors."

Graham was present to gain the senate's consent to a house amendment exempting families with children from provisions of his separate maintenance measure. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 35 to 0, and the bill now goes to Gov. Horner.

Extends Right to Husbands.

Under this measure the right of applying for separate maintenance is extended to husbands as well as wives. The period of separate maintenance or temporary alimony is limited to two years, and living apart under a decree of separate maintenance would be considered as part of the period of desertion required for divorce. The latter provision, by virtue of the house amendment, does not apply to families with children.

Also present was Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago]. Mayor Kelly's spokesman in the upper chamber. Ward obtained senate concurrence to several house amendments to his measure granting Chicago authority to construct a lake front airport, and that bill also goes to the governor.

In the house a scanty attendance greeted the opening hour. The house had been in session late the previous evening, but as time passed more and more of the members found their seats.

Sharp Clash in House.

Before many minutes had passed a sharp three-cornered clash nearly threw that body into an adjournment. Rising to his feet Representative John P. Ryan [Dem., Chicago] demanded that the rules be followed and all bills be called in numerical order. He drew a rebuke from Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, Democratic majority leader from Chicago.

"There are about forty Chicago bills pending on the calendar," said Adamowski. "It ill becomes a member from Chicago to delay the passage of them."

"I'm not going to be concerned about any one's pet bills," broke in Speaker Devine. "I'm willing right now to entertain a motion for a sine die adjournment."

No one accepted the challenge and the house continued to work for a while, later taking a short recess.

Battle on "Confidence" Bill.

In its early session the senate's most heated debate arose over the passage of house bill providing that newspaper reporters shall not be forced to disclose the source of any information published when testifying before courts or grand juries. The measure was introduced by Representative F. W. Lewis [Dem., Robinson], a newspaper publisher.

The bill was passed after members were told no information could be concealed, merely the source of such information.

Receives "Sentence"

Policewoman Kitty O'Shea, 62 years old, retired from the force yesterday after 21 years of service. She received farewell toasts at Fillmore street station, where she had been stationed for the last 15 years. Among the women under her care while they were detained at Fillmore for questioning was Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, convicted of the murder of Rheta Gardner Wynekoop.

Judge Thomas Green, sitting in Fillmore street court, called Mrs. O'Shea before him yesterday and "sentenced" her to happy retirement. Mrs. O'Shea announced she will "live the life of Riley" at St. Elizabeth's home, 1431 North Claremont avenue, Her husband, Martin, died in 1907.

SCALDED BY SOUP; CHILD DIES.

Burns incurred on May 1 when she pulled a kettle of soup over herself caused the death in the county hospital yesterday of Clarice Wilkins, 2⅓ years old, 1749 North Washtenaw avenue.

AUTOMOBILE TAG FEE CUT PASSED IN BOTH HOUSES

Car Owners Will Save $1,700,000 Yearly.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 30.—[Special.]—Both houses of the general assembly today approved a cut of a little less than ten per cent in the annual automobile license fee. Only the signature of Gov. Horner is needed to save the car owners of Illinois approximately $1,700,000, when they purchase their 1936 plates. Indications are he will sign.

For small cars, plates that under present rates cost $8 will cost $6.50 and those with a slightly higher horse power that now costs $12 will cost $10.50. For larger cars, $20 plates are cut to $17 and the $25 plates to $22.

Other States Cut Fees.

The reduction, while slight, will be appreciated by the million automobile owners of Illinois since it is the first cut they have received since the registration fee was established in 1917. Other states cut their rates after the 1929 economic crash.

The victory for the reduction proponents ended three days of parliamentary sparring with no little strategy being exercised on both sides. Mayor Kelly's spokesman, Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], introduced the proposal as a 20 per cent cut.

Because all bills introduced into this legislative session to slice gas and license fees were sidetracked successfully by Gov. Horner, Ward presented the measure not as a new bill but as an amendment to an inconspicuous safety bill that had passed the house and was on second reading in the senate.

Sent to Conference.

The amendment, supported by Secretary of State Hughes as well as by Mayor Kelly, passed the senate. The Horner forces arranged a demonstration that blocked concurrence in the house. This sent the proposal to a conference committee.

Before the committee met this afternoon, Horner and Hughes went round and round in the executive offices and came out with an agreement for a small reduction. This scale was cut further by the conference meeting.

The table shows the saving in fees:

25 and under....	$ 6.50	$ 6.00	$ 8.00
25 to 35........	10.50	9.00	12.00
35 to 50........	17.00	12.00	20.00
50 and over.....	22.00	15.00	25.00

Both Houses Approve Report.

The senate late this afternoon, only a few hours from sine die adjournment, approved the committee report with 43 favorable votes and none dissenting. In the house, recalcitrant rural representatives fought to retain the present high rates because the farmers have been promised gravel roads. The motion to approve the compromise carried by a vote of 92 to 19.

The attitude of some of the hinterland representatives was expressed in the committee fight. This contention was voted down, however, when it was shown that the Horner administration really is sacrificing little of its revenue in view of an increase of approximately $2,000,000 this year over last in registration fees and gasoline tax collections and in view of federal "easy money" allotments totaling $24,000,000.

Pass Trafic Code.

Also of importance to automotive transportation was the passage by the house tonight, with concurrence by the senate, of a new Illinois trafic code. Some of the new regulations and provisions are as follows:

The 45 mile an hour prima facie speed limit is repealed.

To drive so slowly as to impede a reasonable movement of trafic is described as a misdemeanor.

Engine mufflers must be adequate and in constant operation.

The highway department is authorized to enforce compulsory mechanical inspection of all vehicles.

Brakes must conform to standards of performance.

State, city, and park district officials can permit a right turn after a preliminary stop for a red light when and if they see fit.

The code was drafted by the state highway department. After passing the senate, it was amended in the house to include the 45 mile an hour repealer and the authorization for a right turn on the red light where trafic engineers approve.

Reveal Steamship Line Head Insolvent at Death

New York, June 29.—[Special.]—John E. Dockendorff, president of the Black Diamond Steamship corporation and of the American Diamond Lines, Inc., was insolvent when he died on April 2, 1934, it was revealed yesterday when transfer tax appraisal was filed here. According to testimony before the senate committee investigating ocean mail contracts in 1933, Mr. Dockendorff received more than $1,000,000 in salary and other benefits from the Black Diamond company between 1919 and 1932.

FRANK BEILFUSS, Chicago, Ill.

"When I Figure what I Save on Gas and Oil my Dodge actually Costs less than a Small car"

—says FRANK BEILFUSS, CHICAGO, ILL.

"I PAID only $91.50 more for my big Dodge than I would have had to pay for a small car," explains Mr. Beilfuss. "But Dodge actually costs less to run than small, competitive makes. Better gas and oil mileage, lower running costs all around. So when I figure what I save, that $91.50 price difference will be completely wiped out before I'm ready to buy my next Dodge."

Good news to motorists everywhere! Now you can enjoy a big car—at lower running costs than you would have with a small car.

Owners all over the country tell of the amazing economy of the new Dodge. They report 18—20—even 22 miles per gallon of gas. 10% to 20% oil savings. Lower operating expense all along the line. They find by actual comparison that Dodge gives 3 to 5 more miles per gallon than small, competitive makes.

And wouldn't you rather have a big Dodge? Think of the extra roominess and comfort it provides. Think of its reputation for dependability. Think of the smooth comfort of its "Airglide Ride" ... the safety of its genuine hydraulic brakes and all-steel body Think, too, how proud you'll feel when you drive a big, good-looking car like this.

You'll invest in thrift when you spend the few extra dollars in a Dodge Yet for all the additional advantages Dodge gives you, it's just a few dollars more than the very lowest-priced cars. See your Dodge dealer today and learn how little it costs to enjoy owning a Dodge.

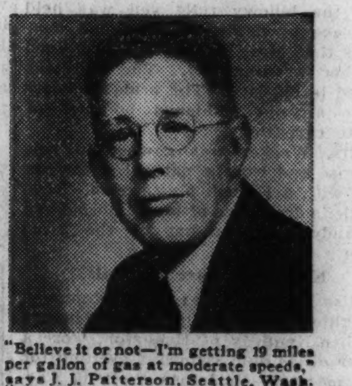
"I'm saving 15% on every dollar spent for lubrication," says P. H. Johnson, Scarsdale. "I'm getting 18½ miles per gallon—more than I ever got before."

"This smart Dodge has taken the Old South by storm," says Miss Virginia Cross, popular debutante, of Anniston, Ala. "It seems to be the favorite here."



"Believe it or not—I'm getting 19 miles per gallon of gas at moderate speeds," says J. J. Patterson, Seattle, Wash. "This Dodge must be Scotch."

Dodge, for third consecutive year, wins as fastest selling car in Cook County—and America—outside the lowest priced three. According to R. L. Polk official figures for first five months of 1935 Dodge outsells nearest competitor in Cook County by 363 cars.

FINANCIAL SETUP FIRST TASK FOR ISLAND AIRPORT

Legal Path Will Be Open When Horner Signs Bill.

With the bill giving Chicago authority to construct an island airport approved by the general assembly and awaiting the signature of Gov. Horner, the way appeared clear yesterday for the city to complete the local preparation necessary to qualify for a federal loan and grant for the $8,600,000 project.

Mayor Kelly, at his summer home in Eagle River, Wis., said yesterday that he would not outline his airport plans before Gov. Horner signed the measure. He withheld discussion of legislation, also passed Friday, which would give Chicago authority to conduct a permanent world's fair in Burnham park.

Tentative Plans Disclosed.

One of the first moves, however, according to previous assertions of the mayor, will be to present plans for the island airport to the city council, upon which will devolve the duty of shaping up the program and providing the necessary financial structure. The department of commerce has approved these preliminary plans for a flying field on "made land" off 16th street.

Mayor Kelly already has presented the island airport plan to Washington as a project to be carried out under the loan and grant terms of the Works Progress administration, which has been created to expend the $4,800,000,000 federal work relief fund.

On his return from Washington, after presenting the proposal, Mayor Kelly indicated that Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, favored the island airport as a work relief project, and that Washington officials considered that the airport will be self-liquidating and otherwise within WPA requirements.

Special Commission Likely.

First consideration of the final plans for the airport will consist of informal discussions with the city council members and business and civic leaders, Mayor Kelly has said. Then, it is probable that a commission will be named to complete the physical plans and draft the necessary financial set up.

The airport authority measure approved by the legislature would permit the Chicago park district to convey necessary lands to the city, would authorize the reclamation of land, and would provide for the issuance of bonds, redeemable out of the airport revenues. Mayor Kelly proposes to offer these bonds as collateral for a federal loan of $6,020,000, and to seek in addition an outright grant of $2,580,000.

City Council's View.

On May 22 the city council, by a vote of 40 to 2, indorsed the construction of an island airport. Such a flying field, the resolution said, would be within ten minutes of the loop business area, as compared with the fifty-five minute distance of the present Chicago airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue.

portation, the resolution pointed out.

"Construction of an island airport," the resolution said, "will make Chicago the air hub of the nation."

The present airport plans call for an island flying field of 200 acres, situated 1,600 feet straight east of Northerly Island, with the line of 16th street as its axis. It would be 5,800 feet east of the Illinois Central tracks, and 8,000 feet east of the first building line. Construction would be accomplished by dumping sand and cinders inside pilings and covering all with loam.

Safety a Major Factor.

Each of three main runways planned would be 3,500 feet long. Buildings would be only those necessary for fueling, temporary repairs, and handling passengers and freight. Construction engineers say that there would be no difficulties in building the island.

The Illinois aeronautics commission, in indorsing the island airport plan on May 26, pointed out that it would provide the safest field available to Chicago, and that it would not offer objectionable noise to the downtown area.

"Planes taking off from the port would gain sufficient altitude before reaching the city that the motor noises would be hardly noticeable on the ground," the commission said. "A landing field ten minutes from the loop will save immeasurable time, as compared with the present Chicago airport, and the safety factors are superior to land sites. The construction cost is as low, if not lower, as those for proposed improvements at the present airport."

The Chicago plan commission recently approved the airport proposal, reiterating its potential time saving and safety factors, and pointing out that it will help to make Chicago a world leader in the aviation industry.

LEGISLATIVE GROUP URGES ABOLISHING OF OFFICES TO CUT TAXES

Springfield, Ill., June 29.—(AP)—The report of a legislative retrenchment commission headed by Representative James T. Burns of Kankakee today recommended the abolition of a long list of state and county positions and the consolidation of governmental agencies.

Signed by a majority of the commission membership, it said:

"The greatest need of our citizens, the most vital reform is that of reducing the cost of government. . . .

"We believe the only hope of bringing about a reduction in the cost of state and local government lies in the organization of taxpayers in every township and county."

The Burns report was signed by Senators Harry C. Boeke and R. Wallace Karraker and Representatives Hugh W. Cross and Frank W. McClure.

Recommendations included: Abolishment of the office of lieutenant governor; giving the governor responsibility for the duties now vested in the secretary of state, superintendent of public instruction, and trustees of the University of Illinois; appointment by the Supreme court of its clerk, now elective, and elimination of numerous commissions.

Burns also made a long list of recommendations for reducing the cost of county, township, and municipal governments, most of them having been prevously ignored by the legislature in the report of the Griffenhagen survey two years ago.

WOMAN BEATEN BY GUNMEN AND ROBBED OF $805

Returning from the American National bank at La Salle and Washington streets with an $805 pay roll yesterday afternoon, Miss Lillian Marnitz, secretary of the Mid-West Mills, Inc., 1726 Arcade place, was halted by two armed and masked men in front of the company office. When she attempted to jerk the money bag away from them both gunmen beat her severely about the head and body.

Twelve young women employés inside heard her screams and summoned Leo Lasine, the vice president. Lasine snatched up a revolver, and with Harry Spiwack, jumped into his automobile, and pursued the robbers as they sped west to Wood street in their car. Turning south there, Lasine opend fire, and emptied the revolver at the gunmen, whose speedier car soon outdistanced their pursuers.

Miss Marnitz was treated by Dr. Mitchell Corbett, 1380 West Lake street, who said her condition was serious. He ordered her removed to a hospital.

Lauds Horner for Signing Civil Service Measure

Harry P. Chandler, president of the Civil Service Association of Chicago, declared yesterday that the signing by Gov. Horner of the bill extending the merit system to 15,000 employés of the sanitary district a "great forward step." He said that failure of the civil service bill for county employés was considered by the association which sponsored both measures, only a temporary setback. "The strong desire of the public to do away with the spoils system has been clearly shown," declared Mr. Chandler.

TURBULENT SIX MONTHS MARK 59TH ASSEMBLY

375 Bills Are Result of Deliberations.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 29.—[Special.]—Rather wearily members of the Fifty-ninth general assembly quit their desks tonight and looked back at the turbulent six months behind them.

This legislature probably will go down in the annals of the state as having pursued the most uneven course of any in recent years. It convened Jan. 9, worked briskly on a few emergency measures, then dropped into a lackadaisical pose which extended until mid-April.

With more than half its life expired, the session then leaped into a frantic struggle with the relief problem, and for five weeks the Hopkins bill—raising the sales tax to 3 per cent—was the the most contentious issue seen in Springfield for years.

Knuckle Down to Burocracy.

It was passed, finally, with a July 1 effective date, and over the objections of a Republican minority which protested against knuckling down to the demands of the Washington burocracy. Only then did the session get down to calm routine work.

Committee work proceeded without interruption for almost a month and then, two weeks ago, the last minute rush began. About 375 bills will be the product of the session. Gov. Horner will be studying, signing, vetoing, or allowing them to become laws for several weeks.

The 3 per cent sales tax goes into effect Monday. A companion measure applying the levy to public utility services but exempting sales of industrial power will also become law.

Pension Bill Signed.

Many of the members say that they believe the outstanding achievement of the session was passage of the $1 a day old age pension which will become effective Jan. 1. The governor signed it today, in the presence of the three sponsors—Representatives A. J. Prignano [Dem., Chicago], Dennis J. Collins [Rep., De Kalb], and F. J. Lenane [Dem., Quincy].

At the same time Mr. Horner said that a special session would be necessary to amend the law, before it becomes effective, to comply with the federal act. This session will probably be held in September, when the worst of the celebrated Springfield heat will have passed.

Other security legislation is expected to be proposed at this session and whatever bills the governor vetoes will be received and action perhaps taken to repass them over his veto. Which measures are likely to receive the gubernatorial axe cannot be predicted.

Bidwill's Seat Taken.

For the rest of the work done the session saw the unseating, allegedly for political purposes, of Senator Arthur J. Bidwill [Rep., River Forest], who was ousted by the Democratic majority, T. V. Smith, Chicago philosopher-senator, dissenting, and replaced by Charles F. Baumrucker [Dem., River Forest], a friend of the Nash family.

To balance this Republican labeled "outrage" the assembly passed the election consolidation bills which, by combining local, school, and park elections in Cook county, will save the taxpayers about $200,000 in a four year period. These measures await the governor's signature.

The mammoth insurance code, drawn by Ernest Palmer, director of insurance, was defeated in the senate today after being voted upon three times. It was approved in the house by a big vote.

Criminal Code Ditched.

A similar fate met the criminal code which the Illinois state bar association has introduced. It was tabled in the house and a bill to create a commission for its study died in the senate yesterday.

Chicago legislation fared exceptionally well. Mayor Kelly had a big program and with a few minor exceptions all the bills he sponsored passed.

Many of the important bills, however, have not reached the governor and there are many rumors that he will veto, and equally as many that he will not veto the handbook licensing bill and the permanent Chicago fair bills.

The mayor's utility home rule bill, granting the city regulatory powers over local transportation companies, passed as did bills pegging the city and school tax levies. A large favorable vote passed the lake front airport bill.

Legislation affecting marital relationship also was given good treatment. The anti-heart balm bill was a popular issue, being approved by both houses by substantial majorities. It becomes a law Monday.

Final approval was given in the senate today to the separate maintenance bill which would limit maintenance payments to two years for childless couples. The senate concurred in house amendments and the bill now goes to the governor.

Interest Rates Reduced.

Small loan interest rates were also ordered reduced by the assembly, the insurance department's bill being passed and sent yesterday to the governor.

But nothing was done on reapportionment, judicial, senatorial, or congressional. The women on juries bill was killed. Life of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission was extended for almost two years, and without change of administration. Efforts were made to secure passage of a bill amending the constitution and make way for an income tax but this, too, failed.

Leaders Review Session.

Democrats.

House Floor Leader Adamowski—"From the standpoint of the Democratic majority, the ending of the session brings to a close one of the most difficult and strenuous sessions ever held at Springfield. The minority, with few exceptions, began and continued throughout the entire session to use every power within its means to thwart the efforts of the majority and carried its program forward in a manner never before displayed.

"For political reasons and no other, measures nonpolitical in nature were blocked, delayed, and interfered with by every known method, as was evident from the fight directed against the relief program, which was necessary of enactment and should never have been made a political issue.

"In spite of continued delays and filibusters the majority has conducted itself in such a manner and with such efficiency and dispatch that virtually its entire program was enacted."

Republicans.

Senator Searcy—"A survey of the legislative session just concluded reveals that appropriations were at least as high as two years ago and probably higher. The appropriations of two years ago were $75,000,000 higher than in the final session under the Emmerson administration.

"Legislation for the city of Chicago held an unusually prominent position. About the only new departure was enactment of the old age pension law in principle, although adequate financial provision for its administration has not been made.

"The general assembly declined to enact statutes which many organizations of this state felt would insure more honest elections. It has definitly increased taxes, although there is certain mitigating legislation, backed by realty organizations, which may make the paying of taxes a little easier."

Condemns Handbook Bill.

House Floor Leader Leroy M. Green: "Legislation, for the first time in the history of this state, has been passed permitting the licensing of bookmaking in a part of the state, with the provision that half the proceeds from this vicious act shall go into the school fund. This legislation was backed by the Kelly-Nash crowd, and must be condemned by all right thinking people in the state.

"The session has been almost barren of much needed legislation in the interests of the public school system of the state. The best efforts of the minority to enforce the payment of the seven million dollars due the schools from the common school fund for the present biennium have met with opposition from the governor and administration crowd, and the bill has been defeated by them.

"On the whole this session has been dominated by outside influence, frequently the mayor of Chicago, and the chairman of the state Democratic committee, sitting on the platform at the speaker's side and dominating the actions of the Democratic side of the house, which has been followed by a small coterie of Republicans, for their own personal profit."

Education.

House Chairman W. O. Edwards—"The most important school legislation enacted by the 59th general assembly is as follows:

"The tax levy for Chicago for the year 1935 was pegged at $43,000,000 and for 1936 at $49,000,000. The Chicago working cash fund was liberalized and $4,000,000 was appropriated to the school fund of Chicago out of the gas tax alloted to the city. The Chicago teachers' pension law was amended to increase this rate to ½ mill and the pension from $1,000 to $1,200 and the rate for the downstate teachers' pension fund was increased from 3-20 to 1-5 of a mill.

"The four year average limitation on school district levies was eliminated. The non-high school district tax rate can be increased by referendum from 50 cents to 75 cents on the $100 assessed valuation. The salaries of county superintendents were restored to the old rate.

"By an amendment introduced, urged, and supported by Representative W. O. Edwards of Danville, the state school distributive fund was increased from $21,000,000 to $26,000,000 a year for the biennium, or an increase of $2,500,000 a year. The distribution law as amended to provide that districts may for the next two years claim $11 from the state for each pupil in average daily attendance, instead of $9 under the old law."

Motor Vehicles.

House Chairman John R. McSweeney: "The 59th general assembly, while it failed to pass the drivers' license and the financial responsibility bills, did make major contributions to the safety, pleasure, and utility of automotive transportation.

"The removal of the 45 mile an hour prima facie speed limit was an effective blow against speed traps and shake down cops. It will not increase the average pace of motor travel because the legal maximum, when the governor signs the bill, will be a rate consistent with the conditions of trafic, pavement and all environs. But motorists should no longer be subjected to fine or to solicitations for bribes as the result of driving faster than 45 where and when it is safe to do so.

"Ranking high as a safety measure is the new law authorizing municipalities to enact ordinances requiring periodical mechanical inspections of automobiles. Faulty brakes, steering devices, and tires contribute to the trafic toll.

"Another safety measure enacted by this session requires all passenger automobiles manufactured after Jan. 1, 1936, and sold in Illinois to be equipped with shatterproof glass, reducing the seriousness of injuries from trafic mishaps."

Economy.

Former House Chairman James T. Burns—"With reference to reducing the cost of government, this session of the general assembly is a complete failure. I was obliged by illness to be absent some three months, but I watched the proceedings of the legislature in newspapers and the record is blank as far as legislation in behalf of efficiency and economy in government is concerned. There is no issue more important than that of reducing taxation and I hope the governor will authorize and urge the legislature to enact legislation of this kind at the proposed special session."

Banking.

House Chairman Schaefer O'Neill—"By virtue of senate bill 532 state banks in Illinois will be given a new impetus and a better opportunity to compete with national banks. The bill accomplishes a number of important changes in our present archaic banking law.

"Most important among these is the provision limiting stockholders' liability. A decision of the Supreme court several years ago removed all limitations on stockholders' liability in the event of bank failure and under this decision, even though a stockholder had transferred his bank stock twenty years before the closing of the bank he might be liable to assessment in event of failure of the bank. The change limiting liability should add considerable value to stock in state banks.

Labor.

Representative R. G. Soderstrom, State Federation president—"The full crew bill was tortured to death in committees and subcommittees of both houses; unemployment insurance bills died in the house industrial affairs committee, the attempt made to secure general coverage for occupational diseases under the workmen's compensation act and to restore the health, safety, and comfort law in constitutional form after the Illinois Supreme court handed down its black Wednesday [April 17] decisions resulted in a complete turn down from the legislature. The five day week bill, state insurance fund bill, and prevailing rate of wage bill and proposed legislation designed to make anti-injunction legislation uniform with the federal Norris-La Guardia act also died in house committees. At the present moment the women's eight hour bill is awaiting final action in the Illinois senate."

"However, the old age pension bill adorns the statute books of Illinois. It was passed and signed. The same is true of the wage assignment bill and the one day of rest in seven measure.

Appropriations.

House Chairman James P. Boyle—"The administrations biennium appropriations were introduced at either the same amounts as requested in the 58th general assembly, or where absolutely necessary, slight increases were agreed to by the governor.

"After careful committee consideration a motion was passed unanimously to restore the 10 per cent salary cuts to all employés receiving $100 a month or less.

"The committee also by unanimous consent restored the 10 per cent cut to all union labor employés having labor agreements with the state, thus restoring the wage scale prevailing in similar occupations in private industry.

PLANS OF ILLINOIS TO SPEND 6 MILLION ON ROADS UP TO U. S.

Springfield, Ill., June 29.—(AP)—A program calling for the expenditure of $6,115,700 in federal aid road building today was forwarded to authorities at Washington by Ernst Lieberman, chief highway engineer.

The action was taken at the request of Gov. Horner in the effort to expedite extension of state bond issue routes included in the federal aid system. Under federal grants to be matched by the state, $10,321,392 is to be spent this year on state bond issue route extensions.

Projects listed in the initial program sent to Washington included work in 29 counties. Among them were:

Route 44, McHenry, Woodstock north, Woodstock to route 67, and route 67 to Huntley.

ROB LUMBER CO. OF $200.

Three robbers obtained $200 yesterday at the Bishop Lumber company, 2315 North Elston avenue. They forced the manager and a bookkeeper to lie on the floor.

RITCHIE WARNS NEW DEAL PERILS U. S. DEMOCRACY

Atlantic City, N. J., June 29.—[Special.]—Declaring that "American self-government is being destroyed before our eyes," former Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, a leading figure in the Democratic party, stirred delegates to the fortieth annual convention of the Maryland Bar association at a dinner here tonight with an attack on New Deal policies.

Mr. Ritchie was the leading speaker at the dinner, which closed the convention of the association in the hotel Ambassador.

The candidate for the presidential nomination at two Democratic national conventions and one-time leader in the drive for prohibition repeal called for loyalty to the United States constitution to prevent "an ultimate breakdown in our form of government.

"I am one of those who feel that the time is here now," Mr. Ritchie said, "when any one is entitled to disagree, if only he is conscientious about it, with much that comes out of Washington these days, and still be a good American and a good lawyer."

WOMAN TRIES SUICIDE.

Edwardsville, Ill., June 29.—[Special.]—Despondency over ill health is believed to have caused Mrs. Laura Dettmer, 53, to attempt to end her life here today when she fired a bullet from a twenty-two caliber pistol into her right temple. Doctors said she has little chance of recovery.

CHINESE PREPARE TO FIGHT JAPAN'S SHANTUNG PLANS

Fear New Nipponese Grab for Territory.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TSINAN, Capital of Shantung Province, China, June 29.—Shantung province, twice the objective of Japanese intervention, and the Shantung question, the chief cause of the United States' refusal to ratify the Versailles treaty following the world war, once more are in the limelight. Observers believe this province is scheduled shortly again to feel the weight of the imperial Japanese army.

Japanese commercial enterprises in Shantung, which supplanted Germany's development of the province prior to the world war, are now predominant. The Japanese have numerous cotton mills at Tsingtao; they have the controling investment in the Shantung railway, and they operate numerous coal mines.

The Japanese population in Tsingtao, chief port of Shantung, exceeds 12,000, and in Tsinan 2,000. A leading Japanese enterprise here is the operation of numerous drug stores which dispense narcotics.

Governor Tells His Fears.

Gen. Han Fu-chu, governor of Shantung, who has built 3,000 miles of motor roads and recently purchased 200 American trucks for use throughout the province, today said he believed the Tokio general staf has marked Shantung for attention after it has taken over Hopei and Chahar provinces.

Gen. Han was interviewed at his retreat at Lungtan, a Buddhist temple in the mountains 20 miles from Tsinan [which is also known as Licheng]. There he is conferring with officials sent here from all parts of the country in recognition that Shantung is the key position in the present crisis.

Gen. Han, a former subordinate of the "Christian general," Feng Yu-hsiang, once was an outstanding leader of the Kuominchun nationalist army which dominated north China prior to the nationalist revolution in 1927.

Threatens Red Revolution.

Gen. Feng is at another Confucian temple retreat on the sacred Mount Taishan, about 100 miles from here, where he is closely watching the situation. He is in hourly telephone communication with Gen. Han.

Gen. Han has four divisions of well equipped troops. For strategic reasons, he refused to indicate his intentions in event of Japanese intervention here. But he declared:

He indicated that neither he nor Gen. Feng is not sympathetic with the policy of peaceful submission to Japan. He said if Japan attacks he will withdraw to the mountains and resist.

"What does Japan want?" he inquired. "Why does the Japanese army attempt the conquest of north China when it is possible to obtain trade advantages in a peaceful manner? An intelligent Japanese should know that the Chinese people cannot surrender their land and if pressed too far will work out their resistance, possibly by reverting to red revolutionary methods."

Hints at Trouble in Japan.

Gen. Han said he believed Japan's present activity is intimately connected with a serious but yet unknown complication within the Japanese body politic.

The Japanese first intervened in Shantung in 1914, when they defeated a small German garrison at Tsingtao and extended their military occupation throughout the province. They maintained the position until forced to evacuate following the Washington conference of 1922. The Japanese army again interfered in Shantung in 1928, when it tried to block Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's and Gen. Feng's nationalist drive north from the Yangtze valley to Peiping. Gen. Chiang was forced to leave the railway and continue his advance through the mountains west of here. The Japanese remained in Shantung more than a year, but finally evacuated.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

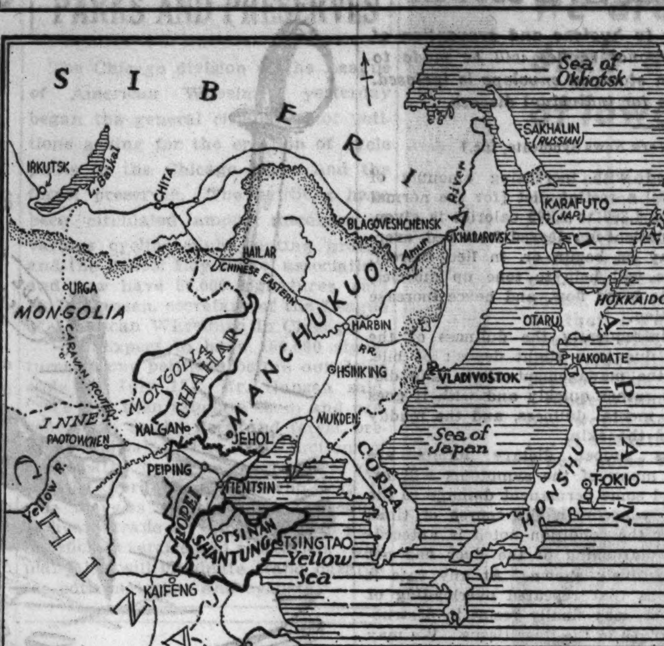
TIENTSIN, China, June 29.—Mutineers who seized an armored train and attacked Peiping yesterday organized the expedition within the Japanese concession at Tientsin, according to charges made here today. The attacking force was composed of from 200 to 500 Chinese and Coreans.

The local American newspaper Star said the attackers boarded a passenger train in Tientsin and paid their fares to Peiping.

The Star's account said the gang was the same group which recently had been distributing handbills here advocating the formation of an independent government in north China under Japanese protection.

As a result of pressure from the Japanese military chieftains, Chinese authorities at Peiping today clamped down the most drastic martial law and curfew regulations ever experienced in that city. The regulations prohibit all meetings of any nature and the publication of notices or advertisments regarded as "detrimental to peace and order" or referring to military movements. All persons are subject to search at any time and a rigid censorship is in force.

CHINESE FEAR NEW JAPANESE GRAB



Map shows Shantung province of China (enclosed by heavy line) which Chinese officials fear will be the next territory to be seized by the Japanese army. The Nipponese already are in control of most of the Chinese territory north of Shantung.

LATVIA CALLS IN ENVOYS FOR BIG 'POLICY' PARLEY

Debates Side to Take in Europe.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, June 29.—Thirteen minister, representing Latvia's entire staf of diplomats stationed in the capitals of Europe, met at the Riga foreign office today to compare notes and make reports on recent developments in European affairs.

This is the second time Latvia has gathered its foreign staf together since the country achieved independence seventeen years ago. Prime Minister Karl Ulmanis, former University of Nebraska lecturer, opened the conference by stressing the importance of the effect the diplomats' reports will have on Latvia's future foreign policy.

Discuss French Alliance.

The most important question under discussion, according to the ministers, was Latvia's attitude toward the present Franco-Russian-Czechoslovak alliance. Until now Latvia has remained noncommittal to the urgent invitations from Moscow and Paris to join the eastern pact, and also has ignored the equally pressing requests from Germany and Poland to join them in opposing it.

This little state's position in international politics is both delicate and complicated, since its neighbor, Estonia, to whom it is bound with a defensive alliance, is a warm friend of Poland, whereas its southern neighbor, Lithuania, is a warm friend of Russia and is involved in serious conflicts with both Poland and Germany.

Parley to Last Four Days.

The conference is expected to last four days and it is hoped a way will be found to strengthen the recently signed Baltic union between Latvia, Estonia, and Lithuania without involving it in the plots and alliances of the great powers.

GERMANY SHOWS NEW TANKS TO ARMY OFFICERS

BERLIN, June 29.—(AP)—The construction of military tanks is occupying the concentrated attention of the war ministry, it was learned today following the showing of new models to a group of officers on an unnamed army drill ground yesterday.

"There is nothing special to it," a ministry spokesman said. "Least of all is our acquisition of tanks secret. In arming, naturally we are also building tanks. Yesterday's exhibition was to acquaint officers, who had not seen the models, with this category of weapons."

He added that pictures of the various tank models would shortly be shown in the press but declined to divulge the number of tanks already built or under construction.

ENDURANCE FLYERS PERILED BY FLAMES ON THEIR 25TH DAY

Meridian, Miss., June 29.—[U. P.]—The endurance plane Ole Miss caught fire today while flying five miles from the Municipal airport, but the pilots, Al and Fred Key, quickly extinguished the blaze.

The brother pilots reported by radio that the fire was due to a short circuit. Damage was slight.

The brothers, in the air for twenty-five days, radioed that "We'll stay up until we're forced down." Ole Miss, which hung up an official refueling endurance record Thursday afternoon, showed no signs of quitting. After a walk around the motor on a swaying wing a mile above earth, Fred Key told an audience of 10,000 persons through airport amplifiers that "She's hummin' sweeter than ever."

At 11:30 p. m. [Chicago time] tonight the plane was in the air 610 hours. If they can stay up after 12:32 p. m. Monday they will have broken the unofficial record of 647 hours.

CHIEF OF GERMAN CHURCH AFFAIRS QUITS HIS POST

BERLIN, June 29.—(AP)—Dr. Rudolph Buttmanff, departmental chief of the Reich ministry of interior in charge of church affairs, retired from that post today—to the consternation of the Protestant opponents of Reichbishop Ludwig Mueller's church dictatorship.

Buttmanff was regarded by the anti-Mueller Protestants as a reasonable and conciliatory man who tried to bridge the chasm between the opposed forces. They fear that his successor, still undisclosed, will vigorously apply the Reich cabinet's decree concerning the legality of the Mueller church.

LIGHTNING FIRES DISTILLERY; LOSS PUT AT $350,000

Philadelphia, Pa., June 29.—[Special.]—Explosions and fire resulting from a bolt of lightning destroyed seven buildings at the southwest Philadelphia plant of the Empire Distilling company tonight. The loss was $350,000.

Firemen saved 400,000 gallons of alcohol, but more than 600,000 gallons valued at $150,000 were burned. Several firemen were overcome by smoke and fumes.

Only six of the 40 employés were in the plant at the time of the first explosion.

5 Bandits Line 30 Against Wall and Flee with $400

Thirty employés of the Cameron Surgical Specialty company, 666 West Division street, were lined against the wall of the shop yesterday by five bandits who then forced the manager, L. G. Holcombe, 11541 Wallace street, to open the safe, from which they obtained $400.

GOEBBELS FLAYS JEW, CATHOLIC AND PROTESTANT

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 29.—On the eve of the anniversary of last year's "blood purge" in which 77 men, most of them Storm Troopers, died, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler summoned all governors of provinces to a conference in Munich. At the same time Minister of Propaganda Paul Joseph Goebbels called together all the officials of the Nazi party organizations of Berlin for the annual Storm Troop parade and rally. The need of blind obedience to the fuehrer as well as the denunciation of threats to capitalism, Jews, Catholics, and Protestant pastors opposed to Nazi control, were features of vigorous speeches.

For those Storm Troopers who were "downcast by the memory of last year's happening," Victor Lutze, Storm Troop leader, issued this order of the day:

"The man who no longer believes in his mission is lost. The anthem of the Storm Troopers starts with the words: 'Hoist the Flag.'" 120,000 March in Review.

Goebbels first addressed the party functionaries in the Sports palace and then spoke to another gathering of 120,000 party members who marched in review and other thousands who viewed the procession at the Tempelhof airdrome.

Since Berlin is the chief labor center of Germany with its million workers, Goebbels paid homage to them. They cheered when he warned the capitalists not to believe that the Nazis "are the protectors of the safes of the industrialists and the owners of valuable stocks."

He assured the workers the Nazis would not tolerate wage cuts and said they would not allow prices to rise. The crowd was silent at this point because prices for all necessities have increased tremendously in the last twelve months. In a city like Cologne, financial difficulties are so great that the municipality was proclaimed a distressed area in which all relief payments were reduced. Goebbels did not mention this fact.

Goebbels Attacks Jews.

While the official propaganda against the Jews ceased when the Germans were negotiating for a better understanding with the British government in London, Goebbels shouted:

"We do not want Jews in our community. They have nothing in common with us. They have no right to act as if they were our equals. Some people say they are human, too, but what kind of humans? The flea ranks as an animal but it is an unpleasant one."

All lamp posts and trees lining the street from the center of Berlin to Tempelhof field were plastered with huge posters caricaturing Jews.

Referring to the conflict within the Protestant church, the minister of propaganda branded the pastors who oppose the Nazi church dictatorship as "quarrelsome market hags."

"We Nazis are better Christians than all the pastors," he declared, "because we feed the hungry and give lodging to the destitute. The pastors only helped in relief work in order not to be outdistanced by us."

Warning to Pastors.

Goebbels warned the clergymen that unless they made peace soon the government would "help them along."

"If I were the Lord I would pick out better spokesmen than the German pastors," he shouted.

The Catholics he branded as "bedfellows of international Marxists."

Goebbels closed by advising workers not to expect too much from the government, but to coöperate with Hitler, "whom the world has listened to because he is always right; we are proud of being his political soldiers."

SUICIDE VERDICT IN PLUNGE.

A verdict of suicide while despondent over ill health was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the death of Mrs. Edith L. Nelson, 29 years old, of Blanchardville, Wis., who plunged from a window on the 18th floor of the 30 North Michigan avenue building Friday.

MUSSOLINI PRESENTS PLANE LIKE HIS OWN TO CHIEF OF CHINA

ROME, June 29.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini's gift airplane to Marshal Chiang Kai-Shek, Chinese dictator, will be identical with the one in which Il Duce makes his political flights over Italian territory. The plane will leave Montecelio airdrome soon for delivery. Mussolini will select two of his ace flyers to pilot the plane to China, where, it is expected, they will remain as aviation instructors.

RUSSIA CHARGES JAPANESE WITH THREE INVASIONS

MOSCOW, June 29.—(AP)—Official Russian news agency dispatches today charged Japanese and Manchukuan infantry, cavalry and gunboats with three new violations of the Siberian-Manchukuan frontier, despite recent protests against similar incidents lodged at Tokio June 11.

The Tass agency reported from Blagoveschensk that two gunboats, the Sungteng and Yangming, penetrated the Amur river into soviet territory Thursday, despite warning signals from soviet frontier cutters.

The other two earlier violations, the agency said, occurred near Khabarovsk on June 23, when 40 infantrymen first advanced several hundred meters into soviet territory.

Fire in Garage on North Side Causes $4,000 Loss

Fire which did damage estimated at $4,000 broke out early this morning in the rear room of the Melrose garage, 3218 Broadway, and a 3-11 alarm was turned in when firemen feared the blaze might spread to tanks of gasoline in the place. The blaze started when a car to be serviced with oil and gasoline was left in gear by its owner, and crashed against a rear wall.

SPAIN ROUNDS UP TERRORISTS IN WAR UPON CRIME

War Chief Leads Drive in Barcelona.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BARCELONA, June 29.—José Maria Gil Robles, Spanish minister of war, today launched a campaign to suppress a wave of lawlessness which has had the population of Catalonia in a state of terror for several weeks.

The war minister, who is also Spain's clerical leader, arrived here today upon orders of the cabinet in Madrid, which proclaimed martial law in Catalonia. He immediately sent troops out to round up all known anarchists, terrorists, and other lawbreakers for trial by court-martial. Robles was accompanied here by Minister of Interior Manuel Portela, who disagrees with the government's policies on many points and who apparently was sent to act as a brake on the youthful and impulsive minister of war.

Terrorists Burn Street Cars.

Robles' mission is not to repress any new attempt to set up an independent state in this section of the Mediterranean coast, but to save what is left of the public transportation system in Barcelona. Anarchist incendiaries have set fire to many street cars and auto buses here in recent months.

Premier Alejandro Lerroux and his ministers were stimulated into action by a dramatic spectacle in Barcelona late Thursday night, which was witnessed by thousands of persons sitting on the terraces of cafés. A blazing street car rushed at high speed down a main street and crashed into the central telephone exchange. Quick work by firemen saved the exchange building.

Three Buses Burned.

Last night three auto buses were burned. Armed and masked men ordered the occupants out before burning the buses.

Last week a street car was set on fire after having been drenched with gasoline and put into motion near the top of Tibidade mountain, which looms over Barcelona. The car dashed down into the city, spreading panic.

PICKETS RIOT IN OKLAHOMA ZINC WALKOUT

Galena, Kas., June 29.—(AP)—Fighting broke out in picket lines in the strike troubled lead and zinc mines of northeastern Oklahoma today as order was restored by National Guardsmen in the Kansas sector of the tri-state field.

Gov. E. W. Marland ordered 10 of his 12 state highway patrolmen to the Oklahoma area of the Missouri-Kansas-Oklahoma field.

Seven workers arrested after a clash with pickets at Picher were charged with rioting. They pleaded innocent and bonds were set at $1,000 each.

Approximately 200 Kansas National Guardsmen patroled the streets of Galena and guarded the Eagle-Picher Mining and Smelting company after rescuing 28 besieged company guards who had been fired on intermittently through last night.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

THE WASHINGTON MUDDLE.

Mr. Roosevelt has reduced his congressional supporters to utter bewilderment. Senator Harrison and Senator Robinson can't trust their own understanding. They thought the President's mind had been made clear to them. They had asked Mr. Roosevelt when he wanted his share-the-wealth tax bill passed. They conveyed his decision to congress. The socializing tax scheme was to be attached to the nuisance tax extension resolution and put through at once. The senators did not like the job, but they returned to Capitol hill prepared to obey. Now Mr. Roosevelt says they did not get his meaning at all. He implies that it was preposterous for them to think he wanted his leveling tax bill passed in such fashion.

The senators must conclude that they cannot understand the spoken word. Their predicament, although humiliating, can be observed without much sympathy. Congress is responsible for its own present condition. No one could doubt that Mr. Roosevelt had asked for immediate action. Secretary Morgenthau had the bill ready. Congress is no longer a deliberative body. It is a stamping device. It is merely an office of record. Its procedure is a formality. It is the fault of congress itself that it is a Hitler parliament.

Mr. Roosevelt has said that he is not interested in the revenue but in the social purposes of the taxes. It was extraordinary that these social purposes should receive no consideration before they were expressed in law, but ever since the Supreme court decisions there has been agitation in the White House and extraordinary things have increased in number. Mr. Roosevelt apparently has been acting on impulses. The court decisions drew from him some remarkable statements about changing the form of government and reducing the states to geographical divisions. That soured on the southern members of his party.

He then drew attention in another direction by taking Huey Long's platform away from him. The redistribution of wealth message suddenly bounced into congress. Long submitted with the best grace he could, but only temporarily. When the details of the Roosevelt program were revealed the Louisianian knew that he could wait his time. The Bankhead farm bill proposed a distribution of a billion dollars, to one class of citizens. The work relief program has five billions. Everything talks billions in Washington. Mr. Roosevelt's social equalization taxes came to an estimated yield of 340 millions. In Washington that is pin money. A few experimental farms or power sites could eat it up and not be satisfied.

Long knew then he was not deflated, but another radical disturbed the White House. Mr. Roosevelt had not said when he proposed to start leveling. La Follette took the play away. The President found that the Wisconsin senator was out in front, intending to do it at once. Mr. Roosevelt started to deflate La Follette and that led to the confusion of senate Democrats who thought they knew what their commander-in-chief wanted them to do.

These episodes indicate precarious government, unstable, uncertain, and unconsidered. Accustomed as the country has become to snap judgment, it must find the new turn of affairs alarming. Has Mr. Roosevelt reached a political decision that it is necessary to stop every radical and extremist by taking his stuff from him and using it himself? If so he has lost all control. The other fellow will always succeed in going him one better.

BETRAYERS OF LIBERALISM.

A congress of writers of liberal and radical persuasion or doctrins is meeting in Paris. The association includes authors of international note, such as Maxim Gorki and Andre Gide, communists, and bourgeoisie like Feuchtwanger, Mann, and Salvemini. The assembly agreed that occidental culture of the liberal type is going to survive, at least for some time, and that this culture depends upon free speech and a free press. Fascism was selected as the enemy of western culture and a rich irony was imported into the discussion by the plea of the Austrian communist, Regler, for resistance to tyranny. The Frenchman, Gide, and the Briton, Forster, evidently felt the need of explanation and argued that as communism wishes to broaden the basis of culture its record in Russia ought not dismiss it from the ranks of the champions of western liberal culture.

The complaisancy of self-styled liberals toward soviet methods and ideas of government is one of the peculiar phenomena of our time. Real believers in democracy can be no more enthusiastic over the alleged communism of the present ruling forces in Russia than over Fascism. The bolshevik tyranny was established through a slaughter of dissenters which makes the casualties in the Fascist and Nazi revolutions seem almost mild. It has maintained itself for years by a ghastly terrorism, by the persistent persecution on flimsiest grounds of alleged opponents of its rule, by a suppression of freedom of utterance by speech or writing fully as complete as the Fascist and Nazi régimes have attempted, and by an army which ranks among the chief military instruments of the world.

Notwithstanding this record of human misery and destruction, because the propagandists of sovietism assert devotion to the uplifting of the masses our liberals always show a sneaking approval and direct their indignation upon other forms of dictatorship. Liberalism, at least in America, where it can afford to be consistent and stalwart, and once was, has made itself contemptible by its gullibility and by its failure to stand by its principles. No real liberal would show or could feel the friendliness our miscalled intelligentsia show and presumably feel for a régime which scorns his principles, which has destroyed the freedom of the individual and washed away every vestige of liberalism in a torrent of blood. Liberalism which excuses the bolshevik tyranny cannot hide its folly behind tirades against Mussolini and Hitler or justify its coöperation with communists in America or its support of the effort to substitute for free institutions the system of government rule which Roosevelt and his intimates are trying to establish. Liberalism in the keeping of the self-styled liberals of America today is bankrupt and self-stultified. If the essentials of liberal culture are to be saved it will not be by liberals who have deserted liberalism and are betraying it.

LIBERTY AND THE SUPREME COURT.

Recent generations of Americans have taken the system of government under which they and their predecessors have lived pretty much for granted, like the air they breathe. But this system is now exposed to the most formidable attack in its history, by men who take advantage of the tribulations of recent years to declare the system a failure, to be replaced by something better, devised by themselves. It is, therefore, advisable to examine what it is we are invited to discard before it is destroyed. The opinion of Chief Justice Marshall in the case of Marbury vs. Madison, perhaps the most momentous decision of the court's history, deserves rereading in view of the current proposals to deprive the court of its power to declare invalid any act contrary to the constitution.

"That the people have an original right," said Marshall, "to establish for their future government such principles as, in their opinion, shall most conduce to their happines, is the basis on which the whole American fabric has been erected. The exercise of this original right is a very great exertion, nor can it nor ought it to be frequently repeated."

This theory does not preclude the deliberate abandonment of any of the fundamental principles and institutions which make up our form of government. Marshall and the great statesmen who framed this form believed they were of permanent validity. The New Deal thinks they are outworn. But they are in the constitution and it is the highest function of the Supreme court to protect them while they are there. Without this barrier they long ago would have been destroyed by temporary majorities, responding to impulses of the moment or the insidious attacks of reformers like the New Dealers who want some other form of government. It is essential that the rights and principles embodied in the constitution shall be the supreme law of the land, but it cannot be supreme if an act passed by congress can overrule it. It is the function of the Supreme court to determine whether an act is consistent with the supreme law.

The performance of this duty has been called a usurpation by the court because there is no explicit grant of power in the constitution. Marshall showed that it was an essential of our system and therefore required no explicit grant. The contrary doctrin, as he pointed out, would "subvert the very foundation of all written constitutions. It would declare that an act which, according to the principles and theory of our government, is entirely void is yet in practice completely obligatory. . . . It would be giving to the legislature a practical and real omnipotence with the same breath which professes to restrict its powers."

Marshall gives some significant illustrations, as: "The constitution declares 'that no bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed.' If, however, such a bill should be passed, and a person should be prosecuted under it, must the court condemn to death those victims whom the constitution endeavors to preserve? 'No person,' says the constitution, 'shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.' Here the language of the constitution is addressed especially to the court. It prescribes, directly for them, a rule of evidence not to be departed from. If the legislature should change that rule and declare one witness or a confession out of court sufficient for conviction, must the constitutional principle yield to the legislative act?"

The guaranty of freedom of worship and in fact all the bill of rights would be subject to the same danger.

The constitution is, in fact, as Marshall pointed out, an instrument for the rule of the courts as well as of the legislature, and, we may add, of the executive. In short, it not merely frames a form of government but limits its powers.

OPEN LETTER.

[Petersburg, Ill., Observer.]

An open letter to Quin Ryan, announcer, radio station W-G-N: Dear Sir—Your broadcast of the ceremonies at New Salem State park Sunday afternoon was fine. You did a swell job of it, as usual. But I have one criticism to offer: We people who live at Petersburg are justly proud of the state park. We feel that it was largely through our efforts that there is a New Salem State park, since the land was donated by a group of civic minded Petersburg people who induced the state to accept the tract and make it into a state park. Of course we have no real objection to your saying "New Salem State park, thirty miles west of Springfield," but how would you feel if a New York radio announcer described Soldiers' field as being "ten miles east of Cicero"? Not that I mean that Cicero and Springfield have anything in common, but you know what I mean, don't you? I know how Springfield people feel about it. They are sorry that Lincoln chose New Salem as a place to live rather than Springfield. And who can blame them? Of course he did live there later and they are justly grateful for that fact because if Lincoln had not lived there and been instrumental in having the state capital moved to Springfield, in all probability Springfield today would be a small town, boasting not more than three or four saloons instead of having one for each two members of the legislature, as well as other things. But what I started to say was, will you please, the next time you come to Petersburg and broadcast, just mention us once? You can't miss the place; it's that clean town just before you get to the park, and really, Mr. Ryan, we're just as proud of it as can be.

THE CAREER OF RAMSAY MACDONALD

BY JOHN STEELE.
London Correspondent of The Tribune.

Ramsay MacDonald is no longer prime minister of Britain. It is true he has not yet retired from politics and may still have a great part to play in history, but already efforts are being made to assess his position in the minds of posterity. Will he go down in history as a great statesman, or a great demagog, or as both, for the rôles are not always incompatible? Some there are who think that he will be remembered as the demagog turned statesman, and that, I think, is today the more widely held opinion.

That MacDonald ever was a demagog in the opprobrious sense of the term is, however, doubtful. If demagoguery means pandering weakly to the desires and prejudices of the multitude he certainly never was. There never was a democratic leader more aloof from his following and more scornful of the cheaper tricks that win popularity. He was a Socialist, it is true, and still is. Whether his socialism has changed much in nature is a moot point. He would tell you his beliefs are the same that they always were. Some of his old colleagues call him traitor, just as the great majority of the English people called him traitor in the early days of the war when he opposed Britain's entry, hampered recruiting, and fought against conscription. He was called a pacifist and he was, but that does not mean that he condemns all war. He did think, however, that the war with Germany was wrong and unnecessary. Whether he has changed his mind about that since no one knows, for he has never told. That his pacifism has limits, however, was demonstrated to me when I accompanied him to Washington in 1929, on his way to confer with President Hoover on naval limitation. Walking with him on the deck of the Berengaria I made some remark, now forgotten, about disarmament. He turned sharply, banged his right fist into his left palm, and exclaimed: "Don't for a moment think that I am going to leave myself disarmed to be attacked by any Tom, Dick, or Harry."

Similarly in politics. Usually MacDonald was all for compromise, but when an issue which he believed to be fundamental was at stake he could fight and fight hard, and he always had unlimited courage.

That courage was demonstrated in the highest degree twice in his political career. The first time was in his "traitor" days, when he opposed the war in which his country was engaged. He was then leader of the Labor party, which had not yet come to power but was in sight of what it afterward attained. Taking his courage in his hands MacDonald took the unpopular line which he believed to be right. He was thrown out of parliament. British seamen refused to work on a ship on which he wished to sail to a conference in Scandinavia. His party was wrecked and his closest associates deserted him and joined the then national government. It seemed then as if his career was ended. But less than ten years later he was prime minister of England, and he now retires after having held the office for the longest continuous period since Asquith, whose long tenure of the office began before the war and lasted through its first years. Today the ex-"traitor" gives up Britain's highest office amid the plaudits of men of all parties, and with the credit of having saved the state from financial and economic disaster.

This was the second occasion on which he displayed his unexampled courage. His second term as prime minister had run just over two years, from June, 1929, to August, 1931. Then came the great financial crisis of that year. Unemployment was growing, the pound was tottering, taxation seemed to have reached the limit, and the budget was unbalanced. At the treasury as chancellor of the exchequer was MacDonald's friend, Philip Snowden, a moderate Socialist and a good financier. The business men and financiers of the city of London told Snowden that British credit was in danger. Loans were needed to carry on in the face of an unbalanced budget, and America, which then was looked to for the supply of loans, refused unless British finances were put in order. There was only one way to do it—to cut expenditure and increase taxation. Two more unpopular expedients could not be thought of, but MacDonald accepted both and almost carried his Labor cabinet with him.

Cuts in the salaries of all public servants were agreed to and new taxes were approved, but at the last moment the governing committee of the Trade Union congress—the British equivalent of the American Federation of Labor—refused to countenance the cut in the dole to the unemployed, and the trade union members of the cabinet, led by Arthur Henderson, walked out on the prime minister and the few members who stood by him. He saw the work of his life ruined unless he yielded to Trade Union dictation, but he took the brave decision to risk all and, with the active aid of the king, who has always had a high regard for him, he succeeded in forming the National government, which is composed chiefly of Tories but includes the Laborites who stuck by him, and most of the Liberals. It is this government which is now being reconstituted and continued after his retirement from the premiership, in which he continues in a less arduous office.

That Britain admires courage is shown by the fact that in the election which shortly followed the constitution of the National government he increased his majority in Seaham Harbour, a constituency which was strongly Laborite and in which he had the bitterest opposition from the official Labor party, which claimed that he had deserted it but which he claimed had deserted him. Even a more striking example was the success at the same election of his son, Malcolm, in a 90 per cent Labor constituency, where he was fighting a forlorn hope. So hopeless did the fight seem that none of the constituent parties of the National coalition wasted a speaker on "poor Malcolm." Only his sister Ishbel went down from London to speak for him. When the votes were counted he had the largest majority in England. Now he enters the cabinet with his father, as colonial secretary.

All this may explain to some extent how, when about 60 years old, this Socialist agitator who had cheered the soviets on their inception and urged England to follow their example found grace, like Paul on his way to Damascus. The explanation, I think, is that the man has hardly changed at all, but circumstances have, and he has found it necessary to adapt his performance to circumstances without giving up his principles. American readers, when thinking of Socialists, generally visualize the wild Marxians of Russia or the communists of France and Italy. That brand of socialism has never flourished in England. The true fathers of British socialism were Owen and Morris, not Marx and Bakunin. It has been a kindlier creed than the "class struggle" of the continent of Europe and has stressed reform rather than revolution. If occasionally it has been carried away to revolutionary expression by sympathy with events abroad, it soon returned to sanity and hard work for piecemeal reform in public administration for the benefit of the poor and the workers. I have heard Snowden, for instance, at a luncheon table denounce as confiscatory certain rates of death duties which were suggested by a Tory and a Liberal, respectively, and sound finance has always been one of the key planks of the British Socialist platform. That this was abandoned in 1931 by the Trade Union leaders was due to their cowardly unwillingness to face the unpopularity of cutting the dole. Another factor which is not generally appreciated is that British socialism is essentially Christian. In Russia, Germany, France, Italy, and everywhere on the continent of Europe socialism is atheistic and antireligious. "No God, No Master" was Bakunin's slogan. In England MacDonald is a good Presbyterian, Henderson a Methodist lay preacher, Snowden a Baptist who once contemplated entering the ministry, and George Lansbury, now official leader of the Labor party, is a most devout Anglo-Catholic.

It will be seen then that with MacDonald's background his "conversion," if so it can be called, was not a very radical one. He has never been an advocate of the class struggle. He has never been an internationalist. He has always been a believer in sound finance. If as leader of his party in the earlier days he was betrayed by the excitement of political campaigning into occasional extremity of statement, he atoned for this in conservatism in action, and when he found that the only way to assure national security and sound finance was to throw over his party he did so—it would not be fair to say without hesitation, for the step cost him much sorrow—but without wavering from the path of patriotism which he set for himself.

Once embarked on the new road, he sank many of his previous predilections. As Labor party leader he had been pledged to free trade. As National leader he introduced protection. He accepted both tarifs and quotas. He reorganized agriculture, shipping, and the iron and steel industries without abolishing their capitalistic character, but eliminating the worst abuses of unrestrained competition. The whole system of relief of the poor has been overhauled and placed on a sound basis, with the result that more relief is available for those who need it at less cost to the nation, while those who don't need it are eliminated. The biggest campaign for house building and slum clearance in British history has been launched and more than half carried out, so that Baldwin in his first speech as prime minister was able to boast that in five years' time the last slum would have disappeared from Britain.

MacDonald retires from the premiership a much bigger figure in the public eye than when he entered it. He has, of course, learned and grown with experience, but it is doubtful if he has changed in any essential or if in similar circumstances and with similar information or lack of it at his command he would act differently in the future. Maybe his greatest monument will be India. It was in his administraton and under his urging that the great India bill was passed which may set India on the road to becoming an independent and contented unit in the British commonwealth of nations.

No sketch of MacDonald's career would be complete without a word or two about his personal charm, for that has been a great asset in his career. He is a handsome man and has a melodious voice, which he can use to great effect both on the public platform and in private conversation. The manners of the barefoot boy from Lossiemouth grown prime minister are those of a grand seigneur. Immediately on his elevation to the premiership he became the darling of the London drawing rooms and found indeed great difficulty in cutting down his list of invitations to a size that would not interfere with his work. Among his closest friends are the marquis and marchioness of Londonderry. The marquis is a great territorial magnate and the marchioness London's greatest political hostess, and in her youth London's reigning beauty. Next perhaps among his intimates is Jim Thomas, ex-railway engine cleaner, and his wife. His personal friendship with Snowden, though strained when Snowden left the National government over free trade, has never been broken.

Whatever posterity finally decides about MacDonald, he will not be forgotten. For good or ill, he has been one of Britain's most outstanding prime ministers.

How to Keep Well ◆◆◆

ARE YOU "LIVERISH"?

A FAIRLY high percentage of those who visit physicians and who relate their symptoms begin with the remark, "Well, doctor, my liver is out of order." On investigation this self-diagnosis is found to represent more than a score of conditions, most of which have nothing whatever to do with the liver. The patient will usually mention loss of appetite, constipation, dull headaches, a tired feeling, bloating after meals, rumblings in the stomach, and a "dark brown" taste in the mouth. He may conclude the recital with, "You see, doctor, I am liverish."

When the physician obtains a history of the case the patient may disclose the fact that the chain of symptoms has existed for a year or more; that laxatives have been employed frequently, yet the symptoms remain.

There is usually a markedly furred tongue, the eyes are dull, and the pulse is slow and of poor quality. Sometimes a slight enlargement of the liver is found. This may be due to alcohol, to infections, or to food poisoning.

More often than not the symptoms are directly traceable to overeating, lack of exercise, and constipation. In other words, these individuals come to the physician for the correction of nothing but bad habits. Late hours and too little sleep frequently complicate the picture.

The treatment is starvation, rest, heat to the abdomen, and the correction of constipation. As a rule recovery follows complete rest in bed, with nothing by mouth except water, lemonade sweetened with glucose, or weak tea. This is continued for 48 hours, during which period under good mouth hygiene the tongue clears, foul breath disappears, the dull headache vanishes, and the patient feels and looks rested. Generally no special attention need be given the bowels, although a laxative may be necessary if constipation is obstinate.

After restoration of the normal functions of the digestive tract, which will be accomplished by the rest régime, the patient must raise his right hand and firmly resolve to revise his eating habits. He must reduce the total amount consumed to conform to body needs, increase exercise, and make certain that at least one normal bowel evacuation occurs each day.

Whenever more food than can be burned is taken the liver may become congested and swollen. Fortunately, however, the liver cells themselves suffer little damage. After a few days of the starvation noted above the liver may be tested with increasing amounts of food until a resting diet [for the normal adult] of 1,800 to 2,400 calories is given. As the patient is released from bed, exercise may be begun or, in lieu thereof, massage will help to tone up muscles, stimulate blood flow, and hence increase elimination.

Not infrequently the dullness of the eyes is due to a slight deposit of bile. Under the management above this disappears rather quickly and with it goes fatigue, mental dullness, and the muddy color of the skin.

Unless proper dietary habits are formed many of the symptoms will return and some permanent damage to the liver may occur in the course of time. Whether the condition noted is antecedent to hardening of the liver has not been positively shown. At any rate it is obvious that repeated overloading of this organ may finally result in destructive changes in the liver tissue. We may avoid "liverishness" if we will.

FOUR QUESTIONS.

C. J. M. writes: 1. Is there other than the ulcerative type of tuberculosis in humans? 2. What are the prospects of a woman surviving pregnancy who had a thoracoplasty three years ago? 3. Why is it that some patients with tuberculosis run a higher temperature in the morning, and normal in the afternoon? 4. Is a fair sized hemorrhage in a child 10 years old of more significance than in an adult?

REPLY:

1. I presume you refer to tuberculosis of the lungs. There are several other types. The term ulcerative is frequently used to refer to active tuberculosis that has not healed.

2. Fair to good, depending on the extent of healing. As a rule, pregnancy and tuberculosis are not friends. The developing fetus demands too much from the mother. In active tuberculosis pregnancy is definitly interdicted.

3. The part of the day in which the temperature is higher is usually toward evening. It simply means that toxins have accumulated in the blood in greater concentration at this time. Whenever the toxin peak is reached the temperature will follow along.

4. The size of the hemorrhage may not indicate the extent of the disease in a child or in an adult.

NO HOME TREATMENT.

Mrs. A. E. W. describes a case of seborrheic warts and asks for home treatment.

REPLY:

There is no home treatment that can be recommended. The lesions are best removed by means of an electric needle in the hands of a competent operator.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AUCKLAND, New Zealand. — New Zealand, a country which has waged as stern a war against communism as any land and which has intensified its drive against extreme radicals in the last year, has just been the subject of one of the greatest jokes in her history. She sent off Prime Minister George W. Forbes to London with a communist as secretary and adviser.

Prime Minister Forbes is in London to attend the celebrations of King George's silver jubilee and to discuss with the British government the future policy of meat imports by Britain. The decision of the British to impose an import levy on New Zealand meat has not ended the year long wrangle between that country and her dominions on the subject of trade rights. New Zealand and Australia now fear that the determination to impose a levy may be followed by the old plan of limiting importations of meat from the antipodes to a stated quota. In that case levy and quota together would bring ruin to one of the most important of southern hemisphere industries and result in a crisis within the two countries.

Thus the task of Prime Minister Forbes is seen by the public of New Zealand as of first importance. With Forbes, by some unexplained series of events, there has been sent no trained economist, but a former newspaper man, H. Ive Forde. Forde, it seems, proceeded to England in order to study at London university, the famous home of international radicalism in Britain. He comes of a family whose activities in the interests of labor in New Zealand have become fairly well known. The thing which the prime minister and his advisers apparently did not know was that Forde had turned from service in the fields of labor to outspoken advocacy and defense of communism.

Conservative students of London university are reported to have been astonished when the government which recently attacked universities for their alleged tendency to nourish radical opinions chose to send on a mission with the prime minister one of the most outspoken of radicals.

It is obvious the government could have known nothing of the opinions of the man whom they chose to represent them at the meat conferences. Nevertheless, the fact that they have been placed in the position of aiding the career of Forde, who has gone to England to make further research into political and economic affairs, is held to be the greatest jest of the year.

As a final touch to the picture comes the fact that Forde is not even a graduate of any university in the country and was appointed economic secretary to the prime minister when other economists, who have served on important commissions, and one of whom recently was appointed as permanent adviser to the government, are left behind. In the opinion of these economists, the appointmert is incomprehensible.

JOINT TENANCY PROPERTY.

Chicago, June 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If property is held in joint tenancy is it necessary for a lease, covering rental of a portion of the property, to be signed by both parties? 2. If it is signed by only one party [husband] is it invalid? 3. If it is invalid can it be broken by the other party in joint tenancy? 4. What steps are necessary?
G. J. E.

1. The tenant would not be in a position to question the title of the landlord with whom he dealt, if that is what you mean to ask.

2. See 1.

3. Section 23 of the article on joint tenancy in corpus juris is in part as follows: "A lease of the joint property can be made only by the act of all the co-tenants joining therein. If such a lease is made by one only of the joint tenants without his cotenant's authority or consent, it is not binding on them, but it is valid as against every one else and will enable the lessee to recover possession of the entire premises, as against any one except a co-tenant, who wrongfully withholds the same."

PROPERTY LINES.

Chicago, June 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is there a law in Chicago prohibiting the erection of a wire fence around the parkway in front of an apartment building from the outer edge of the sidewalk to the curb?
E. J. S.

In most cases the property line extends only to the sidewalk. This would mean that the private owner would have no more right to place a fence in the parkway than on any other property that did not belong to him.

GOLFING IN THE PARK.

Chicago, June 24.—Last Sunday we walked down to the north course in Lincoln park with the idea in mind of playing a pleasant nine holes of golf. We had expected to have to wait for an hour or two before we could tee off, but instead when we arrived there at 9:45 a. m. we were told that we would not be able to tee off until 4 p. m. Upon asking why it would be so long before we could play we were told that registration for that day had been open for one full week. Naturally we left.

Some of us are not so fortunate as to know just when we shall be able to play. I request that the method of registration be changed to that which formerly prevailed. Allow registration only for the one day which is in progress, and request that each person registering show his or her clubs so that it may be readily ascertainable whether or not it is the idea of the person registering to play at the time of the first opening available.

It may be better business policy to allow registration as they are now doing, but it is emphatically not public service!

LOW COST HOUSING.

Chicago, June 24. — Quoting from THE TRIBUNE cartoon of June 20 on Purdue university's activities in low cost housing:

"The whole enterprise carried to completion without government help or assistance from the building materials companies."

Purdue university has asked the cooperation of the building materials industries, and without the knowledge, skill, and commercial drive from these industries this endeavor at Purdue university can be expected to come to nothing. Professors can develop formulas and architects' plans, but it is up to the building materials industries to make these economically feasible.

The house of tomorrow probably will use essentially the same materials as the house of today. Progress toward lower cost will be made by reducing the number of parts and improving manufacturing and financing methods. Whether or not the house is assembled in a factory and delivered to the site on wheels is not important. The chances are that delivery on wheels with a well advertised ham in the icebox and your favorite brand of cigarets on the mantel piece will be a style of merchandising which the average family will not be able to afford.

THE CUTTING WILL.

Rockford, Ill., June 25.—It is enlightening to read about Senator Bronson Cutting's large bequests after the fight which he carried on to soak the rich. One would naturally think that he would have given all the money to charity, dividing it, as it were.

And it is still more enlightening to read of the $75,000 which he left to the La Follette brothers. After all their prating about unearned money, surely they will not accept this money for themselves but will see to an immediate redistribution.

WORDAGE.

Chicago, June 26.—Has it ever come to your mind how many words are spoken by a radio baseball announcer announcing a baseball game? Well, here is what I counted: 21,957, and I'm sure this figure is not more than 100 words minus from a game played recently at the White Sox park. I did not count the words spoken in favor of the sponsor of this broadcast.

END-PRODUCT OF NRA.

Chicago, June 25.—I have worked for a corporation for 25 years, always receiving a nominal salary. Because my hours were shortened through the NRA I do not get any more vacations. The bosses, however, classed as executives, receive two weeks' vacation with pay.

More power to President Roosevelt. Soak the rich!
MARGARET SHIREY.

FAREWELL TO THE RADIO.

Chicago, June 24.—I was an ardent radio fan but am no longer a listener, as the commercial announcers were too disturbing.

I was told to buy a fifty cent tube of soft soap or grease in order to have a smooth shave. I have had a smooth shave daily, using a five cent shaving soap, the same as all barbers use.

If I do not use a certain toothpaste I will have dull, discolored teeth and should smile only in secret so that no one can see my teeth.

If I do not eat a certain breakfast food I will lack pep the whole day.

Unless a certain bread is eaten I will lack essential vitamins and might just as well eat sawdust.

I must swallow or chew certain medicines or I will have a muddy, blotched complexion and pollute the air with unpleasant breath.

Women must use some special soaps, face powders, lotions, and creams or they will look their age and risk losing the affections of their husbands, if any.

To me most radio comedians and all blues singers are an earache and pain in the neck.

I am going to whittle, play cribbage and the jew's-harp for amusement. More anon.
NOAH HEAP.

HE FAILS TO UNDERSTAND.

Morton, Ill., June 25.—I have been a constant reader of THE TRIBUNE for ten years and have only the highest praises for your world news, features, sports, and comics.

I fail to understand why you should continue to insult the intelligence of your readers with the putrid offerings of Mr. Orr and your Washington correspondents, who so maliciously pervert the facts in every issue and malign President Roosevelt and the administration upon every occasion.

It would be enlightening indeed for these critics of the New Deal to inform us what program they would substitute to hasten the recovery of our nation.
R. S. SLOAN.

FORTHRIGHT.

Evansville, Ind., June 25.—Last fall I wrote to Vox Pop and complained at a great rate about the way W-G-N avoided the truth about Roosevelt and put blame on the hired help for the foolishness at Washington. The olfactory response was not exactly favorable, I suppose, as the letter was not published.

But now! The editorial about the "Revolution Nursing the Depression" and the one today in which King Canute knew when he was wet are both as rare and welcome as a major triad chord in Debussy.

Hopeful of some Beethoven soon, I remain,
H. H. HUSTED.

A SNAKE AND A FROG.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., June 24.—Your Debunker on June 20 says that snakes have no hypnotic power. Let's see what he calls this: Some years ago another gentleman and myself were inspecting some timber in the Wisconsin river bottoms. We heard a strange squawking from a frog about 100 feet away. We directed our course in that direction and found the frog hopping around in a circle of about 20 feet in diameter. Then we saw a snake of the common gray water variety about 30 inches long in the center of the circle, gazing steadily at the frog and the frog reducing the diameter of the circle continuously until it got near enough to the snake so the snake could seize it.

RUGGED POLITICIANS.

Chicago, June 25.—So Rush Holt, the 30 year old senator from West Virginia, thinks the day of rugged individualism is past! Of course, what he and his kind are trying to bring about is a day of rugged politicians, a glorious day when the politicians, by taxing and taxing, become rugged enough to crush out every spark of individual enterprise throughout our country.

WEATHER BREAKS 9 RECORDS; IT'S STILL A MYSTERY

But Past Rainy Periods Are Unchallenged.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Chicago weather during the last two years has been unusual, as every one knows. Just how unusual may be discovered in the records of the federal weather bureau, but why the weather should behave so strangely remains a mystery.

Some people have expressed alarm about it, wondering what was happening to the old earth or to the sun, the radiation from which controls all organic and inorganic processes and starts the complicated movements in the atmosphere which result in storms and rain, dry spells, and dust storms.

Search of the records, which have been kept in Chicago since 1871, shows that nine records have been broken during the last two years. We have had the hottest summer and the hottest fall and the hottest day in all this time. We have experienced the driest period, with lowest relative humidity. We have had the darkest February.

The Usual Unusual Weather.

Contrary to current opinion there have been greater rain periods. The attitude of the official forecasters about it all is that the usual thing in weather is the unusual and that the records will show periods as astonishing as the present, which have been forgotten.

Monthly records of the last two years in Chicago follow:

June—Phenomenally warm. Warmer by 3 degrees than any other June on record. Warmer than all Augusts except one. Warmer than all Julys except four. For ten days the temperature was 90 degrees or higher. On two days the temperature reached 100. Rainfall, 34.4 inches. Normal, 3.30.

July—Seventh warmest July of record. Sixty per cent of normal precipitation.

August—Very dry.

September—Very warm. The fifth warmest September of record. A combination of June, July, August, and September had a mean temperature of 73.2 degrees, which exceeds former high records in this respect established in 1921 and 1931.

October—Warmest weather of record for so late in season; 78 degrees on the 30th and 31st.

November—Very dry. One-third of usual amount of precipitation. Highest temperature of record for November on the first, 77 degrees.

January—Very warm and dry. Fifth warmest January of record. 44 per cent of normal precipitation.

February—Coldest month since January, 1930. Also very dry. Only 24 per cent normal precipitation.

March—Very dry, 47 per cent of normal precipitation.

April—Very dry, only one-half normal precipitation.

May—Driest on record, 19 per cent normal rainfall; 67 hundredths of an inch total fall. Two previous Mays had been warmer. There were seven days of a maximum temperature of 90 degrees or higher. The former record was six days. There was a severe dust storm on May 10 accompanied by an astonishingly low relative humidity, a new all time record of 13 per cent in relative humidity. Former record 17 per cent. Sunshine record, 86 per cent of possible amount of sunshine.

June—Very warm. Only five Junes warmer. On the first a maximum temperature of 102.2, the highest temperature ever recorded in June, the second highest for any day since 1871. Ninety degrees or higher on eight days. Rainfall, 1.06 inches below normal of 3.30.

July—Driest on record. Only four other Julys and one August were warmer. Highest temperature ever recorded in Chicago, 104.8 on July 24. Ninety degrees or higher on 12 days.

August—Deficiency in precipitation. This has been true since October, 1933.

September—Nothing unusual.

October—Rainless period for first 17 days. One of the sunniest Octobers on record. Only two others with more sun since 1871.

November—Nothing unusual.

December—Coldest since 1925. Snowiest December on record. Snowfall of 27.4 inches.

1935.

February—Darkest on record, except January, 1914, and December, 1929, with 26 per cent of possible sunshine.

March—Maximum temperature 72 degrees on March 15. Highest on record for so early in season.

April—Coolest since 1926.

May—Third coolest May on record. Wettest since 1871. 7.09 inches rainfall.

June—Eighteen days of 29 with rain on 12 days exceeding .01 of an inch.

Chicago's All Time Records.

All time weather records for Chicago follow:

Wettest—Seventeen consecutive days of rain in September, 1880.

Driest—Twenty-six days, from Aug. 17 to Sept. 11, 1893, with only a trace of rain or less. In 1934 there were 20 days, from Sept. 30 to Oct. 19, with only a trace of rain on one day. In 1919, from Jan. 10 to March 3 there was only a trace of rain or less. The absolute record for rainless days is from Feb. 1-21, 1877, when there was no precipitation of any kind.

Hottest month—July, 1921, with mean temperature of 79.4 degrees.

Warmest year—1931, mean temperature 53.9.

Coldest year—1875, mean temperature 45.5.

Hottest day—July 24, 1934; 104.8 degrees.

Coldest day—Dec. 24, 1872, 23 below zero.

Prof. Harold B. Ward, meteorologist of Northwestern university, commented on the weather as follows:

"The study of weather is a fascinating subject—of course no one can do anything about it, but we need to know the causes if we can. One thing it teaches is that we cannot live to ourselves alone. Conditions in other parts of the world determine our weather in part at least.

"Europe has had an excessively hot spring, with almost no precipitation. We read of heat prostrations in London. The fact that they are getting no precipitation means that there is excessive evaporation somewhere. That is the only way moisture gets into the air. This humid air has found its way to where conditions are right for condensation.

"Now, since June 1 we have had a precipitation of 4.98 inches in Chicago. This is a great deal, but it is nothing to be alarmed about. For the month of June in 1892 the precipitation was 10.58 inches. The wide variation is shown by the fact that June of 1922 had only .12 of an inch.

Sun Spot Theory Unproved.

"Just why we have had such marked changes no one can tell. Some speak of sun spots and extraterrestrial influences. It is true that the sun spots are nearly at maximum, but their relation with weather has not been proved.

"Air is a mixture of gases and must obey in general the laws of gases. There are many variations, however, that enter into these calculations. Great masses of relatively dense air will displace masses less dense. In general, heated air is less dense than cooler air. Air actually expands when heated just as any gas does. Air masses moving from the tropical areas are less dense than those from the high latitude areas because they are warmer. Given the same altitude two masses of air, one warm and one cold, the cold air will commonly displace the warm air. Cold air tends to underride warm air, force it upward, and the cooling of moisture content causes precipitation.

Effect of Earth's Rotation.

"Air moves at the equator at about 1,000 miles an hour, the velocity of the earth's rotation. At our latitude it is moving at about 700 miles an hour. That determines the movement of the so-called planetary wind system, the grand movement of air toward the equator, away from the middle latitudes. If it were not for the rotation of the earth there would be a directly north and south movement. But winds are deflected to the right in the northern hemisphere and to the left in the southern hemisphere because of the rotation. Winds start with an initial movement eastward, because the earth turns west to east.

"Largely because of rotation, pressures in the latitudes of about 30 degrees north and 30 south tend to be high and a low pressure belt tends to develop in the polar areas. As a result the air tends to settle down at the high pressure belt and blow out toward the equator and toward the polar areas. The deflective influence of rotation tends to drive the circulation into what are called the trade winds and the westerlies. Inequality of pressure causes all air movements."

The Polar Front Theory.

At the weather bureau great attention is now being paid to improving forecasting by the "polar front" theory. Twenty airplanes go up in different parts of the United States every morning at 7 o'clock. Their wings are equipped with instruments to register the pressure, temperature, humidity, etc. They go to about 18,000 feet altitude. The reports are then dealt with on a mathematical basis, and worked in with the other elements of the forecasting basis. More and more this becomes a difficult, scientific job.

Something of the polar front theory was explained by C. A. Donnel, official in charge of the Chicago weather bureau.

"The polar front is the edge of the advance of air of polar origin," he said. "This is the cause of long periods of hot, dry weather, and periods of wet, cool weather. The southern edge of cool air that comes from the north oscillates from north to south all the time. The cause of the oscillations is not known. There are periods when the front runs farther south than usual and at other periods it runs farther north. When the polar edge runs south of its normal course we get cool, wet weather. When it runs north we get dry, warm weather.

Farther South This Year.

"When the polar front runs south it carries cool air with it. It lies close to the ground and acts as a wedge for the warm, moist air from the south to run up over. When warm air runs over cool air the body of warm air is lifted. When it is lifted it expands because of decreasing pressure. As it expands it cools. The cooling of the air is what causes condensation of water vapor and rain.

"This spring the polar front has been farther south than usual. Last year it was much farther north than usual. This is the reason for the unusual seasons."

Current June records illustrate the cold and wet season. The mean temperature for 28 days was 64.6 degrees. Normal is 67 degrees. Rainfall in 29 days totaled 5.03 inches, while normal for the period is 3.22 inches. The month is likely to end with a thundershower today, according to the forecaster.

The highest temperature attained was 84 degrees on June 14; the lowest, 49, on June 6. Of 29 days, six were clear, nine partly cloudy, and 14 cloudy. Normally only seven are cloudy.

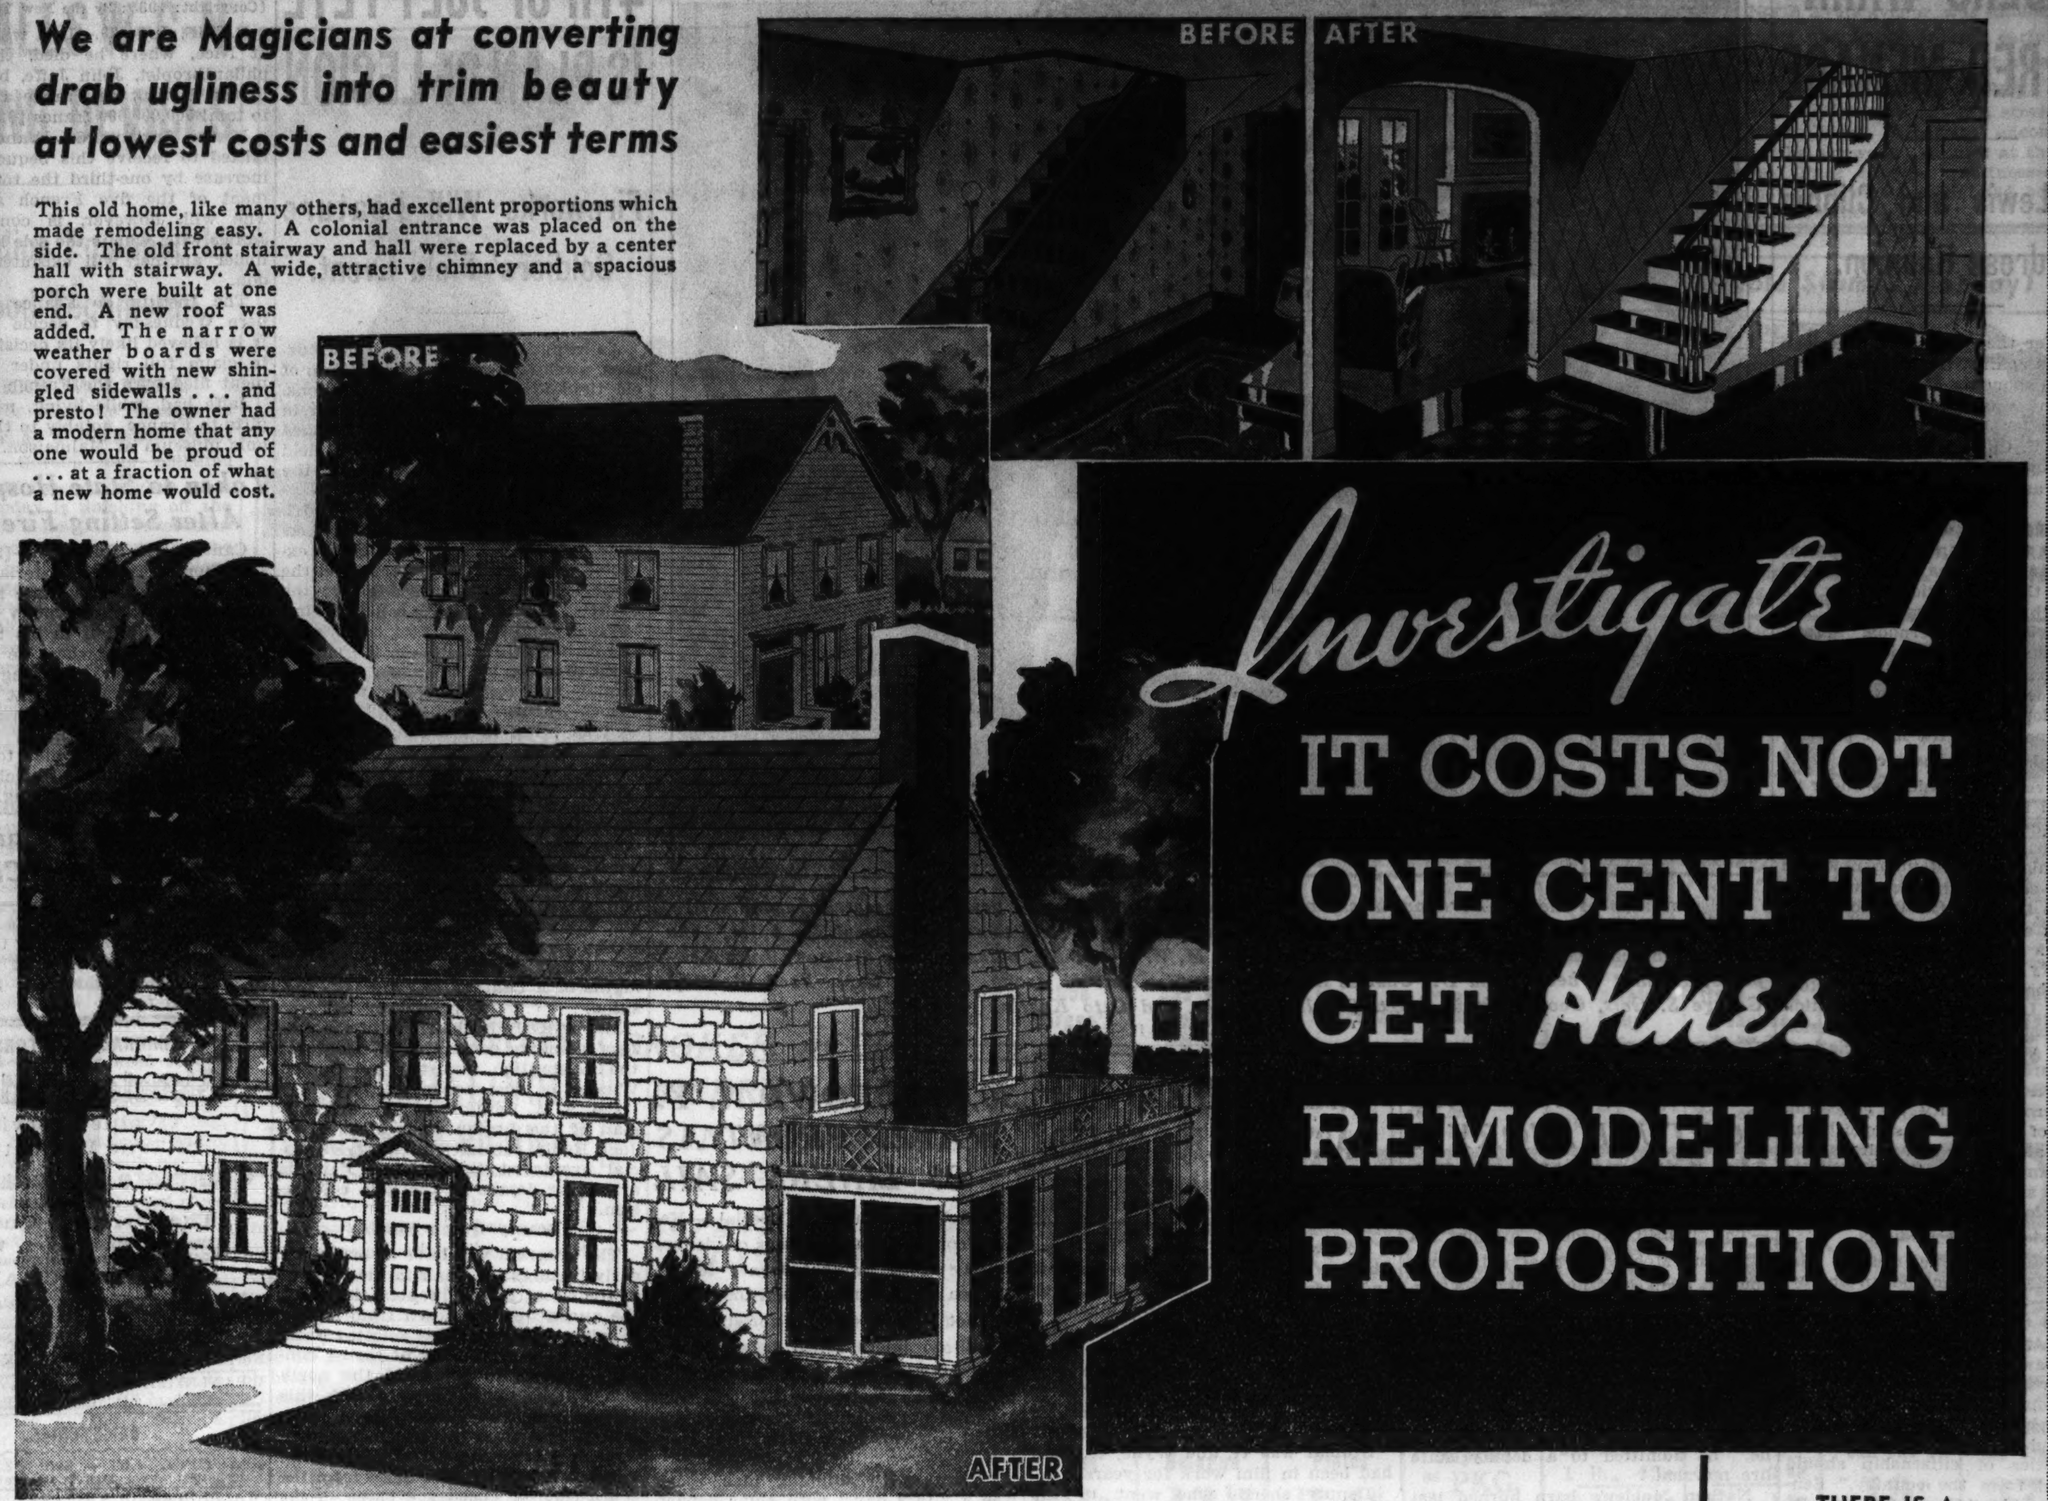
50,000 SIGN PETITION FOR CYCLING PATHS IN PARKS AND PRESERVES

The Chicago division of the League of American Wheelmen yesterday began the general circulation of petitions asking for the creation of cycle paths in the Chicago parks and the forest preserves. The petitions have been circulated among members of various cycling clubs, outing groups and the School Boy Patrol association, and now have 50,000 signatures, said H. P. Hansen, secretary of the League of American Wheelmen in Chicago.

"We expect to have 100,000 signatures to our petitions before our drive ends on July 13," Mr. Hansen said. "We will then tabulate them and present them to the park and forest preserve officials. The construction of cycle paths would be inexpensive, and it will afford thousands who fear to ride bicycles on the streets because of heavy trafic an opportunity to gain beneficial exercise and recreation. The plan also will eliminate trafic hazards for both motorists and cyclists."

PANTS BANDIT ROBS GROCERY.

William Garrity, owner of the Midwest grocery at 5700 South Damen avenue, was robbed of $400 yesterday by a bandit who forced him to remove his trousers.



We are Magicians at converting drab ugliness into trim beauty at lowest costs and easiest terms

This old home, like many others, had excellent proportions which made remodeling easy. A colonial entrance was placed on the side. The old front stairway and hall were replaced by a center hall with stairway. A wide, attractive chimney and a spacious porch were built at one end. A new roof was added. The narrow weather boards were covered with new shingled sidewalls . . . and presto! The owner had a modern home that any one would be proud of . . . at a fraction of what a new home would cost.

33D DIVISION'S LEADERS WARN OF RED MENACE

Sen. Lewis and Clinnin Address Reunion.

A call for the defense of American institutions against the attacks of radicals and exponents of alien forms of government was sounded by United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis and John V. Clinnin, speaking at the annual dinner of the 33d Division War Veterans' association at the Morrison hotel.

The challenge of various subversive "isms" to the American government and institutions was the principal theme of the convention, which will close its three day session with memorial services this afternoon. A resolution reaffirming the association's demand for full cash payment of the bonus made a year ago was unanimously adopted, but the bonus issue was sidetracked for the most part.

Assail U. of C. Instructors.

The University of Chicago, under investigation in recent weeks by a committee of the Illinois state senate, was made the particular target of the association, which adopted unanimously a resolution calling upon the university to dismiss from its faculty the members censured for radical activities in the reports of the senate committee. The faculty members named in the report of the committee are Prof. Robert Morss Lovett, whose resignation was suggested, and Prof. Frederick Schuman, whose radical associations were censured.

"Members of a university charged with the responsibility of educating the youth of our country should be on a plane so aloof from associations with radical elements that their activities at all times should be above reproach," the resolution read.

Lewis Assails Radicals.

Senator Lewis, a veteran of the Spanish-American war and an observer with the 33d division in 1918 when the Illinois troops won distinction on French battlefields, bitterly assailed radicalism and called upon veterans of the world war to "serve the nation in peace as you did in war."

"Those who are not citizens of our country and who refuse to take the responsibilities of citizenship should be removed from the country," Senator Lewis said. "Those who are citizens and who have no loyalty for this nation and who war against American institutions should be stripped of the rights of citizenship and made to stand unfrocked.

"There is a sinister infiltration of influences that, in European nations have broken down existing institutions. On street corners, in social parlors and in college halls are heard these attacks that threaten to destroy all the standards of American liberty."

Battle History Reviewed.

Mr. Clinnin, a wartime infantry officer of the 33rd division, who later retired with the rank of brigadier-general of the Illinois national guard, reviewed the battle history of the division.

"The people of nations across the sea are giving up their liberty to despotic rulers who are imposing increasing burdens upon the masses to pay for more armament and war material," Mr. Clinnin said. "In our own land there are groups seeking to destroy our form of government and substitute a soviet, fascist or dictatorial government.

"False prophets are spreading seeds of dissension amidst our distracted people. We must meet these issues, not as members of any one political party, but as Americans. Our constitutional government must not be destroyed. The red, the pink, and the radical must go. Ours must continue to be a government of Americans, by Americans, and for Americans."

John B. Morgan of Chicago, former colonel of the 108th Engineers, was elected president of the association to succeed Philip T. Duff. Other officials of the association elected included William E. De Garis, Peoria; Ray Notter and Ray L. Keegan of Chicago, vice presidents; John Plattner, Chicago, treasurer; William E. Keith, Chicago, secretary, and the Rev. Thomas Egerton, Chicago, chaplain.

BOY REVEALS HIS TORTURE STORY A HOAX; CONVICTED

Franklin, Ind., June 29.—[Special.]—The "thrill murder" attempt on Raymond Mobley, 12 year old Brown county farm boy in April, was disclosed today as a story told by the boy to escape a whipping after he tore his shirt.

Raymond's story that two men shot at him, beat him, and hanged him from a tree by his heels was "all a lie," he admitted to a deputy state fire marshal.

Nathan Mobley's barn burned last week and members of the family fled to Bloomington to avoid what they believed was persecution by an unknown enemy. The marshal said Raymond confessed setting fire to his father's barn.

The boy received a one to ten year sentence for second degree arson. The judge placed Raymond under probation to his father until he is 21 years old.

Prof. Mark Bailey, Former Kalamazoo Teacher, Dies

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 29. — [Special.]—Prof. Mark Bailey, 68, for 26 years head of the Latin and Spanish department at Kalamazoo college, died today at his home near Weslaco, Tex., where he had lived since retiring three years ago. He resigned as professor of ancient languages at University of Washington to join the Alaskan gold rush in 1898. He was professor of ancient languages at Whitworth college for two years, coming to Kalamazoo in 1906. He was author of many Latin textbooks and a number of short stories. For two years he was chairman of the board of directors of the Salvation Army. He was a graduate of the University of Washington and of Harvard university.

Marquette, Mich., June 29.—[Special.]—Special services will be held in St. Peter's cathedral here tonight and tomorrow for the late Most Rev. Paul Joseph Nussbaum, bishop of the Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie Catholic diocese. A pontifical requiem high mass will be celebrated Monday morning. Bishop Nussbaum died Monday night following a stroke of apoplexy. Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch, of Milwaukee, will officiate at the services Monday morning.

Sister Mary Eugenie of St. Mary's College Dies

South Bend, Ind., June 29. — [Special.]—Sister Mary Eugenie, 77, who had been honored by France for her work in spreading French culture, died late today at St. Mary's college in Notre Dame. She had been a member of the Holy Cross sisters for 60 years and had taught French for 50 years at St. Mary's college.

Hiccoughing Attack Fatal to Ex-Pittsburgh Official

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 29. — (AP) — Ward Bonsall, city solicitor and long a Democratic leader in Pittsburgh, died today in a Pittsburgh hospital, just a week after his 61st birthday. Bonsall was taken to the hospital two weeks ago, suffering from severe hiccoughing, after a three-weeks confinement in his home with a heart ailment.

CAMERAMAN AND FILM ART DIRECTOR KILLED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

Hollywood, Cal., June 29.—(AP)—Charles Stumar Jr., ace cameraman, and Harrison Wylie, art director, both of Universal Studios, were killed tonight when Stumar's airplane crashed in lonely Triunfo canyon, 30 miles north of here. Studio officials said the men were inspecting the "location" for a forthcoming movie air thriller when the plane fell.

Stumar was 44, and Wylie, 40. Both had been in film work for years.

Deputy sherifs who went to the scene, acting on a rancher's report he had seen the ship fall, said the cabin type craft evidently had encountered mechanical difficulty.

A long trail of torn ground showed where the plane, its landing gear torn off in the first shock, had skidded. It smashed against a tree, and was demolished.

Army Flyer Unhurt in Crash.

New York, June 29.—[U. P.]—Capt. George W. Goddard, well known army photographic pilot, escaped with a shaking up today when his plane crashed at Mitchell field on Long Island. Goddard had taken off for Rantoul field, Ill., when his motor cut out.

Dr. Townsend Loses in Plane Race with Death

Long Beach, Cal., June 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Marlin Pennock, 19 years old, died here today only a short time before her father, Dr. F. E. Townsend, nationally famous as the sponsor of the Townsend plan for old age pensions, finished a dash by airplane to reach her side. Dr. Townsend took the plane from Chicago immediately upon hearing of Mrs. Pennock's condition. She died of pneumonia, which set in following the birth of a daughter, Gail, a few days ago. Mrs. Townsend will start from Chicago to Long Beach tomorrow.

Army and Navy Officers Attend Dance for Downes

Several hundred army and navy officers and their families attended a dance and reception given Rear Admiral and Mrs. John Downes at the Army and Navy club, 850 Lake Shore drive, last night. Admiral Downes assumed command of the Ninth Naval district early in April of this year. Admiral and Mrs. Downes were introduced to the guests by Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, commander of the sixth army corps area.

Heat Claims First Victim of Summer in Indiana County

Sullivan, Ind., June 29.—Heat today claimed the first victim in Sullivan county when Guy Asbury, 20, fell dead after working in the fields all day.

30,000 CROWD N. Y. WATER FRONT AS 25 LINERS SAIL

New York, June 29.—[Special.]—Vehicle congestion and crowds of visitors in gay mood brought scenes to the Chelsea waterfront at noon today that had not been experienced for six years. In all, 25 liners sailed today, six of them between the hours of 11 and 1 p. m., and approximately 30,000 persons attended the sailings of the noon ships to bid bon voyage to friends and relatives.

According to shipping men today was a "1929 day" with ships departing filled to capacity. Marcel Delaporte, passenger manager of the French line, said that not since the boom days had the French line been able to book two strangers in an inside cabin in first class and today there was a waiting list of prospective passengers willing to take anything the steamship company could find to offer.

Wounded Defending Girl Companion; Hunt Gunman

The South State street police were searching yesterday for a gunman who shot and seriously wounded Dudley Yakel, 23 years old, 1324 East 47th street, at Michigan avenue and Harrison street. Yakel, who was taken to the Bridewell hospital suffering with a bullet wound in his right lung, told police that the shooting occurred when he went to the defense of his companion, Helen Sepolski, 21 years old, 4910 South Karlov avenue, after she was insulted by his assailant. Yakel said he came here recently from Mountain, Wis.

Robt. E. Molloy, Election Board Auditor, Dies at 48

Funeral services for Robert E. Molloy, 48 years old, chief auditor in the board of election commissioners office for the last 17 years, who died Friday night of pneumonia, will be held at the Church of the Nativity, 37th street and Union avenue, Tuesday morning. Interment will be in Holy Sepulchre. Mr. Molloy is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mae Molloy, three children, Robert Jr., Mary Jane and Virginia, and a brother, Nicholas Molloy, in charge of recreation for the board of education. Charges Father Kidnaped Twins on Trip to Movie

Charging that her husband kidnaped their 7 year old twin sons of the pretense of taking them to a motion picture theater and instead took them to California, Mrs. Emelie Jordan, 426 West 69th street, obtained a writ of ne exeat yesterday from Superior Judge Desort to restrain her husband Edward, a traveling salesman, from leaving the state when he returns to Chicago next week.

OLD TIME ROUSING 4TH OF JULY FETE IS PLAN OF LEGION

Fireworks Will Feature Soldiers' Field Event.

An awakening of national consciousness, a rekindling of the enthusiasm of old time Fourth of July celebrations, will be sought in Chicago this year in the program which has been arranged for Thursday evening in Soldiers' field by the Cook county council of the American Legion.

With the coöperation of civic, patriotic and military organizations, a spectacle has been planned which is expected to attract 100,000 persons to the amphitheater on the evening of the Fourth. Beginning with a flag raising ceremony and followed by guard mount and an air drill exhibition, the climax of the program will come in a fireworks display and festival of light at 9:10 o'clock featuring thrills and beauty as well as being of great historical significance.

Nation's History in Fire.

"The Glory of a Nation" will be the chief work of art of the evening, when major events in the history of America since the signing of the Declaration of Independence 159 years ago will be written in fire in the night sky, and lights will play again upon the smoke screens laid down by night flyers as they did in the magical closing nights of A Century of Progress exposition.

Mayor Kelly is chairman of the citizens' advisory committee in charge of the celebration, assisted by Donald Windor as vice chairman.

Beauty Queen Finals.

The program will have as one of its early features the finals in the "Queen of the Great Lakes" contest, in which the queen will be chosen from among 15 girls. Five will be selected from each section of the city at earlier contests. Those to represent the north side will be chosen at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Lincoln park bandstand, those from the west side in the Garfield park administration building tomorrow evening, and those from the south side on Tuesday evening in the clubrooms of the Woodlawn post of the American Legion at 6308 Woodlawn avenue. These girls will compete in the finals at Soldiers' field. Edward McGinnis, past Cook county commander, will act as chairman of the contest committee.

Chicago Units Take Part.

The Second infantry of the United States army at Fort Sheridan will stage the formal guard mount of the celebration. The Polish National Alliance Youth organization will give a mass drill under the leadership of Jan Romaszkiewicz.

In preparation for their exhibition at the Independence day celebration the night of July 4 at Soldiers' field, four planes from the naval reserve base at the Great Lakes Training station yesterday went aloft for an hour's maneuvers over the north shore. They were in command of Lieut. Horace Butterfield.

The Sixty-first coast artillery, the first complete motorized unit of the army to appear in Chicago, will arrive on the field with 55 pieces of motor equipment.

The Illinois Naval Reserve, the St. Charles post Drum and Bugle corps and the Czechoslovakian "Sokol" will drill.

BRITON LEAVES $33,000,000 TO PARIS INSTITUTE

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, June 29.—In a will executed at Nice, where he died, the British philanthropist, John Jaffe, bequeathed to the Institut de France a sum said to total 500,000,000 francs [$33,000,000].

If the Institut de France is permitted to receive this bequest, it will increase by one-third the total endowment of the five French academies. The will, however, is contested by Jaffe's wife, who is the sole beneficiary under another will executed in London.

The Institut de France will meet here Wednesday to decide its policy. It is believed likely its decision will be to claim full rights under the testament filed with the French courts.

Jaffe had, while living, made many gifts to France, notably to the Napoleonic museum at Malmaison.

Taken to State Hospital After Setting Fire to Self

Canton, Ill., June 29.—[Special.]—Dr. Thomas Toler of Astoria was committed to the Peoria State hospital at Bartonville this afternoon after setting fire to himself in his bed at the Graham hospital, where he was a patient. Dr. Toler, suffering from an arm fracture, was brought to the institution Friday. Becoming delirious early today he attempted to remove the cast. Not being able to do so he ignited the bandage which held it, setting fire to bed clothing.

TWO POLICEMEN DEFY GUN FIRE; CITED AS HEROES

Awarded Tribune Prize of $100 Each.

Two policemen, who advanced under the fire of bandit guns to capture or kill their men and solve more than sixty robberies, have been awarded THE TRIBUNE hero prize of $100 each for the month of May. The officers are Peter A. O'Neill, supervisor in charge of the department's central complaint room, and Florian Smuczynski, patrolman in charge of a squad in the detective bureau.

Officer O'Neill was using his lunch hour to shop for a suit of clothes at the Bond Clothing store, 65 West Madison street, when a lone gunman entered the store on May 31 and announced a holdup.

O'Neill's attention was first attracted to the gunman when he heard a shot at the rear of the store and the scream of Mrs. Juanita Timko, the cashier, who had been wounded. The bandit sped across the store from the cashier's cage, waving a pistol. O'Neill drew his own gun and charged after him, calling on the robber to halt.

Officer Holds Fire.

Because of the crowd of persons in the store, the policeman dared not fire. The bandit had no such worries, and he fired on O'Neill, missing his aim.

At the entrance of the store the bandit joined a companion and both men fled through crowded Madison street, one turning to shoot again.

O'Neill came on, holding his fire. The men turned south in Clark street and the leading gunman collided with a pedestrian. O'Neill pounced on him and pushed his gun into his victim's ribs. "Drop that gun or I'll drill you!" O'Neill commanded.

The robber, who gave his name as Jerry Faigl, 1832 Blue Island avenue, surrendered an automatic pistol and $1,004 in currency taken from the store. He later implicated Thomas Horak as his companion in the robbery, and said a third man, William Jakovac had aided them in a series of nearly fifty robberies.

Horak was captured the following day, and Jakovac surrendered. Faigl committed suicide in his cell, and Horak and Jakovac were sentenced to from one to twenty years in the penitentiary.

Police officials praised O'Neill highly not only for his courage and quick action in an emergency, but for his judgment in withholding fire which might have endangered bystanders. Officer O'Neill, who lives at 7940 Ingleside avenue, was an oriental rug salesman in a loop store before joining the police department in July, 1929. He is 37 years old, married, and has one child.

Sight Stolen Car.

Patrolman Smuczynski battled two armed robbers, killed one and captured another to win the commendation of his superiors and THE TRIBUNE award.

Early the morning of May 5, Smuczynski and Patrolmen John Trecker, Lester Sprague, and George Rowder, were cruising on West 35th street in detective bureau squad car 5-A when they received a radio message to watch for four Negro bandits who had made a series of stickups and had stolen a car bearing Illinois license No. 543-562.

Shortly afterward the squad saw the stolen car and pursued it for three miles. As the squad was about to overtake its quarry at Garfield boulevard and Halsted street, the four holdup men leaped from the stolen machine while it was still in motion and fled.

Smuczynski was the first to jump from the squad car. He followed two of the holdup men who took refuge behind a parked car at 745 West Garfield boulevard. From behind this barricade both men began firing on the policeman.

Smuczynski, in the open, returned the fire, killing one bandit, later identified as Seymour Mackey. The second man ran into a hallway at 745 West Garfield boulevard and the officer followed him. He found the man crouching in the hallway, ordered him to surrender, and took his pistol. The captured robber gave his name as John Rolland.

Meanwhile Patrolmen Trecker and Sprague [Rowder was ordered to remain with the car] pursued and captured one other holdup man, who gave his name as John Clayton. The fourth man escaped.

Rolland and Clayton confessed participation in twelve robberies. Both received from one year to life in the penitentiary on six charges of robbery.

Patrolman Smuczynski, who has been previously cited for heroic conduct, has been a member of the police department since October, 1922. He was previously a chauffeur. He is 36 years old, married, has two children, and lives at 3019 Throop street.

Boy, 3, Falls Three Stories, but Escapes Uninjured

Nicholas [Buddy] Larweth, 3 years old, climbed to a window sill in his mother's third floor apartment at 3530 Reta avenue yesterday, pushed out the screen, and tumbled to the ground. His mother rushed Buddy to the Children's Memorial hospital, but an examination disclosed he was uninjured.

LEHMAN TO NAME U. S. EX-ATTORNEY VICE PROSECUTOR

New York, June 29.—[Special.]—After failing to persuade any of his first four nominees to serve, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman announced today that he would recommend to District Attorney Dodge that he appoint Thomas E. Dewey, former United States attorney, as special prosecutor to investigate vice, rackets and other crime in New York county.

Although Mr. Dewey, who was in Boston today, had sent no word to him, the governor said he had ample reason to believe Mr. Dewey would accept. In the event the district attorney fails to name Mr. Dewey, the governor will supersede Mr. Dodge with Attorney General Bennett and the latter will name Mr. Dewey to conduct the investigation.

The governor's announcement followed a two hour conference in his New York home with the four men whose names he had sent to District Attorney Dodge earlier in the week.

The governor's observation that the special prosecutor will be as he desires recalled that in his letter to District Attorney Dodge on June 24 and ordering a special investigator, the governor said he wanted a man "of complete independence." The letter took occasion to assure Mr. Dodge that the governor had received no criticism "that you have failed to coöperate with the police department of the city of New York, or to present to grand juries all evidence submitted or available to you."

FORT SHERIDAN IN READINESS FOR TRAINING OF 1,100

Brig. Gen. Dana T. Merrill, commandant of Fort Sheridan, announced yesterday that all is in readiness at the army post to take care of the 1,100 members of the Civilian Military Training corps who will arrive Tuesday for a month's encampment.

The number in training this year is almost double the enrollment last year due to the additional appropriation provided by congress. There will be 900 in infantry training and 200 in cavalry. Maj. Paul J. Dowling will be the executive officer of the camp.

Rear Admiral John Downes, commander of the 9th naval district, also announced yesterday that work was progressing satisfactorily at the Great Lakes Naval Training station which will open July 29 to 100 recruits, the first of a larger group to be trained. Thirty of the 40 officers who will conduct the training have reported at the station.

INSECT POWDER USED AS FLOUR; FATHER OF 2 DIES

Irving Michaelson, 42 years old, 2552 Hirsch street, died in the county hospital yesterday morning shortly after he had eaten a piece of chicken mistakenly stuffed with insect powder instead of flour. His two children, Rose, 5 years old, and Irving Jr., ate some of the unstuffed parts of the chicken and were not made ill. Mrs. Rebecca Goldstein, hired by Michaelson to cook for him and the children while his wife was away on a vacation, said she thought the insect powder was flour.

FAMOUS EXPERT INSTALLS W-G-N SOUND DEVICES

New Studios Equipped by Hollywood Technician.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

With one of W-G-N's studios in Tribune tower as a workshop Count G. Mazzaglia Cutelli, long affiliated with leading Hollywood studios as a synchronist, today is finishing off the construction of a new and revolutionary sound effects department for the station's new half million dollar plant which is nearing completion just north of Tribune Tower.

Count Cutelli has set up sound effects departments for radio studios in practically every country in Europe as well as leading foreign film studios including British-Gaumont. Many of this nation's leading radio studios are outfitted with his equipment, the latest being WLW, Cincinnati, which like W-G-N is affiliated with the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Providing sound effects for broadcasts is no longer a hit or miss proposition. Creation of natural sounds by mechanical means has become an intricate and often expensive part of the business.

Sound an Exact Science.

Cutelli's contribution has been that he has simplified the production of sound to practically an exact science. He uses only 11 fundamental devices, all so compact that they need occupy only a small corner in a studio, for hundreds of every-day sounds. These are a plunger, tom-tom, canvas bag, tin box, red rubber balloon, banjo, train box, pillow, piece of silk cloth, a handful of cellophane, and a rubber bottle. Some of these items are especially constructed to specifications drawn by Cutelli. Several items are imported from Germany, one from Luxor, Egypt.

There are supplementary items: Sheets of plywood, used for thunder; boxes full of shot creating the illusion of waves breaking on a beach; cocoanut shells grinding into bits of granite for horses' hooves, and a wind machine that will produce anything from a murmur to a hurricane.

From his devices there is made an amusing diversity of sounds. The crunch of footsteps, the sizzling of bacon, snorting of a locomotive, whir of flying birds, howling of the wind, roar of a cascade, the chirp of a cricket and the thunder of artillery can all be produced in swift succession.

He Conserves Space.

Cutelli finds favor with broadcasters because the conserves space. Trouble with most sound effects devices is that they are big, clumsy, and unwieldly and expensive of operation. In one studio Cutelli replaced a big $450 motor occuping three square yards and used to create explosions, with a minute gadget occupying about an inch of space and costing a dollar.

In Berlin he found three persons threshing about in an artificial pool to make a rowing sound. He supplanted it with an invention of his own covering about five square inches and costing 75 cents.

In duplicating sound artificially he has found that a study of the microphone with particular regard to its placement is of the utmost importance.

Rain and Artillery!

To simulate ordinary rain, for example, fine lead shot is poured on a canvas stretched taut across the top of a specially constructed box with the microphone six inches away. To effect a driving rain, possibly with hail, a sheet of cellophane is stretched over the canvas. And, by altering the shot, the distance of dropping it and the microphone placement, the sound of artillery can be brought out.

The motors of the Graf Zeppelin, Cutelli demonstrated to Berlin sound technicians, can be reproduced simply but accurately with an English walnut.

The effect of a tremendous explosion is achieved by the simple procedure of giving a well inflated toy rubber balloon with several lead pellets inside it, a sudden shake close to the microphone.

Cutelli has been an avid student of sound since he was a youngster on the slopes of Mount Etna in Sicily. He is a first class impersonator. He can reproduce more than 2,000 sounds of nature. As a movie synchronist he has provided many important sound sequences.

Two Chicagoans Elected Officers of Phi Omega Pi

BROKER SUES MERRY FAHRNEY

Merry Fahrney, Oak Park heiress, was sued for $50,000 on a charge of defamation of character yesterday by Edwin Monaco, broker, against whom she had filed action charging failure to pay $30,000 promised for assignment of prospective inheritance from her uncle's estate. Both appeared in court yesterday. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

FIND BURNED EFFECTS OF MISSING ILLINOIS TOURISTS ON HIGHWAY

Albuquerque, N. M., June 29.—(AP)—Gov. Clyde Tingley announced tonight personal effects—keys, cards, remnants of clothing—belonging to George Lorius, his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heberer, missing Illinois tourists were found tonight four miles west of Albuquerque on the Vaughn highway.

Definite trace of where a man believed to have slain them drove the tourists' car, unloaded their belongings and attempted to burn them was found, Gov. Tingley said.

The discovery was made by a cowboy, whose name was not disclosed. He led the governor and State Policeman Hal Kerr to the charred and scorched clews.

Declaring the discovery tonight was almost certain proof the couples were slain between here and Vaughn, the governor said he had called all state policemen and National Guardsmen to Albuquerque, and would start out at daybreak on a massed hunt for the bodies of the tourists.

PLAN 2 LECTURE TOURS A DAY AT FIELD MUSEUM

The guide lecture tours that have been given daily except Saturdays and Sundays at the Field Museum of Natural History, will be given twice daily through July and August, according to an announcement yesterday. Tours will begin at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m.

All afternoon tours and the Thursday morning tour are general. Tours for the other days are: Mondays, plant life; Tuesdays, primitive and civilized peoples; Wednesdays, animals; Fridays, minerals and prehistoric exhibits.

No tour will be held on July 4 because of the holiday, but the museum will be open that day during the usual hours from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Admission will be free that day.

PAROLEE LINKED TO ATTACK UPON EVANSTON MAID

John Pitt, 28 years old, colored paroled convict, arrested in the loop last Thursday on suspicion that he was the burglar who assaulted Miss Helen Ellis on June 21 in the burglary of the Evanston home of Dean Ralph Heilman of the Northwestern university school of commerce, was linked with the crime by tangible evidence yesterday.

Police found several pawn tickets in Pitt's room at 409 Oakwood boulevard, and one of them was found to be for two watches taken from the Heilman home by the burglar who struck Miss Ellis.

WARNS TRANSFER CHEATERS.

Judge J. William Brooks in the Desplaines street court yesterday dismissed twenty-nine men charged with attempting to swindle the Chicago Surface Lines by using discarded transfers after warning them against repeating the practice.

BROKER ACCUSES MERRY FAHRNEY IN $50,000 SUIT

Charges Defamation of Character.

A suit for $50,000 on a charge of defamation of character was filed against Merry Fahrney, 23 years old, Oak Park heiress, yesterday before Superior Judge Joseph Sabath by Edwin Monaco, a broker. The action is in the form of a cross complaint incorporated in Monaco's answer to her suit seeking to reclaim from him an assignment of her share of the estate of her uncle, the late William H. Fahrney, which she says she gave to the broker.

In his answer denying her charges that he duped her into signing the assignment and failed to pay the $30,000 which she alleged he promised her, Monaco also filed in addition to the $50,000 damage suit a counter claim for $7,500 for services rendered her in the transaction which he claims he arranged at her request to obtain a loan on her prospect of inheriting the estate. Miss Fahrney asserted that her share of the estate amounted to $125,000.

Charges Estate Shrinking.

Monaco declared yesterday that her share was worth only $40,000 and that her interest was contingent upon the death of her aunt. His answer stated that after he had negotiated the loan for Miss Fahrney from a New York syndicate, he discovered that Miss Fahrney had previously assigned her interest in the estate to the extent of $10,000. He also charged that she has failed to carry through her part of their agreement in other respects.

Both Miss Fahrney and Monaco appeared in court. Miss Fahrney arriving early with her attorney, Theodore Hardeen.

Admonished for Smoking.

She drew an admonition from the judge when he noticed she was smoking in the rear of the courtroom. Her attorney apologized for her and explained that she was nervous.

To reporters Miss Fahrney explained that she had only got to bed at 6:30 in the morning after playing bridge all night.

Full hearing on the suit was set by Judge Sabath for July 11. He directed that all records in the case be impounded pending the hearing.

Breaks Leg in Leap When Woman's Husband Arrives

James Rowley, 29 years old, 5034 Washington boulevard, incurred a fracture of the right leg early yesterday morning when he jumped from the first floor window of an apartment at 659 Wrightwood avenue. He told the police that he had been visiting Mrs. Wilma Huff at that address when her husband, George, from whom she separated four weeks ago, called at the apartment. Mrs. Huff had been staying at the Wrightwood address with Mr. and Mrs. E. P. White.

LIGHTNING KILLS HORSES.

Moline, Ill., June 29.—[Special.]—Two Belgian mares and one colt were killed by a bolt of lightning which struck the barn on the Albert Field farm in Prophetstown last evening.

W. A. JOHNSTON, CHIEF JUSTICE OF KANSAS RESIGNS

Topeka, Kas., June 29.—(AP)—William A. Johnston, dean of American jurists in length of service on the same bench, resigned today as chief justice of the Kansas Supreme court. He was serving his 51st year as a judge of the court.

"The grand old man of Kansas"—he is 87—expressed elation that the American judiciary is a "more liberal" institution as he retired from the court were he has served since 1884.

A personal acquaintance with all of Kansas' 26 governors, he watched four generations of lawyers practice before him. Justice Johnston has written more than 3,500 opinions, documents spread through more than three-fourths of the court's records.

He led the fight to submit a prohibition amendment to the people of Kansas in 1880, a move which resulted in Kansas being the first state to place prohibition in its constitution.

Stabbed to Death in Brawl Started at Party

John Ficcarotta, 19 years old, 546 North Avers avenue, was stabbed three times and fatally injured early today in a quarrel originating at a party at 521 North Ridgeway avenue. Police, who received the call of a street fight there, found Ficcarotta unconscious on the sidewalk. He died at the Garfield Park hospital. Witnesses said that three or four men had been engaged in the fight.

CHORAL GROUPS TO PARTICIPATE IN MUSIC FETE

Men and Women Singers Are Invited.

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

Men, women and mixed choral groups of 20 members or more are invited by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to take part in the Chicagoland Music Festival chorus contest which will be held prior to the festival concert in Soldiers' Field on Saturday night, Aug. 17. The winner in each division will sing on that program. Entries for these events are already coming in, one of the earliest being from the first place mixed chorus victor of 1934, the Egyptian Choral club of West Frankfort, Ill., directed by Frank C. Trobaugh, an attorney.

Previous to the festival Saturday Chicago-Cook county choruses will compete in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel on the following dates: Men, Monday night, Aug. 12; women, Tuesday night, Aug. 13; and mixed, Wednesday night, Aug. 14.

Chicagoland Finals.

The Chicagoland finals will be held the festival Saturday beginning at 12 noon. Each chorus will sing a number of its own choice not more than four minutes in length and another selected by the judges. For this second number the men will sing "High Barbary"; women, "Cossack Lullaby," and mixed, "In Pride of May."

Other winners during the last three years in the chorus contest, many of which are expected in this year's festival, are as follows:

Men—Bohemian Workingmen's Society Lyra of Chicago.

Women—Naperville, Ill., Woman's club.

Mixed—Orpheus choir, Hammond, Ind.

1934.

Men—Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Glee club, Baltimore, Md.

Women—Watseka, Ill., Woman's chorus.

Taking their cue from THE TRIBUNE's festival, three American festivals have been announced this summer, one to be given in the Polo grounds in New York on the evening of July 20, sponsored by a New York evening newspaper, a second one to be held at Omaha, Neb., sponsored by the Omaha World-Herald, and another to be conducted on the nights of Aug. 1, 2, and 3 in the Rockford, Ill., High school stadium, under the auspices of the Rockford Junior Association of Commerce. Lawrence Salerno, popular W-G-N baritone, has been chosen as the vocal star of the Aug. 3 performance. Contests similar to those held by THE TRIBUNE have been announced by the Rockford festival committee, and several groups are anticipating entering the Chicagoland finals here.

Expect Crowd of 100,000.

Already requests for reserved seats for the festival performance in Soldiers' field have come to THE TRIBUNE. William Sturm, in charge of ticket sales, reports that Mrs. Mary E. Halton, 5523 Dorchester avenue, has made application for 20 seats, and a second inquiry came from Mrs. K. E. Druley, 862 Carpenter avenue, Oak Park, Ill.

More than 100,000 people are expected to attend the festival this summer, and during the last five years nearly 600,000 have witnessed the great open air program.

In addition to the choral contests, competitions will be held for adult and juvenile bands, junior and juvenile drum corps, men and women vocalists, and adult and juvenile baton twirlers. Entries should be sent to Music Festival Headquarters, Room 1418, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill.

U. S. EDITORS ASK GERMANY TO FREE PACIFIST WRITER

BERLIN, June 29.—(AP)—A series of letters from American editors pleading for the liberation of Carl Ossietzky, liberal and pacifist writer, who has been held without trial since 1933, was received today by Hans Haenfstaengl, Harvard educated Nazi foreign press chief.

Ossietzky was seized by secret police almost immediately after Hitler's seizure of power and is at present confined in the concentration camp at Papenburg. Among the letters received was one from George Fort Milton, president and editor of the Chattanooga News, who wrote:

"I regard Ossietzky as a man who typifies the best in German progressive and liberal thought, a man whom Germany ought to be honoring in some fashion. He has been an outstanding contributor to the cause of world peace."

Raymond Gram Swing, editor of the Nation, offered in return for Ossietzky's freedom "to fight for the freedom of the Nazis to express themselves in the United States."

Robert S. Allen of the Washington Merry-Go-Round told Haenfstaengl that freedom of the press was essential for the well being of a nation.

Dr. F. A. Middlebush Named U. of Missouri President

Kansas City, Mo., June 29.—[U. P.]—Dr. Frederick A. Middlebush today was named president of the University of Missouri, succeeding Dr. Walter Williams, noted educator in journalism and head of the institution for five years. Members of the board of curators of the university, after a four hour session here, announced they had voted to offer Dr. Middlebush the presidency. His acceptance was received by the curators a short time later.

Rabbis Will Adopt Views on War in Final Session

A declaration of views on war and peace, drawn in committee, will be adopted today by the Central Conference of American Rabbis at the closing session of the conference at the Congress hotel. The conference is representative of Hebrew Reformed congregations totaling more than 500,000 members. The annual conference sermon was preached yesterday at Temple Isaiah Israel by Dr. Sidney S. Tedesche of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. Hill wins, 9 and 7.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill, the Kansas City star who touched nary a golf club until she was in her late thirties, yesterday won the sixth annual open championship of the women's Western Golf association by defeating Mrs. S. L. Reinhardt of Northmoor, 9 and 7, in the 36 hole final match at the Sunset Ridge Country club.

Mrs. Hill maintained the same machine like tempo throughout most of yesterday's match as she had used in eliminating Helen Hicks of New York in one of Friday's semi-final arrangements. Mrs. Reinhardt, on the other hand, could not regain the touch with which she had put Mildred [Babe] Didrikson of Texas out of the show in the other semi-final argument.

Mrs. Hill Holds Lead.

The Northmoor player, two down at the end of the morning nine holes, found herself with a four hole deficit at the noontime intermission. Mrs. Hill turned the morning eighteen in 83, five over women's par, while Mrs. Reinhardt was forced to take an 87.

In the afternoon Mrs. Reinhardt could do no better than halve two of the first eight holes played to be ten down going to the ninth green. There the woman who has held the association's closed title thrice and won its Derby as many times put on a rally, winning the ninth and tenth, being dormie eight on the eleventh tee. She missed her third shot, while Mrs. Hill was putting hers over the green. The Kansas City player came back within three feet, however, and when Mrs. Reinhardt couldn't get down a five foot putt for a half in fives she conceded the yard putt to Mrs. Hill.

Miss Jonhson Wins Consolation.

Shirley Ann Johnson, Sunset Ridge's western junior titleholder, won the consolation side of the championship flight with a 2 and 1 victory over Dorothy Gustafson of South Bend in a morning 18 hole final.

They halved the first two holes of the morning round, Mrs. Reinhardt playing a neat recovery out of the water in a trap on the first. She lost the third, however, driving the top of a bunker and playing short of the green with her second. The Northmoor star regained that on the next green by dropping a ten foot putt for her par. Mrs. Hill was trapped.

Mrs. Hill Scores Deuce.

On the fifth green, Mrs. Hill scored a deuce with a fine 45 foot putt to go one up. She took the next two holes to make it three up, Mrs. Reinhardt finding the rough and the woods with her first two shots to the sixth and running into more of the spinach on the seventh. She got one back at the eighth, despite a three putt green growing out of a stymie laid her by Mrs. Hill, who drove a trap.

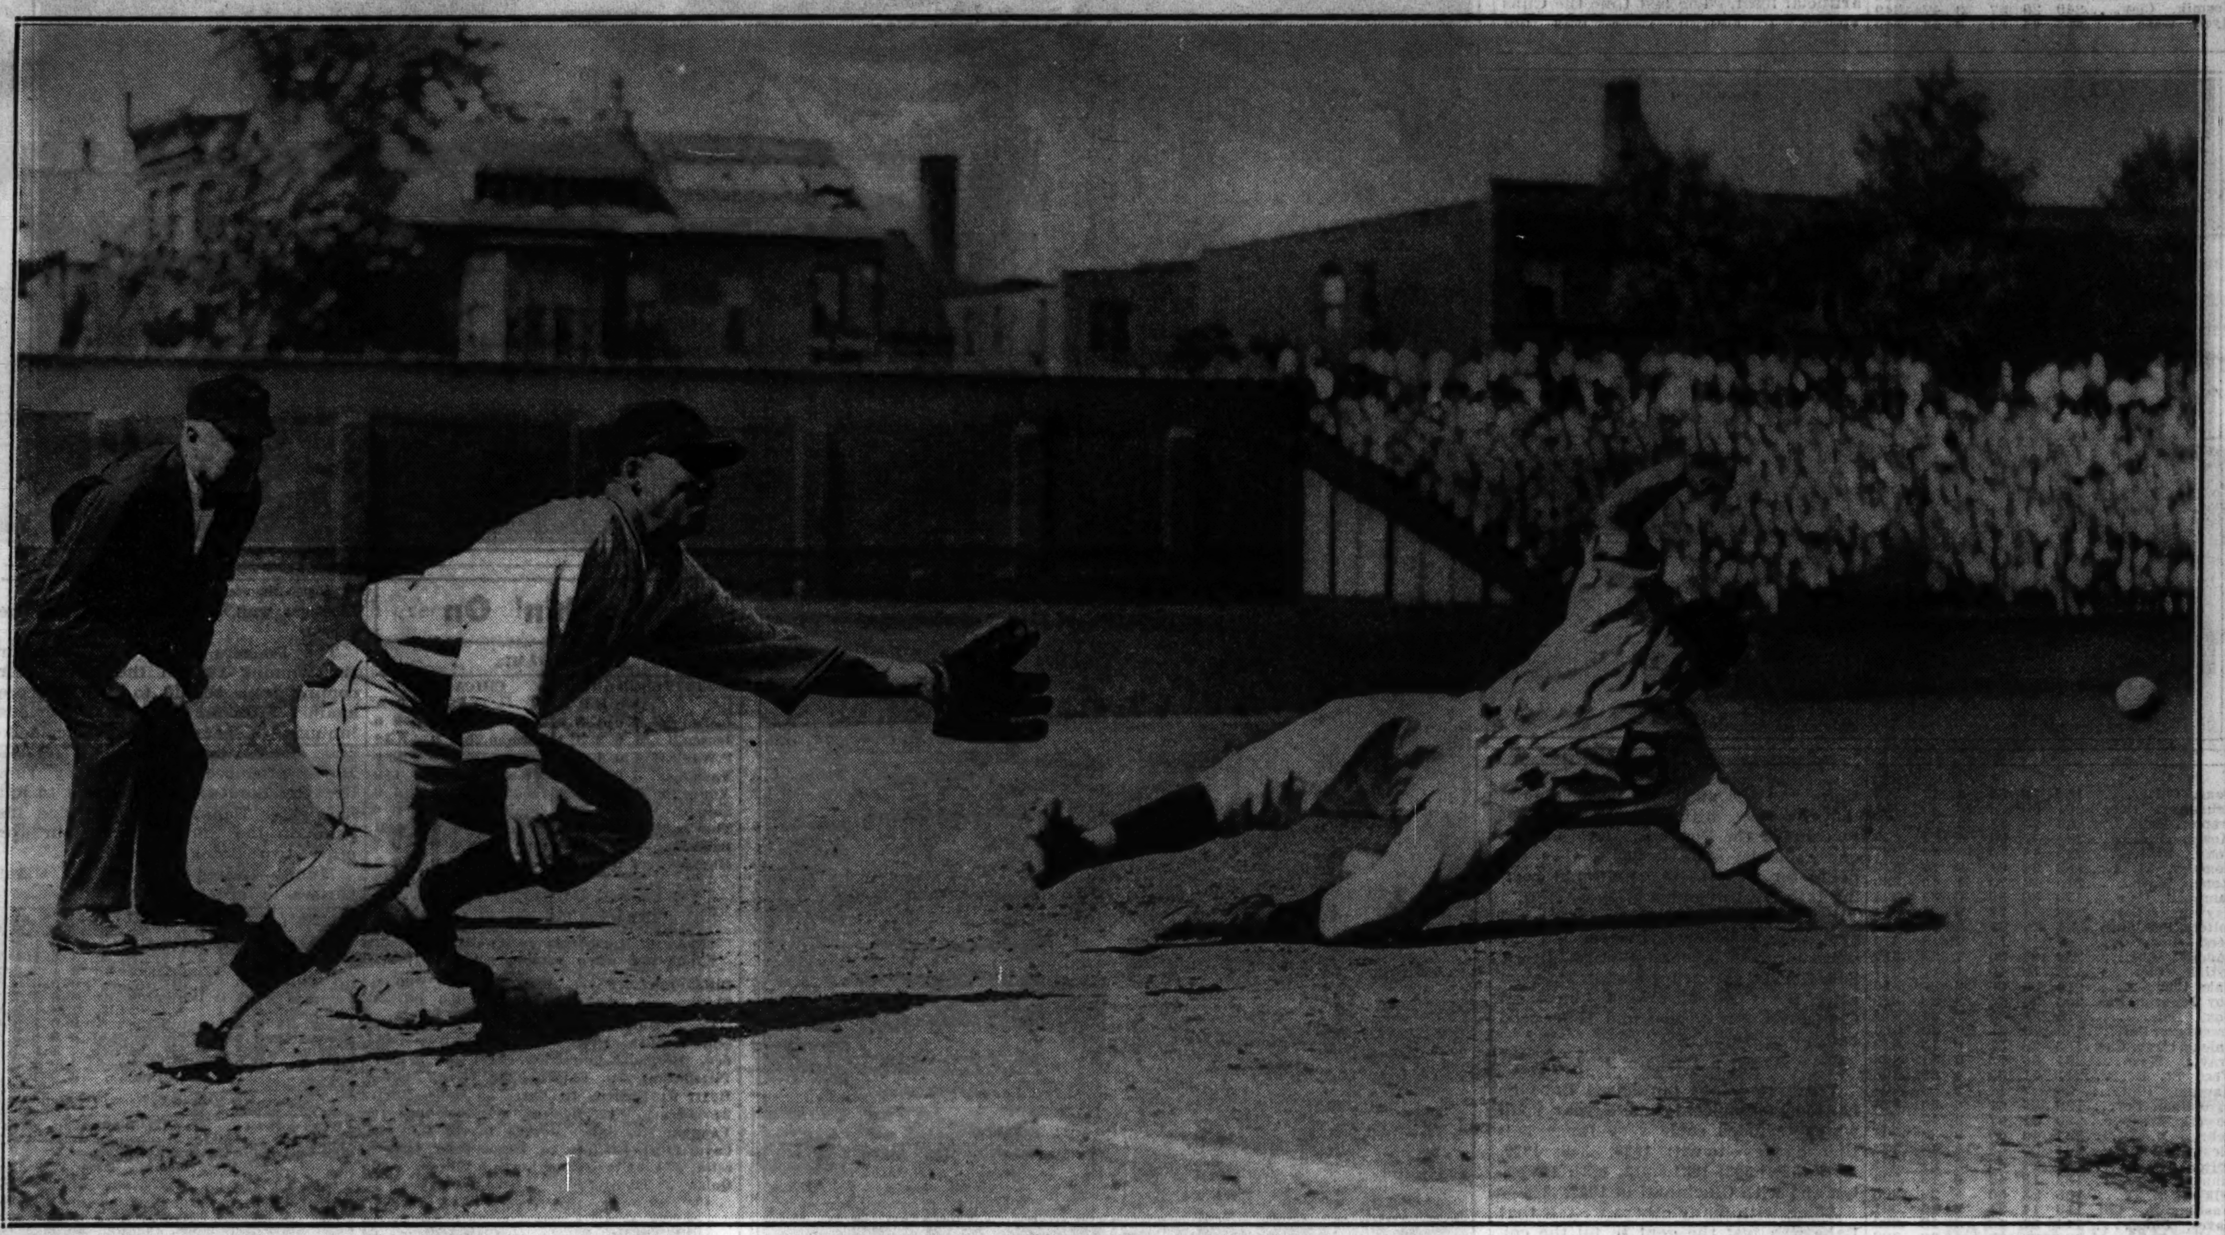
Mrs. Hill went three up after the 11th, where she put her third shot stiff, while Mrs. Reinhardt was slicing to the rough under a tree and then dropped her third in a trap, finally conceding the hole. It took both four to reach the 14th, Mrs. Hill winning it and going four up when Mrs. Reinhardt missed an eight foot try for a half. Mrs. Reinhardt regained a hole at the 16th, where Mrs. Hill's third hit the top of a bunker and her fourth wound up in the trap at the lower right hand corner of the green.

Mrs. Hill Increases Lead.

The Kansas City player retrieved this at the 17th, where she nearly holed out another 45 foot effort for a deuce.

Mrs. Hill won the first hole of the afternoon round with a five, one over par, while her opponent was taking a six. Mrs. Reinhardt lost the third, which it took four to reach, got a half on the fourth, and then lost the next four holes. She was in the rough and over into a trap at the fifth, three putted the sixth after a trapped second, found another bunker at the seventh, and then missed the eighth green. She came back to win the ninth with a par five, after Mrs. Hill dubbed her second, trapped her third, and sent her fourth over the green. On the tenth Mrs. Hill missed a putt on less than a yard, and Mrs. Reinhardt was only eight down. The match ended on the next and 29th green when Mrs. Reinhardt failed to drop a five footer.

A WASTED SLIDE, BUT A PRECIOUS RUN



Tuck Stainback of the Cubs, running for Freddy Lindstrom, who opened the 12th inning of the first game of yesterday's double-header at Wrigley field with a two base hit, dashes to third base on Woody English's sacrifice. The ball, at the right, thrown by Pitcher Waite Hoyt, was intended for Tommy Thevenow, Pittsburgh third baseman. but it was wild. While the ball was rolling into the Cubs' dugout Stainback scrambled to his feet and came in with the run that produced a 1 to 0 victory for Larry French. Lon Warneke pitched the Cubs to a 2 to 1 triumph in the second game. The two victories lifted the north siders into second place in the National league. Ernie Quigley is the umpire.

DISCOVERY WINS CHALLENGE CUP BY 30 LENGTHS!

Detroit, Mich., June 29.—(AP)—Discovery, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's handicap star, romped home 30 lengths ahead of Azucar today to win an $11,200 purse and the Detroit Challenge cup.

The speedy chestnut 4 year old, carrying 126 pounds, one less than the weight carried by the Fred M. Alger Jr. entry, streaked around the slow, mile and three-sixteenths course in 1:58 1-5, equaling the Fair Ground track record established last year by Cavalcade. Azucar crossed the finish line pulled up by Jocky George Woolf, who guided the same horse last winter when it captured the $108,000 Santa Anita handicap.

Discovery, with Jocky Jean Bejshak up, went to the post an odds-on choice, 1 to 5. The figures on Azucar were 3 to 1.

The Vanderbilt entry was away in front and held a six-length lead the first time past the grandstand. This margin had been doubled at the half and was extended to 15 lengths at the three-quarters. Azucar regained two lengths at the mile, but Woolf pulled up his mount as Discovery sprinted easily down the stretch.

A crowd of 15,000 saw the race, which had been planned for 4 year olds which had won $40,000 or more, and younger horses with winnings of $20,000. Injuries wrecked the race, and Alger agreed with Vanderbilt to stage the match event for the cup.

Azucar's share of the purse, which originally was set at $25,000, was $2,500.

Late Date Wins Washington Park's Closing Handicap

BY FRENCH LANE.

That old mare from Tennessee, Late Date, owned by Rogers Caldwell's Brentwood farms stable, which is located at Nashville, dropped from out the clouds, ran over horses in the stretch, and won the Championship handicap as the Washington Park Jocky club's summer race meeting came to a close yesterday afternoon.

Dashing up from behind after she had been hopelessly outrun for the first mile of the mile and a quarter struggle, she reached the leaders fifty strides from the line of finish. On she dashed until at the payoff line she was three-quarters of a length in advance of Warren Wright's Calumet Dick.

Watch Him Is Third.

A half length back in the most stirring battle of the Chicago season and in third place was Mrs. John Hertz' Watch Him. Tearout finished fourth and the favorite, Riskulus, California's champion, was last in the six horse field.

The race was witnessed by 17,000, who wagered close to a half million dollars during the afternoon. The season closed in a blaze of sunshine, an element that has been missing almost from the time the track's gates were opened last month.

"We regard the season as a highly successful endeavor," John P. Harding, president of the Washington Park Jocky club, said during the afternoon. "We didn't make any money," he continued, "but Washington Park has regained all of its old time popularity, my friends tell me."

Late Date Earns $4,220.

The gross value of the Championship handicap was $6,080. Late Date's share of the spoils was $4,220. Calumet Dick added $1,000 to Warren Wright's bank roll when he made his game finish to be second. Watch Him earned $500 for Mrs. Hertz when he was third.

Tearout picked up $250 for running fourth, and old Gusto landed in fifth place.

Late Date ran the mile and a quarter, over a track that was dull, in 2:06 4-5. The customers in the closing day crowd who had faith in her collected $21.70 to win, $8.44 to place, and $5.68 to show. Calumet Dick paid $6.60 to place and $4.42 to show. Watch Him's show price was $4.94.

Riskulus Races Well, but Tires.

Riskulus encouraged his thousands of backers when he rated along steadily, but when Watch Him and Calumet Dick charged him at the furlong pole he tired badly. They had been closest to him from the start, even though Calumet Dick had been bumped by Riskulus early in the race. In the meantime Robertson had kept Late Date under stout restraint heading the second division, and he did not call upon her until the second turn.

The daughter of Hourless moved up steadily on the outside and reached Watch Him and Calumet Dick shortly after they had disposed of Riskulus. As she moved to the front Late Date bore over on. Calumet Dick, which in turn slammed against Watch Him, causing the latter to stumble. After that occurrence Late Date slowly forged ahead until she was almost a length in advance of Calumet Dick at the finish.

Calumet Dick Encounters Trouble.

Calumet Dick might have given Late Date sterner opposition but for the trouble he encountered at the start, and again at the furlong pole, when Robertson brought up the winner on the outside. Up to that time he had been rated along nicely by Wagner.

Tearout also was prevented from showing to better advantage by Late Date's tactics against Calumet Dick and Watch Him. He had been reserved well off the pace and made his run on the inside rounding the turn. The Kentucky colt had a chance to come between the leaders in the stretch. After Late Date pushed Calumet Dick against Watch Him, Tearout had no chance to finish with his customary late rush.

Grand Duke Wins.

Grand Duke, a son of Stimulus, showed a smart performance when he beat a fashionable band of juveniles in the Lake Forest purse. Wagwood, from the stable of Phil Reilly, widely known horseman, gave the crowd one of its biggest thrills of the day when he rushed from the rear in the stretch and got up in the final strides to beat Jens Son by a neck.

Wagwood's stretch drive was one of the most sensational of the season and his victory was popular, for it seemed that nearly all of Mr. Reilly's friends had wagered on the 4 year old, which paid off at $11.36 for a $2 ticket.

PATTERSON AND HESS PLAY TODAY IN TENNIS FINAL

Wilbur Hess of Rice institute, southern intercollegiate champion, and Leonard Patterson of California Tech will meet in the finals of the 51st National Intercollegiate tennis tournament at Northwestern university today. The match will start at 2 o'clock.

Hess defeated Ernest Sutter of Tulane in straight sets, 7-5, 7-5, 6-1, in a semi-final match yesterday and Patterson eliminated Russell Ball, Northwestern university sophomore, in an extra set match, 4-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Ball, who is the first Big Ten player ever to reach the semi-finals in the National Intercollegiate tournament, jumped into a lead in his match with Patterson, winning the first two sets. In the opening set he scored 37 points to Patterson's 30 and took the second by 31 points to 29. He broke service twice in these sets, once in the first game of the first set and again in the seventh game of the second set.

Hess Also Rallies.

Patterson started his comeback in the third set. Each player won services up to the fourth game, where Patterson broke through on Ball's double fault after the score was deuced. Patterson then took a 4 to 1 lead and won out on his next two services.

Both players dropped service in the opening games of the fourth set, but Patterson extended the service breaking by taking the third game from Russell. The advantage proved enough for Patterson to even the match at two-all. In the final set Ball's game fell apart. He gave Patterson the first game on two double faults and the latter went on to win four straight. Russell won his next two services, but was unable to break through Patterson's service in the final game, which the west coast player won in straight points.

Hess also staged a comeback in his match. Sutter took a four game lead in the first set and Hess was forced to change his style into a faster rally. The next two games were halved and Hess then won six straight and the set. The second set saw the lead seesaw with Sutter holding a 5-4 advantage until Hess went out on three straight game victories. Hess breezed through the final set in seven games.

Stanford Pairs Beaten.

Tulane's doubles team of Sutter and Cram will meet the University of California pair of Newton and Bennett in today's final. Both teams won their semi-finals matches against Stanford's two teams.

Both matches went the full five sets. Seward and Dey of Stanford, won the first two sets from Newton and Bennett, but the California pair rallied to win the next three in a row, 5-7, 4-6, 8-6, 6-3, 6-2. After winning the first two sets Sutter and Cram weakened momentarily while Lee and Pommer of Stanford, captured two sets to tie the match. The Southern pair then won the last set and the match, 6-1, 6-4, 3-6, 3-6, 8-6.

Sox Make 15 Hits, but Lose to Indians on Errors, 6 to 5

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., June 29.—The White Sox piled up 15 hits this afternoon, but despite this noble effort couldn't show a profit on their day's work. They erred in the field, thus giving away important runs that let the Indians capture the second of the series, 6 to 5. Three of the half dozen tallies were outright gifts, a matter that ruined excellent pitching by Raymond [Babe] Phelps and at the same time put an end to his winning streak of three games.

The errors that carried the Chicagoans dangerously close to the second division were perpetrated by Jack Hayes and Rip Radcliff. Hayes dropped a popup with two out in the second and the Indians promptly helped themselves to a pair of runs. They grabbed another in the sixth after Radcliff had dropped a fly that should have closed the inning. Two other runs scored while Phelps was in service, one on Hal Trosky's 13th homer. Another homer, this by Joe Vosmik, appeared while Carl Fischer was pitching in the seventh and this tally proved decisive.

Plenty of Hits, Anyway.

Although they began hitting right at the start, the Sox were a long time in getting results. They showered Willis Hudlin with seven hits in the first four innings, but this netted only one run. However, the Sox made things hum in the seventh.

They added five more hits to their total and before the side-arming curve ball expert could force them to subside they had scored three runs, leaving them one shy of a tie. Then they scored one more in the eighth, ending Hudlin's reign, but were still one short because of the Vosmik homer off Fischer in the seventh.

Hudlin's pitching was particularly annoying for Al Simmons, and only for that the Sox might easily have produced runs in profusion. The Milwaukeean failed with two on in the first inning. He went hitless with none on in the fourth and in the sixth doubled with the bases empty. Nothing came of this. In the seventh he faded out again with two on and two out. It was the same in the ninth with one out. Mule Haas also was more or less distressed both by Hudlin and Rescuer Lefty Brown. The Mule was blanked after hitting safely in 15 consecutive games.

Wall Helps Indians.

The short right field fence gave assistance to the Indians in the first inning and enabled them to score once. After one was out Knickerbocker's high fly hit the wall just inside the foul line marker and bounced to one side instead of coming back straight. By the time Haas recovered the ball Knickerbocker was on third. He scored on Vosmik's single to center. The inning was cut short when Bonura turned Campbell's hard grounder into a double play.

Before working up to the point of scoring, the Sox permitted a flock of hits to go to waste. Two of them in the first inning proved useless. Hayes singled with one out and Bonura did the same with two out. The end came on Simmons' gentle tap in front of the plate. Another pair of hits availed nothing in the second. Appling led off with a single, Dykes popped a foul to Hale, and Sewell hit the right field wall for a single, Appling going to third. Phelps poked into a double play. A double play also ended the third after Radcliff had opened with a single.

Hayes Drops One.

Two runs that gave the Indians a 3 to 0 lead in the second started when Berger walked after Trosky and Hale had flied to Radcliff. Berger stole second. Phillips hoisted a tall one to short right and this was where Hayes blundered. He camped under the ball after chasing Haas away, but failed to hang on when it came down. Before he could pick it up Berger had scored and Phillips had reached second. He dashed home on Hudlin's double to left center. Galatzer's roller was turned into the third out.

One run didn't mean much, but the Sox at least had the satisfaction of getting some help themselves from the right field barrier in the fourth. Appling hit it for two bases after two were out. Dykes scored him on a single to center, after which the manager was forced by Sewell. The Indians wasted no time retrieving this run. In the home fourth Trosky stepped up and whacked the ball over the wall for his 13th homer of the season.

It Is Radcliff's Turn.

Two were gone again in the sixth before the Sox did another bit of chiseling on their own pitcher. This

HOYT'S ERROR IN 12TH DECIDES OPENING GAME

Herman Leads in Perfect Defense.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs soared from fourth to second place in the National league yesterday, a just reward for two magnificent victories over the erstwhile second place Pirates, who dropped to fourth place. Larry French led a brilliant crew to a 1 to 0 victory in the twelve inning first game. It was Larry's fifth straight triumph, his seventh of the year, and his third shutout. In the second game Lon Warneke broke his four game losing streak when he conquered the Pirates, 2 to 1, for his sixth favorable decision of the year.

The pitching was mighty good, as you may judge by the fact that the slugging Pirates made only one run in twenty-one innings. But the real scintillating part of the defense was the Cub infield. No Cub infield in history ever played better baseball than did the Cub quartet yesterday. The outfield, too, played well enough, but had no chance to sparkle until Freddy Lindstrom went to the neighborhood of the flagpole for a drive to end the afternoon's show. If Freddy had missed there would have been a tie or worse in the second game.

Gain on Giants.

We shall endeavor to cover all the many bright spots in the great afternoon of baseball—witnessed by 17,400, incidentally—in the subsequent detail. But right now, if you don't mind, we'll list some of the outstanding developments:

The Cubs not only hopped over the Pirates and Cardinals into second place, but gained a game and a half on the leading New York Giants.

The victory was the third straight in two days over the Pirates and the sixth in seven played with Pie Traynor's outfit.

The one run which the Pirates made after two were out in the fourth inning of the second game was the only one they have scored at Wrigley field in their last four games here. Roy Henshaw shut them out, 3 to 0, in their final here on April 30, and blanked them again, 8 to 0, on one hit in the opener on Friday. These were both nine inning games, and added to these were 12 scoreless innings pitched by French yesterday and eight of the nine pitched by Warneke in the second contest.

Herman Is Star.

Bill Herman was a star among stars in the first game. Afield he made twelve assists and six putouts. At bat he made four hits, half the Cub total, though he did not figure in the production of the only run of the game. It was scored on Lindstrom's double, a sacrifice, and Waite Hoyt's error, the only error, mind you, made by either team during the afternoon.

Herman, as well as the rest of the Cub infield, also sparkled in the second game. But Gabby Hartnett and Chuck Klein stepped in to grab some glory away from the pitching and infielding departments. Chuck made the first run of the game in the second inning with his No. 11 homer of the year and Gabby drove in the winning run in the third inning with a double, one of the four hits he made in four times at bat. Red Lucas, who pitched the only victory the Pirates have scored on the Cubs this year, was the losing pitcher in the second game.

Play Final Today.

The Cubs and Pirates will wind up their series this afternoon in a single game with Bill Lee pitted against either Bill Swift or Cy Blanton. After the game the aroused Chicagoans will take off for Cincinnati, where they open a series Monday with a night game.

FIRST GAME

One double for each team constituted the offensive work in the first three innings. The Cubs' double was knocked by Herman with one out in the first inning and that of the Pirates by Padden with one out in the third inning. Each runner got to third base and stopped there.

During the first three innings Herman threw out six of the nine batsmen retired, as compared with the assist record of eleven for a nine inning game.

P. Waner scratched a single off Herman's glove with one out in the fourth and was forced by Vaughan on a nice play, English to Herman. Young popped to Jurges. O'Dea singled in the Cub half and was forced by Lindstrom for the third out.

Jurges Stages Thriller.

A brilliant bit of work by Jurges enabled Herman to add a couple of chances to his record in the fifth. Thevenow singled with one out, then Padden started a grounder toward center. Jurges grabbed the ball back of second with his gloved hand and threw with that hand to Herman, forcing Thevenow. Herman then relayed the ball to Cavarretta for the double play.

The Cubs developed their second scoring chance in the home fifth. Klein led off with a single, advanced on English's sacrifice, went to third on Jurges' fly to P. Waner and died on French's foul to Padden.

The Pirates had made only one hit an inning in the third, fourth, fifth, sixth, and eighth innings, but none had opened a session until Jensen

YANKEES DEFEAT SENATORS, 6-3, ON TWO HOMERS

Gomez Weakens, but Wins Seventh Game.

New York, June 29.—(AP)—Lefty Vernon Gomez failed to gain his second straight shutout today but he did win his seventh victory of the season as the Yankees took the home run route to a 6 to 3 victory over the Senators. It was their seventh triumph over the Senators in eight clashes this season.

Gomez pitched near perfect ball for seven innings, yielding only four hits, while the Yanks built up a long lead. Then he began to weaken, apparently feeling the hot weather, and Johnny Murphy had to come to his rescue in the ninth to protect the New York margin.

Home runs by Ben Chapman and Earle Combs, both made inside the park, accounted for five of the Yankee tallies. The other came from Chapman's single in the opening inning and Lou Gehrig's triple. Score:

RED SOX WIN TWO.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 29.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox captured a double header from the Athletics today, winning the first game, 6 to 4, behind Lefty Grove's pitching and slugging their way to a 13 to 6 triumph in the second.

Browns Send Strange to Senators; Get Lary

Washington, D. C., June 29.—(AP)—The Washington Senators today obtained Allan Strange, St. Louis Browns' shortstop, by the waiver route, in exchange for Shortstop Lynn Lary, who came to the Senators last fall from the Boston Red Sox. The players will report to their new clubs tomorrow.

CUBS GET FIRST SAMPLE OF NIGHT BALL TOMORROW

Babe Herman's Waiting for 'Em in Cincinnati.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs will play their first night game in history down in Cincinnati tomorrow night. And one of the biggest shadows cast by the calcium glare will be that of their old pal and associate, Babe Herman.

It certainly will be fine to see Babe out in the light again, even if it's an artificial light. The last time the Cubs visited Pittsburgh Babe was not sighted in the open. It was rumored that he was sitting in the darkest recesses of the Pirate dugout. But no one could be sure, it being very impolite for athletes to go around peering into rival dugouts.

Personally, we have been rather sad about the Babe ever since he left the select circle of .340-and-upward hitters. Sad, that is, except for a short interval after the Cubs purchased him from Cincinnati for $75,000 and four good ball players.

What a Bargain, Eh?

When the Cubs purchased Babe he had just completed a five year span which included some very fancy batting figures—to-wit: 1928, .340; 1929, .381; 1930, .393; 1931, .313; with Brooklyn and with Cincinnati in 1932, .326.

Along with many others we felt that Babe was just the gent to fill the colorful rôle vacated by Hack Wilson. We were gratified when, after Babe's purchase, word came that Herman had been signed at a stirring salary, $21,500, they said it was. This plump sum seemed just the lump to inspire the Babe to great accomplishments you'll recall.

And you'll also recall that Babe batted only .289 his first year with the Cubs, and that a majority of his 147 hits were made when they weren't especially essential.

The Babe, after a big holdout campaign in the spring of 1934, batted .304. Some of his performances were said to have contributed much to the lumbago pains which caused Charley Grimm so much distress last year.

He Depreciates Fast.

Anyhow, Babe was a parcel in the Cubs' big November trade which sent him, Guy Bush, and Jim Weaver to the Pirates for Larry French and Freddy Lindstrom.

And on the last day of spring the Babe was sent by the Pirates to the Reds for the waiver price of $6,000.

Statisticians were quick to figure the depreciation on Babe as a baseball chattel. Back to Cincinnati for $6,000, it was pointed out, went a player still young enough to be good, who had been so valuable two and a half years ago.

Reminders of Babe's big depreciation were not content to stick to cash. It would have been pointed enough to say that the Reds sold Babe for $75,000 and got him back for $6,000. No, they had to bring up the fact that with the $75,000 the Cubs gave up Rollie Hemsley, for whom the St. Louis Browns recently refused $40,000; Johnny Moore, who currently is batting well above .300, and who has been in the Big Five of the National league many weeks since the season opened and who is among the National league home run hitters, and Bob Smith, the only pitcher who beat the Cubs on their recent visit to Boston.

Has Babe Been Crushed?

All these things may have crushed the Babe's spirit to the point that he feels so depreciated he won't be much good back with the Reds. And again, maybe they haven't crushed Babe at all.

We have said many times that we considered Herman a very sensitive person. We still believe he is despite his apparent indifferences on the playing field [when he gets on the playing field], and we haven't been swerved from the idea by the story of how Manager Pie Traynor of the Pirates became definitly soured on Herman.

It is related that Babe, playing left field for the Pirates against the Cardinals in the second series of the season last mid-April, fielded a short hit which had sent Pepper Martin from first to third. When Martin saw Herman lob the ball to second base he broke for home and made it with what proved to be the tying run.

Traynor, greatly distressed, later inquired of Babe what in the hell he could have been thinking about.

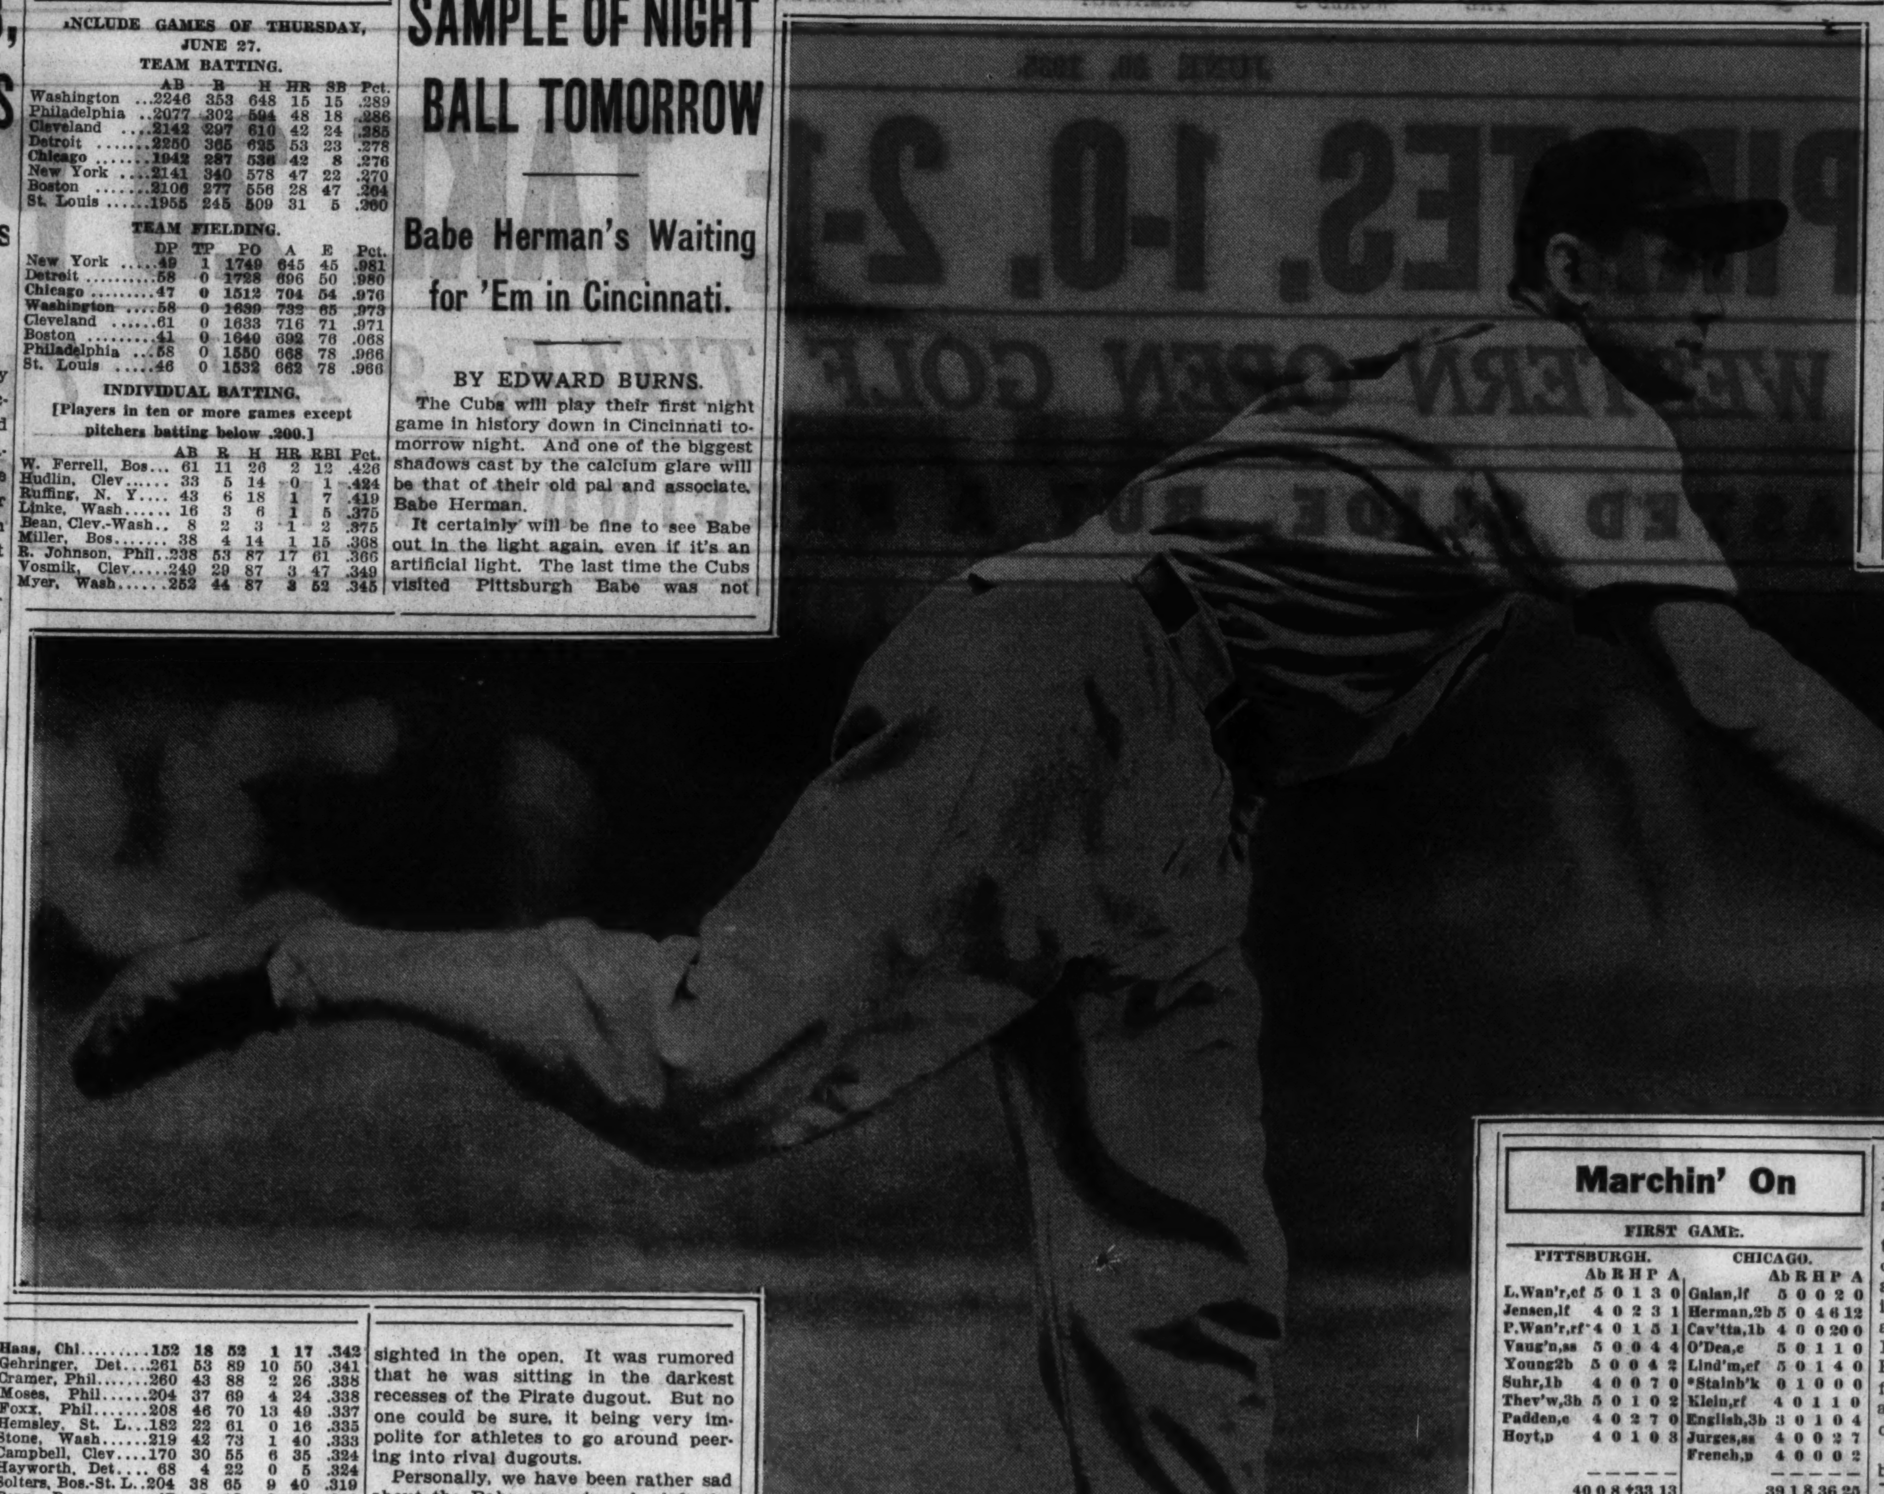
Whereupon Babe smiled, slapped Traynor on the back and said: "Don't let that upset you. That was nothing to some of the things we used to pull on the Brooklyn club."

Babe was willing to let bygones be bygones. But Traynor wasn't. So tomorrow night in Cincinnati Babe will be out there under the lights, representing a 2½ year depreciation computed as high as $150,000.

With Herman out of Pittsburgh, comparisons in the much discussed winter trade between the Cubs and Pirates become less complicated.

As this is written Guy Bush has won 4 and lost 3 and Weaver has won 5 and lost 6. French has won 6 and lost 5. Lindstrom is a regular and batting .286.

LET'S GET GOING AGAIN!



Vernon Kennedy promoted himself from the White Sox bull pen into a three game winning streak and then was treated roughly by the Detroit Tigers last time out. Now the young right hander is ready to start another victory march.

Cubs Whip Pirates, 1 to 0 and 2 to 1; Take 2d Place launched the ninth with a single to center. He moved up on P. Waner's sacrifice and stayed there while Vaughan fouled to Cavarretta and Young flied to Lindstrom.

Mr. Herman Again.

Herman opened the Cub ninth with a single to center. Cavarretta bunted and forced Herman. Then O'Dea hit into a double play.

The Pirates continued their hit-an-inning practice in the tenth. Padden singled with two out and was forced by Hoyt. After Lindstrom and Klein had supplied easy outs in the tenth, English singled to left, but Judges flied to L. Waner.

L. Waner led off the eleventh with a single over second and moved up on Jensen's sacrifice. P. Waner was called out on strikes and Herman threw out Vaughan.

The Cubs got two runners on after two were out in the eleventh. After French had popped to Young and Galan had fanned for the second successive time, Herman singled to center, his fourth and the Cubs' seventh hit. Cavarretta walked on five pitches for the first pass of the game but O'Dea flied to P. Waner.

Then the Blowoff.

With one out in the twelfth, Suhr drew French's first pass, then Thevenow hit into a double play, English to Herman to Cavarretta.

Here is the detail of the windup:

Lindstrom, hitless in four previous times at bat, opened the Cub 12th with a double over third. Stainback was sent to second to run for him. Hoyt gave Klein an intentional pass. English bunted and Hoyt tried to force Stainback at third. The throw not only was late, but was so bad that Thevenow didn't come close to making a catch. The ball bounded to the boxes and Stainback was waved home by Umpire Quigley when the ball went into the Cub dugout. Because the throw wouldn't have got Stainback, English was credited with a sacrifice and because he threw away the ball and ball game, Hoyt was charged with the only error in the otherwise sparkling contest.

SECOND GAME

Continued great work by the Cub infield warded off danger in the first inning of the second game. Jensen singled past Jurges with one out and reached second while P. Waner was beating out a bunt. Then Herman, Jurges, and Cavarretta clicked off a double play to chill the threat. In their half the Cubs had runners on third and first with two out, by virtue of a walk and Hartnett's single, but the inning ended when Lindstrom forced Hartnett.

Klein scored the first run of the game to start the second inning with his No. 11 homer, a line drive high into the bleachers in right center.

The Cubs made it 2 to 0 in the third. Herman opened with a single, paused while Cavarretta popped to Young and scored on Hartnett's second hit, a double to right. Lindstrom singled to left, Hartnett stopping at third. Klein then hit into a double play, launched by Lucas.

Cut Down at Plate.

The Pirates made their first run in 34 innings of play at Wrigley field after two were out in the fourth. Vaughan singled past Herman, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Young's double to right. Jurges threw out Suhr.

More great work by Herman and a fine catch by Cavarretta prevented a tie in the fifth. Thevenow opened with a double to left center. Herman then captured Grace's grounder near second base and threw to English in time to get Thevenow at third. Lucas fanned, but L. Waner singled. Cavarretta leaped high in the air to grab Jensen's liner.

A Cub scoring threat was halted at the plate in the home fifth. Cavarretta opened with a single to right and went to third on Hartnett's third hit of the game, a single to right. Lindstrom sent a short fly to P. Waner and Cavarretta was doubled at the plate, P. Waner to Grace. Klein bounced out to Suhr.

Cub Threat Nipped.

A Cub run seemed in the making in the sixth. English pushed off with a double to left and got to third on Jurges' sacrifice. Then Warneke lined to Young and Galan flied to P. Waner.

Hartnett made his fourth straight hit of the game with two out in the seventh but was forced by Lindstrom.

Lucas opened the eighth with a single to center and was forced at second on L. Waner's bunt, Warneke to Jurges. Jensen hit into a double play, Jurges to Cavarretta.

Sox Make 15 Hits, But Lose to Indians, 6-5

time Radcliff was the offender. He reached for Berger's liner which should have ended the inning, but the ball popped out of his hands for a two base error. Phillips slammed a single to center and Berger scored. Phelps then completed his day's thankless task by getting Hudlin on a fly ball to Haas.

The Indians suffered an attack of blind staggers in the seventh and the Sox lost no time cashing in. With one out Sewell lifted a ball over the pitchers mound, but nobody was interested in making the catch and it dropped for a single. Hopkins ran for Sewell. Conlan performed as a pinch batter for Phelps and singled to center. Radcliff rammed a single into right, Hopkins scoring and Conlon taking third.

The fun continued with Hayes' single to center, Conlon scoring and Radcliff sprinting to third. Radcliff ran home while Berger was throwing out Haas. Hayes was held at third when Knickerbocker knocked down Bonura's single in deep short. This put Simmons on the spot and he did well enough, but the luck was against him. With a three and two count he slammed a speedy bounder back at Hudlin, but the pitcher deflected the ball toward Berger, who recovered it in time to get the decision at first.

Vosmik Knocks One.

While Fischer was doing a one inning relief job in the seventh the Indians picked up a run on Vosmik's homer over the right field fence. This kept the Sox from climbing into a tie on a run with which they knocked Hudlin out of action in the eighth. Appling started this uprising by singling to center. The next two fellows, Dykes and Shea, were thrown out. Washington batted for Fischer and singled to right, Appling scoring. Lefty Brown then was called in to pitch to Radcliff, who rolled to Trosky.

DODGERS WHIP GIANTS, 3-2, FOR MUNGO'S TENTH

Brooklyn Star Wins Over Fitzsimmons, Hubbell.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 29.—(AP)—Van Lingle Mungo, Brooklyn mound mainstay, had the better of two of the Giants' aces, Fred Fitzsimmons and Carl Hubbell, today to gain his tenth victory of the season as the Dodgers won, 3 to 2, and evened the series.

The Dodgers pounded Hubbell for the winning run in the sixth after coming from behind to tie the score against Fitzsimmons in two previous innings. A pass to Tony Cuccinello and singles by Mungo and Ralph Boyle produced the necessary run. Frenchy Bordegaray who went to left field after Danny Taylor twisted his ankle in the third, knocked in the other two Brooklyn runs.

Mungo retired the last 13 Giant batters in order. Score:

REDS BEAT CARDS, 8 TO 6.

Cincinnati, O., June 29.—(AP)—Cincinnati's Reds today took their second straight game from the St. Louis Cardinals, beating off a ninth inning threat to win, 8 to 6.

Their cause had seemed hopeless as the Cards pounded Si Johnson to shoot into a 5 to 1 lead. Then Myers opened the seventh with a triple, driving Paul Dean from the mound, and his teammates hammered Walker for five runs and victory.

In the ninth Medwick hit a home run for the Cards, Collins singled, and Delancey walked. Moore's force out ended that threat, however. Score:

Ruth's Adopted Daughter's Estate Valued at $34,224

New York, June 29.—(AP)—Babe Ruth's 14 year old adopted daughter, Dorothy, has an estate valued at $34,224, it was disclosed today when surrogate James A. Foley signed an order authorizing payment of $100 for counsel fees in connection with the property. The girl's property, which the former home run king holds as her general guardian, includes $25,000 in guaranteed mortgage certificates, $7,000 in U. S. treasury bonds, $1,350 in jewelry and $874 in cash.

Lyons, Kennedy Will Pitch for White Sox Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., June 29.—Ted Lyons who would have pitched today if he hadn't complained of stiffness in his salary arm will work tomorrow in one-half of the double header against the Indians. Vernon Kennedy will be entrusted with the other game. The probable Indian starters are Mel Harder and Clint Brown.

Sam Jones who has pitched only one inning since he injured his arm May 22 at New York is ready to resume as a regular. He will be started in the opener of the series with the Browns at Chicago on Monday.

The paid attendance didn't quite reach the 6,000 mark. Most of the fans apparently held off for tomorrow's bargain bill.

Vernon Washington is having no trouble fattening his batting average while in the rôle of a pinch hitter. When he produced a single while batting for Fischer in the eighth inning today it marked his fifth in a row.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill Wins Women's Western Open Golf Championship—Patterson, Hess Reach College Tennis Final

ARLINGTON PARK OPENS GREATEST TURF MEETING

Seven Stakes Draw Best of Race Horses.

Prices Reduced

ARLINGTON PARK yesterday announced a cut in admission prices on week days. Admission to the grandstand, according to this arrangement, will be half the former price, or 50 cents plus the federal and state taxes of 25 cents, or a total of 75 cents.

Charles A. McCulloch, chairman of the board of directors of the Arlington Park Jocky club, said admission to the enclosure section will be $1.50, including all taxes.

For the five Saturdays and the 4th of July, when stakes exceeding $10,000 in value each will be offered, the grandstand admission will be $1 and to the enclosure $2, all taxes included.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Chicago's long summer racing season hits its peak tomorrow when the Arlington Park Jocky club opens its brilliant season of 31 days at its palatial course on the northwest side.

Turf stars from every corner of the country, representing America's best in every division from 2 year olds on up the line, are gathered at the track awaiting the battles which may clear up numerous championships. These title battles will come in the series of rich stakes events, the complete schedule for which is as follows:

Date.	Race.	Approx. value.
July 1	Inaugural handicap	$ 2,500
July 4	Stars and Stripes handicap	15,000
July 6	Hyde Park stakes	10,000
July 13	Lassie stakes	35,000
July 20	Classic stakes	40,000
July 27	Arlington handicap	15,000
Aug. 3	Arlington futurity	60,000

Two year olds will battle their way on toward the title in the Hyde Park and Lassie stakes and Arlington futurity. The 3 year old championship which Col. Edward R. Bradley's Black Helen is now disputing with William Woodward's Kentucky Derby winner, Omaha, should be definitly determined in the Classic, although the issue will be in a badly muddled state in the event both of these leaders should be beaten.

All the Stars to Be Here.

Older horses will have their innings in the Stars and Stripes and Arlington handicaps, and among the stars that will see action in these events will be Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Discovery, Brookmeade stable's Cavalcade, F. M. Alger Jr.'s Azucar, Mrs. Silas B. Mason's Head Play, E. P. Seagram's Stand Pat, Pat Knebelkamp's King Saxon, A. A. Baroni's Top Row, H. C. Rumage's Our Count, Northway Stable's Riskulus, Mrs. John Hertz's Watch Him, E. A. Carreaud's Time Supply, and all the other older notables which happen to be in racing trim at that time.

The first week of the Arlington season, which will include the opening tomorrow, the July 4th program on Thursday, and the running of the Hyde Park stakes on Saturday, should bring about new attendance records. This will be due to a degree to the new record low admission price that has been established and to the good racing that has been promised.

It will also be the first time this year that there has been racing along the fashionable north shore territory where many of Chicago's prominent owners and horse lovers spend the summer. They naturally are anxious to see the horses run in their own neighborhoods.

High Spot in Beauty.

Arlington Park, always a beauty spot from the time it was opened, never was quite so attractive as it is for this afternoon's opening. There has been a remarkable growth of trees, shrubbery and other landscape effects during the last year and the long row of apple trees along the back stretch provides almost a solid background of green in the view from the large stands, clubhouse, and Post and Paddock club.

Roy Carruthers again is directing the operation of the track for the Arlington Park Jocky club; Christopher J. Fitz Gerald and George Brown are the stewards; Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Arthur B. Hancock and Maj. Beard, the honorary stewards; Roy Dickerson will do the starting and Charles McLennan, who provided such attractive racing programs at the Washington Park meeting which closed yesterday, is the Arlington racing secretary.

Horses Move In.

Nearly all the horses that have raced at Washington Park for the last month will be in their Arlington Park quarters by tonight. The transfer of the bigger stables started as early as Thursday and the final movement of the thoroughbreds from the south side to the north side takes place today. From New York, Narragansett, Detroit, Latonia, and Canada will also come big shipments of horses today and tomorrow.

The inaugural feature for tomorrow's opener is in the shape of an overnight handicap. It attracted a big field of the fleetest horses quartered here for the seven furlong test.

Betting will be through the electric totalizer, which was introduced in Chicago by the Arlington Park Jocky club and added much to the popularity of the successful Washington Park season which ended yesterday.

JOE LOUIS 2D, BAER FOURTH IN N. B. A. RANKINGS

New York, June 29.—(AP)—Selection of Max Schmeling for the next opponent of Joe Louis is in accord with the latest heavyweight ranking made public by the National Boxing association. Joe Louis is rated No. 2 and Schmeling No. 3, a notch above Max Baer on the list headed by Champion James J. Braddock.

The first ten heavyweights are ranked in the following order: James J. Braddock, Joe Louis, Max Schmeling, Max Baer, Primo Carnera, Walter Neusel, Steve Hamas, Art Lasky, Jack Doyle, and Jack Peterson.

The list includes five Americans, two Germans, one Italian, one Irishman, and an Englishman.

WHEN ARLINGTON OPENS GATES TO CHICAGO TURF FANS

It's still a long way home for these horses, photographed at Arlington Park, where race meeting featuring all the country's turf stars will open tomorrow afternoon. The Classic, in which 3 year old champion likely will be decided, heads the stake program.

Mrs. Roy Carruthers (left), wife of Arlington executive, and Mrs. John Hertz will be among the interested spectators on many July afternoons at Arlington. Mrs. Hertz's horses will be prominent among stake entries.

Time, :23 3-5, :47 3-5, 1:00 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Higher Cloud, $6.70 straight, $3.92 place, $3.04 show; Lotofus, $3.58 place, $3.12 show; Trouper, $4.14 show. Winner trained by D. A. Headley. Went to post at 2:18. At post 1½ minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won handily; place driving.

HIGHER CLOUD, forced to race very wide in early stages, swerved over badly when closing with a rush and won well in hand. LOTOFUS, rushed into command, saved ground after first three-sixteenths and sustained good speed to end, but was no match for winner. TROUPER, away slowly, lost much ground on the turn, came between horses in stretch and finished fast.

SECOND RACE—One mile, out of chute. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :23 3-5, :47 4-5, 1:13 3-5, 1:41. Track good. Two dollar mutuels paid: Trek, $12.20 straight, $4.80 place, $3.88 show; Uluniu, $4.32 place, $3.66 show; Light Nun, $5.02 show. Winner trained by J. Hanover. Went to post at 2:47; off at once. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place same.

TREK, away slowly and far out of it for five-eighths, began to move up slowly on stretch turn, came with a rush in last three-sixteenths and wore down ULUNIU in closing strides. Latter, reserved off the pace, crowded by ORLATTA to reach an opening on inside soon after entering stretch, took command quickly and held on well, but was not good enough. LIGHT NUN, a factor throughout and cleverly rated, weakened slightly in last sixteenth.

THIRD RACE—Three-quarters of a mile. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. [Daily double, 2d and 3d races, paid $30.24.]

Time, :23 3-5, :47 3-5, 1:13. Two dollar mutuels paid: Ep, $5.08 straight, $3.22 place, $2.58 show; Gay Banner, $4.36 place, $3.50 show; Full Up, $4.64 show. Winner trained by W. Zeigler. Went to post at 3:16. At post 2½ minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won easily; place driving.

EP, much the best and near middle of track throughout, drew away fast on stretch turn and easily retained a commanding advantage thereafter. GAY BANNER, in close quarters early and taken to outside after reaching last three-eighths, bore over while closing well in an improved effort. FULL UP weakened slightly in late stages.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :23 3-5, :47 4-5, 1:00 2-5, 1:07 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Grand Duke, $4.68 straight, $2.64 place, $2.58 show; Kingsbury, $2.84 place, $2.90 show; Holl Image, $6.06 show. Winner trained by R. A. Kindred. Went to post at 3:47. At post ½ minute. Start good for all but Hi-Nelli from Bahr gate. Won easily; place driving.

GRAND DUKE, away fast and having fine speed, was under steady restraint for three-eighths, came away when urged and had something left. KINGSBURY, under strong riding after first five-sixteenths, could not get to winner and tired in late stages, but outstayed HOLL IMAGE. Latter, repeatedly shaken up in early stages, was taken to inside in stretch and finished well in an improved effort.

FIFTH RACE—One mile, out of chute. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :23 1-5, :47, 1:12 3-5, 1:39 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Wagwood, $11.36 straight, $5.74 place, $4.06 show; Jens Son, $8.50 place, $5.30 show; Silver Sickle, $3.78 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 4:22. At post 1 minute. Start good for all but Easy Sailing from gate. Won driving; place same.

WAGWOOD, far out of it for five-eighths, bettered his position rapidly on stretch turn and, continuing well when racing on outside in final quarter, was up in final seventy yards and drew away slowly thereafter. JENS SON had speed from the start, came away fast while racing wide on stretch turn, and swerved to inside while holding on well in the drive. SILVER SICKLE, rated close to the early pace, was under strong hand riding then after three-quarters and held on well to last 50 yards before weakening.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $5,000 added. Net value to winner, $4,220; second, $1,000; third, $500; fourth, $250.

Time, :24 2-5, :49 2-5, 1:14 4-5, 1:40 1-5, 2:06 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Late Date, $21.70 straight, $8.44 place, $5.68 show; Calumet Dick, $6.60 place, $4.42 show; Watch Him, $4.94 show. Winner trained by A. Frost. Went to post at 4:55. At post ½ minute. Start good. Won driving; place same.

LATE DATE, taken off the pace and rated along under strong restraint for seven-eighths, responded well when called upon and came around the leaders gradually and won drawing clear. CALUMET DICK suffered sharp interference from RISKULUS at the start, was in close quarters on stretch turn, suffered light interference when responding to severe pressure in stretch, and faltered slightly near end but outstayed WATCH HIM. Latter forced the pace under stout reserve and weakened after getting to front.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

SHOW BOY, allowed to drop out of it, improved his position gradually and won with speed in reserve. SHALOT, well in hand for three-quarters, took a short lead on stretch turn without need of pressure and was under vigorous riding the final three-sixteenths. GOOD CHEER, taken back repeatedly and on inside throughout, weakened in late stages.

EIGHTH RACE—One and three-sixteenths miles. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :25 3-5, :51, 1:16 3-5, 1:43, 2:02 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: The Break, $9.32 straight, $6.32 place, $3.90 show; Bataille, $13.04 place, $9.52 show; Para Four, $13.02 show. Winner trained by B. H. Sapp. Went to post at 5:55. At post 1½ minutes. Start good. Won driving; place same.

THE BREAK, going in his best form and rated off the pace, gained slowly when ready and wore down BATAILLE in closing strides. Latter, probably best and badly knocked about in the first half mile, lost much ground on lower turn and held on gamely after taking command, but failed to hold the winner. PARA FOUR finished fast in good effort.

SPRINT PRACTICE AIDS MRS. MOODY IN TENNIS PLAY

LONDON, England, June 29.—(AP)—Improvement in the footwork of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody since she began play in the Wimbledon tournament is a result of special training she adopted at the suggestion of Harry L. Hillman, Dartmouth college track coach, and now trainer of the American Davis cup team.

To develop more speed, Mrs. Moody followed Hillman's proposal that she put on spiked running shoes and practice sprinting starts daily. The former champion also set up a half dozen stakes in a row, weaving in and out of them to get more accustomed to shifting direction quickly.

FRANKLIN PARK SWIMMING POOL READY TO OPEN

The swimming season at Franklin Park, 14th street at Kolin avenue, will open officially tomorrow, according to announcement made by Erwin Weiner, director. Girls will use the two pools Mondays and Fridays, with Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays set aside for boys.

Wednesdays are used to clean the pools. More than 5,000 can be accommodated daily. A "learn to swim" campaign will be conducted later in the summer, as will a class for advanced swimmers who aim to pass the Red Cross examinations, according to Weiner.

Some Pomp, owned by Warren Wright of Chicago, may carry Calumet farm colors to victory in some of the important sprints.

Omaha Takes Dwyer Stakes by 1½ Lengths

New York, June 29.—[Special.]—William Woodward's Omaha won the Dwyer stakes today as a champion should, going handily as he passed the judges and 15,000 cheering racegoers. He ran precisely to the time mark of Man o'War, when that colt scored in 1920 in 1:49 1-5 for the mile and an eighth.

It was an easy race for the chestnut sun of Gallant Fox which took one more stride in the footsteps of his sire which was first in the Dwyer in 1930. The performance of sire and colt cannot be compared, as the race was at a mile and a half five years ago, but Omaha did everything expected of him.

Winnings Total $117,130.

His total winnings were pushed upward to the total of $117,130—$9,200 being gained in today's gallop. With $113,180 to his credit this season, Omaha has made more secure his place as the year's leading money winner. Second to the Woodward racer at the end was the filly Good Gamble, in with 114 pounds as against 126 for the colt.

Good Gamble ran a game race, but she was no match for the winner even though she finished within a length and a half of him at the end of the route. Eight lengths further back was Mrs. Payne Whitney's Cheshire. Then came Thorson and Cold Shoulder, the latter stablemate to Good Gamble. The colts had a ten pound concession from Omaha.

Pays Off at 7-10.

To the surprise of many, Omaha was at 7 to 10. This was based on prerace discussion that the mile and an eighth might be too short for him. Yet when the running began Omaha was away faster than in any race he has run this season. In his eight 1934 starts to date he has been five times first, once second, and twice third.

One of his third places was in last Saturday's Brooklyn handicap, when he stepped out of his class to meet older horses, and finished back of the 4 year olds Discovery and King Saxon.

POSTPONE OZARK MEET AGAIN FOR CUNNINGHAM

St. Louis, Mo., June 29.—(AP)—The Ozark A. A. U. track and field meet, rained out last night, was delayed again today.

Postponed until this afternoon because of a wet track, the meet was reset for tomorrow afternoon because of the inability of Glenn Cunningham, champion Kansas distance runner, to arrive in St. Louis until this evening.

Twelve nationally known stars, including Jack Torrance, Keith Brown, and Harold Osborne, were entered for the meet. All except Brown, Yale university's world record holder in the pole vault, will be able to stay over for tomorrow's events.

Brown was to leave this afternoon for Chicago.

THROOP, PA., BOY IS NEW KING OF MIB SHOOTERS

Ocean City, N. J., June 29.—(AP)—Henry Altyn of Throop, Pa., was crowned king of marble champions today, succeeding Clifton Seaver of Springfield, Mass., on the mibs throne.

Young Altyn, western-eastern champion, won the title by defeating Billy Trudall of Holyoke, Mass., northern and southern champion, in an eight game play off.

Seaver passed over his crown to Mayor Champion and the mayor placed it upon the head of the new ruler.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney is one of many prominent eastern owners whose colors will appear at Arlington.

FORT SHERIDAN TO START POLO SEASON TODAY

Led by Lieut. Col. Harry D. Chamberlin, a team of United States army poloists from Fort Sheridan will meet one from the 124th Field Artillery under Maj. R. G. Hunter this afternoon at Fort Sheridan. Starting at 3 o'clock, the game will open the outdoor polo season at the fort.

The officers from the regular army will put a twelve goal team on the field, with Maj. C. A. [Doc] Wilkinson rated at 5, Lieut. Col. Chamberlin and Lieut. Larry G. Smith at 3 each, and Lieut. E. C. Greiner at 1.

Against this combination Artillery will throw a six goal team, and, as a consequence, will start with a 6 point handicap. Herb Lorber is in the books at 3 goals, Maj. Hunter at 2, Lieut. Chris Schuh at 1, and Lieut. Jim McAnulty at zero.

The lineups:

U. S. ARMY.		124TH F. A.
Lieut. Greiner	No. 1	Lieut. McAnulty
Maj. Wilkinson	No. 2	Maj. Hunter
Lt. Col. Ch'mberlin	No. 3	Herb Lorber

OLYMPIA FIELDS PLAYS ARTILLERY POLOISTS TODAY

Outdoor polo will get under way at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Olympia Fields Country club, with the home team meeting a 124th Field Artillery quartet.

Among the standout players will be Steve Hammond of Olympia Fields and Capt. Romeo Mura and Lieut. Don Rice of the Artillery. Riding with Hammond for Olympia Fields will be Charley Roovaart, Eddie Hirsch, and Roy Nafziger. In addition Hammond's brother Bud and John Brenza, Ken Carter, Joe Bell, and Ivan Swain are named as players who may see action as replacements.

Capt. Mura and Lieut. Rice will line up with Capt. Les Ireland and Lieut. Lou Levine, with Capt. L. B. Callahan and Lieut. John Pon as alternates.

The lineups:

124TH F. A.		OLYMPIA FIELDS.

HILDEBRAND AND CARLSON TO RACE AT FAIR GROUNDS

Ernie Carlson and George Hildebrand, Chicago race drivers, have been signed to drive in the second series of big car races to be staged at the Fair Grounds speedway, River road and North avenue, Thursday afternoon.

Carlson, who has made a name for himself in the middle west during the last winter season in the midget field, and Hildebrand will drive for the Miller-Schofield racing team of Chicago.

More than 20 of the leading speedway and dirt track drivers have entered the coming races.

Time trials will start at 10 o'clock in the morning and the first race will be flagged at 3 o'clock.

ANITA ROSE AND SHALIMAR WIN AT HORSE SHOW

Frances Dodge Entries Take Stakes.

Anita Rose, shown by Miss Frances M. Dodge, was awarded the five gaited saddle horse championship of the Lake Forest horse show in the closing session yesterday afternoon at the Onwentsia club. Miss Dodge's Shalimar won the harness horse stake.

Outside of a rainy period early Friday evening the show enjoyed perfect weather. Boxes and stands both were filled at every performance.

Judges for the event were: Hunters—Lieut. Col. Harry D. Chamberlin, Fort Sheridan; Mrs. John Hay Whitney, Upperville, Va.; C. Groverman Ellis, alternate. Saddle horses—Charles W. Sprint Stars Run Tomorrow at Arlington

Large fields will be the order at Arlington Park opening tomorrow. The Inaugural handicap at six furlongs has attracted 18 entries, ranging in weight from the 120 pounds on Biff, victorious in the Chicago handicap, down to 98 pounds on Silent Shot. Many of the best sprinters in the country are entered in the event including in addition to Biff, Shandon Farm's Dust Girl and Evergold, Milky Way Farm's Wise Daughter and Blue Armor, J. S. Klein's Isaiah, Old Gold Stable's Transmutable, Calumet Farm's Some Pomp, Elmer Dale Shaffer's St. Bernard, and Mrs. A. M. Creech's Hasty Glance and Crout Au Pot.

While a majority of the horses in the Inaugural field are from the older division, the three year olds seem well represented by St. Bernard and Transmutable. The former was an early leader in the Kentucky Derby, and the latter set a new record of 1:04 1-5 for five and one-half furlongs at Aurora.

The chief supporting event is a mile dash for three year olds which has drawn the entries of Official, Skip It, Foggy Night, Whopper, Up and Up, Billy Bee, and others. Official, owned by J. J. Coughlin, won recently at Washington park in impressive fashion while Up and Up is one of the more prominent members of the Greentree Stable, which arrived recently from the east. Billy Bee raced prominently at Detroit. Another good supporting event is the fourth, which is attracting capable sprinters in Pair by Pair, Mr. James, Currants, Trinchera, Band Wagon, Petty Taw, and others.

GULF STREAM IS WESTBURY POLO WINNER, 8 TO 7

Westbury, Long Island, N. Y., June 29.—[Special.]—A surprisingly strong Gulf Stream team, whose lineup was almost completely changed just before the tourney started, finished its quest for the third Westbury challenge cup in victorious fashion today, defeating the Aiken Knights, 8 to 7, on International field at the Meadowbrook club.

Only one of the four Gulf Stream players named on the tournament program, J. H. [Ben] Phipps, saw action in the team's four contests as the makeshift side routed Aknusti, Long Island, Texas, and finally the Aiken Knights.

The original Gulf Stream lineup listed the Guest brothers, Winston and Raymond, and George J. Atwell Jr., but for various reasons they were not able to play through the competition.

BAER MARRIES CAPITAL COFFEE SHOP MANAGER

Mary Sullivan, 32, Bride of Ex-Champion.

Washington, D. C., June 29.—(AP)—Max Baer, the playboy of pugilism, proclaiming himself "a very fortunate young man, indeed," today married Miss Mary Ellen Sullivan of Ithaca, N. Y.

Calling back over his shoulder to all and sundry to "come on over to the hotel and we'll have a party," the newly decrowned heavyweight champion and his bride arranged to leave shortly thereafter by plane for New York.

The marriage ceremony, plans for which were a surprise until the early hours of this morning, was performed in midafternoon by Justice F. Dickinson Letts of the District of Columbia Supreme court. Members of the Letts household peeked through the windows of their own home to catch glimpses of the ceremony. Half a hundred newspapermen and photographers waited outside.

Coffee Shop Manager.

The new Mrs. Baer, 32 years old, a smartly dressed brunette, who until this morning was manager of the Willard Hotel Coffee shop here, had as her attendant Mrs. Claire Wagner of Washington. Baer's best man was Jay O'Brien of New York. They were the only witnesses.

When photographers swarmed around them after the ceremony, the newlyweds obligingly kissed again and again.

Soon after the ceremony Baer announced that from now on life is to be a serious business with him.

"I have been called a play boy, a night clubber, and lots of other things," he said. "This is my second offense and I'm serious this time. I will do my level best."

"I know you will," replied Mrs. Baer.

Undecided About Fighting.

"Are you going to fight any more?" Baer was asked.

"We are going to get together on that," the former champion answered.

"We are going to catch the 5:30 plane to New York City where I am to reherse a radio broadcast tomorrow. Then we are going to Asbury Park for a while and then go on out to California."

Scores of women were at Baer's hotel to greet him as he returned from the ceremony. Many were in bathing suits. All manifested interest in the surprise union of the prizefighter who won attention through his reported romances with beauties of the stage and screen and society.

Baer was married once before, to Dorothy Dunbar, an actress, from whom he was separated in 1932.

MORE KISSES

Newark, N. J., June 29.—(AP)—Max Baer, former heavyweight champion, and his bride, Mary Ellen Sullivan, arrived at Newark airport by plane from Washington at 7:17 p. m. today. The ship, an Eastern Air liner, was twenty-seven minutes late.

Baer, at the behest of photographers, kissed his bride a dozen times. She had little to say, but Max was loquacious as always. He said he would stay in New York until Tuesday when he and his wife will go to Asbury Park.

SHE CAN COOK, TOO

Ithaca, N. Y., June 29.—(AP)—There will be no biscuits hard as rocks for benedict Max Baer.

At least his bride, the efficient Mary Ellen Sullivan, has been concentrating no less than seven years on reaching her man's heart by way of his stomach.

It was back in 1924 that Mary Ellen was graduated from parochial school here and began thinking about a career. She liked cooking, so she decided to attend a Rochester institute on diet.

No sooner said than done, and Mary Ellen was graduated with honors as a dietitian. She was, she thought, quite good enough for more than one man's kitchen, so she got a job in Rochester as dietitian in the Sagamore hotel.

Two years ago she had progressed so far in the science of diet that the call came from other fields. It was the Willard hotel in Washington. She left Ithaca and Rochester.

Borotra, Poulian Are All Square on Insults; Duel Off

WIMBLEDON, England., June 29.—(AP)—A jury of honor meeting at Paris today decided Jean Borotra, French tennis star, and Didier Poulian, Paris sports writer, need not fight their proposed duel.

Tonight, Borotra said, "all I have to worry about is beating your magnificent American doubles teams" in the All-England tournament being played here.

There was one more immediate cause for worry, however. Borotra and his teammate meet the British pair, G. P. Hughes and C. D. R. and Tuckey, in the Queen's tournament to get at the Americans. And Hughes and Tuckey, in the queens tournament last week, put out two crack American teams, John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, and Donald Budge and Gene Mako.

Borotra, whom the sports writer had challenged by letter after an exchange of remarks concerning the Bounding Basque's decision not to play Davis cup singles while entering the Wimbledon tourney, was obviously pleased at settlement of the incident.

"Everything has been settled to my satisfaction," he said, "and I have been assured that Poulian never meant I was a poor sport. Now it is all over."

Paris dispatches said the jury of honor; composed of the two men's seconds, decided insults exchanged had canceled each other, and hence "the affair was definitly closed."

MEET THE NEW MRS. MAX BAER

Max Baer, former heavyweight boxing champion, and his bride, who was Mary Ellen Sullivan of Ithaca, N. Y., are congratulated by Justice F. Dickinson Letts after marriage ceremony yesterday in the Washington home of Justice Letts. The new Mrs. Baer, 32 years old, has been manager of a coffee shop in the national capital.

Levinsky and Louis to Fight in Mid-August

Indications are that the scheduled bout between Joe Louis, former Chicago Golden Gloves champion, and King Levinsky, heavyweight challenger, will be held at one of the major league ball parks between Aug. 10 and Aug. 20, Joe Foley, the promoter, announced last night.

No definite date or site will be announced until Tuesday when a conference will be held involving the principals and their managers, the promoter, and Mike Jacobs, representative of the Twentieth Century club, which promoted the Louis-Carnera bout in New York Tuesday. The Century club holds an option on the services of Louis, which has been waived to allow Louis to battle Levinsky here. The club expects to promote matches between Louis and Max Baer, and Louis and Max Schmeling in the fall. Both Schmeling and Baer are former holders of the heavyweight championship.

Farr Arrives Today.

Mickey Farr, Foley's matchmaker, who arranged preliminary details for the impending Louis-Levinsky bout, will arrive by airplane from New York this morning accompanied by Barney Ross, welterweight champion, and the latter's manager, Sam Pian. Jacobs and Julian Black and John Rox Rozborough, joint managers of Louis, and Harold Steinman, who represents Levinsky, will arrive from the east Tuesday.

After the meeting Tuesday Promoter Foley expects to appear before the state boxing commission and request a date for the match. He said shortly after contracts have been signed training camps for both fighters will be established somewhere near Chicago.

A Levinsky-Louis encounter first was sought by James C. Mullen of Chicago Stadium for presentation prior to Joe's six round knockout conquest of Carnera. Louis was anxious for such a contest but Levinsky, despite an offer of $15,000, declined because he was in the midst of a successful comeback campaign in the hinterlands which could not be curtailed.

Scores 10 Knockouts.

During the tour the Kingfish compiled a record of thirteen triumphs in as many appearances. He scored ten knockouts. These victims follow:

Merrill Tonn, knockout [2], Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 4; Jack Townsend, knockout [2], Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 19; Jack Wagner, knockout [2], Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 21; Joe Savage, knockout [3], Tampa, Fla., Feb. 11; Ted De Marano, knockout [2], West Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 14; Salvatore Ruggirello, knockout [2], Tampa, Fla., March 4; Babe Hunt, won [10], Dallas, Tex., March 27; Joe Rice, knockout [2], Oklahoma City, Okla., April 1; Bob Williams, knockout [1], Tulsa, April 4; Hans Birkie, knockout [4], Denver, Colo., April 15; Jack Slade, knockout [2], Davenport, Ia., June 7; Hans Birkie, won [10], Toronto, Ont., May 27; Tom Jones, won [4], Peoria, Ill., June 10.

EAGLES RALLY TO BEAT AMERICAN GIANTS, 6 TO 3

A dropped throw by Steel Davis at first base in the ninth inning enabled the Brooklyn Eagles to defeat the Chicago American Giants, 6 to 3, in the opener of their four game Negro National league series at Cole's park yesterday.

The Giants saw their 3 to 2 lead slip away when the Eagles counted four runs in the last inning after Davis' error on Marshall's throw. Art Jackman held the Giants to seven hits, while the Chicagoans used Otis Brown until the ninth when Putt Powell replaced him after one was out and Brooklyn already had its six runs.

Baroness Levi Captures New Jersey Tennis Title

Hackensack, N. J., June 29.—(AP)—Baroness Maud Levi, of New York, won the New Jersey women's singles tennis championship today by defeating Norma Taubele, of New York, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2 in the finals at Oritani Field club. By her victory the baroness gained permanent possession of a three year challenge cup which had been in play for ten years.

WILLIAMS FACES FLOWERS IN TITLE BATTLE TUESDAY

Sagilio, Pacho Clash at Comiskey Park.

A 15 round bout between Holman Williams of Detroit, Mich., and Baby Tiger Flowers of Omaha, Neb., for the colored lightweight championship of the world will feature this week's national ring program. The bout will head a card of five other matches, one at ten rounds and four at five rounds, involving some of the most promising boxers in the country, at White Sox park Tuesday night.

Frank Sagilio of Cicero, who recently placed himself under the guidance of Jack Hurley of Duluth, Minn., and Bobby Pacho, one of the most popular fighters ever to show here, will be the contending warriors in the scrap scheduled for ten rounds.

Bridges Faces Thomas.

The five round encounters will bring together Clinton Bridges, Detroit, and Lou Thomas, Indianapolis, at 175 pounds; Max Marek, Chicago, and Scotty Fuller, Indianapolis, in the heavyweight division; Dave Clark, Detroit, and Tony Zale, Gary, at 160, and Lorenzo Pack, Detroit, and Pete Wistort, South Chicago, at the heavyweight poundage.

Bridges, Clark, and Pack won intercity and international Golden Gloves titles this year and appear to have bright futures in the professional field. Marek will be making his first pro start.

Holman Williams is no stranger to south side fans. In his last four appearances at the Midway arena Williams knocked out Harry Booker, Billy Mack, and Lee Shepard and won in eight rounds from Booker. The 20 year old youngster also has scored knockouts over such opposition as Tommy Corbett [3], Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 11; Battling Gizzy [1], Milwaukee, Nov. 9; Eddie Carroll [2], Milwaukee, Jan. 1. Among other victims is Tommy Paul, former featherweight champion.

Flowers Comes East.

Flowers, who is 21 years old, will be making his first appearance east of Omaha, where he resides. During his five year career he won 82 matches in 125. He has defeated Billy Wallace, Ignacio Fernandez, Varias Milling, Pinta de Sa, and Johnny [Kid] Morro.

Manager Hurley, who did a fine job in managing Billy Petrolle to the pugilistic heights, is confident he can do as well with Sagilio. He bases this opinion on the terrific hitting power the Cicero lad possesses. Sagilio made a success of his first bout under the direction of his new manager by defeating Frank Kamecki in six rounds at Fargo, N. D., June 14. It was Sagilio's twentieth triumph in twenty-four professional fights, the majority of which were won by knockouts. Matchmaker Howard Carr is confident a crowd of more than 10,000 will attend.

Marek Surprises Friends.

Max Marek's decision to turn pro came as a surprise despite his fine record in Golden Gloves and Catholic Youth organization tournaments. Marek won the C. Y. O. light heavyweight crown in 1932, an accomplishment which earned for him a scholarship to St. Viator college, Bourbonnais, Ill. He went on to capture the intercity Golden Gloves title in the following year. In the 1934 Golden Gloves meet Max competed as a heavyweight and he was nosed out of the title by Big Otis Thomas after three rounds of the most thrilling fighting ever staged at Chicago stadium. Marek defeated his New York opponent in the intercity competition.

After leaving St. Viator, Marek enrolled at Notre Dame. After two semesters at South Bend, Marek's funds ran low and so this, probably more than anything else, helped him decide to fight professionally. As his first move in this direction he placed himself under the direction of the C. Y. O. professional department, another idea of the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, national director of the organization.

Bouts on this week's boxing and wrestling schedule include:

MONDAY.

At Marigold Gardens—Billy Celebron vs. Billy Miller [10], Jimmy Smith vs. Bud Logan [6], Joe Cieslak vs. Eddie Pearson [4], all welterweights; Armanda Sicilia vs. Frank Schultz, bantamweights, and Sammy Wallace vs. Billy Ritchie, lightweights, each four rounds.

175 pounds—Ray McNally, Ray Wozniak, Sigmund Logocki, Bill Bittner, Otto Fischel, Mike Cavallini.

Heavyweights—Tom Kenneally, Al Camber, Chris Schuessler, Mike Adler.

PLAY DELAYED CITY TENNIS FINALS TODAY

The finals of the city championship tennis tournament will be played this afternoon at the Oak Park Tennis club.

Russell Ball, Northwestern university player who was eliminated from the national intercollegiate tournament in yesterday's semi-finals at Evanston, will meet Bill Parkhill for the city title.

In the women's division final, Mrs. Ruth Reese of Saginaw, Mich., will encounter Margaret Stiel of Oak Park.

The matches were postponed because of rain on the closing day of the city tournament two weeks ago.

WOOD, 2 HELENS WIN MATCHES AT WIMBLEDON

Four Americans Left in Title Tourneys.

LONDON, June 29.—(AP)—Four Americans remained in Wimbledon's major tennis meet today as singles fields in the All-England tournaments were cut to eight in the men's division and 16 in the women's.

Sidney Wood of New York joined Donald Budge of California in the men's quarter-finals with a comparatively easy conquest of Harry Hopman of Australia. The two California women aces, Helen Jacobs and Helen Wills Moody, moved uneventfully into the fourth round of the women's division.

Making it unanimous from an American standpoint, John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison reached top form in the doubles for the first time since they arrived in England and eliminated the crack Japanese pair, Hideo Nishimura and Jiro Yamagishi, in straight sets. Budge and Gene Mako of Los Angeles advanced in the same division.

Wood Plays Carelessly.

Wood, generally rated the most formidable of Fred Perry's challengers, played carelessly and listlessly against Hopman, but he had no real trouble in winning 6-1, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3. In each of the three sets he won Wood piled up a 4-1 lead at the outset and never was in any danger.

Wood's quarter-final round rival will be Jack Crawford of Australia who put out George Patrick Hughes, British Davis cup doubles player, 7-5, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Budge, who gained the quarter-finals yesterday with an upset triumph over Christian Boussus of France, will meet H. W. [Bunny] Austin, British stylist, next. Austin, victorious today over E. D. Andrews of New Zealand, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-0, will be the favorite.

The other pairings will send Perry against Roderich Menzel, big Czech, who put out Enrique Maier of Spain, 6-3, 6-0, 0-6, 6-3, and Gottfried von Cramm of Germany against Vivian McGrath of Australia, victorious today over Nigel Sharpe of England, 6-1, 6-3, 7-5.

Helen's Win Easily.

Neither Miss Jacobs nor Mrs. Moody were pressed to earn their fourth round brackets. Miss Jacobs was carried to one deuce set by Nancy Lyle of England, but won 7-5, 6-1, while Mrs. Moody eliminated the British squash racquets star, Susan Noel, 6-1, 6-3.

Perhaps the most sensational development of the day, however, was the form Allison and Van Ryn displayed in whipping Nishimura and Yamagishi, 9-7, 7-5, 6-1. Previously unimpressive here this summer, the American Davis cup pair played as a smoothly working unit for the first time, overcame stubborn resistance from the Japanese in the first two sets and then sailed through the third set at a dazzling pace.

Mako and Budge, a round behind, eliminated G. R. Meredith and D. W. Butler of Great Britain, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3.

Miss Jacobs and Mrs. Moody should have an easy time winning berths in the quarter finals. On Monday the American champion will play Mrs. E. C. Peters of Great Britain, while Mrs. Moody meets Miss E. Cepkova of Czechoslovakia. If both win competition will get together, for Mme. Rene Mathieu of France will stand in Mrs. Moody's path to the semi-finals and Eileen Bennett Whittingstall blocks Miss Jacobs' bid for a place in the last four.

15,000 ATHLETES TO PARADE IN BRAZIL TODAY

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jun 29.—More than 15,000 athletes representing all branches of sport will parade several miles by a number of reviewing stands tomorrow in the biggest athletic carnival ever held in Brazil.

The huge concentration is sponsored by the army's physical educational school to demonstrate Brazil's advancement in physical education during the past fifteen years.

APPLING'S DUE TO TAKE BOW AS STAR SHORTSTOP

Few Better than Luke; He Has Steel Arm.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., June 29.—Luke Appling, who plays shortstop for the White Sox, now has gone far enough in the 1935 campaign to warant a few words in his behalf. In the glamor occasioned along the route by such things as John Whitehead's eight straight victories on the mound, Zeke Bonura's homers, Rip Radcliff's hitting, etc., Appling has been overlooked by the hero hunters.

But the young man from Atlanta, Ga., has been in there every day, plugging away at the toughest job the infield offers. He has been roaming far to his right and his left, going back for short pops and coming in to handle the treacherous slow bounders. What's more, he's been doing all these things with mighty few damaging errors in between. That's the surprising feature of his work. It took five seasons to steady him down to that sort of a pace.

He's Right Up There.

If you'd rate the Appling of the present as one of the best shortstops of either major league you probably would get an argument from one place or another. Some of the experts might prefer to point out that he always has been notorious for stumbling around in the pinches. But such of the experts as might scoff at a lofty rating for the lad probably would have trouble proving that more than a couple of the other shortstop guardians are superior in skill.

The chief item in Appling's importance as a defensive cog in the White Sox layout is an amazingly powerful arm. He's shown it this season more than ever before, although the arm hasn't changed. Time and again he has charged back of Third Baseman Jim Dykes, captured grounders that eluded the manager and whipped out even fast runners going to first base. In the past he could seldom rise to these super plays, partly because he didn't get the ball away fast and partly because, when pressed, he would throw wild.

Changes Fielding Style.

Appling also has undergone a change in his general conduct involving the picking up of grounders. In the past he charged balls on which he had plenty of time. This put him off balance and frequently he either fumbled or made wide throws because of being in an awkward position. Apparently he has learned that he can take enough time to be safe and then make up for it by making use of his rifle-like arm.

Comparing Appling by use of figures which sometimes mean something doesn't force the Chicago notable to concede much to his league rivals in hitting. He and four others are batting in the same neighborhood so far as averages go and also in the run driven in department. And there's reason to suspect that Luke will boost his percentage considerably. Just now he's around 25 points shy on his finishing mark of .303 last season and well behind his .322 of 1933.

ST. HYACINTH PLAYS QUEEN OF ANGELS TODAY

St. Hyacinth, defending titleholder and undefeated in three league games, will meet Queen of Angels today in the C. Y. O. baseball competition. The game will be played at Montrose and Western.

Eighteen games are scheduled today. Other interesting games besides the St. Hyacinth-Queen of Angels tilt are St. Viator vs. St. Hilary's, St. Luke vs. St. Mary of Celle, and St. Genevieve vs. Our Lady of Angels.

Several games postponed June 16 because of rain will be played July 4. Today's schedule:

St. Hyacinth at Queen of Angels, Montrose and Western.

St. Mary's at St. Ladislaus, Chapin park, Roscoe and Long.

St. Viator's at St. Hilary's, Catalpa and Rockwell.

St. Hedwig's at Mercy Mission, Grant park, No. 3.

St. Josaphat at St. Mark's, Lincoln park, No. 18 [Waveland avenue].

St. Luke at St. Mary of Celle, Berwyn, 14th and Euclid.

St. Genevieve at Our Lady of Angels, 45th and Division.

Epiphany at St. Stanislaus, Fullerton and Long.

St. Pius at St. Maria Incoronata, 33d and Shields.

St. Gabriel at St. Bronislava, Bessemer park, 89th and South Chicago avenue.

St. Martin at St. Basil's, 54th and Hoyne.

Sacred Heart at St. Michael's [48th street], at 51st and Lincoln.

St. Christina at St. Blase's, 61st and Harlem.

St. Adrian at St. Camillus, Archer and Laramie.

St. Alphonsus at Nativity, 59th and Damen.

JACK O'NEILL, FORMER CUBS CATCHER, DIES

Scranton, Pa., June 29.—(AP)—Jack O'Neill, a catcher with the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs, a quarter of a century ago, died of pneumonia today. His major league career ended in Boston when he suffered an eye injury.

With his brother, Mike, he formed one of the outstanding brother batteries in the major leagues. Another brother, Steve, also a catcher, is a coach with the Cleveland Indians. Still another brother, Jimmy, left the majors ten years ago when stricken ill while playing third base for the Washington Senators.

WONDERBOLTS TO END SEASON WITH HAKOAHS TODAY

The Wieboldt Wonderboldts, who have lost only one game in Chicago since October, 1933, will conclude their soccer season today when they meet the Hakoah team at Kuppenheimer stadium, 19th street and Keeler avenue. Several members of the Maccabee All-Stars will be in the lineup of the Hakoahs.

Bill Watson, who played on the All United States and All-Illinois teams against the Scottish international team, will be in the lineup of the Wieboldts as will Glen Cuthbert.

Mills Meet Battle Creek Twice Today

Games Today

Mills vs. Battle Creek, Mich., Mills stadium, 1:30 p. m. [2].

Spencer Coals vs. Logan Squares, Spencer field, 1:30 p. m. [2].

Chicago Firemen at Akron, O., 3 p. m.

Aurora at Elgin, 3 p. m.

The Chicago Mills semi-pro baseball team will meet the Postum club of Battle Creek, Mich., in a double-header at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, this afternoon. The first game will start at 1:30 o'clock. Twelve hundred employés of the Mills Novelty company will be guests of the Mills management.

John [Lefty] Sullivan, enjoying one of the greatest seasons in his long career, will seek his fifth consecutive victory in the second game. Gordon McNaughton has been named by Manager Bill Harley to start the first game against the visitors.

Coals Meet Squares.

Battle Creek comes to Chicago with one of the best records among the semi-pro clubs of the central west. It defeated the American Giants, champions of the Negro National league, two out of three games; tied the Tokio Giants of Japan in 12 innings, and defeated the La Juntas, champions of Mexico.

Other double-headers on today's schedule bring together the Spencer Coals and the Logan Squares at Spencer field, 4200 North Central avenue, and pit the House of David against the Duffy Florals at Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets.

Elmer Dean Faces Florals.

Jim Vaughn, veteran of many major and semi-pro campaigns, will pitch the second game against the Spencers. He will be opposed by Mike Yarros, the Spencers' fast ball pitcher. Manager Elmer Olson of the Squares probably will use Bill Holabird in the first game.

Elmer Dean, older brother of Dizzy and Paul Dean of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Ossie Orwoll, formerly of the Philadelphia Athletics, will pitch for the House of David against the Duffy Florals. Dutch Kohlenberg and Tony Sims, leading pitchers for the Florals, have been selected by Manager Tommy Brice to face the bearded athletes.

POLICE TO OPEN TITLE BASEBALL SERIES TODAY

Chicago police baseball teams will open their championship series this afternoon at Comiskey park. The game will be a feature of the annual police field meet.

Capt. Patrick Harding of Rogers Park police station will lead the north side division and Capt. John Hogan of Hyde Park police station will head the south side team. The series will be concluded with games Thursday and July 7.

The entire proceeds of the meet are to go to the fund which provides for the care of the widows and orphans and other dependents of policemen killed in the line of duty.

Gates will open at 1 o'clock and the game will start at 2.

YANKEE BEATS ENDEAVOUR IN FALMOUTH RACE

FALMOUTH, England, June 29.—(AP)—The Boston schooner Yankee today won the class J race, feature of the Falmouth regatta, in 4 hours 23 minutes 35 seconds.

T. O. M. Sopwith's unsuccessful America's cup challenger, Endeavour, led during the early stages of the race but struck a calm and the American boat forged into the lead and held it to the finish.

Trailing Yankee across the finish line in order were the British boats Candida, Shamrock and Endeavour. Three other British boats, Britannia, Velsheda and Astra, failed to finish.

The times for the other three finishers were: Candida 4:28:09; Shamrock 4:28:43; Endeavour 4:32:42.

What's in That Trunk? A Few Trout Lures!

BY BOB BECKER.

If the fly fisherman who goes after black bass attempts to carry with him only a reasonably large assortment of lures made to fool the bronze backs, he stands the risk of tiring quickly under the load, so numerous are the fish foolers now made for this sport.

When we were checking over our outfit a few weeks ago trying to sort out a typical group of lures to take on a trip we found we didn't have room enough in the fly boxes to take along even a fair assortment of all the lures that we wanted to toss at the black bass. There are scores of different lures and color variations of them for the fly fisherman. And the trouble, as far as the puzzled fisherman is concerned, is that just about all of them will fool bass!

How to Mix 'Em Up.

For the fly fisherman who likes bass fishing we suggest the following typical assortment for either river or lake fishing. The list includes lures for making the bass come to the surface, lures that we like to use late in the evening, lures that make a fuss on top of the water and apparently tantalize the fish, hair lures for either surface or underwater use, lures with spinners that travel beneath the surface and prove attractive when bass will not smack things on top of the water, and other gadgets that not only look well in the fly box but also to the bass.

We can start the list with several hair flies. We like hair flies that, when "dressed," will float, and also hair flies that can be fished wet. Our fly box has these lures in red and white, solid orange, black and white, and other color combinations. One hair fly that we use can be fished dry and thus is quite weedless. Last summer we struck days when we had to get down with the lure and then we added a tiny gold spinner to a hair fly to fool small mouth bass. Therefore a few spinners in the fly box come in handy.

Hair-Feather Combination.

In addition to these hair flies we have had good luck with combination hair and feather lures that float. There are several kinds made by American tackle manufacturers. One that has fooled many a fish for us had a head of hair while the rest of the lure is made of feathers which have an attractive motion when retrieved.

Then we recommend the bugs that float. Last summer when we fished the High Falls reservoir near Crivitz, Wis., we had dandy luck with floating bugs made of hair, cork bodied bugs, and several other floating lures that sort of duck under the water and go "glup" when you give them a jerk. Some of the most attractive floaters apparently do not attempt to imitate any insect at all. Because they float and dance on the water the bass is fooled completely.

Streamers Look Alive.

Two other types of lures that we like and are using this summer on a fly rod are jointed surface lures and streamer flies of different patterns. The jointed lures should not be retrieved too rapidly. Just a few jerks of the rod are sufficient to make these lures put on a good show for bass. The streamer flies which we tried last summer in Ontario come through the water with a lot of motion, the long feathers rippling back and forth like something alive.

MANGRUM WINS IN PENNSYLVANIA OPEN; CARDS 290

Hershey, Pa., June 29.—(AP)—Ray Mangrum, long driving Los Angeles pro, won the Pennsylvania open golf championship today with a 72 hole total of 290.

While Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J., collapsed down the stretch along with virtually every other leader, Mangrum fired a 70 on his last round over the Hershey Country club layout to make up a six stroke disadvantage and grab off the title.

Clark, who had piled up a big lead on the field at the 54 hole mark, tossed his advantage away on the final 18 holes, carding a 77 to finish a stroke in back of Mangrum.

The national open champion, Sam Parks Jr. of Pittsburgh, continued to run into the difficulty he hit throughout the three days of the tourney. He took a 77 on the last 18 holes to finish with a total of 298—among the leaders but eight strokes off the pace.

OWENS TO HEAD FIELD IN A. A. U. TRACK CARNIVAL

Jesse Has One Goal; To Beat Metcalfe.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Jesse Owens, Ohio State sophomore who this year has established the enviable record of winning four Western conference and four national collegiate championships, not forgetting the three titles he took in the Central intercollegiate meet at Milwaukee, is ready to continue his string of victories in the National A. A. U. track and field meet at Lincoln, Neb., Wednesday and Thursday. Regardless of his record performances, Owens' year will be complete if he wrests the sprint championships from Ralph Metcalfe, former Marquette sprinter, who has held them for the last three years.

There may have been some doubt a month ago whether Owens could whip Metcalfe in the 100 meter. There were some who thought Metcalfe could take both the 100 and 200 meter events, basing their conclusions on his steady racing of last year climaxed by victories over Owens, then a freshman at Ohio State and eligible for the National A. A. U., although not competing in college meets.

Prep Star Beats Him.

However, in view of Metcalfe's lack of competition this year [he's now a law student at Marquette] and particularly after Metcalfe's defeat a week ago in the Central A. A. U. 100 meter dash by Bob Packard, a Rockford High school boy, the wagering, if any, favors the Buckeye star. It may be that Metcalfe will not be able to reach top form again. If so, his cherished dream of winning an Olympic title has faded.

The Olympic games at Los Angeles in 1932 actually was Metcalfe's best opportunity to engrave his name on the list of American international victors. But Eddie Tolan, then just a step from the swift descent from the peak of supremacy, barred the path. Metcalfe practically ran a dead heat in the 100 meters, receiving credit for the same time as Tolan, but losing the championship by inches. In the longer sprint, a mistake in measurement, although this never has been officially admitted, is believed to have cost Metcalfe a title.

Now Jesse Owens has stepped forward to claim attention for the 1936 games at Berlin.

Mark Down a Victory!

There is no doubt but that Owens will win the National A. A. U. broad jump championship, a title he now holds. His leap a week ago in the national collegiates was more than 26 feet, the fourth time he has cleared that distance. One of these was 26 feet 8¼ inches, the unofficial world record.

By defeating Glen Hardin of Louisiana State in the N. C. A. A. 220 yard low hurdles, Owens has disposed of his last serious college competitor for this event. Metcalfe is the only possible opponent for the sprint unless Owens suffers a loss of form.

Fifteen of the twenty-one winners in last year's National A. A. U. meet, which was held at Milwaukee, have entered the Lincoln meet to defend their laurels. Two of the 1934 champions, Eino Pentti of New York's Millrose A. A., 10,000 meter champion, and Harold Manning, the former Wichita university athlete, holder of the 3,000 meter steeplechase title, will not defend at Lincoln, since their events have been removed from the regular national program and will be held separately later. If they compete they must enter the 5,000 meter race, the longest of the national events at Lincoln.

Bonthron, Eastman Out.

Bill Bonthron, Princeton's great miler, who set a national and world record in the 1,500 meter race last year and defeated Glenn Cunningham while doing so, has retired from competition. Ben Eastman, formerly of Stanford, 1934 800 meter winner, has not trained for defense of his title.

The list of title holders planning to defend follows:

Ralph Metcalfe, 100 and 200 meter dashes.

Ivan Fuqua, former Indiana runner, 400 meters.

Frank Crowley, New York A. C., 5,000 meter run.

Jesse Owens, Ohio State, broad jump.

Keith Brown, New York A. C., and Bill Graber, Ontario, Cal., co-champions in the pole vault.

Dudley Wilkins, Southwestern Louisiana institute, hop, step, and jump.

Bob Jones, Olympic club, discus.

Ed O'Brien, Syracuse sophomore, who won the Princeton invitational 440 yard race in 47 3-10 seconds, will make his national debut. The return battle between Beard and Sam Allen, Oklahoma Baptist high hurdler, who defeated Beard at Princeton in the excellent time of 14 3-10 seconds, will undoubtedly be one of the features at Lincoln.

Plan Trips Abroad.

From the list of the nation's stars three teams will be chosen to make world tours this summer. One team is going to Sweden, Norway, Holland, Czechoslovakia, and Hungary; another is going to France, Belgium, and Switzerland, while a third group will compete in Finland.

122D F. A. POLO TEAM TO OPPOSE PARK RIDGE FOUR

The 122d Field Artillery polo team will meet Park Ridge at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the North Shore Polo, Hunt, and Riding club on Glenview road, between Waukegan and Skokie boulevard.

Lieut. Zimmerman, captain, announced that Bairnsfather will go in at back for the 122d Field Artillery owing to the absence of Lieut. Carl Johnson, who suffered a broken bone in his wrist when his horse went down during last Sunday's game.

Right Turn on Red Light Plan Gains a Point

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 29.—[Special.]—Ernst Lieberman, state highway engineer, felt that he was making a concession to a freak idea when he reluctantly agreed this week to amend his department's proposed new trafic code so that it would not prohibit park districts or cities from authorizing a right turn after stopping for a red light if and where they might see fit.

The concession does not mean that the Illinois highway department favors such a maneuver. Mr. Lieberman is decidedly opposed to it.

"A red light should never mean anything but stop," he declared.

Called to his attention was the color used for tail lights of automobiles, for lights marking safety islands and street car loading platforms, for lanterns marking street excavations, and for danger signs. This citation, with a gesture of good humor, was merely for the purpose of reducing his argument to the ridiculous.

Turn After Stop.

A more logical citation, one worthy of Mr. Lieberman's investigation, is the experience with the right turn on the red light in New York, Detroit, and Los Angeles.

New York police officials, interviewed several months ago by this reporter, declared that the streets of Manhattan could not move their present volume of trafic without the right turn after a preliminary stop for the red.

The bottleneck on any busy street is its intersection. This maneuver permits a portion of the trafic to trickle through the bottleneck when it is corked by a red light against a movement straight through the intersection.

In Chicago, where Leslie Sorenson, city hall trafic engineer, is also opposed to the right turn on the red, a mass of automobiles is [illegible] awaiting the green. With the appearance of the go signal the lane next to the curb remains blocked by cars wanting to turn right that might well have swung out of the way during the red interval.

Detroit System Satisfactory.

New York's successful experience with the right turn on the red offers a good example for Chicago and other large cities of the advantages of this regulation in a congested area. Detroit, a younger city, with its many miles of pavement spread over a wide territory, offers a good example of the advantages of this regulation in areas not congested.

The Detroit system, also investigated by this reporter earlier this year, was found to be highly satisfactory to the police of the automobile manufacturing center. There the police contend—with the contention substantiated by accident statistics as well as by logic—that the right turn after a stop for a red is safer than a right turn on the green without a preliminary stop.

In Los Angeles, inspected by this reporter last year, the Automobile Club of Southern California said that the right turn was inaugurated there on recommendation of its engineers mainly as a safety measure.

Regardless of whether the right turn is made on the red or on the green, the movement causes the vehicle to cross two pedestrian paths. The essential difference between the turn on the red and on the green is the preliminary stop for the red, obviously a safety factor.

Racing for Turn.

With the turn on the red prohibited, motorists approaching an intersection with a green light race to the corner to beat the change of the lights. These excessively fast turns endanger the lives of pedestrians.

Regardless of whether the Illinois highway department's proposed new trafic code becomes the law the right turn after stopping for the red is legally possible in Illinois.

Under the present statutes it operated successfully in Chicago in Sheridan road between Evanston and Devon avenue before the park merger by authority of a north shore park district ordinance.

Mr. Lieberman's concession this week merely removed a threat against a legal ban against such a maneuver.

HOUSEHOLDER TO DRIVE NEW CAR IN SPARTA RACES

Ronney Householder, one of the best drivers in the midget racing field, will pilot a new car tomorrow night, when he enters the qualifying trials for the auto races at Sparta stadium, 22d street and Kostner avenue.

Curley Mills, Roy Rickter, Tony Nardi, Steve Young, Shorty Sorenson, and Frank Jackel are expected to give Householder a close race when they meet in the twenty lap feature.

Promoter Billy Cepak will present six motorcycle races along with the auto events.

Time trials will start at 7 o'clock and the first race will get under way at 8:30.

VOICE OF TRAFIC

DANGEROUS RAIL CROSSING.

Chicago, June 17.—We desire to add six new voices in the appeal of six people who narrowly escaped a tragic ending on the railroad crossing at 147th and Sibley, thanks to luck, among other things, and not due to the "watchful," "careful" and "public safety minded" railroad officials.

This perilous crossing is a veritable death trap, there being no gates, insufficient signaling, and a very meager "watchman" force. In fact, there is only one watchman stationed to guard at least ten sets of tracks where there are trains continuously crossing and switching, making it humanly impossible for the lone watchman to keep close guard on the trafic going in the two directions.

The following is an example of one of the many situations that occur at this crossing. A car will stop upon the sounding of a signal giving notice of the approach of a train. After the train has passed the signal stops, and the car naturally starts to cross the railroad tracks. Before it is half way across the signals of another approaching train will start again, and here is the picture—the car is in the middle, the train is approaching, and the watchman is making a valiant but vain effort to signal the cars to stop.

The above is not a hypothetical illustration, but actually happened to us on two occasions; the first time we escaped being hit by a fast approaching train by a distance of about 25 yards, the second probably a safe 100 yards. On both occasions signals and rules were obeyed.

We are making this appeal through you in the hope that the situation will be brought to the attention of the proper officials in order that immediate action may be taken to do away with this death trap. We realize, of course, that this is only one of the many dangerous crossings in the entire country, but it is certainly the worst situation that we have had occasion to meet. B. S.,
[Representative of Six.]

ARRESTED IN BERWYN.

Chicago, June 10.—While driving very slowly with my family through Berwyn I came upon a stop light and was in the middle of the street when the yellow light came on. Thinking nothing of this at the moment I proceeded, and after driving about ten blocks I was picked up by the Berwyn squad car and advised I had passed a stop light.

I explained to the policemen just how it happened, but this explanation was of no avail, they, the policemen, taking me to the station. There they wanted a $7 bond, and since I had only $4 with me I left this with the understanding that I appear Monday morning for trial.

I returned this morning and found a court full of Chicagoans who had been picked up for insignificant offenses. After waiting for about three hours my case came up, and regardless of my explanation the judge fined me $10. Knowing that THE TRIBUNE was championing the cause of the motorist where the automobilist is imposed upon by these small town constables, I am writing this letter to you. ISIDORE STERN.

OUR POLICEMEN.

Chicago, June 18.—Perhaps some one can explain the reason for the trafic police on Michigan avenue being so slovenly in appearance. I refer to the city police stationed between Wacker drive and Randolph street.

While driving north I noticed especially the trim appearance of the south park police. Especially noticeable were the white gloves they wear. But what a difference at Randolph street! The officer on duty there actually looked like a tramp. He was unshaven, his uniform and boots were actually filthy.

The last straw was the fact that his cheek bulged with a chew of tobacco, from which he frequently spat. Aside from the fact that a city ordinance forbids spitting in public places, the spectacle of one of "Chicago's finest" was disgusting. North of the link bridge the Lincoln park police were found to be snappy in appearance and execution of their duties. MELVIN A. MACHANIC.

DRINKING DRIVERS KILL 3.25 PER CENT.

La Salle, Ill., June 18.—I notice THE TRIBUNE has been publishing "The Hands of Death," purporting to be caused by lack of elevated highways in Chicago.

If any one noticed, this was started after liquor selling and open saloons [I beg your pardon, "taverns"] came back.

As to be expected with liquor return, auto deaths mounted. Does any sane person believe it is due to any other cause?

With elevated highways they will be killed off faster. Rum and speed will take care of the overpopulation question.

I don't expect this to be published, because THE TRIBUNE has been shouting for elevated highways. B. C. E.

CITES MICHIGAN LAW.

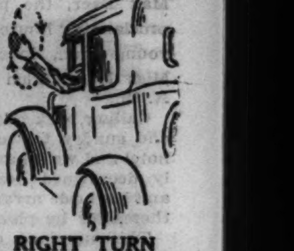
South Haven, Mich., June 17.—Being a regular reader of THE TRIBUNE I should like to state a few facts in regard to Illinois and particularly Chicago motorists who drive out of their state as do visitors in Michigan.

For one thing, these visitors don't seem to know that passing an overtaken car on the right is a flagrant violation of Michigan law. Our regulations require that the pass should be made on the left after the road ahead is clear and after giving a signal with the horn.

I don't pretend to be a writer, but I dare say I have driven more than the average man. Not one Illinois driver in ten makes any effort to pass on the left if he is in a hurry. This and other trafic laws we learn when we obtain our drivers' licenses. I hope this will be printed so that out of state motorists will know our law. NORMAN H. HODGES.

FEW MOTORISTS IN CHICAGO USE HAND SIGNALS

Chicago drivers, generally speaking, fail to signal with hand or arm their intentions to turn or to stop. Too much reliance is placed upon the automatic rear light signal connected with the brake pedal. This light can't tell everything and sometimes it doesn't tell anything.

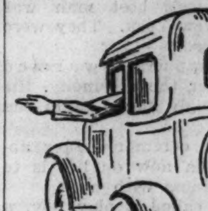


RIGHT TURN

The left turn, more than any other common maneuver, should be preceded by and accompanied with an arm signal. The turn is made from the center or high speed lane. There is risk of being struck from the rear and there is risk in cutting through the lanes for trafic bound in the opposite direction.

The present Illinois motor vehicle code provides for a signal "with outstretched arm or otherwise" for a stop or turn for slackening the pace. The statute does not prescribe how the signal should be made.

The code as redrafted by the highway department and presented in a bill to the session of legislature that ended last night prescribes the signals as follows:



LEFT TURN

"All signals herein required given by hand and arm shall be given from the left side of the vehicle in the following manner and such signals shall indicate as follows:

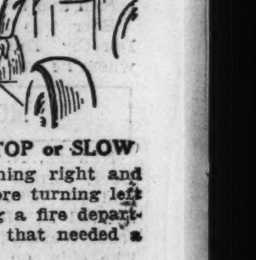
"1. Left turn—Hand and arm extended horizontally.

"2. Right turn—Hand and arm extended upward or moved with a sweeping motion from the rear to the front.

"3. Stop or decrease of speed—Hand and arm extended downward."

Michigan has a similar law and during an intensive and effective safety campaign in Detroit this spring arrests were made for failure to signal.

The hand signal alone, however, is not enough. In some sections of the country where arm waving is a common practice there are drivers whose only precaution in making a turn is to stick a hand out of the window. These drivers [there are Chicagoans who are no better] will swing to the left before turning right and swing to the right before turning left as if they were driving a fire department hook and ladder that needed a long radius.



STOP or SLOW

In a wide pavement, driving properly in the right hand lane, a motorist approaching an intersection where he is going to turn left should glance over his left shoulder to be sure no one is beside him, glance in the rear view mirror to be sure he is not being overtaken, leave the right hand lane for the center of the pavement, and slacken his pace with left arm extended.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Many motorists have been driving with fewer worries in the last year due to a startling new battery service plan that keeps batteries from running down and ends starting failures. First announced a year ago, and known as Exide Sure-Start Service, the development has undergone continuous tests in the hands of the country's leading battery distributors, a group of whom met Wednesday at the Medinah club to discuss results and future plans for making this type of battery service broadly available to the public.

According to Frank T. Kalas, assistant general sales manager of the Electric Storage Battery company, Philadelphia, recent car developments such as radios, heaters, defrosters, and other conveniences have aggravated the danger of starting failures and proved a severe test of the new service routine. That it has come through the last year with flying colors is shown by the experience of motorists the country over and by reports from the battery distributors attending the meeting.

Dodge sales are holding up well, W. M. Purves, assistant general sales manager, told local dealers last week at a meeting in the Stevens hotel.

This is shown, Mr. Purves explained, by the fact that Dodge dealers between Jan. 1 and June 15 of the present year delivered a total of 173,612 new passenger cars and trucks, as compared to 110,106 vehicles delivered in the corresponding period of 1934.

Headed by Roy W. Hill, Chicago zone manager, more than 200 Chevrolet dealers and managers attended the baseball game between the Cubs and Pittsburgh Friday afternoon at Wrigley field, following a rally and luncheon at the Drake hotel.

"This celebration took place as the culmination of a gigantic used car selling drive conducted by the Chevrolet Motor company in this area," Mr. Hill stated. "The results were most gratifying in every respect, and true sportsmanship was displayed by every organization represented in the selling contests."

"Accuracy, precision. These are bywords of the automobile engineer," says B. H. Anibal, vice president in charge of engineering of the Pontiac Motor company. "If it were not for such a high degree of accuracy motor cars would not stand up or continue to give the service they do at high rates of speed over thousands and thousands of miles.

"It is true, no doubt, that precision of from one thousandth to one ten-thousandth of an inch is found in the production of scientific instruments and certain small electrical and physical machinery and appliances. However, I know of nothing of the size, massiveness, and general use of the motor car where the limits of precision are held so close. Certainly, steamships and railroad rolling stock can boast of no such accuracy."

GARARD, HOBART REACH FINAL OF STATE AMATEUR

Don Armstrong Beaten, One Up.

Rockford, Ill., June 29.—[Special.]—Jimmy Garard of Skokie Country club eliminated Don Armstrong, Aurora, the 1933 champion, at the Rockford Country club course today to become one of the finalists in the fifth annual Illinois amateur golf tournament.

While Garard, whose golfing activities this year have been confined to week-end play around Chicago, was defeating one of the tourney favorites, 1 up, youthful John Hobart, Rockford, was beating Al Andereggen, Big Oaks amateur, 2 and 1.

Garard Beats Smead.

Garard reached the semifinals by winning over Charlie Smead of Elmhurst, 2 and 1, this morning, and Armstrong's quarter-final victory came when he beat Al Lays, Glen Oak Country club, 3 and 2. It was Lays who eliminated Larry Moller, Quincy, the defending champion, in yesterday's second round play.

Hobart, who beat Larry Witt, 2 up, in the quarter-finals, was runner-up in the city tournament and the winner in the class A junior tourney here last year. He also qualified in the state tourney at Springfield a year ago.

Tomorrow's finals will be at thirty-six holes.

Long Putt Fails.

Garard did not put Armstrong out of the running until the final green had been played. The Aurora golfer faced a big task, however, on the home green, and failed to hole a 20 foot putt which would have squared the match.

The turning point of the Hobart-Andereggen battle was on the sixteenth green, Al taking three putts when the regulation two putts would have put him back in the running, as Hobart also went one over par.

Andereggen also required three putts to negotiate Nos. 10 and 11, and he lost both holes to Hobart's pars 3 and 4. The Rockford youngster had to come through with good recoveries on both, however, a fine chip shot from off the green on the tenth leaving him only a two foot putt, and another chip from the rough on the next left him a three footer. Hobart three-putted only one green, the thirteenth, on the last eight holes. The Chicagoan missed his second putt on the tenth from three feet.

Armstrong Loses Lead.

Armstrong had a 1 up lead through the eleventh, which he won with a par 4 while Garard was taking 3 to get on, but lost the margin at the fifteenth to Garard's birdie 3. Jimmy got it by sending his second shot to within six feet of the flag and holing out. Garard then went into the lead when he laid Armstrong a stymie on the seventeenth, and he won the hole with a par 4. Don took a 5. A half in par 4s on the home green and the match was over.

Armstrong and Garard were all square at the end of the first nine holes. So were Hobart and Andereggen.

After three holes of play Armstrong had a two up lead, winning the first and third by following the card, while Garard took 4 to get onto the green on the former and 3 to reach the carpet on the par four third. The former champion got into trouble himself at the fourth when he reached the traps and lost the hole to Garard's par 4. Jimmy squared it through No. 6 when Armstrong sent his drive into the trees. They halved the remaining three holes.

Hobart Makes Recovery.

Hobart had to produce a couple of great shots on the first two holes to keep apace to Andereggen. On No. 1 he was in the rough from the tee, short with his second and twelve feet to the side of the green on the next shot. A fine chip left him only a foot from the pin for a half in par 5.

On the second hole Johnny's recovery from atop a bunker was one of the tourney's outstanding shots, the ball stopping eighteen feet from the flag. He got a half here also in par 4.

Hobart took his lead on No. 4 when Andereggen was wild for the first time from the tee, using six strokes to John's 4. They halved the fifth in par 3. Al evened the match on the next hole as Johnny found the traps, but Hobart came back with a birdie deuce on No. 7 with a fine pitch that rolled to less than a foot of the cup. Andereggen again squared it on the ninth when Hobart drove out of bounds and his following shot found the rough.

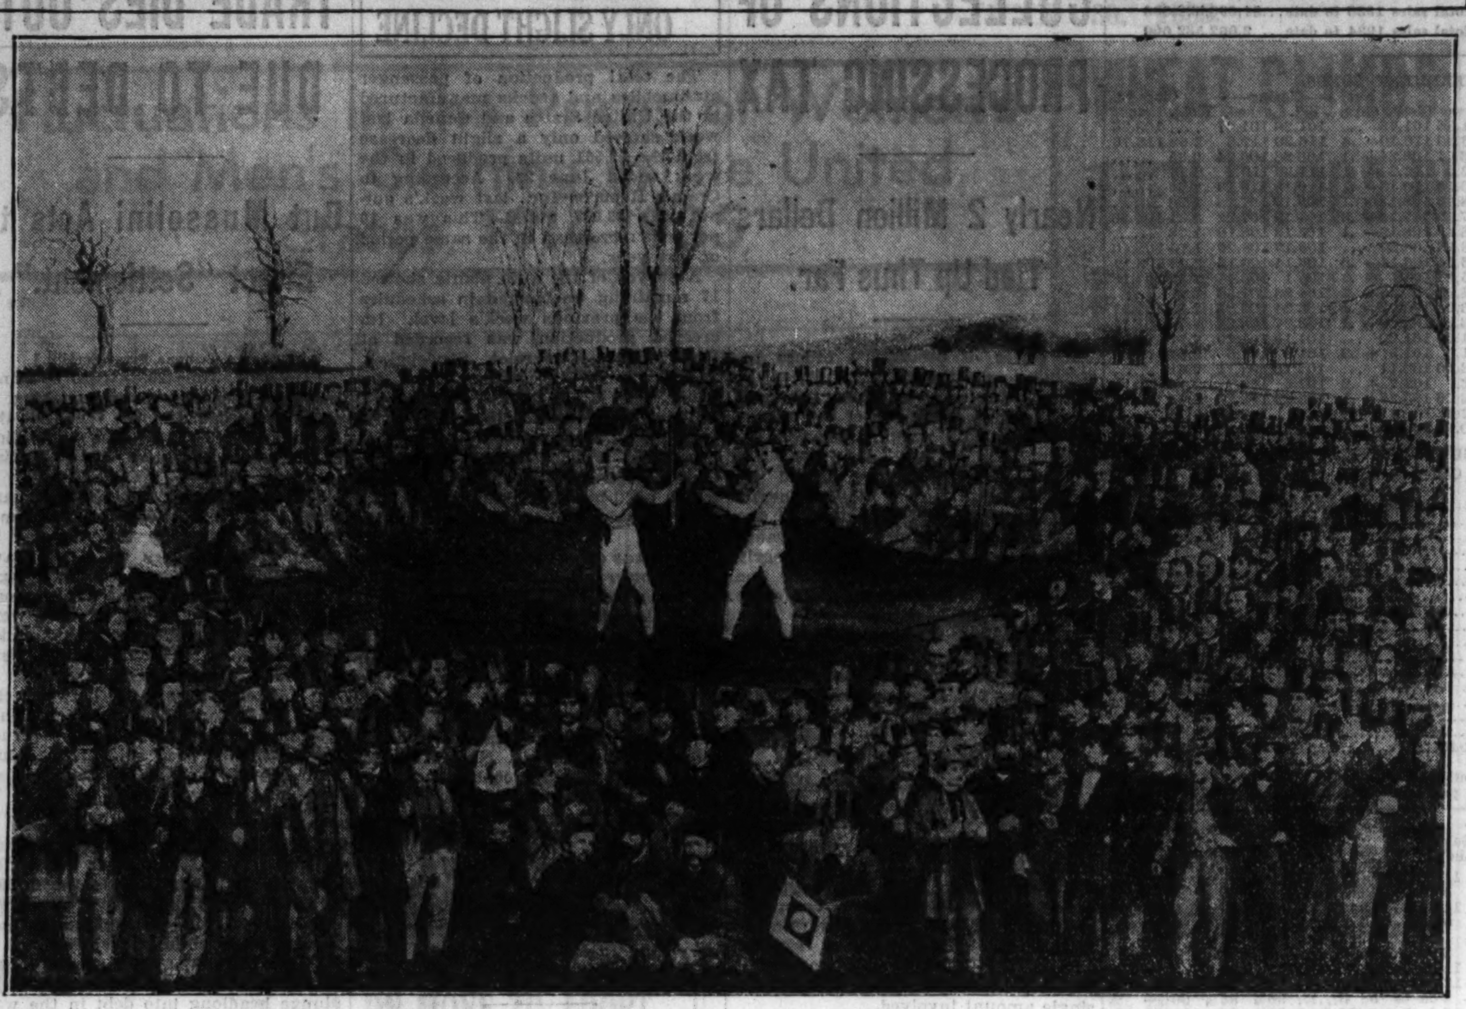
M. J. Duffy won low net in the South Side Advertising Men's club golf tournament at the Navajo Fields Country club yesterday with a score of 99—35—64. R. F. Spiegel was second with 101—34—67 and J. F. Kemp took third prize with 104—34—70. James Crawford won the high net prize, carding 120—29—91.

AND IT LASTED ONLY 42 ROUNDS!



The international contest between Heenan and Sayers at Farnborough is the title of this print which is part of a collection of sports lithographs on exhibit at the museum of the Chicago Historical society. John Heenan, who claimed the American title, challenged Tom Sayers to a bout for the world's crown and the match was fought April 17, 1860. The fight ended in the forty-second round when a gang of thugs broke into the ring. By some it was maintained that the ruffians had bet on Sayers and stopped the bout to prevent Heenan knocking out their favorite.

Lake Shore Club Joins Yacht Ranks

The Lake Shore Yacht club was formed last week by yachtmen members of the Lake Shore Athletic club and an active season has been planned by these enthusiastic Corinthians.

Richard Dalmar, owner of the auxiliary sloop Penguin, was unanimously elected the first commodore. Paul M. Hotchkin, who has just finished two terms as commodore of the Chicago Motor Yacht club, was chosen vice commodore. Commodore Hotchkin owns the cruiser Paurette. A sailing member of the L. S. A. C., George Glossbrenner, was made sailing director. His yacht is the Eagle sloop Altair, of the Chicago Yacht club. James Bristol was chosen secretary of the new club.

Junior yacht racing, sponsoring of at least one yacht race this summer, and the improving of the yacht harbor north of Navy Pier are the major points to be developed by the club's members.

The Wilmette Snipe class fleet, under Fleet Captain Tom Johansen, will race today for points on a 3½ mile course. Twelve sloops are expected to compete.

REAL CONTRACTS ARE LATEST IN GIRLS' SOFTBALL

Contracts similar to those in use in organized baseball are now being signed by players in the Chicago Major Girls' Softball league. The contracts, believed to be the first of their kind in the country, guarantee the expenses of the girls not to exceed that amount permitted by Amateur Athletic union and the National Softball association rules, and bind the player to her club until released or traded to another team in the Chicago circuit.

The league, which plays all games at Mills stadium, hopes in this manner to curb the practice of a rival club signing a player after she has been developed into a star by another team.

Member clubs of the Chicago circuit are the Hart Motors, U. S. champions; Vogel Bloomer Girls, runnersup for the U. S. title; Dennis Horan Boosters, Cook county champions, and the Commercial Tire Supply Coeds, Julian T. Fitzgeralds, NarraganNorClaire Drug Coeds, Joyce Kilmer Trees, Our Girls, T. J. Bowlers, and Fellmeth Decorators.

INJURY ENDS RICHARDS' PRO TENNIS CAREER

New York, June 29.—[Special.]—Vinnie Richards has played his last game of competitive tennis. The one-time Davis cup star and professional champion admitted as much today as, bandaged, splinted, and stitched, he sat in his Bronxville home.

His career ended several weeks ago when his automobile crashed into a telephone pole and he suffered a smashed right arm, fractured right hip, two cracked ribs, and lacerations.

He is able to walk now, but his arm still causes him considerable concern. He is afraid it won't permit rotation when it heals.

"Yes," said Vinnie, "I guess I'm through with tennis. From now on I'm going to concentrate on golf. I hope to be a tournament player, and Craig Wood is going to take me in hand. You don't need arm rotation so much for golf."

QUEBEC, June 29.—(AP)—Bill Bonthron, Princeton's great miler, said today he had definitly decided to give up racing.

"I have threatened to give up racing a good many times," he said, "this time it sticks."

The runner who recently was defeated by Jack Lovelock of New Zealand, made the statement as he boarded a steamer for a European honeymoon with his bride, the former Marion McLennan Lineaweaver of Princeton, N. J. and Montreal.

Asked if she had anything to do with the decision, Mrs. Bonthron disclaimed any credit.

Campbell Wins Pacific Northwest Amateur Title

Hold State Rifle Shoot on Milan Range Today

Milan, Ill., June 29.—[Special.]—The Illinois State Rifle association will sponsor matches with .22 caliber and .30 caliber rifles on the range of the Milan Rifle and Pistol club tomorrow.

COALS PLAY COUGARS.

The Roth-Adam Coals, leaders in the Illinois State Baseball league, will go after their eighth straight victory when they meet the Northwest Cougars this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at Peterson and Kostner Avenues.

GAR WOOD JR. WINS ONE TITLE, LOSES ANOTHER

Worcester, Mass., June 29.—(AP)—Gar Wood Jr., son and namesake of the well known maker and driver of power boats, won and lost interscholastic outboard championships today on Lake Quinsigamond as the two day combined national intercollegiate and interscholastic regatta got under way.

Wood, although winning only the second heat, succeeded Clinton Ferguson of Waban and Tabor academy to the class A championship.

Wood, representing Algonac, Mich., high school, was unsuccessful in the defense of his class C title, the championship going to James Millen III of St. Christopher's school, Richmond.

CALIFORNIA WINS REGATTA; U.C.L.A. BEATS WISCONSIN

Bears Defeat Washington to Set Record.

Long Beach, Cal., June 29.—[Special.]—The University of California's Poughkeepsie regatta champion glided to victory in the renewal of the far western intercollegiate regatta at Long Beach Marine stadium.

The Bears, averaging 182 pounds to the blade, stroked into a lead shortly after passing the half way mark in the 2,000 meter race, and after jockeying with Washington for the next 500 meters, raced confidently to victory by four feet in record time.

The race was so closely contested that all four finishers beat the previous course record set by Italy's Olympic eight in 1921. Washington, which had given California's crew its only defeat this year—in early spring over the 3 mile course on Oakland Estuary—was strong enough to wrest the lead from the Bears three times during the race.

Bears Too Strong.

It could not hold even in the stretch, however, and was pressed at the finish by a fast coming Syracuse crew. Penn finished fourth, after holding the lead for more than 500 meters.

California's time was 6:15 6-10, bettering the record of 6:28 2-10 set by Italy in the Olympic games. Washington's time was 6:16 2-10, and Syracuse was less than half a length behind in 6:19 1-10. Penn, champion sprint crew of the eastern colleges, finished in 6:22.

In the race for the consolation trophy between the two crews eliminated in yesterday's qualifying heats, University of California at Los Angeles beat the University of Wisconsin by three feet when Wisconsin's stretch drive fell off about twenty yards from the finish. U. C. L. A., achieving its first victory over a major rival, finished in 6:41 4-10. Wisconsin's time was 6:41 8-10.

3,000 in Stands.

Three thousand rooters jammed the pavilions on the two sides of the finish line and 15,000 more were bunched along the banks and bleachers near the head of the Tidewater course, as Penn, unbeaten over short distances in eastern regattas this season, shot out into a short lead.

Washington clung doggedly on the leader's heels. Ky Ebright's Bears, with their blue bladed oars flashing in one of the favored channels near the bank, were content to glide along at a slower stroke, always within striking distance behind Washington. At the 500 meter mark Penn made its bid to get away, speeding its stroke to 43, but Washington caught the Philadelphians and took the lead.

Going into the roughter water, where cross breezes swept the course at the halfway mark, California sped past Penn and crept up to catch Washington. Washington held to a six foot lead near the 1,400 meter mark. The Bears' superior power whittled this away in the next 200 meters, and from there on it was California.

Badgers Lose Lead.

Wisconsin held a lead over U. C. L. A. until the 1,500 meter mark, where the Bruins nosed one foot ahead. Wisconsin spurted three times after that, but the tie never lasted. Two of the Wisconsin crew slumped over their oars at the finish.

Four Long Beach high school eights, and six of the fastest cutters from the battleship fleet of the United States navy competed in other events. Gov. Frank Merriam of California and Vice Admiral T. T. Craven of the battleship fleet distributed trophies to the winning crews. The navy cutter race was won by the entrant from battleship California to make it a complete three cornered sweep of the course for California.

MICHIGAN CITY TO HOLD 2 MILE SWIM ON JULY 7

Michigan City, Ind., June 29.—[Special.]—A two mile swim will top a list of aquatic events to be held here the afternoon of July 7 in connection with Indiana Days, a northern Indiana Independence day celebration expected to attract 50,000.

The marathon event is scheduled off the local yacht harbor over a charted course and any long distance swimmer in the district is eligible for competition.

The Phi Delta Kappa fraternity, Michigan City, sponsors of the marathon swim, offers a trophy to the winner and silver and bronze medals will be given second and third place winners.

Indiana Days, sponsored by the city administration and financed by popular subscription, will start July 4 and will end July 7. A national drum corps contest, a 10 mile parade, sham naval battle off the harbor, ball games, and numerous other events will feature the program.

Wichita Girl Retains Kansas Golf Title

Hutchinson, Kas., June 29.—(AP)—Miss Dorothy Evans of Wichita retained the Kansas women's golf crown today, defeating Miss Kathryn Black of Council Grove, 5 and 3, in the 36 hole final of the 17th annual state tournament.

Golf Stars Play Exhibition Today at Tam O'Shanter

Pimmy Thompson, Babe Didrikson, Gene Sarazen, and Helen Hicks will play an exhibition match this afternoon at Tam o'Shanter.

Helen will be teamed with Thomson while the Babe and Sarazen will oppose them. This is the first time the spectators will have the opportunity to compare the games of the country's first "business woman" golfers.

An added incentive for both girls is the offer of $100 by the club for breaking the women's course record of 78. This is also women's par for the course.

The match this afternoon is the first appearance of Gene and Babe in a partnership that will take them all over the country for the next year.

Miss Didrikson, who complained that she has been hitting the ball only 270 yards and believed that the shafts of her clubs were too stiff, is appearing today with a new set of more limber clubs with which she hopes to be able to pound the ball out to the 300 yard markers. The match will start at 2 o'clock.

Goodman and Dawson Go to Golf Finals

Des Moines, Ia., June 29.—(AP)—Johnny Goodman and Johnny Dawson, two of America's finest amateurs, today smashed their way into the finals of the trans-Mississippi golf meet.

The stocky Goodman, who graduated from Omaha's caddy ranks to win the national open in 1933, waved a magic putter to eliminate Leland Hamman of Paris, Tex., the defending champion, 5 and 4, in the feature match of the semi-finals.

Dawson, smooth swinging Chicagoan, crushed the hopes of Sid Richardson of Creston, Ia., 7 and 6, as the 17 year old youngster faded badly under the pressure on the second round.

Constantly bothered with his tee shots, Hamman always was behind Goodman who several times fired in birdies or pars when it appeared the champion was on the verge of a serious rally. The Omaha shooter was two under par for the thirty-two holes he played. His card included eight birdies, chiefly the result of long, accurate putts.

Dawson, two up at the start of the afternoon round, had little trouble eliminating the young Iowan who was playing for the first time in the trans-Mississippi tournament.

Tomorrow's thirty-six hole final's match will be the second tournament meeting for Dawson and Goodman. The former defeated Goodman in the semi-finals of the trans-Mississippi tournament in 1926.

USE LIMOUSINES, BICYCLE TO PLAY THIS BALL GAME

Hollywood, Cal., June 29.—(AP)—Using limousines and bicycles to round bases, the screen's leading men battled to a 4 to 4 tie with the film comics in a baseball game here today. Scorekeepers gave up trying to keep a box because everybody tried to play every position. They called the game in the fourth after the umpire had been shot—that is, the way they shoot them in the movies.

Bill Bakewell, pinch hitting for George Raft, used a limousine to round the bases after a hard line drive. He wore a dress suit and top hat and was driven by a chauffeur. Al St. John, after a single, went to first on a bicycle and stole second, third and home to win prolonged applause.

The leading men claimed a "moral" victory, contending they outclowned the professional jesters. The leading men ended the contest in the fourth inning when Jack La Rue, objecting to a decision by Charles Murray of the comedians, produced a pistol and "shot" the umpire. Murray was carried from the field on a stretcher and the game called a tie.

The screen men showed unexpected talent during the few serious moments of the game. John Boles and James Cagney, pitcher and catcher for the leading men, gave evidence of more than ordinary diamond ability, and Sam Brisken and Buster Keaton, battery for the comedians, also showed they were at home on a ball field.

The real winner was a charity fund to which the receipts went.

20 LAP RACE TO HEAD SPEEDWAY EVENTS TONIGHT

The Chicago Midget Speedway's band of miniature auto racers will roar into action tonight in an all-star card of events at the Lincoln and Devon avenues track.

A 20 lap race will headline the 10 event program that will get under way at 8:30 o'clock.

Some of the drivers who have field entries with Director Len Bernard are Al Sherman and Curly Mills, Los Angeles; Paul Russo, Indianapolis; Ernie Carlson and Chuck Bernard, Evanston; Ray Richards, Highland Park; Ray Campbell and Red Melton, Detroit, and Chuck Neisel, Art Foley, Steve Young, Ray Richter, Pete Peterson, Shorty Sorenson and Carl Peters, all of Chicago.

Time trials to determine post positions in the major event will be held at 6:30.

CARD 10 RACES FOR WOLF LAKE TRACK TONIGHT

A ten event auto racing program, bringing together the leading drivers of the Midwest Auto Racing association, is scheduled for the Wolf Lake speedway in Hammond tonight.

Jimmy Snyder will report in a new motor, while Wally Mitchell has finally ironed out the kinks in his No. 6 speedster.

Tudy Marchese, who won honors at Wolf Lake last week; Harry MacQuinn, who cleaned up at Columbus Thursday; Frank Brisko, Pat Warren, Marshall Lewis, Harold Shaw, Art Foley, and Walter Zale are dangerous contenders.

ED WHITE WINS INTERCOLLEGIATE GOLF TOURNEY

Defeats Haas, 5 and 4, in Final Match.

Washington, D. C., June 29.—(AP)—Ed White of Texas kept level with par over a long route today to defeat Fred Haas of Louisiana State, 5 and 4, and win the national intercollegiate championship.

White ended his three year quest for the college title with one of the finest stretches of consistently good golf in the long history of the tournament. Through the five rounds of match play—a total of 129 holes for him—he was three under par.

It's Third Attempt.

As a sophomore two seasons ago, he lost to Rodney Bliss in the second round. Last year he was runner-up to Charles Yates. In this year's tournament he was forced to bowl over Charles Kocsis of Michigan, the co-medalist, as well as Yates, before reaching the final.

A senior at the University of Texas, where he is taking a course in petroleum engineering. White has another year of school. But his three seasons of varsity intercollegiate competition are ended, along with his opportunity to again win the southwestern conference crown, which he has captured for three successive years.

White Shoots Record 70.

Through the first twenty-seven holes of today's match neither ever held more than a two hole advantage. In fact, White was one down after the second round, but he lost little time going ahead after the second round began and once on the home stretch he unloosed a brand of sub-par golf that was too much for Haas.

They played out the round and White hung up an official record of 70, two under par, for the congressional course.

Haas Misses Putts.

Shooting the first nine in one under par, White took a two hole advantage, chiefly through Haas' inability to drop a pair of short putts. The Louisiana player took his turn at sub-par shooting on the second nine, and not only caught White, but went ahead by one hole. White called a penalty stroke on himself to lose one of the holes, three-putted another green and lost to Haas' birdie on still another. Haas played the first round in 73, one over par, to a 74 by White.

The Texan banged in a short putt on the nineteenth, after his runup shot had stopped a foot short, for a birdie to square and went ahead on the twenty-first where Haas found a trap.

Haas, who whistles quietly as he lines up a putt, dropped a short one on the twenty-fourth to square the match again, but that was the last time he was even. White won the next two holes, laying Haas a stymie on the twenty-fifth and garnering a birdie on the twenty-sixth, to go one up.

White Scores Birdie.

Freddie got down a long putt on the tenth for a half, but White went three up on the thirtieth with a birdie deuce.

"That is the first time in this tournament that I've been able to lay my tee shot on this green," White said. "Guess it couldn't have happened at a better time."

From there on through the next two holes White made short work of it, winning in par figures as Haas overshot the thirty-first green and fell off to the right on the short thirty-second.

CHICAGO PARKS GOLF SCHOOL TO OPEN TOMORROW

The golf school season of the Chicago park system will begin tomorrow, with Zeke Bonura, first baseman of the Chicago White Sox, appearing in Soldiers' field to see whether he can bat a baseball farther than Tommy Armour, Medinah Golf club pro, can drive a golf ball. The exhibition will open a program of golf demonstrations by prominent Chicago pro golfers, under the direction of Tom Walsh, director of golf for the park district, which starts at 12 o'clock noon.

Golf lessons for Chicago children, 17 years old or younger, will start on July 2 in each of the seven park district golf clubs, Walsh said. Children may register for the free courses with the professionals at the parks. Two courses are in Lincoln park, two in Jackson, and one each in Garfield, Columbus and Marquette parks.

Demonstrations of golf shots will be given at the Soldiers' field meet Monday. Denny Shute will show how a brassie should be handled. Dick Metz will demonstrate the mashie; Ky Laffoon, the mashie-niblick; Horton Smith, spoon shots; Frank Walsh and Harry Cooper, the driver.

New York, June 29.—(AP)—The corporate bond market settled down in a narrow range today with fractional movements either way broken occasionally by wider swings in special issues.

Railroad issues continued to drift lower, but declines were small in all cases except that of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, which filed reorganization proceedings under bankruptcy laws. Losses in four issues of this road ranged from ⅛ to a full point, while two were a shade higher and one held unchanged. Bonds of the Chicago and North Western, which preceded the St. Paul into the courts yesterday, were relatively steady and quiet.

Other Rails Irregular.

Other rails selling slightly lower included Illinois Central refunding 4s, New Haven Collateral 6s, and Pere Marquette 5s. Great Northern 4½s and "Katy" 5s were a trifle higher.

Both industrials and utilities were able to hold about even or improve slightly. Columbia Gas 5s, Tennessee Electric Power 6s, and International Paper 5s advanced fractionally. Small losses were shown by Laclede Gas 5½s and Illinois Steel 4½s.

Additional gains by numerous south and central American bonds were the outstanding feature of the foreign division.

Federal Bonds Variable.

U. S. government bonds were quiet and final prices ranged between 2-32nds advance to 2-32nds decline. Treasury 3 of 1046-'48, to which issue the government yesterday added $100,000,000 at an auction sale, gained 1-32nd at 103.25, or 7-32nds above the average price at which the additional bonds were sold.

Transfer aggregated $4,723,000, par value, compared with $6,100,000 last Saturday. Transactions for June totalled $266,203,000, against $284,155,000 in May.

Baby Bonds.

J. S. writes to Investors' Guide asking us to compare the United States "baby bonds" with single premium ten year endowment life insurance policies.

The baby bonds are sold and guaranteed by the United States government. Each bond is sold for 75 per cent of its face value, the interest on it accruing until maturity, ten years later, when the bond is paid off in full.

A single premium ten year endowment policy provides for one down payment. When that is made the individual is insured for ten years. At the end of the ten years the insurance policy expires and the insured receives the face value of the policy, just as with any other endowment policy.

The following table shows the comparison between the two different types of investment. The first column indicates the number of years elapsed since the investment was first taken out; the second column shows the amount a bondholder can get on his baby bond at the end of each year; the third and fourth columns show cash values of endowment policies at the end of each year, the third showing them on a policy issued by what is known as a "3 per cent company," the fourth by a "3½ per cent company."

		Endowment policy [for a person 35 yrs. old].
Year.	Baby bond.	*3% [partic.]	†3½% [non-partic.]
[cost]	$750	$832.50	$738.61
1	750	774.66	719.00
2	770	796.05	742.00
3	790	818.25	767.00
4	810	841.31	793.00
5	830	856.25	821.00
6	850	890.06	853.00
7	870	915.96	887.00
8	900	942.88	923.00
9	940	970.87	961.00
10	1,000	1,000.00	1,000.00

†Policyholder receives no dividends.

In addition to the lower original cost, in the case of the 3½ per cent policy, and the lower cost over the period, including dividends, on the 3 per cent policy, the insurance policies offer an important additional advantage—life insurance. The policies guarantee that in the event the insured person should die at any time before the ten years have elapsed the thousand dollars in full will be paid immediately to his beneficiary.

The endowment policy figures are the actual figures used by two representative life insurance companies. They are based on the assumption that the person taking out the policy is 35 years old. If the person is older, the cost of the policy will be greater, and if younger, the cost would be less.

COURTS RESTRAIN COLLECTIONS OF PROCESSING TAX

Nearly 2 Million Dollars Tied Up Thus Far.

A series of temporary orders restraining collection of nearly $2,000,000 in processing taxes yesterday opened a new sector in the battle of big millers and textile and packing concerns to overturn the AAA.

Temporary injunctions issued by Federal Judge Joseph W. Molyneaux at Minneapolis at the request of five large milling companies and one paper concern prevented collection of nearly $1,500,000 and set the stage for one of the leading assaults on the statute for that jurisdiction.

The federal revenue collector for Oklahoma was likewise temporarily restrained against collecting wheat processing taxes on petition of three milling and elevator firms at Oklahoma City.

Companies That Fight Tax.

The Minneapolis actions brought by Gold Medal Foods, Inc., a subsidiary of General Mills, Inc.; International Milling company, Russell-Miller Milling, Kind Midas Milling company, Pillsbury Flour Mills company, and the Harvey Paper Mill company, charged that the taxes were unconstitutional. Hearings were set for July 8. The Pillsbury petition said it owed $768,101 in taxes, the largest single amount involved.

In a score of other jurisdictions, suits by nearly two score packing firms, millers, and textile manufacturers were pending. The big Chicago packers, however, were on the sidelines in the fight.

AAA Doubts "Strike" Move.

Washington, D. C., June 29.—(AP)—AAA spokesmen discussing reports of a general strike against the taxes, said processing taxes were in the same classification as all other federal taxes, and that wilful failure to pay would make the processors liable for heavy penalties. Under the AAA act the secretary of the treasury may grant postponements of processing tax payment for 180 days.

The office of Secretary Wallace announced officially that no reports have been received of a wholesale failure to pay the disputed tax, or of any general strike against payment.

Further, the officials said they did not believe the furor over the taxes would cause collections to decline sufficiently to require use of general treasury funds for rental and benefit payments to farmers.

LIVE STOCK PRICE AVERAGE LOWEST IN THREE MONTHS

Trends of live stock markets were mixed during the last week, but prices as a whole averaged lowest since March, with some classes selling at the lowest levels of the year. The downward swing of prices since early last month was attributed chiefly to widespread consumer resistance to efforts to check the break in wholesale meat prices.

New York meat prices reacted sharply after an unsuccessful attempt had been made to boost the market. Wholesale quotations for beef in that city finished the week 50 cents to $1 lower than the opening. Veal declined $1 lower. Lamb was scarce and advanced $1.

While there was some recovery in the cattle here near the end of the week, some closing as much as 25 to 50 cents above the final sales of the preceding week, both the top and average prices for steers established new lows for recent weeks. Choice 1,203 pound steers topped the list at $12.75. This was the lowest weekly top since the week ended Jan. 19.

The average price of steers for the six days, $9.95, was the lowest since week ended Jan. 26, and showed a loss of 20 cents compared with the preceding six days.

Most sheep and lambs closed steady with a week ago, but were 25 to 35 cents under last Monday. Selected new crop natives sold up to $9.35 on Monday and at $9 on the final session. Top yearlings reached $6.75, with old ewes at $3.25.

The average price of hogs slid 25 cents to $11.25, processing tax included, the lowest price since the week ended May 4. Penalizing of big weights and the acute shortage of top light butchers caused the widest price range of the year and the widest for June in five years.

The low price for heavy packing sows and the top for selected light butchers were $2 apart, against a spread of $1.25 six weeks ago.

AUTO OUTPUT TOTALS 89,037 UNITS IN WEEK; ONLY SLIGHT DECLINE

The total production of passenger automobiles and trucks manufactured in the United States and Canada last week showed only a slight decrease from the 90,561 units produced in the week ended June 22. According to Cram's Reports, Inc., last week's output was 89,037 units. This was 10 per cent more than in the same period of last year.

A survey of the auto plants showed 17 remaining unchanged in schedules from the previous week's level. Increased production was recorded at three plants—Chevrolet, Studebaker, and Pontiac. Six plants showed declines.

Chevrolet continued to maintain its outstanding lead in weekly production volume as it worked to keep abreast of its large bank of unfilled orders, which piled up during the period of its labor troubles and strike at the Toledo plant.

Ford was one of the six auto makers on a slower production schedule. The others were Graham-Paige, Cadillac-La Salle, Pierce-Arrow, Terraplane-Hudson, and White-Indiana truck.

SHARP DECLINE IN ACCEPTANCES OCCURS IN MAY

Laid to Surplus Funds, U. S. Interference.

New York, June 29.—[Special.]—"Surplus bank funds, government interference, and business uncertainty in general" were credited today by the American Acceptance council with a continued shrinkage of bankers' acceptances. The report was made by Robert H. Bean, executive secretary.

During May acceptances shrank in all federal reserve districts by $38,617,524 to a total of $374,755,247, a decline of 9.3 per cent. The decline in a year was $194,035,267, or 34.3 per cent. Since the major part of this business is done in the New York Reserve district, the decline was greatest here, being $32,967,448 for the month and $167,967,917 for the year to a total on May 31 of $287,065,608.

Storage Acceptances Fall Most.

"In recent months the type of acceptance credits to finance the storage of staples in domestic warehouses showed the largest reduction," the report stated, "dropping $20,002,368 during the month. This brings the total of warehouse acceptance credits down to $68,162,015, as compared with $148,628,923 on May 31, 1934.

"Acceptances based on exports went off $14,201,148, which brought the total down to $99,632,190, against $149,955,172 on the same date in 1934.

"Acceptances to finance imports, on the other hand, increased $3,728,269 to a total of $106,604,524, this being the highest total of import acceptance credits for more than a year, and is compared with $100,385,405 on the same date a year ago.

"The remaining outstanding change in the acceptances was in the class of bills based on goods stored in or shipped between foreign countries, which is now reported to be $90,877,635, against $98,738,716 at the previous month-end and $151,554,049 in May, 1934.

No Increase Expected.

"It cannot be expected that in the immediate future there will be any great increase in the volume of acceptances created for strictly American commerce. The plethora of funds in the commercial banks becomes a strong incentive to turn acceptance credits into cash advances, particularly when rates as low or even lower can be offered.

"Also there is a noticeable disinclination of business to incur large commitments of raw materials or of imported goods. This hesitancy slows up the movement of commodities and reduces the volume of cash or credit employed.

"There is, however, a backing up of an enormous demand, which when released will undoubtedly mean the creation of a very large volume of acceptance credits, possibly as early as next fall."

Columbia Pictures Heads Arrive Today for Meeting

A special train carrying more than 100 officials of Columbia Pictures in the eastern states will arrive this morning over the New York Central lines for the annual convention opening here tomorrow. The group is headed by Jack Cohn, vice president, and Abe Montague, general sales manager. Their headquarters will be at the Medinah Athletic club.

BRITISH, ITALIAN TRADE DIES OUT, DUE TO DEBTS

But Mussolini Acts to Effect "Settlement."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 29.—Great Britain's trade with Italy is approaching a standstill because of the fact that the Italians cannot find some 30 million dollars which they now owe to British traders.

Since last week Italian merchant vessels which wirelessed their agents in Cardiff that they were putting in to fill their bunkers with coal have been told there was "nothing doing" for Italian importers of Welsh coal. The skippers of the Italian ships were told that Italian steamship companies now owe more than 5 million dollars for coal.

A bilateral agreement between the Bank of Italy and the Bank of England has broken down, chiefly because Italy, which is preparing for war, has been buying more from Britain than she could really afford.

Italy Will Borrow to Pay.

Stung by comments in the London press, Premier Mussolini is taking the situation in hand. Behind the façade of a conference he will borrow in London and the bilateral agreement will resume its lurching movement.

These bilateral agreements are harassing to both sides. Germany used to plunge headlong into debt in the way the Italians inadvertently have done, but they have now mended their ways and buy practically nothing in London that they cannot pay for.

The most interesting place to see this is in the colonial wool auctions which are held six times a year in the Coleman Street Wool exchange. During the sales, each of which lasts about a fortnight, German buyers take catalogs of selling brokers and tramp through three official warehouses methodically sampling the wool, estimating its yield when scoured, sizing up its "handle," and noting about what they think it is worth.

When the daily sale starts at 8 p. m. German buyers assemble with the others, but make no bids. They have no authority to do so.

Get Signal to Buy.

But, as has happened several times in the midst of an auction, an excited figure appears in the doorway making gestures. Instantly the Germans come to life and begin buying wool. Berlin has consulted Bremen, and Bremen has telephoned to London that there is money in the bank for the German account.

It seems an expensive way of buying wool, because the Germans are forced to sit silent when the bargains are going and their participation in the auctions always runs up the price on them.

But the most curious difficulty with which Britain's trade has to cotend is growing out of a recent French attempt, based on an ancient and long forgotten law, to impose a sort of turnover tax on foreigners who sell goods to France. This hit the London metal dealers particularly hard.

Some Get Remittance.

Apparently some have paid the tax, while others who resisted and fought official red tape have had it remitted. But it has caused friction out of all proportion to what one would imagine to be its yield in revenue.

There has been some talk in the last week that American capital is taking flight to London because of President Roosevelt's taxation program. This would account for the weakness of the dollar at a time when it should be reasonably strong.

AAA CHANGES ARE REPORTED BY SENATE GROUP

Washington, D. C., June 29.—(AP)—Revised in an effort to meet possible constitutional objections and carrying an amendment designed to block suits to recover processing taxes, the AAA amendments today were ordered favorably reported by the senate agriculture committee.

This new deal measure to give Secretary Wallace broad authority to "order" controlled marketing under growers-processors agreements is slated for senate action next week.

Withdrawn hurriedly from senate consideration when the Supreme court's NRA decision was handed down, the measure was rewritten, passed by the house and revised again by the senate group.

"The feature of the bill, which I believe reconciles it to the decision of the court in the NRA case, is that all its provisions are made to apply only in reference to interstate commerce," Chairman Ellison D. Smith [Dem., S. C.] said.

BANK INSURANCE PLAN FAILS TO SOLVE PROBLEM

Sound Units Object to Guarantee.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Signing by President Roosevelt of the joint congressional resolution to extend the temporary plan of insurance of bank deposits for sixty days gives both congress and the banks a breathing spell, but it does not settle this troublesome question.

Under this temporary plan each bank deposit is insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation up to a maximum of $5,000. Similarly under the proposed banking act of 1935 a maximum guaranty of $5,000 would be provided.

Bickering in the senate over the banking bill had delayed passage of the proposed banking act, thereby bringing the banks close to the July 1 deadline, after which the permanent guaranty plan provided in the banking act of 1933 would have gone into effect.

Meant Too Big a "Bite."

Under the permanent plan the deposit insurance corporation, financed jointly by the banks, the reserve banks, and the treasury, would have to bite off a much larger chunk because it provides for full guarantee of all deposits up to a maximum of $10,000, 75 per cent guarantee on all deposits from $10,000 to $50,000, and 50 per cent guarantee on all deposits in excess of $50,000.

Congressmen and the bankers alike realize the absurdity of pretending that the deposit corporation with its capital equal to a small fraction of the total deposits of American banks could assume such a vast obligation. It is expected, therefore, that when a permanent plan is finally adopted it will provide for a maximum guarantee of $5,000 as in the temporary plan now extended for 60 days. This would, it is estimated, cover in full about 95 per cent of all bank depositors, including all the little fellows, and would, therefore, be politically sufficient.

Why Guarantee Was Sought.

Back of the controversy over the deposit insurance scheme are all sorts of political and financial ramifications dating back to the time of the bank moratorium in March, 1933.

When banks all over the nation were reopened after the moratorium it was felt that some definite assurance of protection must be given depositors to keep them from staging subsequent runs. The guarantee of deposits scheme was launched. If all the banks that were permitted to reopen had been in strong position no such blanket would have been needed to protect them. But in the reopening process many banks, particularly in the south, which were not strong enough to withstand punishment were permitted to resume business.

Such was not the case in the Chicago district. Alfred Leyburn, who was then chief national bank examiner for the Seventh district, including north and central Illinois and Indiana, south and central Wisconsin, all of Iowa, and the southern Michigan peninsula, insisted that only sound banks should be reopened.

Refuses to Compromise.

He was severely criticized by senators from these states for his strict policy, but he refused to compromise. State banking authorities in Illinois likewise pursued the same strict policy.

Later other banks were permitted to reopen in this district, but only after they had obtained new capital, either privately or from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

This conservative policy was not followed in other parts of the country. In the Dallas district, for example, about 95 per cent of the national banks were allowed to reopen immediately after moratorium, compared with only about 55 per cent in the Chicago district.

Since the moratorium thousands of banks throughout the country have bolstered up their capital with money from the RFC, but it is an open secret among bankers that in some states there are banks that without the protection of the deposit insurance corporation would not stand on their own feet.

Sound Banks Being Bled.

In being assessed to support the deposit corporation sound banks in the northern and eastern parts of the country feel that they are being bled, partly for political reasons, to bolster up banks in the Democratic south. There has been little open criticism of this because of fear of "crackdowns" of one sort or another and for business reasons, but heads of solid banks in this part of the country are generally opposed to the deposit guarantee idea as unsound and a drain on the strong to support the weak.

The only open attack on the system has been that waged by J. M. [Hundred Per Cent] Nichols, president of the First National Bank of Englewood, who because of his unique position is about the only banker in the country who dares say what he thinks without mincing words.

Deposit insurance schemes in the United States have an unbroken record of failure. Eight states tried them and are still cleaning up the débris. Invariably they have put a premium on bad management and have had to be abandoned with heavy losses.

Sound banks therefore are opposed to such experiments, but they regard the temporary plan with its $5,000 maximum as much less dangerous than the permanent plan now temporarily shelved and likely to be modified.

China to Issue 40 Millions of Bonds to Cover Deficit

NANKING, June 29.—(AP)—The national government's legislative yuan today authorized the issuance of bonds totaling 100,000,000 Mexican dollars [approximately $39,700,000] to cover the governmental deficit for the fiscal year 1934 and to retire customs bonds totaling 50,000,000 Mexican dollars.

The new bonds will be issued tomorrow and will be secured by customs revenues. They are due in 1945 and will bear 6 per cent interest.

Senators May Probe "Leak" on Bank Bill

Washington, D. C., June 29.—(AP)—An apparent "leak" to New York bankers of secret committee changes in the administration's banking bill today threatened to bring on another senate investigation.

Despite an agreement among members of Senator Glass' [Dem., Va.] banking subcommittee not to disclose what they had done on the bill to centralize credit control, a report was published today that the senators had agreed to relax partially the law forbidding banks to underwrite security issues.

Glass described the article as "utterly inaccurate" but refused to deny it entirely. Committee members made no secret of their anger at publication of the article, apparently obtained from bank sources in New York.

Deny Informing Banker.

Only this week published statements that Senator Townsend [Rep., Del.] was informing Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of the Chase National bank, of the committee's activities, were denied by both parties. Townsend was out of the city today.

Glass said he had not given out any information even to the chairman of the full committee, Senator Fletcher [Dem., Fla.], and did not know the source of "the information or the misinformation as the case may be." Adding that he would "call the matter to the attention of the committee" when the bill goes before it Monday, Glass said:

"It is to be deplored that anybody having access to the proceedings of the subcommittee should have been, if anybody has been, guilty of disclosing information thus surreptitiously gained."

Security Underwriting Involved.

The committee was reported voting to permit private banks to underwrite security issues, but not sell them to the public. Also it was said to have exempted banks, in so doing, from civil liabilities under the securities act, but to have limited the underwriting to 20 per cent of an issue, or to 10 per cent of a bank's capitalization.

Meanwhile a hint of opposition to the bill came today from Senator Borah [Rep., Idaho], after a farm delegation headed by Fred Brenckman, of the National Grange, had protested to him. Borah said:

"They [the farm group] look upon title two as dangerous in that it will delegate power to a few men [federal reserve board] absolutely to control the volume of currency in this country without any regulation or standard to limit or control their discretion."

JAP FIRM BUYS AMERICAN CASH REGISTER UNIT

TOKIO, June 29.—(AP)—The National Cash Register Company of Japan announced its "consolidation" tonight with the Nippon Cash Register company, whereby the latter purchases licenses permitting it to manufacture under all existing patents owned by the National Cash Register company of Dayton, O., for oriental markets.

Manufacturing and assembling will be carried on at the Nippon company's factories here and at Ohiz, near Tokio. The sales territory will be the Japanese empire, China, French Indo-China, and the Federated Malay States. Cheaper manufacturing costs in Japan are expected to lead to a consolidation and expansion of markets in the orient.

An American spokesman said National of Japan would continue as the sales company for certain National products, but a new sales company would be formed to market products of the consolidated interests. The Nippon company is capitalized at 2,000,000 yen [about $580,000].

EXCEPTIONAL MEN

One of our clients with a national business of $8,000,000 in 1934 requires the services of four men for the Chicago territory.

A background of integrity and accomplishment in the specialty sales field will be necessary; experience in their business is not essential. Those selected will receive a thorough training, together with leads in an established clientele.

Only replies giving complete details of applicant's qualifications will be given consideration. P. O. Box 358, Chicago, Ill.

BANK STOCKS RISE ON MOVE TO ADOPT UNDERWRITING PLAN

A flurry in bank stock markets of New York and Chicago was caused yesterday by the news from Washington that the senate banking subcommittee had attached an amendment to the proposed banking act of 1935 permitting banks to underwrite new security issues. Banks have been unable to participate in such underwritings since the banking act of 1933 went into effect.

In New York bank stocks responded with the strongest rally in several months. Advances in the shares in the over-the-counter market there ranged all the way from ½ to 25 points.

The stock of the Guaranty Trust company rose 8 points, National City shares 2¼ points, and Chase National 1. First National Bank of New York jumped 25 points to 1520. The first three banks named are regarded as the most likely to benefit from such a ruling.

In Chicago First National and Continental shares moved up 2 points each. Northern Trust was bid up 5 points.

The senate committee's action met favorable response in banking circles. Bankers expressed the belief that such a move would tend to stimulate new financing which is regarded as a prerequisite to recovery.

Adoption of the amendment is expected to lead to a change in the present financing machinery. In the past the underwriting groups have usually been identical with the distributing syndicate.

Under the proposed amendment banks might underwrite new issues, but could take no part in the distribution. This is similar to the English system, where the underwriting and floating are separate functions.

IMPORTS OF FARM PRODUCTS SOAR IN FIRST QUARTER

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—An unprecedented import movement of agricultural products in the first quarter of this year, and a noticeable shifting of American exports from Europe to other nations, were reflected today in the quarterly analysis of "our world trade" made by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Import trade for the first quarter was the heaviest in four years, the analysis showed, imports of $496,000,000, exceeding those of 1934 by 22 per cent. In quantity, the increase was 18 per cent.

Important increases over both 1934 and the five year average were made in imports of rubber, raw silk, tin, copper, nickel, manganese, diamonds, pulp wood, cotton cloth, fuel oil, creosote oil, seeds, except oil seeds, cocoa beans, wheat, corn, oats, wheat feeds, meats and butter.

Coffee continued our principal import, while cane suger imports from Cuba were especially heavy, amounting to 1,854,000,000 pounds. A strong factor in the increased imports was credited to rubber, the average import price of which advanced 66 per cent.

Imports of raw silk during the first quarters were larger than for any quarter of 1934, amounting to 16,526,000 pounds, a gain of 27 per cent over 1934 and 2 per cent above the five year average.

Another important raw material imported in greatly increased volume was tin, our receipts for the first quarter totaling 39,941,000 pounds, nearly double the quantity imported in the 1934 first quarter and 35 per cent above the five year average.

The analysis showed a decline of $43,000,000 in the export trade of the United States to Europe, but this was almost entirely offset by increase of shipments to South America, the far east and other markets.

Streamlined Taxis Planned by Yellow Cab

A sample of new Yellow cabs is expected to arrive here the latter part of the week, and, if accepted by company officials, will be placed on display.

The model has been assembled by hand by the Checker Manufacturing company in Kalamazoo, Mich., and although no orders have been placed, it is expected to be the pattern for the Yellow Cab company's fleet of 1,000 new taxis to be placed on the streets this fall. Company officials were in Kalamazoo last week inspecting the job, and ordered several minor changes, but pronounced the model by far the nearest approach to what is wanted.

New Cab Streamlined.

Described by Benjamin Samuels, president of the Chicago Yellow Cab company, as "strikingly and beautifully streamlined," the model has a longer wheel base than any cabs used heretofore in Chicago. It is roomier than the present cars and added comfort has been extended even to the driver's seat, it was said.

The company also is planning to try velour upholstery as an innovation. While lether, always the standard, is easy to keep clean and sanitary, it has given rise to numerous complaints, particularly because of its chilliness in wintertime. To avoid this, blankets have been used on the seats.

The 1,000 new cabs, plans for whose purchase first was announced several months ago, are estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

Smaller Cabs Ruled Out.

A number of smaller cabs were considered, despite the opinion of officials that Chicagoans demand a large, heavy cab with better riding qualities. None was found suitable.

Although rumor for a time had it that the company might buy its new equipment from Packard, it was said that company voluntarily withdrew from competition when it was learned that specifications would require changes amounting to almost complete rebuilding of the Packard-proposed taxi.

FRANC DECLINES AGAINST DOLLAR AS POUND GAINS

New York, June 29.—[Special.]—Foreign exchanges were quiet and irregular today. The franc moved ⅛ point lower at 6.63⅞ cents, while sterling rose ⅛ cent to $4.94⅛. Guilders rallied 2 points to 68.87 cents and the Swiss franc dropped 2 points to 32.85 cents. Italian lire slipped ½ point at 8.30 cents.

With the franc closing at 6.63⅜ cents, the value of the dollar against francs rose from 99.90 cents yesterday to 99.92 cents today. Based upon the old parity of the franc the dollar was 59.01 cents today, against 59 cents yesterday.

No transactions in gold were reported today, but it was learned that 3,600,000 ounces of silver had been consigned here from abroad on the President Roosevelt, scheduled to arrive July 6. The metal had been purchased, it was presumed, for account of the treasury during the recent decline in silver prices in London.

Stock Exchange Sales Fall, but Run Well Above 1934

New York, June 29.—(AP)—Total sales on the New York Stock exchange in June approximated 22,300,000 shares. This was substantially below the total of 30,439,671 in May, but well above the low level of 16,800,155 in June, 1934.

WHEAT CLIMBS, THEN DROPS IN EXCITED TRADE

Final Prices Lower; Rust Scare Wanes.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The Chicago grain market was the scene yesterday of another day of excited trading in which prices moved up and down with a rapidity seldom witnessed in recent months. Wheat rose two cents a bushel at the height of the market activity only to fall back and close a quarter of a cent under Friday's last prices. Other grains followed a similar trend and ended the day at lower quotations.

In the Minneapolis market the excitement was even greater. July wheat futures sold at a dollar a bushel, or 8½ cents above the closing price last Thursday, but tumbled sharply before the close to finish ⅜ cent a bushel higher at 97⅜ cents.

The nervous gyrations of the market were caused principally by attempts of traders to even up their positions in the July contracts on which deliveries begin tomorrow morning.

Short Covering in Wheat.

There was continued short covering in July wheat, as well as in other futures. Speculative "spread operations" between wheat and corn were being closed out and contributed to the confusing price movements.

The promising crop "scare" inspired by the reports received Friday of black rust discoveries in Nebraska and South Dakota was fairly well deflated by second day appraisals of the situation. The presence of black rust in both Kansas and Nebraska was confirmed but the crop is too far advanced there to be seriously affected.

Crop experts declare the rust is a potential threat to the spring wheat crop farther north but pointed out that no damage can be done for another month or so. The development of the rust will depend on weather conditions in the next few weeks.

Public Interest Reawakened.

Trading was active throughout the session yesterday. Larger orders came into the market than on the preceding day as public interest was reawakened. Closing prices on the September futures, with comparative quotations, were:

	Yesterday.	Friday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$0.85¼	$0.85⅞	$0.80⅝
Corn	.76⅛	.77	.75
Oats	.33⅜	.34⅛	.32⅜
Rye	.48⅛	.48⅞	.47⅛

The official weather forecast yesterday warned of further showers today in Kansas, with the prospect that harvest work would be further hampered. The weekly forecast gave some promise of clearing weather later in the week in the harvest region.

Foreign markets failed to reflect the nervousness of prices in Chicago and other domestic markets yesterday. In Winnipeg wheat declined nearly a cent, while Liverpool prices advanced moderately.

CONSOLIDATED OIL ISSUE TOPS REGISTRATION

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—Topped by a proposed $75,000,000 bond issue by the Consolidated Oil corporation, applications today for registration under the securities act of 1933 amounted to $115,900,092, bringing the total for June to $681,111,073 and the total since Jan. 1 to $1,360,629,323.

Nine corporations filed, this being the last day on which Dec. 31, 1934, financial statistics would be accepted in registration statements.

An indication of the upward trend of instalment buying was reflected in the application of the Commercial Investment trust, one of the largest financing companies in the field, for approval of a $25,000,000 stock issue, none of which is to be used for refunding. About $62,500,000 of the Consolidated Oil issue will be employed in connection with the retirement of other securities.

The Armstrong Cork company proposed to issue $9,000,000 of bonds for refunding purposes. Among other corporations seeking approval of new securities were: Sussex Fire Insurance company, $1,500,000; Peoria Distillers, Inc., $1,200,000; Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company, $1,015,240, and Abbott Laboratories, $300,000.

25 Favorable Dividend Changes Voted in Week

New York, June 29.—Dividend actions in the last week resulted in 25 favorable changes against 11 that were unfavorable, the Standard Statistics company reported today. In the previous week the record was 21 favorable against 6 on the adverse side.

World Trade Congress Makes Demand for Stabilized Money

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, June 29.—Once again the world's business leaders have solemnly declared their opinion that monetary stabilization and a lowering of trade barriers are imperative for a revival of world trade and the peace of nations.

This came about today when the largest and most important congress of the International Chamber of Commerce ended its session with the adoption of thirty resolutions, including the American delegation's demand for immediate consultations on international stabilization.

Condemns Government Meddling.

The congress condemned government interference with private business, the national regulation of crops, and bilateral trade agreements unless they are accompanied by most-favored-nation clauses.

The principle that internal and international indebtedness should be recognized as one of the causes of the shrinkage of world trade was recommended as well as that budgets should be balanced by economies rather than by increased taxation.

Having adopted their resolutions, the delegates heard their leaders call for action on them.

"At nearly every congress it has been urged upon delegates that they follow up resolutions by action and endeavor to see that the policies laid down are put into force," said Eliot Wadsworth of Boston, who spoke for the American delegation. "There is, indeed, a great difference between passing resolutions and following them up in a practical and effective way.

Makes Demand for Action.

"We have urged stabilization of exchange and removal of trade barriers. Nothing can be accomplished along these lines without action by the individual governments. May I suggest the responsibility which falls upon every national delegation for aggressive action in their own country?"

Dr. Frederick F. Van Vlissingen, who today was reëlected president of the International Chamber of Commerce for the next two years—an honor never before conferred—was equally outspoken in the call for action.

MOODY'S INDEX INDICATES MIXED BUSINESS TREND

New York, June 29.—(AP)—Statistics appearing during the last week indicated a mixed business tendency, according to Moody's index figures for freight car loadings, electric power production, and steel ingot output.

These index figures are adjusted for seasonal variation—that is, if the change from the previous week should coincide with the normal seasonal change, the index figure would be unchanged.

REORGANIZING PLAN OFFERED BY MILWAUKEE

Interest to Depend on Earnings.

A plan for reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company was presented to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday after he had approved as filed in good faith a petition for adjustments under section 77 of the amended bankruptcy law.

"After numerous conferences with Chairman Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and representatives of more than twenty insurance companies and savings banks owning in excess of $100,000,000 of various issues of bonds, the board of directors approved the plan," said Harry A. Scandrett, president of the Milwaukee road. The company's indebtedness as of June 30 was placed at $481,521,686.

Early Hearing Asked.

Copies of the petition and of the proposed plan have been forwarded to the interstate commerce commission and an early date asked for public hearings.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation will make additional loans to the

NORTH WESTERN INSISTS ON FAST REORGANIZATION

Makes Threat of Drastic Scaling of Debt.

The Chicago and North Western Railway management will not wait more than ninety days for large institutional investors to accept its "comparatively mild" proposals for a plan of reorganization, Samuel H. Cady, vice president and general counsel of the road, said yesterday.

If the investors do not accept in time a dose of bitter medicine will be proffered to the big security holders in the form of a drastic plan calling for a sharp scaling down of debt in a "real reorganization," he said.

Expect Approval of Plan.

"We are still hopeful," however, said Cady, "that our present proposals, really amounting to a five year moratorium, will be found acceptable. But we certainly will not wait more than ninety days, if that long. How drastic a plan might be drawn up, I am not prepared to say. Details have not been worked out because we expect our present plan to be approved.

"If it does come to a matter of complete reorganization, there undoubtedly will be serious objections.

It is generally believed that the interstate commerce commission will be even more receptive to a plan for a thorough reorganization than to the "moratorium" proposals. In some quarters, however, it was believed that the threat of a drastic reorganization is being used in the hope of speeding up agreement on the milder plan.

Files Under Bankruptcy Law.

The North Western filed a petition for reorganization under section 77 of the amended bankruptcy law Friday, but did not submit a plan. It was stated at the time that negotiations with large security holders have been under way for some time and that hope was held for agreement on a plan within ninety days.

In the meantime, the management was continued in charge of the road by Federal Judge John P. Barnes, and no change will be made in service. The Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Omaha, important leased line, will be unaffected by the action, and will operate as a separate unit.

U. S. EXPRESS CO. CONTROL VOTE BRINGS CLASH

New York, June 29.—[Special.]—Two factions which are contending for the control of the United States Express company, which has been in liquidation since 1914, bickered for three hours today and adjourned with expressions of hostility.

Alfred Rose, who announced the control vote, reported that 39,780 of the company's 100,000 shares of stock had been voted, 22,191 in favor of the faction headed by David A. Smith and 17,589 for the group headed by John Graubard. Of the total shares voted, about 1,800 might be subject to question, Rose explained.

Graubard, who presided at the opening of the meeting, offered detailed objections to the tellers' acceptance of certain proxies and asserted that 8,610 of the shares claimed in support by the Smith faction were "questionable."

The Smith faction voted for O. C. Kahn, a stockholder, to become chairman of the meeting. With Graubard declaring that the meeting stood adjourned, Kahn accepted a motion for the nomination of four directors acceptable to the Smith faction. The Smith faction then voted their shares in favor of the motion, which Kahn declared carried. The shares claimed by Graubard were not voted.

Simmons Company Sells Huntley Furniture Unit

Simmons company, large manufacturers of steel furniture, mattresses, and other home furnishings, has sold the B. F. Huntley Furniture company, Winston-Salem, N. C., a subsidiary manufacturing wood bedroom and dining room furniture, to a group of Winston-Salem business men, headed by James Lynch, president of the Huntley organization, it was announced yesterday.

Board of Trade Seat Sells for $5,500, Rise of $300

A membership on the Chicago Board of Trade sold yesterday for $5,500, an advance of $300 over the last transfer.

COMMODITY PRICES SHOW IRREGULARITY DURING LAST WEEK

An irregular trend developed last week in the principal commodity markets. The sharp upturn in wheat prices toward the close of the week was the most important change recorded. Other grains, cotton, eggs, and sugar closed with moderate gains.

Losses were chalked up in the butter, hide, rubber, and silver markets. November butter futures sold at a new low quotation for the season.

The following table gives yesterday's closing prices on a representative list of commodities, the preceding week's final quotations, and the high and low figures for the season:

MILWAUKEE ROAD REORGANIZATION PLAN SUBMITTED

Bond Interest to Depend on Earnings.

Milwaukee road up to $12,000,000 and will purchase equipment certificates for an additional $12,000,000 to provide for 80 per cent of the cost of new equipment, according to the plan.

Interest on general mortgage bonds will be two-thirds fixed and one-third contingent for a ten year period. If, however, full interest is earned for any three years, or for the last two years of the five years beginning next Jan. 1, or if earned in three consecutive years after the first five years, all interest will become fixed.

Other Terms of Plan.

All interest becomes contingent on the 50 year 5 per cent mortgage bonds and on the Chicago, Milwaukee, and Gary first mortgage bonds—except that the issue may be declared due and payable by a majority of bondholders if interest for 10 years shall accrue.

To afford protection of the bonds, the plan calls for deposit of all preferred and common stock in a voting trust. Voting trustees have not been selected, but are to be suitable to security holders with whom the road has been conferring. At least a majority of the directors of the proposed new company is to represent bondholders, and the RFC may name one director so long as any of its loans are outstanding.

Existing loans of the RFC and the Railroad Credit corporation are to be extended to July 1, 1945. Milwaukee and Northern first mortgage and consolidated bonds are to be extended to June 1, 1949. The several bonds secured on property leased to the company are to be undisturbed, but provisions of the leases are to be modified waiving obligations in respect to replacement of equipment. Any existing defaults under other mortgages are to be waived and also certain modifications made in the mortgages.

Equipment Trust Arrangement.

Equipment trust obligations totaling $18,192,000 and maturing between April 1, 1935, and Dec. 31, 1940, are to be extended to mature one-fifth as at present and one-fifth annually in each of the four years succeeding present maturities.

The adjustment mortgage bonds receive for each $1,000 principal amount with $260 accumulated interest to June 30, $1,260 par value of new 5 per cent non-cumulative preferred stock voting trust certificates of $100 par, participating equally per share in dividends with common stock after the latter has received 5 per cent on the $25 par value thereof in any year.

Existing preferred stock will receive share for share new common stock voting trust certificates of $25 par per share and the common stock will receive one-third share of voting trust certificates for each present share.

Items set forth in the bill as due and unpaid this year are: Equipment obligations, $899,000 April 1, $558,000 June 1, and $609,000 July 1; interest to Railroad Credit corporation, $10,442, June 27; notes to RFC, $3,275,879, plus $133,117 interest, June 30; general mortgage bonds, $2,843,612, July 1.

Cash Balance Figures.

The balance of income available for interest on the funded debt during the first six months this year is estimated at $1,400,000. The cash balance as of June 30 was approximately $4,000,000.

It was further set forth that obligations in the twelve months beginning tomorrow are $3,206,580 principal due on equipment obligations, $9,533,878 principal on other obligations, and $11,308,116 additional fixed interest.

The road says that it is unable to procure funds with which to meet the various obligations. It operates in the twelve states of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Idaho, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, and Washington.

Judge Wilkerson, who signed the order continuing the present management, setting up new books as of July 1, and requiring monthly reports to the court, is familiar with the affairs of the Milwaukee, having heard a similar reorganization case several years ago.

NEW PROTESTS AGAINST UTILITY BILL ARE URGED

New York, June 29.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, appealed to stockholders again today to protest to their congressional representatives against the proposed utility holding company legislation pending in Washington.

Pointing out that the bill presented to the house of representatives "eliminates some of the worst features of the senate bill," Willkie nevertheless maintained that it should "be materially modified."

"The continued protests of security holders has been the most important single element in preventing the administration from jamming this bill through congress," Willkie said.

He warned of probable attempts on the floor of the house to substitute the senate bill in place of the legislation proposed by the house interstate commerce committee.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Mass., June 29.—Wool was fairly active in the Boston market as well as in some of the large producing states. Boston houses handled some sizable transactions involving wools still in the country, and some mills were reported to be operating quite heavily in producing sections.

CELEBRATE

THE FOURTH IN A

BETTER AUTOMOBILE!

- The Fourth of July this year falls on a Thursday. Thousands of families are planning a real holiday for the entire week-end.

You can make it a real celebration this year if you treat your family and yourself to a better automobile.

And why not—with good used cars available at such attractive prices and on such easy terms! Dealers all over Chicago and suburbs are offering late model automobiles in practically every make and body style. The majority of these better used cars are '32s, '33s and '34s. Some are as late as '35. Many of them are reconditioned and carry liberal guarantees of reliable dealers.

Decide now to make it a Glorious Fourth. Turn to the automobiles columns in the Tribune want ad section. There you will find the most attractive used car values available in metropolitan Chicago.

Check the offerings and make up a list of those which most interest you. Then visit the showrooms and inspect the cars. Turn to the want ads now!

EASY TERMS! Your present car may be the only down payment required for a better used car which has all the latest improvements and safety features which add to motoring pleasure. Check the offers in Tribune want ads now.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY A BETTER USED CAR

STOCKS DRAG; PRICE CHANGES MIXED, SMALL

Transactions Barely Top 250,000 Shares.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 29.—Stocks idled through today's short week-end session in the grip of summer doldrums. Sales barely topped the 250,000 share mark, the total being less than one-third of that of last Saturday. Price changes were mixed and generally small.

Many brokers and operators were out of the city bent on a holiday to extend over July 4, and those on hand were in a holiday mood and little inclined to trade.

Commentators discerned signs of encouragement in the news that except for possible further NRA action the legislative recommendations made by President Roosevelt to congress for this session have been completed.

Governed by Capital News.

The market has been largely governed for some time by political developments at the nation's capital, alternately rallying and receding as news from day to day changed the picture, and brokers do not expect any great change in this policy for some time, perhaps not until the lawmakers shut up shop and go home.

Some interest was shown in utility shares in the earlier dealings, and observers believed the buying might have been due to the New York City board of estimate's action in rejecting Mayor La Guardia's plan for a municipal power plant, but the flurry died out in short order and the explanation along with it.

The more active issues of the group closed fractionally lower. Silvers were quiet though firm, despite indications that plans of the senate silverites to force through their demands for high prices for the metal will not be successful. Cerro de Pasco gained fractionally. Gold shares were under some pressure.

Price Swings Narrow.

Among the industrial leaders narrow price swings featured American Can, Case, Westinghouse, General Motors, Chrysler, United States Steel, du Pont, and International Harvester.

Liquors continued to attract attention. Rails were generally dormant. The motor shares received some support, both Chrysler and General Motors advancing fractionally.

Rubber stocks were little affected by the announcement of a 10 per cent cut in Goodrich tires "for a limited period." Only two or three days ago reports of an impending boost in tire prices were circulated. Traders recalled that similar announcements have preceded several price cuts in this particular field in the past.

HUPP MOTOR CAR DELISTING PLEA REFUSED BY SEC

Washington, D. C. June 29.—(AP)—The securities commission today denied the application of the New York Stock exchange for delisting of the common stock of the Hupp Motor Car corporation. The commission said that to grant the application "at this critical point in the corporation's affairs would subject the stockholders' interest to undue risk."

"A contemplation of the salaries paid during the time of severe losses, of the treatment of the corporation by its bankers, and of the dissension which is menacing the existence of a once prosperous enterprise makes us very sympathetic toward the stockholders," the commission said.

"In view of the changes made by the corporation, and in the hope that an honest effort will be made to run the corporation for the stockholders, we have decided to deny the application of the exchange without prejudice as to its rights as to delisting in respect of permanent registration, on any proper grounds, including those of the present application."

OCTOBER EGGS ADVANCE; BUTTER DECLINES ¼ CENT

A sharp drop in the into storage movement of eggs, with the four markets reporting an increase of only 4,500 cases in supplies, compared with 9,800 cases a year ago, brought in fairly active buying of October eggs on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday and they closed ⅜ cent higher at 26 cents per dozen. Shorts covered on the way up.

November butter dropped ¼ cent and closed at 24½ cents per pound, due to a heavy into storage movement, stocks at Chicago increasing around 1,000,000 pounds. Sales of eggs aggregated 110 cars and butter 20 cars. Prices follow:

MINNEAPOLIS FLOUR.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 29.—(AP)—FLOUR—Prices were unchanged today. Shipments were 20,077 brls. Pure bran was quoted at $18.50@19.00 and standard middlings at $21.50@22.00 per ton.

PRICES OF LARD FUTURES GAIN 17½ TO 22½ CENTS

Short covering in fair volume developed in December and May lard yesterday and found offerings light, the close being at net gains of 17½ to 22½ cents. Spreading and backspreading between lard and corn furnished part of the day's business. The nearby deliveries of lard held within relatively narrow limits and closed 2½ to 5 cents higher.

Considerable attention was paid by the provision trade to the department of agriculture estimate suggesting the number of pigs saved this year would probably be the smallest in 40 years. Bellies were unchanged to 2½ cents higher. Cash demand was reported as slow, with cash lard quoted at $13.60; loose, $13.72; leaf, $14, and bellies at $17.12 per 100 pounds. COTTON OFF 3 TO 8 POINTS AFTER A FIRM TONE EARLY

Cotton was somewhat firmer in the early trading yesterday, but later profit taking by some of Friday's buyers developed and found support only fair. Prices receded and closed with net losses of 4 to 8 points in Chicago and 3 to 6 points in other markets. There was a noticeable lack of buying by the pool which was much in evidence the preceding day. Weather conditions over the belt were generally favorable, but pessimistic reports as to the condition in Texas and Oklahoma continue to be received. Prices in cents per pound follow:

BRAIN TRUSTERS' RED TAPE BINDS HOUSING WORKS

Only Two of 67 Projects Under Way.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 29.—[Special.]—How New Deal brain trusters measure up in practice to private business, which they are attempting to run by theory, was revealed today in a report of the housing division of the Public Works administration.

The division has 283 million dollars to spend on 74 low cost housing and slum clearance projects, all but seven of which are federal projects. The seven are limited dividend projects in which the PWA has made loans to private groups for low rent housing.

Of the 67 federal projects only 20 have got beyond the red tape of New Deal professorialism in more than a year. Not one of the 20 is occupied, and only two projects are under construction.

Progress Shows Lag.

Of the seven private enterprise projects, four are occupied and three are under construction. The three are nearing occupancy.

In most of the 20 projects, listed in the housing division report as "advanced projects," the government has not yet acquired title to the projects sites. Officials said it may be as much as two years before families may enjoy the fruits of brain trust socialism.

The slum clearance and low cost housing program is a New Deal borrowing from soviet Russia, Nazi Germany, and Fascist Italy. Plans of state houses and apartments were studied by the administration before the venture was launched.

"Balked," Says Brain Trust.

Brain trusters excuse their poor showing against private enterprises by stating they have been balked by grasping property owners, who have demanded exorbitant prices in site areas. Private capital has been more fortunate in its dealings with property owners, they say.

Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes ran into this difficulty when he launched the housing program a year ago. He discovered he could not condemn property for his projects and pay what he thought was a fair price because he was up against the clause of the constitution which guarantees that no property can be seized by the government without due process of law.

Ickes set his lawyers to work to discover a means of circumventing the due process clause. When they failed he talked of amending the constitution, which he said was balking "a great undertaking." His suggestion found no supporters in congress.

Given Setback in Chicago.

The housing administration had its most serious setback from property owners in Chicago. A $12,500,000 west side slum clearance project was halted when property owners refused to take the prices offered by Ickes. This project is carried on the "advanced" list because the housing division still hopes to salvage a portion of the area.

The advanced projects listed by the housing division are:

Techwood — Allotment of $2,700,000 for 604 living units and dormitory quarters for the Georgia Institute of Technology at Atlanta. Under construction.

University—Allotment of $2,500,000 for 675 living units at Atlanta. Under construction.

Williamsburg—Allotment of $12,783,000 for about 5,000 living units in New York City. Condemnation proceedings opened and demolition bids invited.

Boylan Housing corporation—Allotment of $192,600 for 54 units in Raleigh, N. C. Under construction.

In the limited dividend undertakings, the greater part of the capital is borrowed from PWA. The return on the investment is regulated by PWA provisions.

BUILDING AND LOAN SPRING BORROWING HIGHEST SINCE 1931

Homeowners borrowed in the neighborhood of $187,000,000 from the savings, building and loan associations during the three spring months of this year, utilizing this source of credit in greater degree than in any like period since 1931, according to the United States Building and Loan league. H. T. Donaldson, vice president, said advances by associations this spring have been 86 per cent higher than last year, twice the volume in the spring of 1933, and at least 40 per cent greater than in 1932.

"During the last week we saw the end of the thirty day period for new applications allowed by the HOLC and from now on greater importance will attach to the ability of the savings, building and loan associations to supply money for refinancing, as well as for buying, remodeling, and building homes," said Donaldson.

"One of the most significant signs of recovery may be found in the returning disposition of the public to use in their home mortgage transactions institutions capitalized by savings and investments. This seems to be the first field in which a more normal borrowing situation is appearing."

CHECKS REVEAL TRADE LAGGING IN MIDDLE WEST

Business activity in the middle west, as shown by movement of checks in the seventh federal reserve district in the week ended June 26 in 161 banks of forty-one leading cities, showed a decline of 8.4 per cent from a week ago, but was 11.7 per cent above the level in the corresponding period of last year. Total debits were $935,969,000, compared with $1,021,481,000 in the preceding week. In the forty cities for which comparative figures are available debits were $934,553,000, compared with $836,886,000 in the same week of 1934.

All but two of the forty cities showed increases from 1934, these being Decatur and Gary, where the declines were only slight. Chicago debits were $523,243,000, compared with $497,477,000, and Detroit had $186,227,000, against $150,056,000. Milwaukee recorded an advance from $47,109,000 to $52,797,000. Indianapolis gained from $27,470,000 to $33,520,000. Des Moines had a rise from $15,616,000 to $20,958,000.

PEOPLE'S BANK TO PAY ANOTHER 18% OF DEPOSITS

Payment of 18 per cent more to depositors of the People's National Bank and Trust company has been authorized by the controler of the currency, and checks will be given out next Friday, Receiver W. W. Pearson announced yesterday.

The payment amounts to $608,929 and will raise returns to 48 per cent. Preferred and secured claims of $2,466,120 have been paid.

On March 31 the receivership had $225,000 in cash and its remaining assets of $3,773,371 book value were estimated to yield $829,780 more before liquidation is completed. This would indicate about another 10 per cent for depositors depending upon settlement reached on claims of $120,000 which still are pending.

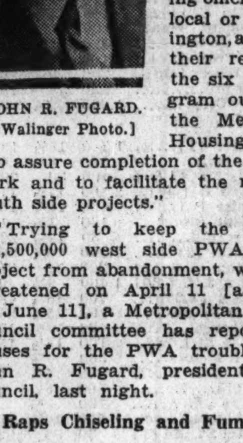
Ickes Fails to Reply to Chicago Critics of Local Housing Program

INQUIRY FINDS CHISELING AND MUCH BUNGLING

Tells How to Save West Side Project.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]



JOHN R. FUGARD.
[Walinger Photo.]

Up to last night Public Works Administrator Ickes had not replied to the blast of criticism directed by the Metropolitan Housing council of Chicago against the operations of the PWA in its attempted acquirement of a site for the proposed $12,500,000 west side housing project. Nor had any PWA housing officials, either local or at Washington, announced their reaction to the six point program outlined by the Metropolitan Housing council "to assure completion of the west side work and to facilitate the north and south side projects."

"Trying to keep the allocated $12,500,000 west side PWA housing project from abandonment, which was threatened on April 11 [and again on June 11], a Metropolitan Housing council committee has reported the causes for the PWA troubles," said John R. Fugard, president of the council, last night.

Raps Chiseling and Fumbling.

"Because the council is seeking an effective, long term program for the improvement of Chicago housing, the board of governors sent a copy of the committee's report to Secretary Ickes. The council deplores the loss of so large a rehabilitation project, because of its contribution to the housing program and because the building industry cannot afford to have such a job canceled by chiseling and fumbling."

The Chicago group's report pointed out that the four months elapsed between the initial announcement of the project and the first negotiations for property. This delay, the letter to Ickes said, gave the chiselers an unusual opportunity to get into high speed. During these four months of typical governmental delay, the report said that twenty investigations were made in the housing area, "which caused confusion and gave time for chiseling."

Following are some heretofore unpublished excerpts from the letter sent Ickes: "The detailed findings and recommendations of the committee appointed by the board of governors of this council, are set forth in its complete report which is attached. The board of governors wishes to call your attention to some of the more outstanding findings and recommendations.

Some points in the Chicago report are:

Gives Reasons for Collapse.

"The basic reasons for the collapse of the west side project were: 1. Complete failure of public relations in all aspects; 2. Improper scheduling of operations in the installation of the project; 3. Employment of untrained personnel and the use of ineffective techniques.

"The major suggestions to assure completion of the west side work and to facilitate the north and south side projects are:

"1. Organization of an experienced public relations staf.

"2. Designation of a strong citizens' group from each project neighborhood to maintain close contact between official activities and the property owners and occupants of the area.

"3. Giving precedence to land acquisition activities over administrative and investigational measures.

Urges Informing Owners.

"4. Frequent presentation of information to property owners regarding conditions and benefits of the housing division's program and progress to date.

"5. Decentralization of administrative detail from Washington to regional offices.

"6. Reorganization of the personnel and techniques to assure effective execution of departmental policies."

"Other tenants in some cases have refused to pay rent. Mortgage and tax payments have stopped. The least that can be done now is to go ahead with the project, in full or in part, on as

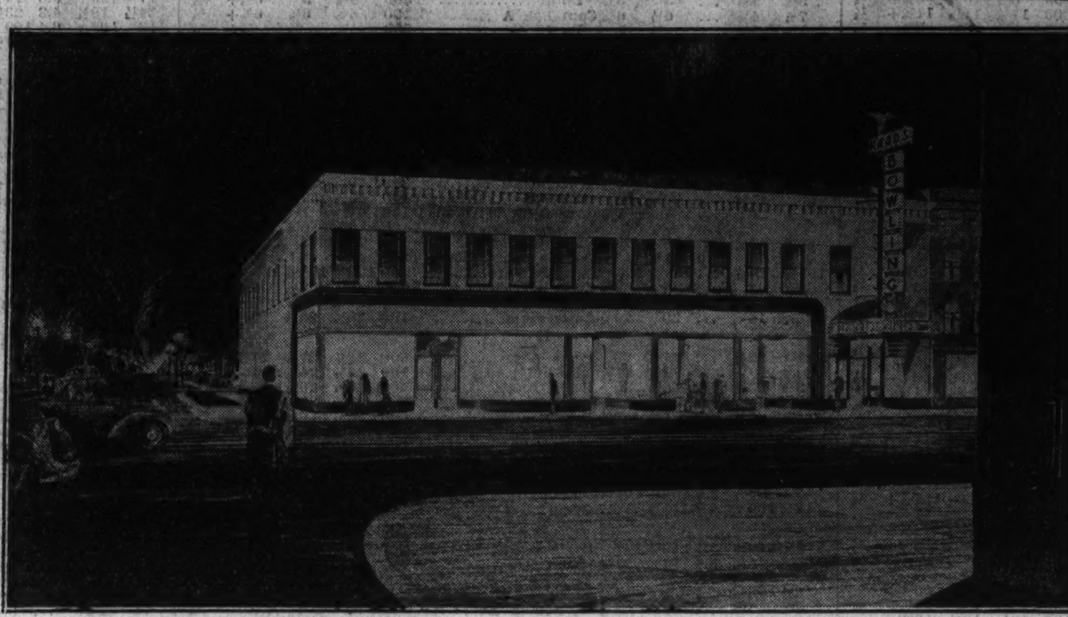
NEW BUSINESS BLOCK FOR THE NORTH SIDE



Berlin & Swern are architects of the above business block to be erected at the southeast corner of Ashland avenue and School street by a corporation of which Werner Wieboldt is president. The entire building has been leased for twenty years by Christen Kaad Jr., who will occupy the second floor with sixteen bowling alleys and operate a bar with billiards on the first floor. The other four stores will be rented. The building and equipment will represent a total reported investment of $75,000.

APPROVE 19 FHA LOANS IN NORTHERN ILLINOIS IN WEEK

Nineteen loan applications under title II. of the national housing act amounting to $127,103 for new home construction in the northern Illinois district, were approved by the Chicago Federal Housing administration office during the week ended June 25, according to Carroll H. Sudler, FHA district director.

This brings the total to date of title II. loans and approved applications in the northern Illinois district to 106 projects amounting to $923,704, of which 43 jobs totaling $431,134 are under construction.

Of the total to date 79 projects amounting to $733,416 are in Chicago and the metropolitan area, while the remaining 27 projects amounting to $190,288 until title II. for the district are outside the metropolitan area.

Under title I. of the national housing act, which covers modernization and repairs to homes and other buildings up to $50,000 for individual loans, northern Illinois shows a grand total to date of $2,955,455. Of this amount $1,970,545 is for Chicago and the remaining $984,910 is for the rest of the district outside of Chicago.

Chicago itself reports a total of $169,360 under title I. for the two weeks ended June 25, while the rest of the district, exclusive of the city, shows a total of $107,514 for the same period.

"This is the largest two weeks' total we have had so far from the district outside Chicago," said Sudler.

REBUILT BANK BUILDING RENTED TO CHAIN STORES

Construction will start tomorrow on alterations to the Citizens' State Bank building at the southeast corner of Lincoln avenue and Melrose street, costing a reported $55,000. Sobel & Dreilsma are the architects. E. D. Weber is real estate broker. The first floor is to be remodeled into two stores to front on Lincoln avenue, which have been leased to the Sally Chain Stores, Inc., and the Berland Shoe Stores, Inc. Both stores are to be air conditioned. The lessor is the Citizens' Safe Deposit corporation. Completion is set for Sept. 15.

Brokers' Notes

Winslow Wright, son of Murray Wright of Glencoe, has joined the realty organization of McGuire & Orr, Inc., as assistant to the manager of the property management division. His grandfather, Robert P. Walker, was one of the early officers of the Chicago Real Estate board. His great-grandfather, William M. Derby, was in the realty business on the west side more than half a century ago. His father also is in the realty field.

Raymond J. Long, recently in charge of management and sales for the Chicago Realty Management corporation, an affiliate of Cooper-Kanaley & Co., is now associated with Selz & Southman as sales manager.

A. E. Neuberg, for twelve years with A. L. Miltenberg & Co., has opened his own office in the Steuben building and will continue to specialize in renting, management and sale of central and industrial properties.

A substantial increase in the volume of management business serviced by the south shore office of McKey & Poague at 2100 East 71st street recently necessitated the leasing of additional space. Henry C. Stickney is branch manager.

Contracts Awarded

Contracts awarded in Chicago the week of June 21 to 27, according to figures supplied by the F. W. Dodge corporation, totaled 53, with a combined cost of $554,711. For the corresponding week last year there were 25 contracts, totaling $415,500.

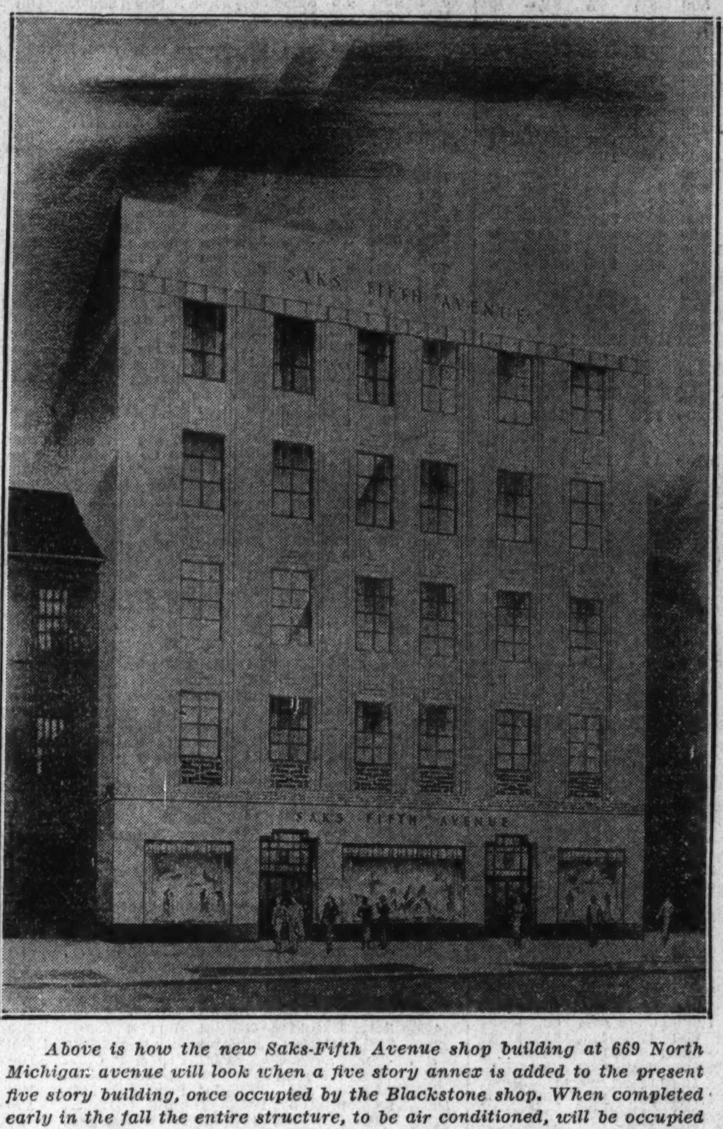
MICHIGAN AVE. IMPROVEMENT



Above is how the new Saks-Fifth Avenue shop building at 669 North Michigan avenue will look when a five story annex is added to the present five story building, once occupied by the Blackstone shop. When completed early in the fall the entire structure, to be air conditioned, will be occupied by Saks-Fifth Avenue, now at 840 North Michigan avenue. According to Adam L. Gimbel, president of the company, $200,000 will be spent in remodeling and in new construction. The property has been leased from Murray Wolbach for a term of years. Holabird & Root, associated with William Sevic, are the architects. The new location is on the east side of Michigan avenue, just north of Erie street.

Saks-Fifth Avenue to Move to 669 North Michigan Ave.

One of the most important north side leases negotiated in several years, signed yesterday, will move Saks-Fifth Avenue specialty store from its present location at 840 North Michigan avenue, south several blocks to 669 North Michigan avenue. According to Adam L. Gimbel, president of the store, $200,000 will be spent in remodeling the present five story building—once occupied by the Blackstone shop—and in erecting a five story addition adjoining it on the south.

When completed early in the fall it is expected the Saks-Fifth Avenue company will have one of the most beautiful specialty shops in the country, according to store officials. The entire building is to be air conditioned. Holabird & Root, associated with William Sevic, are the architects.

Setting for Luxury Merchandise.

"Plans for the exterior and interior have been completed to create a perfect setting for luxury merchandise," said Gimbel. "The spirit of the interior throughout will reflect that of a fine home. The scheme is a blend of regency and modern.

"Each floor will have special furniture, done in the contemporary manner. Fireplaces will add to the atmosphere of intimacy, which will be enhanced by the fact that little or no merchandise will be in view. Displays of goods will be shown in niches and other similar settings or in cabinets.

"It is to be entirely a feminine store. Nothing in the decorations will appeal to the masculine sex. The new space will permit enlargement of facilities for production of fur pieces, millinery, and dressmaking. Extensive workroom space will be provided."

Owned by Wolbach.

The present five story building and the twenty-nine feet adjoining on the south on which the five story addition is to be erected are owned by Murray Wolbach, who has leased the property to Saks-Fifth Avenue for a term of years at an undisclosed rental. The completed building and annex will front 69 feet on Michigan avenue with a depth of 143 feet. There will be approximately 40,000 square feet of floor space.

Bowler Kaad Leases North Side Building

CHRISTEN KAAD JR.

Bids are now being taken and work will start shortly on a two story business building at the southeast corner of North Ashland avenue and School street, from plans by Berlin & Swern. The owner is the North Town corporation, of which Werner Wieboldt is president. The entire building has been leased for twenty years by Christen Kaad Jr., who has operated the "Kaadland" bowling alleys at Lincoln avenue and Roscoe street for the last thirteen years.

Kaad will use the entire second floor of the new structure with sixteen bowling alleys in a row without a pillar. He also will occupy considerable first floor space with a billiard hall and bar. The remaining four first floor stores will be subleased.

Kaad has been identified with bowling for many years. He was state champion bowler for Illinois in 1916 and accomplished the rather unusual feat of reclaiming the championship title eight years later in 1924. He also held the city of Chicago championship honors at one time.

The corporation owner will expend approximately $60,000 on the new structure, according to architects, and Kaad, it was stated, will install fixtures costing $15,000.

The building will have exterior walls of face brick with limestone, precast marble, and black glass trim, with aluminum store fronts. The structure will be 106x93.

Claude O. Netherton was attorney for Kaad and Clifford R. Edmister for the lessor and is renting agent for the building.

NATIONAL FLORIST GROUP MOVES ITS HEADQUARTERS HERE

In recognition of Chicago's claim to the title of world's largest flower market, the national headquarters of the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists has been moved from New York City, where it has been for nearly half a century, to this city. Space on the fourth floor of the Stevens hotel has been leased for a term of years for permanent headquarters of the national group.

This organization, the only one in the country representing in its membership the activities of the entire florist industry—the grower, the wholesaler, and the retailer—originated the national flower shows now held in the principal cities.

The society, which is more than fifty-two years old, it is said, has the distinction of being the only trade organization ever to have a charter granted by a special act of congress. This charter was issued in 1901 and bears the signature of President McKinley. The organization originated the slogan: "Say It with Flowers."

The board of directors will hold its annual meeting in the Stevens hotel July 1 and 2.

"The work of a national organization such as ours will be much more effective operating from a central point," said H. Mortimer Brockway, executive secretary. "For the last ten years a change in the center of activities in the florist industry has been under way. For that reason it was considered advisable to move our headquarters from New York to Chicago, which is now the largest flower market in the world."

GEORGE CAPPER AGAIN TO HAVE CHICAGO STORE

Haberdasher Rents Space in Michigan Avenue.

GEORGE H. CAPPER.
[Moffett Photo.]

George H. Capper, for many years with Capper & Capper, of which he was president and general manager for a decade, yesterday signed a lease which will bring him back to the local men's furnishing field, with an establishment of his own.

Capper has rented for a term of years the two stores and basement at 24 and 26 South Michigan avenue from the estate of Stanley McCormick, and about Sept. 1 will open a modern store under the name of George H. Capper, Inc.

Associates Are Named.

Associated with Capper will be the vice president and secretary treasurer who served with him for many years in the old firm of Capper & Capper. Edwin Milner, former vice president of the previous concern, will hold a similar office in the new company. H. E. Milner will be secretary and treasurer.

According to Capper the new store will embody many novelties in store layout and decoration. It will have a cove lighting system and later will be air conditioned. It was planned by the Grand Rapids Store Equipment company.

Capper was associated with his brothers in the Capper & Capper firm for many years. He started with that organization as an errand boy and was later sent to Minneapolis to open a branch store.

Success Brings Recall.

His success brought his recall to Chicago in 1918 when his brothers made him president and general manager. He conducted the company's activities until 1928, when a reorganization took place and Capper resigned, selling his interest to the present owners. He lives in Riverside.

Gerard E. Hausen was the only broker in the lease negotiations. The Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company acted through its vice president, Mark W. Lowell, as trustee of the McCormick estate. L. T. Kelly represented the bank's real estate department.

Victory Grocery Company Leases Food Center Site

The Victory Grocery company has leased a store with a frontgae of 100 feet at 6323-29 South Ashland avenue, for six years at an undisclosed rental, to be used as a chain food center. Harry L. Hull of Thure W. Johnson & Co., represented the lessee, and Charles Cross and associates acted for the lessor, which is the American National Bank and Trust company.

AIR CONDITIONING PROVES AID IN FAST RENTING OF SHOPS

Air conditioned small stores in the loop are in demand, according to Aldis & Co., who yesterday reported that with the closing of four leases in the new two story building recently completed at the southeast corner of Dearborn and Monroe, the structure is nearly all rented. There are only two vacant units on Dearborn and space on the second floor.

B/G Foods, Inc., leased for ten years the store at 33 West Monroe and as soon as decorations are complete will move the present store at 104 South Dearborn, in the Westminster building, to the new location where it will have twice as much space. The new restaurant will have cove lighting and will be air conditioned.

Joseph Vogel leased for three years the store at 41 West Monroe and will operate an air conditioned yarn and knitting goods store to be known as "The Spinning Wheel." An old-fashioned spinning wheel of neon tubes may be a feature of the entrance or shop window.

I. B. Ury has rented the store at No. 39 West Monroe for an optical and watch repair shop. At No. 45 Kirkland's Stamp shop will operate on a five years' lease. Both will be air conditioned. H. F. Prussing was broker. Aldis & Co. represented the owners in all four leases.

PARADES AND PICNICS TO GREET 4TH

GAYEST HARVEY HOMECOMING TO OPEN THIS WEEK

32 Girls Seek Title of Miss Legion.

Harvey's homecoming week opens tomorrow to the bursting of bombs and the beating of drums.

At 7 o'clock tomorrow evening Harvey Legion post, No. 55, sponsor of the celebration, will march in a body from its Broadway headquarters to the city park, where Mayor Frank Bruggeman will officially proclaim the festivities in progress. Three bombs then will be set off to mark the opening of what promises to be the gayest six days in the city's history.

Parades and fireworks, contests and field meets, donkey ball games, open air dancing, and entertainment of all sorts will crowd the homecoming program, reaching a high point on the Fourth and culminating next Sunday in Legion day, in which Legion posts from all over the county will participate.

Seek Miss American Legion.

Miss American Legion, to be selected in a popularity contest being conducted throughout Thornton township, will be enthroned as queen of the homecoming Saturday evening. Contests for a variety of amateur talent will be held every night, together with outdoor dancing. Cash prizes will be awarded nightly at 11 o'clock.

Other details of the week's program follow:

Tuesday evening Hazelcrest post, No. 398, and Harvey post will be matched in a donkey ball game, in which a dash of polo is instilled into baseball by mounting part of the teams on donkeys.

Wednesday evening the Harvey Elks will meet Garcia Moreno council, Knights of Columbus, in a donkey ball game.

Salute to Open Program.

A 21 bomb salute will launch the glorious Fourth at 6:30 o'clock Thursday. The entire community, including patriotic organizations, industries, business men, civic groups, and school children, will be represented in the parade at 10:30 o'clock.

Harvey post will play donkey ball with the winner of Wednesday's match at 1 o'clock and children's contests of all sorts will follow. The annual grudge kittenball game between the Harvey firemen and policemen is scheduled for 4:30 o'clock and swimming and diving contests at the city pool at 7 o'clock. Dancing and fireworks will follow.

Another donkey ball game between Blue Island post, No. 50, and Harvey Legionnaires opens Friday evening's celebration. Finals of the amateur talent contests throughout the week will be held and prizes awarded.

Diamonds to Be Prizes.

The finals of the tennis tournament for men and women, seniors and juniors will be played off Saturday afternoon, and that evening Miss American Legion will be announced. The two leading contestants will receive diamond rings and the third a wrist watch.

Legion day Sunday will open at 2:30 o'clock with a parade of drum and bugle corps. Among the posts entering the drill contests during the evening are Yarmo-Devere post, Victory, Square, Beverly Hills Twin City, Cicero, Belleau Woods, Blue Island, and Harvey post corps.

A. W. Skinner, commander of Harvey Legion post, will preside at Legion day exercises at 3:30 o'clock at Thornton Township High school athletic field, when Paul Armstrong, state commander of the American Legion, will speak. Miss American Legion will be presented and the massed drum and bugle corps will play "Semper Fidelis."

Miss Legion Entrants.

The thirty-two entrants in the Miss American Legion contest include the following:

Sylvia Basford
Marguerite Begnoche
Pearl Biggerstaff
Marie Blair
Arlene Blonquist
Vivian Bloomquist
Vivian Bull
Pearl Coffman
Leona Cogswell
Evelyn Cohen

Mildred Zmuda

Frank R. Ehman is general chairman of the celebration, with J. P. Reichert and N. C. Gallett also on the general committee. Gerald Scully is chairman of the parade on the Fourth, with Viator Burton and Claude Gallett assisting.

Sports events are in the hands of Robert Wyatt, with Dr. C. E. Simon and Burton Evans on his committee. Dr. Ben Hughes is in charge of children's games, with L. P. Holm and J. D. Logsdon assisting.

Other Committees Named.

Legion day has been planned by Frank Cunningham, with Ralph Patterson and Richard Sharman assisting. W. M. Frasor is in charge of the Miss American Legion contest, with Ace Skinner and Otto Whitson assisting. Joseph M. Cooke is chairman of entertainment, assisted by Sam Marks and Bert Gearon.

Fireworks will be provided by George Fisher, assisted by Charles Applegate Jr. and Norman Gallett. Herman Birkholz is chairman of concessions, assisted by Joseph Readon and Paul Jones. Donkey ball games have been arranged by Clarence Harper, with Walter Nagel and Walter Stansel assisting. Frank Cunningham is chairman of publicity, with Myron Lambert, Mr. Cooke, and F. A. Stanley assisting. Ace Skinner, Ed Bastar, and Frank E. Foster are handling prize awards.

June Showers Chase Flossmoor Women's Garden Party Indoors

It was not the garden party they had planned, but a rainy afternoon nevertheless did not dampen the spirits of the 150 members of the Flossmoor League of Women Voters who attended the annual card party Wednesday in the interests of the organization's treasury. Mrs. Vernon Beatty's house in Vollmer road, Flossmoor, provided a setting for the party in place of her garden. Left to right are Mrs. Franklin Barber, president; Mrs. Beatty and Mrs. Harold Burnham, chairman of the party.

Treasurer G. A. Brand Brings a Touch of Art to City Hall

BY ARCH FARMER.

GUSTAVE A. BRAND

To the voters of Chicago who elected him last April Gustave A. Brand is primarily city treasurer. To the world fraternity of the brush and palette Mr. Brand is an artist who is incidentally a public office holder. Both conceptions of the noted 72 year old German born Chicagoan are essentially true—Mr. Brand is an agreeable and distinguished anomaly.

Last week the Rev. George Scherer, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical church at 2335 Orchard street, announced that Artist-Treasurer Brand had painted for and presented to the church copies of the famous canvases, "Kreuzabnahme" [The Descent from the Cross] by Peter Paul Rubens, and "Carrying the Cross," by Professor Hoffman.

That is a characteristic announcement of the unofficial activities of Mr. Brand. Since early in his colorful career he has devotedly served two masters—art and the public. That he is now holding Chicago's purse strings is no incongruity in the light of his past aims and experience. The wonder of the man lies less in his accomplishments than in the unusual combination of qualities that have given rise to them.

Art Evident in Office.

A Bohemian in appearance, with his black Windsor tie, high sloping forehead and white hair brushed straight back from his temples, Chicago's new city treasurer has added a note of picturesqueness to the somber atmosphere of municipal government. He has added also, at his own expense, a note of beauty.

A visitor to his office on the second floor of the City and County building is struck by the luxury and elegance of its furnishings and appointments.

Lush oriental rugs overlay the floor. Two paintings from the artist's hand, "Labor and Industry," and a landscape, hang from the walls of the room. There are statuettes and sculptured busts and, in a corner, a genuine Chinese screen. Beneath the glass top of a long refectory table are exhibited pen drawings, pastels and etchings by Frank Brangwin, Mr. Brand's favorite modern artist.

His official quarters are evidence of the fact that the city treasurer's esthetic attributes will not readily become effete. They were too long nourished and too well cultivated to be smothered by public responsibility.

Art Student in Germany.

He began the study of art in Germany's public schools when he was 16 years old, won the grand duchy of Mecklenberg scholarship to art academies in Berlin, Munich, and Duesseldorff while he was still in his early twenties, and for nearly half a century since has devoted a large part of his time to painting—originals and copies of masterpieces for churches and other public buildings.

Commissioned by the German government to supervise the decoration of its building at the Columbian Exposition, Mr. Brand came to the United States and Chicago in 1891. The commission completed in '93, he was induced by Harry Selfridge, then general manager of Marshall Field & Co., to remain in Chicago, opening and directing the interior decoration department of Field's department store.

Directs German Day Fête.

In 1903 he established his own interior decoration business, a business which he actively managed until 1930, when he retired to devote his time to lecturing on art and painting for charitable purposes. He was appointed chairman of the Art Commission of Chicago by Mayor Kelly in 1934, and that year directed one of Chicago's greatest pageants, the German day celebration.

The previous year he had been employed by the French government to instal the huge panorama, the Pantheon de l'Guerre, at Washington, D. C. The panorama was shipped to Chicago in 1934 and exhibited at A Century of Progress Exposition.

The days of panorama paintings, a field in which he specialized during his early career, are long past, but Mr. Brand still finds employment for his brush. Noted in art circles for the historic accuracy and excellence of his work, he has in recent years contributed many paintings to govern-

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

OUR TOWN congratulates Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ter Maat, pioneer south siders, and Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Trauscht, 7306 Merrill avenue, who recently celebrated their golden and silver wedding anniversaries. Mr. and Mrs. Ter Maat, who recently returned from a visit with their son, Thomas Jr., at Pomona, Cal., were guests at services in the Hope Reformed church, 78th and South Lincoln streets.

The recent marriage of Miss Rosalie Allman, daughter of Mrs. Louis N. Allman of 5498 Hyde Park boulevard, to Dr. Robert Charles Levy, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Levy of the Chicago Beach hotel, is announced by the bride's mother. The couple has taken an apartment at the hotel.

MISS Alice MacKinnon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. MacKinnon, 7650 Cregier avenue, graduated from the University of Hawaii at Honolulu, early this month, with a bachelor of arts degree. She will spend the summer in Shanghai before returning to Chicago.

Algird Rulis, 5409 South Sacramento avenue, has just been initiated into Phi Lambda Upsilon, national honorary chemical fraternity, at Armour Institute of Technology. Young Rulis, who is attending the institute on a scholarship, is one of the highest ranking students.

OUR TOWNERS score again at school. Miss Bonita Matthews, 6449 Ingleside avenue, won the Judge O. A. Harker $100 prize for the highest grades received by a law student in a three year period at the University of Illinois. Miss Freyda Penner, 6954 Clyde avenue, won a year's scholarship to George Williams college. Miss Lillian Priebe, 6058 South Artesian avenue, has been elected to the Order of John Marshall, honorary legal society at John Marshall Law school, restricted to high ranking students.

OUR TOWN extends felicitations to Mr. and Mrs. William Schimmel, 4718 Kenwood avenue, who yesterday celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. Schimmel, who is 82 years old, and his wife, who is 69, are the parents of Detective Edward Schimmel, one of the Sherlock Holmeses at the detective bureau.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Wolfson, 6747 Paxton avenue, will hold a reception this afternoon at their home in celebration of the confirmation of their twin sons, M. Robert and J. Theodore.

Walter Mourant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mourant, 6229 Kimbark avenue, graduated from the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N. Y., two weeks ago, with a bachelor of music degree.

SPECIAL tribute was paid recently to Miss Catherine A. Burke, principal of Vanderpoel elementary school from 1912 to 1931, in a ceremony held at the school under the sponsorship of the parent-teacher association. Past presidents of the P.-T. A. joined in lauding Miss Burke.

REV. VERNON COOKE RESIGNS TO ACCEPT RHODE ISLAND POST

DR. V. W. COOKE.

The Rev. Vernon W. Cooke, pastor of Avalon Park Community church, 8100 Dante avenue, has accepted a call to the Congregational church of Pawtucket, R. I., to take effect Sept. 25, when he will have concluded a three year ministry. What he has accomplished in that period may be summed up in the words of the trustees at the meeting when his resignation was tendered. "Due to the shrewdness, patience, and ability of Dr. Cooke, many problems of the church have been settled," is the record on the minutes.

Choral Groups to Have Parts in Chicagoland Music Festival

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

As in the last five years, contests for men, women and mixed choruses will be a feature of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's Chicagoland Music Festival, to be held Saturday night, Aug. 17, in Soldiers' field. Choruses located in the south part of Chicago and Cook county are invited by this newspaper to take part in this competition. All choruses must have 20 or more voices. The schedule for the Cook county contests, which are to be held in the Grand ballroom of the Drake at 7 p. m. is as follows:

Men—Monday night, Aug. 12.
Women—Tuesday night, Aug. 13.
Mixed—Wednesday night, Aug. 14.

The winners of the Cook County contest will compete with the out-of-town groups beginning at noon on the Festival day at the Drake, and the victors there will sing that night before an expected 100,000 people in Soldiers' field.

Last Year's Victors.

Men—Chicago Rotary Glee club, first; Bohemian Workingmen's Singing Society Lyra, second.

Women—The Cathryne Bennett Singers, first; Chicago Daughters chorus.

Mixed—The Chicago Scottish Choral society, first; Emmanuel Reformed church choir.

The Bohemian group has been a consistent winner, having taken first place in the Chicagoland finals in 1933. The chorus, directed by Frank Kubina, is entered again this summer. Many occupations and professions are represented by the membership of 65.

Other Festival contests will be for adult and juvenile bands, junior and drum corps, adult and juvenile baton twirlers, and vocalists. One of the south side vocal entrants is Mrs. Eleanor Schmidt Montague, 21-year-old soprano, 6239 South Spaulding avenue.

Studies Seven Years.

She writes as follows in a note accompanying her entry blank: "I have studied since I was 14. When I was 16 my parents passed away, and I had to quit school to go to work to help support the rest of the family. I now have my own home and hope to devote more time to studying music."

A vocal entry blank is to be found in this section of THE TRIBUNE. For information concerning the various contests write to Festival Headquarters, Room, 1418, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill.

Other Vocal Entrants.

Contralto—Lucy Barkell, 8155 Ellis avenue.

LIONS WILL ATTEND ROSELAND SERVICES WITH FAMILIES TODAY

DR. A. W. HAMANN.

Members of the Roseland Lions club with their families will attend services at 10:45 o'clock this morning at Stewart Ridge Community church.

The Rev. Bryan B. Blalock, pastor of the church and publicity chairman of the club, will preach on the topic, "What Constitutes Americanism?" and special music will be presented by the church choir under Miss Minnie Malkas' direction.

Dr. A. W. Hamann will succeed William Caley as president at an installation dinner Tuesday evening.

CIVIC GROUPS AND VETERANS PLAN EVENTS

Communities to Hold Own Celebrations.

South side observance of Independence day will be marked by community celebrations, picnics, parades, sports carnivals and other demonstrations calculated to make the day a "safe and sane Fourth," such as THE TRIBUNE had in mind when it launched the movement of that name years ago. The use of fireworks by children will be discouraged. Offered in their stead will be displays at several locations by professional organizations.

Largest of the community celebrations will be the annual Grand Crossing Hi-Jinks, which will center around Grand Crossing park. The program will start at 9 o'clock in the morning and continue to 5 o'clock in the evening.

A ball game between business men and newsboys will be at 9 o'clock. Winners will be entertained by the chamber of commerce at a free dinner.

Dog and Pet Shows.

At 10 o'clock there will be a dog parade and show judged by H. G. Gragg and George Thorpe. Ribbons will be awarded to the prettiest, ugliest, largest and smallest dogs, best costumed and funniest dressed dogs. A pet show, judged by Edward E. Pettit, will follow. Prizes will be offered for most unique and unusual pets.

A pushmobile parade and show, judged by Clarence Lambesis, also will be at 10 o'clock. Prizes for the best homemade pushmobile [propelled by a boy] will be awarded.

The feature parade, led by Ambrose J. Burke, will start at 1 o'clock at 75th street and South Park avenue. Led by the Grand Crossing American Legion post drum and bugle corps, the parade, in which a Boy Scout band and Cub Scout pack will take part, will wind through the community to the park.

Athletics in Afternoon.

At 1:30 o'clock, following the presentation of colors by the Scouts and Legionnaires, the athletic program will start. Started with aerial bombs, there will be bicycle and foot races, an exhibition drill by the Legionnaires and the Scouts, a rolling pin throwing contest for women, wooden shoe races, three-legged races and other events.

Andrew Metzger, ward committeeman, will make a patriotic address at 4 o'clock and award prizes in the essay contest on "The Declaration of Independence," sponsored by him. All entries in the conest must be deposited in the office of James Burke, 7428 Cottage Grove avenue, by Wednesday.

At 4:30 o'clock a water carnival under the direction of Orr F. Thumbo and B. O. Mingus, park director, will get under way. At 5 o'clock the ceremony of retiring the colors will end the festivities.

Picnic for Woodlawn.

Woodlawn will celebrate the day at a picnic sponsored by the business men of the community and Fort Dearborn post of the American Legion, to be held at Forges woods, near Maple lake. Preparations are being made by David A. Solovy, chairman, and members of his committee.

The program will include foot races supervised by Daniel Cullinan, chief of the 10th fire battalion, a baseball game between the Legionnaires and the Woodlawn Business Men's association, umpired by Capt. Daniel Lynch of the Woodlawn police, a penny hunt for the children, and several other events.

Fireworks will be displayed during the day and evening and there will be dancing in the 40 and 8 château in the woods during the evening. Picnickers will form a motorcade at 64th street and Cottage Grove avenue. The starting time is 9 o'clock in the morning.

Hold "Old Timers'" Day.

The Fourth will be "Old Timers' day" at Mann park, 130th street and Carondelet avenue. A baseball game between the "Hasbeens," a group of former semi-professional players, and the Calumet A. C., the community's leading amateur club, will be the feature.

Players on the "Hasbeens" include John Ruffing, brother of the Yankees' Charles; Stanley Rzonea, Phil Kuntz, Joseph Proszay, Cy Young, Kasimir Krulak, Walter Novak, Casimir Ploszaj, Joseph Gawlik, John Antkovic, Joseph Novak, Stanley Ploszaj, Casimir Gawlick, Leo Long, Barney Bogaczyk, and Ben Blozak. Halfpint Jackson will be the scorekeeper.

Opposing the "Hasbeens" on the Calumet team are Leo Opiola, Frank Sobon, Joseph Boniar, John Cieslak, John Kupick, Harry Wojich, Fritz Janeczyk, Barney Kurnik, and John Skowronek. The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

Trumbull Field Meet.

Trumbull park, 103d street and Bensley avenue, will open the day's activities with a field meet for boys and girls, starting at 10 o'clock in the morning, with races and games, to be followed by a water carnival, featuring several events.

Two baseball games are scheduled for the afternoon, the first starting at 1 o'clock and the other at 3 o'clock. Softball games between two teams will be played later in the day. A tug of war, horseshoe pitching contests, and novelty events will carry the schedule up to 9 o'clock. There will be dancing from then until midnight.

More than two score south side posts of the American Legion will take part in the mass demonstration in Soldiers' field. Russell W. Root, John W. Stahl, George Malstrom, S. J. Van Clay, and Harry J. Meyerhoff are members of a committee arranging for participation.

WONDER SPOTS AWAIT COMING OF CITY'S YOUNG

Field Museum Offers Fun and Adventure.

This is the first of a series of stories pointing out wonder spots where the children of Chicago may pass a day or days with profit and pleasure. Another will be printed next Sunday.

How big was a dinosaur? What is a koodoo, a bongo, a hartebeest, a nyala? Where did the Indians of the great plains get their horses on which they hunted the mighty buffalo? What games did they play when they weren't hunting or working, and why did they wear masks when they prayed for rain?

These are a few of the interesting questions that adventurous Chicago boys and girls can answer for themselves this summer if their mothers will take or send them on a tour of the Field museum in Grant park. The museum, a wonderland of strange and curious sights, is open to children without charge daily from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Great elephant seals, crouching Bengal tigers, and strange sloth bears of Asia are among the new habitat groups the children may study. Other exhibits show in their natural environment African buffalo, lions, zebras, gazelles, wild sheep and goats, monkeys, and numerous kinds of birds, reptiles, and fishes.

Animals Only Part of Show.

The animal groups are only a part, however, of the immense show that is the Field museum. Here are Egyptian mummies, among them the body of a woman laid to rest at least 6,000 years ago; life size models of Indians and Eskimos; prehistoric tools and ancient clothing and handicraft, and a priceless collection of gems and jewels—one of the greatest in existence.

Here also is the famous Akeley group of elephants, mounted in fighting attitude. There is the partial skeleton of a dinosaur, and in one hall the visiting boy or girl will be taken back to the dim past of mankind and shown in eight groups the development of prehistoric man, beginning 250,000 years ago and leading up to the dawn of civilization about 10,000 years ago.

Official free guide lecture tours of the museum are conducted Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of each week at 11 o'clock in the morning and 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Parents who wish to arrange parties of 10 or more may apply to Miss Margaret M. Cornell, chief of the James Nelson and Anna Louise Raymond Foundation for Public School and Children's Lectures, and will be placed on the list for a free guide tour.

How to Arrange Tours.

Reservation for the foundation's guide tours must be made at least one week in advance. The morning tours are devoted to special study of plant life, primitive peoples, and animal groups. The afternoon tours are more general in character. No advance reservations are necessary for the official tours.

Stephen C. Sims, museum director, advises parents sending or bringing children to the museum to direct their attention particularly to the animal, bird, and Indian groups, as these are especially interesting and informative to the youthful mind.

He points out that during the vacation period children may bring their lunches and spend full days at the museum. An attractive lunchroom has been set aside for those carrying lunches, and a reasonably priced cafeteria is maintained for other visitors.

Animals in Four Halls.

The habitat groupings of animals are in four halls to the right of the main hall as one approaches through the north or main entrance. The Carl E. Akeley Memorial hall, No. 22, is the largest of the four.

The bird groups are in halls 20 and 21. These groups include the golden eagle, California condor, northern loon, whooping crane, white pelican, flamingo, and various ducks, terns, and shore birds.

Indian exhibits, including the life size figures in full Indian dress and miniature Indian villages, are found in halls numbering from four to ten.

The careful organization of the museum and the use of labels easy to read and understand increase the pleasure children may have in studying the exhibits. Copies of the season's program of lectures and special events may be obtained by request.

Value Exhibits at 48 Millions.

Priceless because irreplaceable, an approximation of the value of the exhibits at Field museum may nevertheless be indicated by a recent inventory value of $48,000,000, not including the building, which cost $7,000,000.

That many children are unacquainted with the museum's vast potentialities for pleasure and instruction is the belief of Director Sims, who last week urged parents to take advantage of the vacation period to utilize to the fullest extent one of Chicago's greatest juvenile educational assets.

"Send children to the museum," he said. "They'll enjoy the exhibits and return home with new facts and increased interests."

Pullman Technical Faculty Club Names New Officers

New officers of the Faculty club of Pullman Technical High school, 111th street and South Park avenue, were elected recently and will preside at the first meeting in the fall. They are: President, E. E. Farr; vice president, Mrs. Clare Snodgrass; secretary, Miss Rose Miotti, and treasurer, F. D. Long. G. O. Wiley, G. T. Stephenson, and Mrs. Grace Petersen form the executive committee.

Indiana Avenue Bridge Placed in 1938 Budget

Word was received last week by Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th] that provision has been made in the county budget for 1938 for a bridge across the Calumet river at 134th street and Indiana avenue. Part of the county's plan for future development of new arterial highways, the bridge will form the final link in a program which will make Indiana avenue a through highway.

PRESENT SCHOOL OPERETTA

Just a trifle self-conscious are these four gals, members of the cast of "Down Among the Fairies," an operetta presented by students at the Home Centre school, 2617 East 73d street, last Monday. SOUTH EAST BANK DEPOSITS GROW BEYOND $1,250,000

New Institution Draws 5,000 Accounts.

Extraordinary growth for an institution so new, is indicated in the statement of financial condition issued, as of yesterday, by Woodlawn's only bank, the South East National, at East 63d street and Woodlawn avenue.

C. E. BEUTEL.
[U. & U. Photo.]

Deposits exceeded $1,250,000, and cash and liquid investments in excess of this amount are held in various asset accounts, according to the bank statement. There are nearly 5,000 savings and commercial depositors.

"Considering that we have been open less than 90 days we consider the record of deposits and number of depositors very satisfactory," C. E. Beutel, president, said. "The support of the community—both from business and individuals, has been most encouraging."

Area Once Had 10 Banks.

The South East National opened for business on April 6. It is the only bank in an area which once contained more than ten. At the close of the first day's business depositors numbered nearly a thousand and deposits were $340,000. The increase since then of almost $1,000,000 and 4,000 depositors is regarded by business leaders as an indication of the community's need of banking facilities.

A point of interest to the bank's management is that a substantial portion of its business is coming from communities north and south of it, from Hyde Park, Chatham and South Shore, the statement adds, indicating that residents and business men there have welcomed the location of a new bank.

Commenting on the fact that cash and easily liquidated assets are in amount greater than the bank's entire deposit liabilities, Mr. Beutel said:

Strive for Safety.

"It shall be our policy to preserve this liquidity, though in so doing we of course restrict the profits of the bank. We invest our depositors' money only in securities that afford absolute safety, rather than high profit yield to the bank.

"We believe a bank to be essentially a public institution. As such, one of the ways in which it can be really helpful is by extending credit to responsible business men and individuals in the area it serves, for the purpose of advancing the community's business welfare. We have adopted a credit policy which enables us to extend credit to many of our depositors, under requirements which are as fair as sound banking practice permits."

Federal Deposit Insurance corporation insurance guarantees each account up to $5,000 in the bank, which is a member of the Federal Reserve system.

TAX BILL REFUND TO BE DISCUSSED BY LAWN GROUP

How home owners may obtain a refund on their 1934 tax bills will be discussed at a meeting of the Lawn Civic association at 8 o'clock tomorrom evening at the Lawn Masonic temple, 62d place and Homan avenue. William F. Stelzer, president, also will discuss the operation of the old age pension act. Frank J. Bilek, director of the Cook County Civic council, and Mrs. Grace Lupton, chairman of the committee on distressed mortgages, also will speak, and plans for a picnic to be held in Marquette park also will be discussed.

HYDE PARK LIONS INDUCT LEADERS AT DINNER IN 'Y'

New officers and directors of the Hyde Park Lions club were installed last Tuesday evening at a dinner in the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A., 1400 East 53d street. District Governor Elect Alan F. Stephenson of Lakeview was the installing officer.

The new officers are: President, James J. Butler; first vice president, Fay S. Berry; second vice president, A. H. Green; third vice president, E. Hector Coates; secretary, Forrest B. Rose; treasurer, Dr. A. S. Guernsey; lion tamer, Ogden W. Sherwood; tailtwister, Bert Robechek, and directors, Dr. Mandel A. Cohen, Dean Drewry, and the immediate past president, Spencer W. Castle.

Amos W. Cole, James J. Barrett, and Carl J. Wilson led a songfest. Stanley Erickson, visiting Lion from Rogers Park, played accordion selections.

Retiring President Spencer W. Castle acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the new officers and the special guests, Governor and Mrs. John T. Schless of Downers Grove.

PULLMAN TECH JUNIORS ELECT CLASS OFFICERS

The incoming junior class at Pullman Technical High school, 111th street and South Park avenue, met last week and elected officers who will take up the governmental reins in the fall. The late sophomores, who will take a step upward, are: President, John Zazojski; vice president, Miss Grace Bakker; secretary, Miss Mary Chiarchiaro, and treasurer, John Foster. Two others, who with the officers will form the executive committee, also were appointed. They are Ray Desancon and Miss Leonora Mulligan.

Job's Daughters Install New Officers at Pullman

Bethel No. 36, Illinois Order of Job's Daughters, installed its new officers at a meeting June 22 at the Pullman Masonic temple, 614 East 113th street. Miss Lois Ewing is the new honored queen.

SOUTH CHICAGO "Y" TO DEDICATE LOG CABIN TODAY

Indiana Camp Has Room for 16 Boys.

Members of the South Chicago Y. M. C. A., 3039 East 91st street, the committee on management and the Boys' work committee, today will dedicate a cabin on the Butternut Springs estate of Dr. Axel Nogard, well known South Chicago physician, near Valparaiso, Ind.

A special committee headed by Homer Andreas has been planning the ceremony, scheduled to take place at 4 o'clock. A buffet luncheon at 3 o'clock will precede the dedication.

The cabin will be used for three day camping trips during the summer for boys belonging to the "Y," who, with the aid of friends, constructed the cabin during the last several months.

Accomodations for 16 Boys.

The cabin is 16 feet by 24 feet and is finished with log slabs. A kitchen range and beds to accomodate 16 boys have been installed and other equipment will follow.

"Butternut Springs," says Percy Baines, boys' secretary of the "Y," "is a spot laden with Indian tradition. It is said that years ago the Indians brought their sick tribesmen to this place to drink the healing waters."

An artificial lake has been constructed near the spring and is surrounded by a garden, which was one of the winners in a garden contest conducted by THE TRIBUNE. Scores visit the garden every Sunday.

A general invitation for residents of South Chicago to attend the dedication is extended by Chairman Andreas. Directions to reach the spot are as follows: South in any of the state highways to Ridge road, drive east in Ridge road to a point 3 miles east of McCool airport, south in the road running parallel to the airport for about one and a half miles to the entrance to the springs.

Offer Summer Rates.

A special summer membership for boys is being offered by the boys' division of the "Y," John F. Brown, chairman of the Boys' committee, announced last week. For a nominal fee the membership offers an hour's daily swim, including instruction for those who can not yet take care of themselves in the water, gymnasium activities and educational trips. The summer membership also includes eligibility for the camping trips to Butternut Springs.

Ivan Smith, senior division swimming instructor of the "Y," is in charge of swimming instruction. Percy Baines, boys' secretary, is in charge of memberships. Registrations are accepted each day between 1 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 o'clock in the evening.

CAMERA CLUB OF CALUMET PARK NAMES OFFICERS

The Calumet Park Camera club, newest photographic organization in the south section of the Chicago park district, met last week at the park fieldhouse and elected its first set of officers. Meetings will be held every Monday evening.

The new officers are: President, William Ruhle, 8932 Harper avenue; secretary, John Janis, 10352 Avenue F, and treasurer, Joseph Knes, 9624 Ewing avenue.

The club completed construction of its dark room last week and is now ready to develop, print, and enlarge the films taken by its members. Plans are being made to participate in the "Picture of the Month" contest sponsored by the park district.

SUMMER SCHOOL STUDENT ROLLS INCREASED 1,337

3,477 South Siders Take Vacation Courses.

An increase over last year of 1,337 in the enrollment in south side elementary and high school vacation courses and in the summer sessions at Chicago Normal college, all of which opened June 17, is shown by registration figures made public last week by the board of education.

This year's enrollment in summer courses, including Normal college, is 3,477 against 2,140 for 1934. Part of the increase is due to the addition of one elementary and one high school to the list this year, with a total enrollment of 968.

An increase of 2,808 is noted in citywide registration in elementary and high school courses. Part of this increase is due to the addition of two high schools and one elementary school this year with a total enrollment of 1,331. This year's registration in all schools holding summer courses is 8,797 against 5,989 last year.

Schools Self-Supporting.

The high school and elementary courses will continue until Aug. 9, and the Normal college sessions until July 26. The elementary courses offer advanced and review work in the 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th grades, and the high school courses advanced and review work in all high school subjects.

Under a tuition plan of operation the high schools as well as the elementary schools will be self-supporting this year. While tuition has always been charged for the high school sessions they have never been completely self-sustaining.

The cost of operating the elementary courses was borne by the board until four years ago. The schools were closed for a year and then reopened three years ago on an entirely self-supporting basis.

Announce Tuition Rates.

The rates of tuition have been fixed as follows: Normal college, $10 per subject; high schools, $12 for the first major subject, $8 for the second major subject, and $4 for each minor subject; elementary schools, $10 for the term of eight weeks covering all subjects.

The Normal college enrollment is 379, compared to 130 last year. Hyde Park High school has an enrollment of 767 against 708 in 1934, and Lindblom High, 374 as compared to 330 last year. Sessions are being held at Englewood High this year also, where 467 are registered.

Kozminski elementary school shows a decrease of three this year with 597 registered. Libby elementary, with 198, increased its enrollment by six, and Van Vlissingen, with 195, has an increase if 15 over last year. Burke elementary was added this year, with a registration of 501.

LEGION NOTES

In keeping with the American Legion child welfare program, George M. Pullman post, No. 313, this afternoon will act as host to the 300 children at the Chicago Parental school, 3600 Foster avenue.

Harry Guilbert, director of safety for the Pullman company, will make a short address and six acts of vaudeville will be presented. Post members and their families are urged to attend.

* * *

The distinction of contributing the membership cards necessary to put Cook county ahead of last year has gone to Chipilly 131st Infantry post, No. 310. Composed entirely of men who served with the famous 131st Infantry in France, the post now boasts a membership of 489. The post meets on the third Monday of each month at the armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue. Edward Quinn is commander.

* * *

For the purpose of raising funds to send its drum and bugle corps to the state and national convention, George L. Giles post, No. 87, is holding a barbecue at Bill Bottom's farm house country club at Robbins. The event, which began yesterday, will continue through today.

BRAND BRINGS A TOUCH OF ART TO THE CITY HALL

New Treasurer Serves Two Masters Well.

At present he is working on a large canvas of Lincoln at Gettysburg and a copy of Gilbert Stuart's Washington. Both will be hung in the City and County building.

Visions of the Future.

Although his achievements are a general index to the man, there are some evidences of Mr. Brand's character and personality that are best revealed in his conversation. For example, his ardent civic pride: "Chicago in 50 years not only will be the largest city in the world, but the most beautiful as well. I say this, and I tell you that, though I am a dreamer, I dream only dreams that I am confident will come true."

Modern art: "Art today is purifying and renewing itself. It will never go back to the old forms of beauty, but will evolve new forms.

"The present period is one of artistic as well as material unrest; art has become international, is no longer typical as great art must be. Nevertheless there is no occasion for a fatalistic attitude toward the future. Art will again flourish as soon as artists return to their own soil for subject material and imitate nature instead of caricaturing her."

St. Cecelia Sodality Will Hold Dance on Saturday

The St. Cecilia Young Ladies' sodality will hold its annual summer formal Saturday evening at the Tower Town club. Miss Margaret Spain, vice president, and Miss Berenice Potts, social chairman, have charge of the dance, with Miss Inez Hartman, Miss Ann McCarthy, Miss Jo Krause, Miss Anne Ivers, Miss Dorothy Costello, Miss Petty Rumsch, and Miss Mary Hopkins assisting.

New South End District Camera Club Organized

A new camera club organized by photography enthusiasts of the South End district, met at Palmer park, 111th street and Indiana avenue, last Friday to plan activities this summer. Carmen Purciarele, temporary leader, explained the purpose "is to further photography and attempt to preserve some of the interesting things of life in film."

PREDICT DELAYS ON PLEAS FOR BUS LINES TILL FALL

Although several of the feeder bus petitions and complaints filed before the Illinois Commerce commission by transportation agencies and community groups are scheduled to be heard next week, indications are that no positive action in regard to the granting of certificates of convenience will be taken before fall, Lee Friedman, attorney who has charge of feeder bus matters for the commission, said last week.

"There are so many conflicting interests, objections and requests for additional service that will have to be considered, that it is doubtful if the commission will be able to arrive at any decision this summer," he said.

Petition Withdrawn.

Objections voiced by the residents of Oakland, Kenwood, Hyde Park, Woodlawn, and South Shore have forced the Chicago Rapid Transit lines, which filed a petition for a bus route, to link those communities with its terminals at 41st and 63d streets, to withdraw it for reconsideration, he said.

Similarly the Chicago Surface Lines have taken a long continuance date to Sept. 11 on a petition for a bus line on Oglesby avenue and Yates avenue from 67th street because of objecttions from 67th street to 95th street because of objections from property owners, Mr. Friedman said.

May Consolidate Action.

Two complaints, citing the Chicago Motor Coach company and the Surface Lines, and petitions filed by the former and a suburban bus company to establish a line on Jeffery avenue from Jackson Park south to 83d street are scheduled to be heard July 10. An effort will be made to consolidate the petitions and complaints and these matters probably will be continued until fall as well, Friedman said.

RESTORED BRAKING

BENDIX ORIGINAL BRAKE PERFORMANCE RENEWS Equal Action RESTORED BRAKING

THERE'S a big difference between our RESTORED BRAKING service and an ordinary "re-lining." We remove your old brake shoes and put in brand-new Bendix shoes, factory-lined with the precise type of lining the car maker specified originally. They're ground to perfect "concentric fit" to match your drums.

Give your Old Car "New-car Braking"

Then you've got brakes! They're as near perfect as human skill can make them. You'll save money. They'll wear much longer. They'll stay equalized with much less attention. And the price is practically the same. Drive in and let us show you these shoes, in original factory cartons.

One Will Be Miss American Legion in Harvey

MISS MARIE MANN.

MISS DOROTHY STERLING.

MISS PEARL BIGGERSTAFF.

MISS EVELYN LA POINTE.

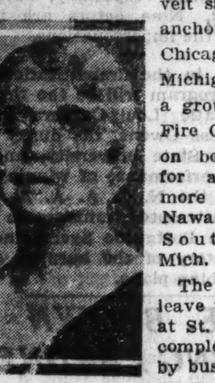
MISS EVELYN COHEN.

These young girls last week were the leading contenders in the "Miss American Legion" popularity contest sponsored by Harvey Legion post, No. 155, in connection with Homecoming week, opening tomorrow evening. The identity of Miss American Legion will be announced immediately following the close of the contest Saturday evening. Thirty-two young girls are entered in the contest. (Story on page 1.)

BOAT TRIPS WILL OPEN CAMP FIRE GIRLS' OUTINGS

Steamer to Bear Groups to Michigan Port.

Each Monday morning during July and August when the steamer Roosevelt sails from its anchorage in the Chicago river at Michigan avenue, a group of Camp Fire Girls will be on board, bound for a week or more at Camp Nawakwa, near South Haven, Mich.



MRS. W. T. GRABLE. [Koehne Photo.]

The girls will leave the steamer at St. Joseph and complete the trip by bus. Reaching camp shortly after noon, they will be assigned to cabins in groups of nine, each with a counselor. When their own leader accompanies them, she will serve; otherwise, one of the camp staf will be on duty.

In addition to a sports program, the camp will offer instruction in nature lore, handicraft, campcraft, pageantry and music, dramatics and journalism. Each girl will choose two subjects for study each week she is in camp. The Bluebirds, the girls under 10 years of age, will have special activities.

Mrs. William T. Grable, executive and secretary of the Chicago council, will direct the camp for the twelfth consecutive year of its 22 seasons. Assisting in executive matters will be Miss Ida McHie. Miss Ina Hyde, Wichita, Kas., will teach music and direct the pageantry. Miss Mildred Jacobek will instruct the classes in nature study, and handicraft will be taught by Miss Rosemary Joyce and Miss Ethel Helen Wren.

Miss Betty Hanifen will head the swimming instructors and Miss Myrtle Dorr, camp nurse, will give lessons in first aid. Among the counselors returning to camp for another season will be Miss Emily Dick, who first attended Camp Nawakwa 11 years ago as an 8 year old Bluebird; Miss Gertrude Smalley, director of Camp Fire activity in Winnetka, and Miss Jeannette Risler of Park Ridge, who is serving her sixth year as camp accompanist.

Others will be Miss Sylvia Lee, Miss Margarethe Faulstich, and Miss Katherine Coe. Camp Fire Girls who will be junior counselors this year are Miss Betty Jane Wampole and Miss Eleanor Haase.

Camping will be the theme of the Saturday morning broadcast this week. The program, directed by Mrs. C. H. Compere and Mrs. Cora Knapp, will be dedicated to Mrs. Grable.

Senior Men's Net Tourney to Be at Calumet Park

The Chicago park district senior men's tennis tourney will be held on the courts at Calumet park, 98th street and Lake Michigan, on Saturday, starting at 2 o'clock. Entries will be accepted at the park office until Wednesday, Arthur P. Butler, director of the park, announced last week.

5 POINT ATTACK MADE ON MARKET BY CIVIC GROUP

Charge Health and Trafic Laws Violated.

A complaint that the South State street produce market is being operated without regard for provisions of the ordinance, which authorized its creation, and the health laws of the city, was made last week by the Park Manor Improvement association. The complaint was directed to Ald. William T. Murphy [17th] and Police Commissioner James P. Allman.

Cedric Shantz, president of the association, makes the following allegations: Merchandise covers the sidewalks so as to make passage practically impossible; trucks and wagons are parked at right angles from the curbs, blocking trafic in the street; the street is littered with refuse; other refuse, contrary to health regulations, is dumped in the alleys; the market is open practically 24 hours of the day, although the hours are limited by the ordinance.

In addition, says Mr. Shantz, the original purpose of the ordinance, to merchants' buildings on the property sell their produce, has been lost, in that the market has become a commission merchant's market.

Few Farmers Use Market.

"Comparatively few farmers now come to the market," Mr. Shantz says. "Most of the produce sold comes in by train and truck from long distances and is sold by commission merchants."

No provision was made in the ordinance for construction of commission merchant's buildings on the property fronting on the street, Mr. Shantz says, although a number have been erected.

"The ordinance defines the limits of the market as from the curb line on either side of the street to within 18 feet of the center line of the street," says Mr. Shantz. "It is to be construed that the authors of the ordinance meant that the market should be confined to those limits. Now it is spread all over the landscape."

"Trucks back up to the front of the commission merchants' stores and stay there all day, blocking trafic. They could unload just as well in the rear of these places. Crates are unloaded on the sidewalk, with the understanding they are to be removed before 10:30 o'clock, but they remain there until sold.

Object to Noise.

"The ordinance states that the market shall be open only from 4 o'clock in the morning to 5 o'clock in the evening on week days, and from 4 o'clock to 10:30 o'clock in the evening on Saturday and closed altogether on Sunday. These time limits are not being observed, with the result that the neighborhood is a bedlam at all hours.

"Tramps gather around the rear of the stores to sift over the rubbish for edibles, and other undesirables are drawn to the neighborhood."

FRED ALLEN, SET FOR REST, TELLS OF RADIO'S WOES

Start at Scratch Every Week, Says Jester.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Fred Allen has got the last of more than 160 full hour broadcasts behind him and is ready for a vacation. He and Portland [Tallyho] Hoffa, his wife, have their bags packed for a trip to Hollywood, where Fred is ready to take more punishment in the shape of making his bow in pictures in a film titled "Sing, Governor, Sing," which will also headline Phil Baker and several other persons well known to the airways.

On the eve of his departure for the west he sat down on his luggage and took time out to say a word or two about the broadcasting business, to which he has been enslaved ever since he left the stage on which he used to appear with Libby Holman and Clifton Webb.

Allen got his start as John Sullivan of the Boston Sullivans doing a juggling act at an amateur show. But that doesn't mean that he particularly likes amateur hours—even though he is master of ceremonies of one of the more popular ones.

Fate of Amateur Hours Foreseen.

"Amateurs," he said, "seem to be accomplishing what long hours of study and planning fail to do. But amateur shows, I imagine will run their course. The impression Major Bowes gives that he is providing an opportunity for forgotten performers clicks with the American people. They like to see some one getting a break. Then, too, it's an adventure with an informality that is a welcome relief from the cut and dried program routine."

Radio ought to begin thinking about protecting talent as well as discovering more, Allen holds. He asserts that sponsors aren't interested in developing new talent or ideas. They want some one who already has a reputation, some one who can attract an audience immediately. As soon as his gloss fades a bit they want to try another name. Thus radio has already used everybody in the theater.

Suggests Closed Season.

Allen has a suggestion to get away from this. He thinks there might well be a closed season, for example, on comedians for six months of the year. Let sponsors run to humor for half the year and then turn to symphonic music or something else for the remaining six months. That would give jesters and others who must provide original material for each broadcast a chance to rest up and sparkle anew.

"If radio was a single performance, of course, it would be less of a headache, but when it is a week to week show it must be different each time," continued the comedian.

"It takes seven days every week to prepare the program. Radio in this respect cannot be compared with the stage. In the theater most of the worries are confined to the days prior to the première.

"There are so many things that enter radio that the theater is lucky to miss. If a druggist in Texas complains that the program is not popular in his region, the whole show may be altered. The theater never has such a worry. In radio people who know nothing about the show business frequently cause the entire broadcast to be shifted.

Fuzzless Peaches Not New.

"Public reaction quickly makes itself felt. A comedian may think he has a new fangled idea, but soon learns he is far behind the times. We talked about fuzzless peaches as a new idea, in fact a comic one, but would you believe that a man in the state of Washington wrote that he had really perfected such a peach? He sent me a sample, but the mail clerk ate it.

On various occasions I mentioned that we should have electric mousetraps, names grown on apples, and dripless ice cream cones. When the mail came in it revealed all these inventions had been perfected. They were not the mere dreams of a comedian, but the real thing.

The Hunt for Material.

"The biggest problem is in finding subject matter," continued Mr. Allen. "We have heard that the mental age of the radio audience is quite low, but I don't think so. For example, Jack Benny has one of the best programs, and it is highly sophisticated. He was one of the first to adapt his style to radio, while other old stagers thought it wise to follow the wornout vaudeville formula of throwing jokes by straight comedy. They fell by the side of the wave lengths; the out and out question and answer comedians were passé ten years ago.

"Radio is a medium of expression, and as such requires special writing; theater technique alone is not enough. The performer who succeeds on the air must start at scratch every week. It's a concentrated thing, this radio."

Beethoven's "Eroica" to Be Heard in Lewisohn Series

Ludwig von Beethoven's brilliant "Eroica" symphony will be the highlight of the second concert by the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra from the Lewisohn stadium, to be broadcast from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. Saturday over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. The Lewisohn stadium concerts are exclusive presentations each Saturday evening during the summer months of W-G-N and the MBS network. The concert will be directed by José Iturbi.

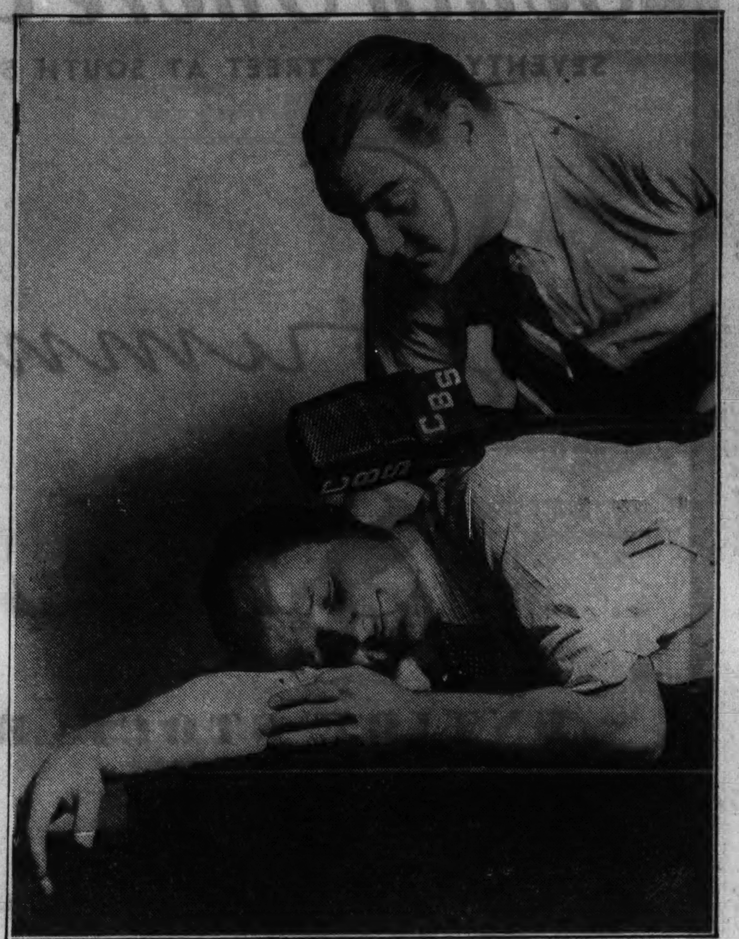
N. Y. Golden Gloves Bouts on W-G-N Tuesday Night

When the New York Golden Gloves amateur boxing team clashes with the champion amateurs from England in Yankee stadium next Tuesday evening W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system will present an exclusive broadcast of the bouts from 9:15 to 10 p. m.

Continentales' Program.

"Barcelona," "Melody in Blue," "Liebestraum," and "La Violetera" are among the romantic melodies to be presented by Antonio and his Continentales during broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting System at 9:35 p. m. Tuesday.

Candid Cameragraphs from Radio Row



Col. Stoopnagle is about to rouse partner Budd for a little rehersal. They begin their new series with Fred Waring at 8:30 next Tuesday evening over WBBM-CBS.

Richard Himber, maestro of the "Champions" broadcasts, heard over CBS and NBC, finds Virginia Clark of the W-G-N and CBS "Romance of Helen Trent" sketch just ahead of him in the vacation line.

Wayne King (left), who returns to the Aragon and W-G-N next Thursday, July 4, has written some special manuscript music with Frank Veloz and his partner, Yolanda, dance team appearing at the Palmer house with their orchestra. They use this music in their widely acclaimed waltz routine which they have dedicated to Maestro King.

MT. VESUVIUS TO BECOME NBC STUDIO TODAY

Mount Vesuvius' age old secrets will be revealed to the world and the rumble and hiss of the boiling lava will be heard by a WMAQ, NBC network audience from 2 to 2:30 p. m. this afternoon during an unusual broadcast to be shortwaved to this country from the heart of the historic volcano.

John F. Royal, vice president of the National Broadcasting company, now visiting in Europe; Max Jordan, NBC representative in continental Europe, and a group of Italian radio engineers from station EIAR, will accompany a party of scientists into the volcano's depths for the broadcast. An RCA Victor fifteen watt aviation transmitter sent to Europe especially for the exclusive use of NBC in unusual programs will be employed for the broadcast from the side of the lava lake.

HORACE HEIDT PLANS ANOTHER CONCERT TONIGHT

Another of Horace Heidt's Sunday dance concerts will be heard over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting System tonight at 8:30 o'clock. During the half hour show Maestro Heidt will present all the members of his Brigadiers in a program devoted entirely to popular melodies of today and yesterday.

Outstanding bits will be the singing of "An Evening in June" by Alyce King, "Tell Me That You Love Me" by Lysbeth Hughes, the singing harpist; "Somebody Stole My Gal" done by the King Sisters, "I'll Never Say Never Again, Again" with the Ramblers Ensemble singing the refrain and "Living in a Great Big Way" and "In a Little Gypsy Tea Room" two songs that will be sung by Jerry Bowne and Charlie Goodman.

'A Book a Week' Program to Be Launched Tomorrow

While Clara, Lu, 'n' Em are vacationing their morning period on W-G-N will be occupied by Marjorie Graham, reader and lecturer, presenting a program titled "A Book a Week." Miss Graham will read a volume each week, starting at 9:15 a. m. tomorrow with Bess Streeter Aldrich's "Mother Mason."

WAYNE KING TO RETURN TO W-G-N ON 4TH OF JULY

Waltz King to Start Last Lap in 8 Year Run.

Wayne King, the waltz king, and his great orchestra, will return to W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system schedules Thursday evening, July 4. Wayne and his boys are back after a month's vacation to start on the final lap of their record engagement at the Aragon ballroom, as they leave the Aragon next fall for a long tour of theaters and engagements in eastern hotels. King's orchestra has played at the Aragon and Trianon ballrooms for the last eight years.

During his vacation, Wayne again visited California and movieland where he renewed his golf battles with his film friends. Principal among his golf adversaries was Bing Crosby, the radio warbler now turned movie star. All of Wayne's boys from the orchestra also got as far away from music as they could. Lou Henderson, the trumpet star, heard music of a different key. On his first day of vacation, he became a proud father.

King and his orchestra will be heard nightly on W-G-N except Mondays on all of his old program spots. Anson Weeks' orchestra, featured at the Aragon during King's absence, will move to the Trianon ballroom beginning Thursday evening.

Seymour Simons' orchestra, with his Chicago girl singer, Mary Jane Walsh, will play at the Trianon today and on Tuesday and Wednesday, broadcasting over W-G-N and MBS.

PATRIOTIC NOTE IN NORTHERNERS' NEXT PROGRAM

The appearance of Lucille Long, contralto, and William Miller, tenor, as soloists, and a fantasy on patriotism will be the highlights of "The Northerners" program on W-G-N from 9:30 to 10 o'clock tomorrow evening.

Miss Long will offer "Clouds" as her solo and will also be heard with the Northerners' octet in selections from "The Band Wagon," "New Sun in the Sky," and "Dancing in the Dark." Mr. Miller will be heard with the octet in "Klinka," a Russian folk song.

The patriotic fantasy, which will occupy the last half of the program, will be made up of patriotic songs, readings and instrumental music in celebration of Independence day. Included are "Yankee Doodle," "Hail Columbia," "The Battle Cry of Freedom," "When the Flag Goes By," "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," and "The Star Spangled Banner."

PAINTED DREAMS, W-G-N'S SERIAL, ADDS BOY TO CAST

"Painted Dreams," one of the oldest dramatic shows in radio, which stars Bess Flynn as "Mother Moynihan," Alice Hill as "Alice Burke," and Kay Chase, author of the script show, as "Joyce Foster," has added one of radio's youngest actors to the cast. The new addition is Cornelius Peoples, Chicago lad who was starred in the "Tip Top Circus" adventure show over W-G-N some time ago.

In his new rôle, Cornelius, just out of school for his vacation, will play the part of "Peter Smith," a youngster who is left by himself when his mother was sent to Arizona because of illness. The child, "Peter Smith," is being watched over by "Daisy O'Donnell" and "Mother Moynihan."

"Painted Dreams" will be heard under a new sponsor beginning tomorrow, Monday, July 1, over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system at 11:45 a. m. every Monday through Friday.

"FLYERS" TO BE HOSTS TO FLOCK OF CELEBRITIES

When Joe Sanders and his boys greet the Midnight Flyers at midnight tomorrow over W-G-N the guests will include dancers Veloz and Yolanda, Ann Lester, "The Cinderella of Song"; Pat Kennedy, the Irish balladeer; Mario Fiorella of the Chicago Grand Opera company; Muriel La France, Kay St. Germaine, Marry Jane Walsh, and headliners from Ted Fio-Rito's orchestra, the Debutantes and "Candy" Candido.

SINGING SISTERS

NEW GRANDSTAND HOUR STARTS ON W-G-N TOMORROW

"Grandstand Thrills," a new dramatic sports program, will make its debut on W-G-N tomorrow evening. The program, which will present each week's outstanding sports event in dramatized form, will be heard at 7:30 every Monday evening.

Dick Wells, former athletic star of Eureka college, is the author of the new sports show which also will present appropriate music. The dramatizations will present the voices or doubles of the voices of each of the leading characters, the crowd noises, and other sounds attendant on the event.

All branches of sports will be represented and in addition highlights of any other interesting event in other fields, aviation especially, will be dramatized. Nine actors are to be used to do the impersonations.

Included in the dramatizations for the first program will be the thrilling and dramatic Louis-Carnera boxing match; Jesse Owens, the dusky flyer from Ohio State university, and his dramatic performance of winning four events at the N. C. A. A. A. track meet; the attempted transoceanic flight of the two Portguese flyers, and the thrilling story of the burning of an army bombing plane.

JOE E. BROWN IN RING LARDNER COMEDY TODAY

Joe E. Brown, bringing his greatest stage and screen success to the air, will star in Ring Lardner's "Elmer the Great," to be presented in the Radio theater at 1:30 p. m. today over WENR and an NBC network. As a part owner of the Kansas City Blues of the American association, a former minor league player himself, Brown is, in his own words, "nuts about baseball," and perfect in the rôle.

Higgins Has Volume of Radio Poems About Ready

James Higgins, the philosophical old character who is presented by Joe DuMond each Sunday at 6:45 p. m. on W-G-N, has prepared a book of 64 of the original poems which are used on the program which will be ready for circulation soon. Higgins' poems reflect his views of life. Higgins also has in preparation a book of 50 original hymns.

LUM AND ABNER WILL BE HEARD AT 6:30 P. M. BEGINNING TOMORROW

Lum and Abner [that is, Chester Lauck and Norris Goff], who have amused audiences of W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system for a year, are to remain on the air for the summer. A survey of sixty of the best radio listening communities, made by the sponsors, has convinced them that their audience wants to hear them all summer.

A change in broadcast time will be made tomorrow, however. They will be heard at 6:30 p. m. [C. D. S. T.] instead of 6:15 p. m. on W-G-N, but they will be heard at the usual time, 10:15 E. S. T., on WLW, Cincinnati.

The boys also revealed that there is some possibility of their reviving the old "Lum and Abner Sociable," a weekly night time program—"a night at the meetin' house at Pine Ridge." This program was on the air for a commercial sponsor once before and met with considerable success. Three sponsors are said to be dickering for the new series at "the meetin' house." This production would not interfere in any way with the five a week regular "Lum and Abner" skits.

ORCHESTRA TO PAY TRIBUTE TO VON BEETHOVEN

Another program dedicataed to the master musicians directed by Henry Weber, conductor of the W-G-N concert orchestra, and announced by Mr. Weber, will be presented at 6 o'clock tonight as an exclusive W-G-N feature. The program will be dedicated to Ludwig von Beethoven.

On this program the orchestra will present the overture to Beethoven's only opera, "Leonora," the familiar and graceful "Menuet in G," the stirring "Turkish March" from the "Ruins of Athens," a serenade "A la Polacoa," and the finale to his famous fifth symphony, sometimes called "The Symphony of Fate."

The "Musical Travelog" by the Concert orchestra at 9:15 p. m. tonight will present a program of all Russian music. Included on the program will be "The Volga Boat Song," "Polonaise," by Glazounow, "In the Village," from the "Caucasian Sketches," "Troika," by Tschaikowsky, and "Russkaya I Trepak," the peasant dance by Rubenstein.

THROCKMORTON NEW LEADER OF METHODIST MEN

Takes Post Tomorrow at Des Plaines.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

THE REV. J. R. THROCKMORTON.

The policies and activities of more than one hundred and twenty-five men's clubs of the Methodist Episcopal church will be affected by the appointment of the Rev. J. Russell Throckmorton, pastor of the First Methodist church, Liberal, Kas., at national leader, which has just been announced by Merle N. English, associate secretary of the Methodist national board of education. The Rev. Mr. Throckmorton will assume his new duties tomorrow in time to attend Men's week at the 76th annual camp meeting at Des Plaines, which begins the following day.

The Rev. Throckmorton is 36 years old, and though a native of Iowa has spent all his life in Kansas. He graduated from Southwestern college in 1923 and five years later gained his theological degree at Boston university. His pastoral career includes churches in Wichita, Kas.; South Hamilton, Mass.; Belpre, Kas.; and since 1930 at Liberal, Kas.

Stresses Two Activities.

Throughout his ministry, Mr. Throckmorton has stressed two major activities: Work with men organized on the forum basis, coöperating with the district and conference organization of the Methodist brotherhood, and religious education with special evangelistic emphasis, which implies a thoroughgoing educational program for all ages and groups, culminating in personal decisions and comprising meetings under the title "A School in Christianity," brought to spiritual climax by reception into the church.

Among interests germane to his pastorate, Mr. Throckmorton is president of the Southwest Kansas conference board of education, a member of the conference commission on world peace, and special commissioner on the pension system and conference boundaries with the Oklahoma conference.

Luther League to Meet.

The national Luther league convention will hold its annual meeting at Charleston, S. C., July 8 to 11, and the Young Peoples' organization of the United Lutheran churches will convene at that time, which marks the 40th anniversary of their foundation.

David G. Christensen heads the ten delegates from the state Luther league of Illinois which numbers 105 societies, totaling 3,000 members, and which has contributed $700 to the $15,000 gift made by the nation league for the theological seminary in Tokio, Japan.

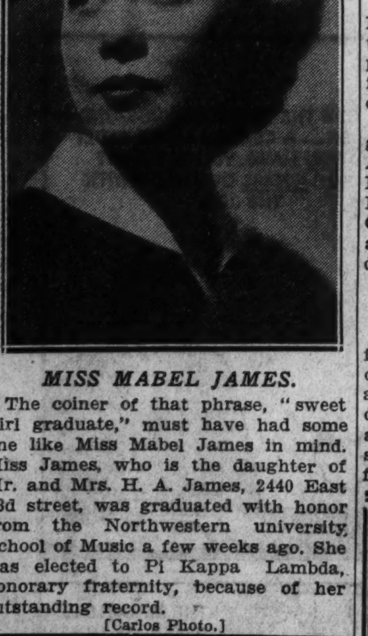
* * *

College camp on Lake Geneva, Wis., will entertain this week 400 women attending the student conference of the Y. W. C. A. from the middle west. Dr. Sylvanus M. Duvall, associate professor of George Williams college, who joined the faculty of the parent college a year ago, will preach this morning on "A Gyroscope for Life's Voyage," in Lewis auditorium, and the vesper service will be held on Vision hill adjacent to the Yerke's observatory.

Madison P.-T. A. Will Hold Postponed Picnic Today

The annual picnic of the Madison P.-T. A., postponed from last week, will be held Tuesday at Rainbow park, 76th avenue and Lake street.

"GIRL GRADUATE"



MISS MABEL JAMES.

The coiner of that phrase, "sweet girl graduate," must have had some one like Miss Mabel James in mind. Miss James, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. James, 2440 East 93d street, was graduated with honor from the Northwestern university School of Music a few weeks ago. She was elected to Pi Kappa Lambda, honorary fraternity, because of her outstanding record.

START NEW DRIVE TO OBTAIN PARK ON SOUTH SHORE

Original Plans Invalid After Ward Change.

A new movement to obtain a park and playground for the South Shore district, headed by a group of business and professional men, was launched last week following the issuance of a definite decision by James M. Slattery, general attorney for the Chicago Park district, that an authorized bond issue, never sold, had been invalidated.

Voted for in 1929, the bond issue of $450,000 called for the establishment of a park and playground on property at 76th street and Bennett avenue in what was then the Seventh ward. Since that time the city has been redistricted and the land is now in the Eighth ward.

That fact, coupled with the decision of the board of education to erect a new high school on the site, has invalidated the bond issue, Mr. Slattery said. A court decision, declaring that the new park district is not held responsible to complete programs only planned and never started by park districts which were annexed under the consolidation act, also invalidates the issue, Mr. Slattery said.

"Political football kicked the old proposition around until it was legislated out of existence," declared Attorney Elmer T. Walsh, one of the community residents who is sponsoring the new movement, last week. "Before any legal decision was made the change in boundary lines of the ward had shelved the matter.

"The same people now live in the Eighth ward section of what was once the Seventh ward; the same people who voted the bond issue. The same children are still looking for a park to play in.

"Ald. Michael F. Mulcahy, new Eighth ward alderman, has assured us that the district is entitled to a park and playground and has promised to aid us in an effort to obtain one."

Acting with Attorney Walsh as organizers of the new drive are Paul L. Anderson, president of the South Bryn Mawr Improvement association; David I. Pareira, president of the Central Bryn Mawr Improvement association, and Andrew J. Reed Jr., director of the South Shore Y. M. C. A.

Calumet Park Games.

Two baseball games are scheduled for 3 o'clock this afternoon on the diamonds at Calumet park, 98th street and Lake Michigan. The Cherokee Indians will take on the Serbian Eagles, and a team of married men from 99th street will play against single men from that neighborhood.

Miss Pauline Dillon, 8426 Drexel avenue, president of Epsilon province of Zeta Tau Alpha, national collegiate sorority, was among those in the receiving line at a reception given Wednesday evening at the Northwestern university chapter house for eastern delegates to the 14th national convention of the sorority in Pasadena, Cal. The delegates paused here en route to the convention, scheduled to open today.

Others assisting in the reception where Mrs. Maurice Vandervort, Evanston, president of the Evanston Alumnae chapter; Miss Mary Rose Fick, 446 Circle avenue, Forest Park, secretary-treasurer of Epsilon province and president and convention delegate of the Chicago Alumnae chapter, and Miss Vyrna Welch, 1940 Sherman avenue, Evanston, treasurer and delegate of the Evanston alumnae.

Other Chicagoans who departed last week to attend the convention are Miss Marie Coleman, 8108 Kenwood avenue, president of the sorority's chapter at the University of Illinois; Miss Florence Vanderploeg, 439 Sunset avenue, La Grange, delegate of the chapter at Lawrence college, Appleton, Wis., and Miss May Youngberg, 1013 Ridge avenue, Evanston, grand secretary of Zeta Tau Alpha and convention business manager.

BASEBALL MOVIE AT MANN PARK TO BE SHOWN JULY 9

The American league's baseball promotion picture, "Play Ball," the second in a series designed to instruct young players in the fine points of the game, through demonstrations by big leaguers who take part in the film, will be shown on the evening of July 9 at Mann park, 130th street and Carondelet avenue.

Victor Strook, director of the park, announced last week that the picture, which is a "talkie," will open a baseball school for young players to be operated throughout the summer at the park.

Invitations to attend the showing have been issued to the following junior teams which play at the park: Burley Flashes, Hegewisch Macks, Rainbow Juniors, Cardinals A. C., Wildcats, Houston Fliers, South End A. C., All Nations and Buzzard Juniors.

Members of senior teams, volunteer coaches and others also will attend the showing, scheduled to start at 8:30 o'clock, and notes will be taken, to be used in teaching the youngsters in the school, Strook said.

POLICE THANK 300 PATROL BOYS FOR SAVING LIVES

Captain Grady Calls Meeting at Station.

Three hundred schoolboys, members of the safety patrols of the 23 public and parochial schools in the Kensington police district, were the guests Tuesday afternoon of Capt. Michael Grady in the district police station.

Capt. Grady called the meeting to express the appreciation of the police department and public school officials for their efficient work in directing trafic, an achievement of "an even better spirit of coöperation between the police department and the patrol boys' organization."

"You are the representatives of the police department when you go about your work of protecting the lives of your fellow pupils," Capt. Grady told his guests.

"It is due to your efforts that the number of accidents at street intersections near the schools has been cut down. Keep up the good work."

Capt. Grady also urged the boys to act as unofficial representatives in preserving school property from vandalism during vacation, and to report marauders. John Crotty, juvenile officer at the station, praised the boys for their work, commenting that he had never had occasion to arrest a member of their rank, which he said was indicative of the good character of the patrol members.

Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9] told the boys that their efforts had saved the city many thousands of dollars through avoiding the necessity of an increased number of policemen, and thus had saved their parents added taxes.

T. F. Cook, school board inspector, also spoke and commended the boys for their efforts.

This afternoon the boys will be the guests of the police department and Capt. Grady at the annual police baseball game between a picked group of north and south side policemen, to be played at White Sox park. Tickets were distributed at the meeting.

ELECT K. B. EARLE GARY REPERTORY THEATER LEADER

Amateurs Will Obtain New Playhouse by Fall.

Kerbert Barnes Earle, founder and director of the Gary Civic Repertory theater, will head the Indiana city's Little Theater again next season as the result of his recent election by the directors for a five year term. Plans for next season's offerings are now being made and will be announced early in the fall.

Organized five years ago by Mr. Earle and a group of Gary residents interested in the stage, the group has grown in dramatic stature to the point where it is considered one of the best in the middle west. Mr. Earle credits the enthusiastic group which aids him in the production and promotion of plays and the acting talent, which seems to abound in the Gary region, with the organization's success.

He is remembered for his work in the Haresfoot club at the University of Wisconsin while a student there, and was the youngest member ever admitted to the National Theater conference.

30,000 See Plays.

Each season the theater presents seven major plays, spending two weeks in rehersal and one week in production of each play. In the five seasons just completed the theater has presented thirty-nine plays, including seventeen comedies, five problem plays, two mysteries, three tragedies, seven classics, and three revivals, to audiences totaling more than 30,000 persons.

More than 300 characters have been portrayed by a total cast of 189 people, with a production staf of fifty. A total of some 35,000 hours have been spent in preparation and presentation of the plays.

Some of the outstanding productions were: "Death Takes a Holiday," "The Master Builder," "The Swan," "Hedda Gabler," "The Devil Passes," "The Ninth Guest," and "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray."

To Obtain New Quarters.

This fall the group will say farewell to its present theater, a remodeled store and residence at 3417 Broadway, Gary, which it has occupied since its organization, and move to a new home. A lease is to be taken on the building at 2823 Taft street, formerly occupied by the Ritz theater, and the fall season will open there. The new home will have a seating capacity of nearly 300 and has an experimental theater, clubrooms, and kitchen, in addition to its main auditorium.

Business negotiations preparatory to the move are being conducted by the directors, headed by Dr. J. M. White and other officers, who are: Production chairman, Mrs. John G. Sponsel; secretary, Mrs. Mildred Gottlieb, and treasurer, Miss Olga Schroeder.

One of the outstanding features of the group's former headquarters was its unusual lighting system, controled from a switchboard on the second floor of the building. The operator was unable to see any of the action of the play, but followed it through a set of microphones hidden in the stage settings and connected with a loud speaker in the control room. This, with cue and signal lights, allowed him to follow the action of the play word for word.

Card Index of Types.

Under the system of selection of players which Earle uses, the portrayal of parts is not limited to a small group. He casts for "type," seeking the player for the rôle and not attempting to make the rôle fit the player. In furtherance of this idea the theater holds auditions every Monday during the fall and winter seasons to select various types.

Names of the "types" who come up with the standards which Earle sets are placed on file and when need arises the "type" is called. Gary now has numerous citizens who at one time or another have played such varied rôles as butlers, physicians, policemen, politicians, lawyers,

Englewood Outdoor Club Going on Lake Outing

The Englewood Outdoor club will take its first boat trip of the season today, leaving by the S. S. Roosevelt for St. Joseph, Mich., at 9:15 o'clock.

CROSS OF HONOR

Miss Iola Viegi, 7936 Blackstone avenue, recently graduated from the Academy of our Lady, 95th and Throop streets, has been awarded the cross of honor and the papal benediction for her work on behalf of the Catholic crusade fund.

ST. MICHAEL MEN OPEN CHILDREN'S OUTING PROGRAM

Tours, Camp, Games Are on Schedule.

A summer program for children of the community, comprising sports, visits to places of interest, lake trips and camping in the dunes region of Indiana, was announced last week by the Men's club of St. Michael's church, 3160 East 83d street. The program is being financed jointly by the club, the Chicago area project and the Institute for Juvenile Research.

One phase of the program, activity at three playgrounds, began last week. The playgrounds, situated at 83d street and Exchange avenue, 83d street and Mackinaw avenue, and 82d street and Coles avenue, are open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. and offer playground ball, horseshoe pitching, volley ball, croquet, and tennis. Vacant, unused property, the ground used for the playgrounds, is leased each year by the club. The playgrounds close Oct. 1.

Camp to Open July 15.

In conjunction with the playground activity, classes in woodworking, weaving, lether working, metal working, art, archery, and other crafts will be organized in the club building.

The camp, situated about seven miles from Miller, Ind., will open July 15 and continue to about Nov. 1. Two portable schools, bought by the Chicago area project from the school board, and two tents will be used to house the groups. About 35 or 40 boys and girls, in separate groups, will each spend a week there.

To Visit Points of Interest.

The field trips include visits to the National Broadcasting company studios, the lake cribs of the city water department, the Central postoffice, the Rosenwald Museum of Science and Industry, an ice cream company, a printing company, the International Harvester company, and the south side police radio station. A trip to Benton Harbor, Mich., on the S. S. Roosevelt also is planned.

Arrangements are being made by Adama Lulinski, president of the club.

Daughters of Jacob Hold Picnic at Ryan's Woods

The annual picnic of the Daughters of Jacob will be held today at Ryan's woods, 87th street and Western avenue. Both luncheon and dinner will be served. Mrs. J. A. Weinthal is chairman.

JUNIOR COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIPS ARE WON BY 7

Morgan Park School Gives Year's Tuition.

Seven leading students who were graduated this month from south side high schools will attend Morgan Park Junior college on scholarships next year.

Dean Albert G. Dodd of the college announced last week that awards providing for a full year's tuition have been accepted by Miss Helen Opyt, 10055 South State street; Miss Luana Boner, 2330 West 111th street; Miss Lillian Troemel, 2234 West 121st street, Blue Island; Warren James, 6318 Parnell avenue; Miss Mildred Crane, 6319 South Mozart street; Miss Genevieve Grudzenski, 8545 Oglesby avenue, and Donald Carner, 7230 Emerald avenue.

The scholarships were granted on the recommendations of principals to students ranking in the upper 10 of their classes, Mr. Dodd said.

Leading Student Writer.

Miss Opyt was outstanding among the journalists at Fenger and intends to make a career of writing. She was humor and feature editor of school publications, won first place in the senior short story contest of the Quill and Scroll honor society, and earned honorable mention in the Greater Chicago Scholastic Press guild's writers' tournament. She has been secretary of the national honor society and active in the school forum.

Miss Grudzenski, a graduate of Bowen, is following in the footsteps of her sister, Estelle, who was in the first graduating class of the junior college this month. She was awarded a key for service to the school, was president of the girl reserves, a member of the student board, the senior girls' council, and the newspaper staf. She enjoys cooking and making her own clothes, and hopes to become a librarian.

Donald Carner has been secretary of his class three years at Morgan Park Military academy. He also has been captain of his company, president of the Guardians, student governing body, a member of the stafs of both school publications, and on the fotball, basketball and rifle teams.

Will Study Chemistry.

Miss Crane was vice president of the Chemistry club at Harper, and hopes to major in chemistry. She also was active in athletics, and swimming and hiking are her hobbies.

Miss Troemel represented Blue Island Community High school at the interschool girls' conference this spring. An outdoor girl, she also likes to sew and makes most of her wardrobe. Biology and languages have been favorite subjects, but she has not decided yet on what she wishes to specialize.

Miss Boner was the third ranking student in her class at Morgan Park High school. Warren James was vice president of the German club at Englewood and a member of the student council and national honor societies. He is interested in studying commerce and business administration. Tennis, baseball and swimming are his pet pastimes.

LOOK, MY MOTHER'S WASH IS MUCH WHITER THAN YOUR MOTHER'S MY MOTHER WORKS AWFUL HARD SCRUBBING AND BOILING—BUT YOURS MUST WORK TERRIBLY HARDER
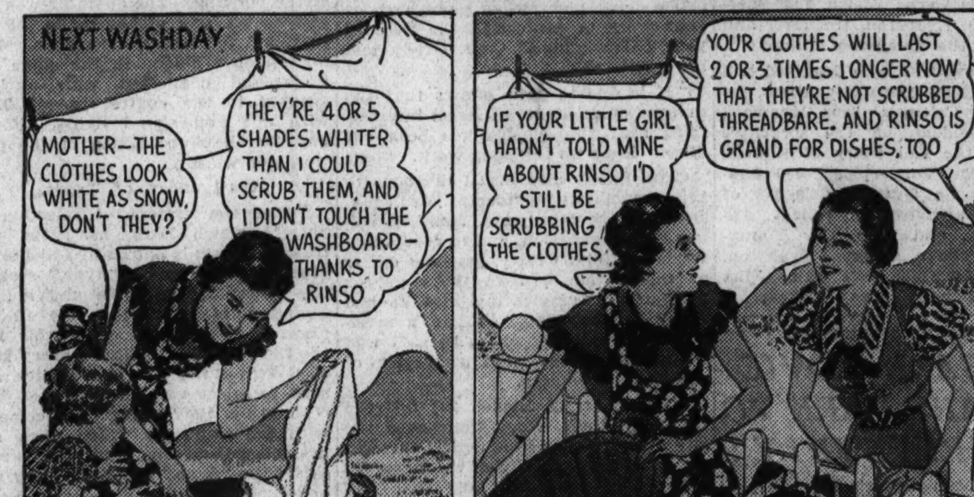
HONEST SHE DOESN'T SHE NEVER SCRUBS OR BOILS. SHE JUST SOAKS CLOTHES IN RINSO SUDS
THAT SOUNDS EASY AS PIE. I MUST TELL MY MOTHER
—AND SHE SAID HER MOTHER NEVER SCRUBS THE CLOTHES. RINSO DOES ALL THE HARD WORK
SO THAT'S HOW HER MOTHER GETS SUCH SNOWY WASHES WITHOUT SLAVING



NEXT WASHDAY
MOTHER—THE CLOTHES LOOK WHITE AS SNOW, DON'T THEY?
THEY'RE 4 OR 5 SHADES WHITER THAN I COULD SCRUB THEM, AND I DIDN'T TOUCH THE WASHBOARD—THANKS TO RINSO
IF YOUR LITTLE GIRL HADN'T TOLD MINE ABOUT RINSO I'D STILL BE SCRUBBING THE CLOTHES
YOUR CLOTHES WILL LAST 2 OR 3 TIMES LONGER NOW THAT THEY'RE NOT SCRUBBED THREADBARE. AND RINSO IS GRAND FOR DISHES, TOO

See how much whiter clothes come when washed this "no-scrub" way

FEW and far between are the women who still scrub and boil their week's wash when there's a soap like Rinso that soaks clothes whiter and brighter—without scrubbing or boiling. Try it. See for yourself how this marvelous work-saving soap soaks clothes 4 or 5 shades whiter—and gets colors bright and new-looking. Clothes washed this gentle "soak-and-rinse" way last 2 or 3 times longer. You'll save lots of money.

Wonderful in washers

A little Rinso quickly piles up into rich, creamy, active suds that last and last—even in hardest water. Recommended by the makers of 34 famous washers. Marvelous for dishwashing and all cleaning. Easy on hands. Tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Get the BIG package.

2nd RACE
JUST WAIT TILL JOE HEARS ABOUT THIS, FLATFOOT! THIS IS HIS BIGGEST PLACE!
JOE'S HEARD ABOUT IT, ALREADY, DON'T WORRY! AND HE'S SHAKING IN HIS BOOTS!
MEANWHILE..
IT'S A GOOD THING WE GOT YOU OUT OF THAT HOSPITAL WHEN WE DID, JOE! A DOZEN COPS CAME THERE TO NAB YOU - FIVE MINUTES AFTER THE BANK-TELLER WAS RUBBED OUT.
DID THAT KID, TOBY, TELL 'EM EVERYTHING?
ALL SHE KNEW. SHE CLAIMS SHE WAS THE ONE THAT BROUGHT YOU TO THE HOSPITAL AFTER THE BANK TELLER PLUGGED YOU. AND SHE TOLD 'EM WHAT HOSPITAL YOU WERE AT.
WHERE IS SHE NOW?
THEY'VE GOT HER LOCKED UP. HOLDING HER AS A MATERIAL WITNESS IN THIS DRIVE AGAINST THE BOOKIES.
WHY, THE DIRTY---
IF THIS GUY TRACY THINKS HE CAN RUIN THE BOOKIES, AND WIPE OUT MY BUSINESS WITH TACTICS LIKE THIS, HE'S GOT ANOTHER THINK COMING - LISTEN, YOU FELLOWS.. WE'RE GOING TO USE PRESSURE TO MAKE HIM LAY OFF. UNDERSTAND?
WHAT DO YOU MEAN, BOSS?
NOW, GET THIS - IF I REMEMBER RIGHT, THIS BIRD, TRACY, HAS A SWEETHEART, A BLONDE JANE - HER NAME'S TRUEHEART, I THINK - THAT HE GOES FOR IN A BIG WAY!
YEAH? GO AHEAD, JOE, TELL US YOUR SCHEME.
THAT EVENING, TESS TRUEHEART AND JUNIOR LEAVE TESS' HOUSE TO MEET DICK...
GEE, MISS TESS - SUMMER TIME'S SWELL, ISN'T IT! LET'S DRIVE THROUGH THE PARK ON THE WAY DOWN TOWN, WILL YOU?
FINE - I'M ALL FOR IT, JUNIOR.
THAT'S THEM! NOW ARE YOU ALL SET?
YEAH, STEP ON IT!

IN THE WEIRD UNDERGROUND KINGDOM, TIM COMES UPON A PALACE OF GLASS INHABITED BY A GREAT ARMY OF IRON MEN—TINY TIM
by STANLEY LINK
—THERE GOES THE LAST OF EM THROUGH THAT DOOR— GOSH! THERE MUST BE THOUSANDS AND THOUSANDS IN THERE—
JIMINY! NOBODY TALKS— NO OFFICERS— NOBODY GIVES ORDERS—THEY JUST MARCH AND MARCH—AND MARCH—
WELL—I'VE BEEN LUCKY SO FAR— NONE OF THEM HAVE SEEN ME— DIDN'T EVEN BOTHER TO LOOK AROUND— I THINK I'LL JUST KEEP ON FOLLOWING THEM—
WHAT NOW? THEY'RE ALL STANDING AT ATTENTION IN FRONT OF THIS BIG THRONE—
THERE HE IS! THAT MUST BE THEIR RULER— HE'S DIFFERENT FROM THE OTHER IRON MEN—
HAIL, LOYAL SUBJECTS! YOUR MASTER GREETS YOU—
WHY—HE'S A REAL FLESH AND BLOOD MAN!

--FINDING MARY, JACK LOWERS HIS 'CHUTE BUT A SUDDEN LURCH OF MARY'S PLANE TEARS THE 'CHUTE FROM HER HAND--
"OH, WHAT'LL I DO NOW, JACK? IF I COULD ONLY FLY BLIND I'D TRY TO LAND"--
--"I'LL GO DOWN FOR ANOTHER 'CHUTE, MARY."
"NO, YOU WON'T HAVE TIME. MY GAS IS NEARLY GONE!"
--THEN, QUICK! FLY UNDER ME AN' I'LL CHANGE TO YOUR PLANE WITH A ROPE LADDER--MY SHIP HAS A MECHANICAL PILOT-- IT CAN FLY ITSELF.
BUT JACK! YOU MAY MISS!
ULP!
BAM!
--THE PILOT-LESS PLANE ROARS AWAY AS JACK NOSES MARY'S PLANE EARTHWARD.
--NOW WE'LL RIDE THE RADIO BEAM TO THE AIRPORT AN' LAND BY THE INSTRUMENTS EVEN IF WE CAN'T SEE--- LUCKY THIS JOB IS EQUIPPED FOR BLIND FLYING!

TERRY AND THE PIRATES by MILTON CANIFF
THIS IS A FINE MESS - THAT DRAGON LADY KEEPS ORDERIN' PAT TO TAKE HER WALKIN' - AN' SHE KNOWS THAT GUY, TONG IS JUS' WAITIN' TO MURDER OUR PAL!
VELLY UNGOOD!
I DON'T UNDERSTAND YOU, MISS - YOU KNOW YOUR MEN RESENT OUR BEING HERE AND YET YOU CONTINUE TO FORCE US TO STAY!
I AM THE SUPREME RULER HERE! - IF I CHOOSE TO KEEP YOU PRISONER IT IS MY OWN BUSINESS!
BUT YOUR FOLLOWERS ARE ANGRY BECAUSE YOU HAVE NOT CAPTURED A SHIP SINCE WE CAME HERE! - THIS MAN TONG IS GOING TO LEAD A MUTINY AGAINST YOU - MARK MY WORDS!
VELLY STLANGE! - LADIES JUS' WON'T LISTEN TO GOOD ADVISINGS!
CONNIE! SEE THAT FACE AT THE WINDOW? THAT'S OL' TONG WATCHIN' PAT AN' TH' DRAGON LADY! - HE'S UP TO SOMETHIN' - SURE AS FATE!
I HEARD HER ORDER ONE O' HER FLUNKIES TO BUILD A FIRE IN THAT BIG ROOM IN TH' TOWER - THAT'S WHERE THEY'RE GOIN'! - AN TONG MUST KNOW IT TOO!
DISASTER IS AT HAND! - SINISTER WOE! - GOTTA DO RESCUE FOR MIST' PAT!
SIT WITH ME BY THE FIRE, AND EASE YOUR TROUBLED HEART! - SOMETIMES IT IS SO LONELY HERE!
THIS GANG OF YOURS IS DYNAMITE, I TELL YOU! - OH WELL! - NEVER LET IT BE SAID THAT PAT RYAN REFUSED THE REQUEST OF A BEAUTIFUL LADY!
HE CANNOT ESCAPE ME THIS TIME! - ONE PLUNGE OF THIS SHARP BLADE AND THE ANNOYING PRESENCE OF THE FOREIGN DOG WILL BE NO MORE
FOR YOUR OWN GOOD MISS, YOU'D BETTER ALLOW US TO BE ON OUR WAY!
I WILL RISE AGAIN IN THE DLAGON LADY'S FAVOR WHEN SHE SEES THE MELICAN WRITHING IN BLOOD UPON THE FLOOR!
OOPSY DAISY!
TERRY! CONNIE! WHAT TH'...
DON'T MIND US, FOLKS! - IT'S JUS' TONG, THE BLACK FACE ACROBAT, REHEARSIN' HIS ACT! - CONNIE AN' ME'S HIS STOOGES!

EVERY YEAR I HAVE T' RUSH OUT AT TH' LAST MINUTE AND BUY SOME FIRE WORKS, AFTER DECIDING THERE WILL BE NO FIREWORKS THIS YEAR!
I'LL JUST HIDE THEM AWAY UNTIL TH' PROPER TIME AND SURPRISE MORT AND BUDDY. I'LL JUST PUT THEM BACK OF THESE OLD BOOKS. THEY'LL BE SAFE THERE
NO SIR, NO FIREWORKS. WE SHOULD CELEBRATE THE FOURTH OF JULY IN A VERY SANE AND LAWFUL MANNER. NOW LET ME SEE.
WELL, DON'T THINK UP AN OLD FASHIONED PICNIC THAT'LL HAVE ME COOKIN' FOR THREE DAYS
YEP. I HAVE IT. WE'LL REMAIN QUIETLY AT HOME AND READ TH' DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE
HAVEN'TCHA GOT ANY PLAN THAT'LL CLICK YET, UNCLE MORT?
AND THEN WE'LL FOLLOW THAT BY READIN' TH' CONSTITUTION OF TH' UNITED STATES AND MAYBE TUNIN' IN ON SOME STATESMAN ON TH' RADIO
TH' LAST IS NOT SO HOT. YOU CAN TUNE IN ON A STATESMAN ANY DAY.
WELL, YOU OUGHT T' BE ABLE T' RECITE TH' DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE ANY DAY BUT I DON'T SUPPOSE YOU EVER LEARNED IT.
NO, WE HAVEN'T HAD THAT YET.
MY MEMORY IS A LITTLE SLIPPERY ON TH' SUBJECT AT THAT - MAYBE WE'D BETTER LOOK IT UP. NOW LET ME SEE.
I CAN SPEAK TH' PIECE ABOUT TH' OLD OAKEN BUCKET IN TH' WELL SEEMS FUNNY I CAN'T SEEM T' REMEMBER WHERE I'VE SEEN TH' DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE PRINTED.
THERE'S SOME MORE OLD BOOKS UP STAIRS IN A CUPBOARD
THIS IS A FINE PLACE T' HIDE PART OF TH' LIBRARY! HAND ME THAT CANDLE NOW
BAM!
GEE, UNCLE MORT IF WE ONLY KNEW WHAT MADE THAT SWELL RACKET
THERE'S SOMETHIN' FUNNY ABOUT THIS. WE AIN'T HEARD A SINGLE WORD OF COMPLAINT FROM YER AUNT EVVY.

NOT SO FAST ! GIVE THAT ROLL TO ME ! THERE AREN'T ANY G MEN AROUND TO HELP YOU !
BOB SUDDENLY SLIPS HIS VEST AND DASHES UP THE TRACK TOWARD THE TUNNEL JUST AS THE STREAMLINE EXPRESS COMES INTO VIEW — YOU CAN'T GET AWAY !
DON'T STUMBLE NOW, SOX !
THE SLICKER LOSES HIS NERVE AND TURNS HIS HORSE OFF THE GRADE. THE EXPRESS COMES ON EIGHTY MILES AN HOUR !
HE PROMISED TO MEET ME AT THIS END OF THE TUNNEL. I HOPE HE DOESN'T TAKE A CHANCE AND RIDE THROUGH BEFORE THE EXPRESS GOES BY — OOP, THERE GO THE CHOCOLATES !
OH !
THERE ARE YOUR CHOCOLATES. THEY'VE ALL BEEN STREAMLINED BY THE TRAIN.
IT'S LUCKY YOU DIDN'T GET STREAMLINED TOO, YOUNG MAN !

A GOOD LOOKING GROVE. SEE IF THE FARMER WILL LET US CAMP THERE, SKEEZIX.
HE SAYS HE WANTS 50 CENTS FOR CAMPIN PRIVILEGES FOR THE NIGHT.
PRETTY STEEP!
BUT IT'S WORTH IT. SKEEZIX, RUSTLE UP SOME WOOD.
MY MAN, I LIKE OUR CAMP SITE SO MUCH I AM NOT GOING TO GIVE YOU WHAT YOU ASK BUT TEN TIMES THAT VALUE—TWO BOTTLES OF AVERY'S PAIN ERADICATOR!
I'LL TAKE THE 50 CENTS.
IT'S GOOD FOR ANY MEMBER OF THE FAMILY AND I'LL DEMONSTRATE.
WE'RE ALL HEALTHY.
IT'S GOOD FOR MAN OR BEAST. PERHAPS YOU'VE GOT AN ANIMAL WHO IS LAME, HALT OR SPRAINED.
YOU CAN TRY IT ON MY OLD HORSE. HE'S GOT A GAME LEG.
PERFECTLY SIMPLE TO APPLY. IF YOUR HORSE COULD TALK HE WOULD TELL YOU IT'S BEGINNING TO TAKE HOLD ALREADY.
SEE, WHAT DID I TELL YOU? ONE APPLICATION AND HE FEELS LIKE A YEARLING COLT.
I SAID NO.
I'LL TAKE THE MONEY.
THERE YOU ARE. FAR BE IT FROM ME TO QUIBBLE OVER HALF A DOLLAR BUT I'LL TELL YOU WHAT I'LL DO—
I'LL SELL YOU THREE BOTTLES OF GENUINE AVERY'S PAIN ERADICATOR FOR FIFTY CENTS—A BARGAIN YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO PASS UP.
A LESSON IN SALESMANSHIP, SKEEZIX. I PAID HIM HIS FIFTY CENTS. THEN I SOLD HIM THREE BOTTLES FOR THE SAME FOUR BITS.

Now look what you've done, JOAN BENNETT. YOU'VE GIVEN ME A JEALOUS HUSBAND
JIM AND I HAVE BEEN MARRIED SIX YEARS AND I THOUGHT HIS INDIFFERENCE WAS JUST BECAUSE WE WERE GETTING "SETTLED DOWN." I DIDN'T SUSPECT THE REAL REASON UNTIL JOAN BENNETT, WHO'D BEEN A FRIEND OF MINE AT SCHOOL, CAME TO SPEND A WEEK-END WITH US, AND-- YOU'RE AS SLIM AND LOVELY AS YOUR PICTURES, JOAN.
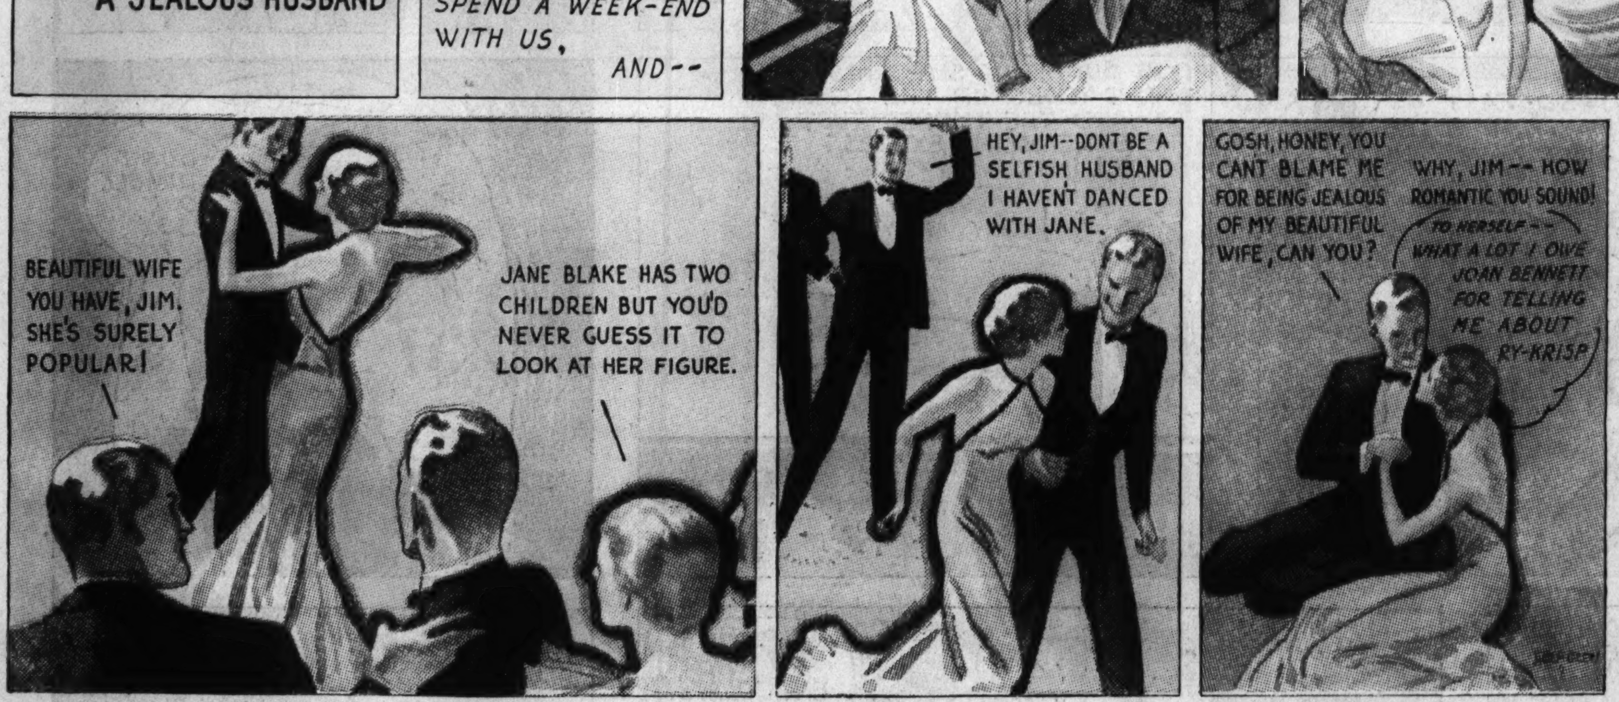
SPEAKING OF PERFECT FIGURES, JOAN, YOU'RE GOING TO BE THE MOST UNPOPULAR GIRL IN TOWN --WITH THE WIVES.
I DIDN'T DREAM JIM EVER NOTICED FIGURES, JOAN. WHAT HE MUST THINK OF MINE!
MY DEAR, ALL MEN NOTICE FIGURES. BUT CHEER UP, I'LL TEACH YOU THE HOLLYWOOD HABIT THAT SO MANY FAMOUS STARS USE TO STAY SLIM. YOU'LL HAVE YOUR LOVELY FIGURE BACK IN NO TIME!
LATER
JANE, YOU'VE BEEN GETTING YOUNGER AND PRETTIER EVER SINCE JOAN BENNETT WAS HERE. WHAT DID SHE DO TO YOU?
SHE TAUGHT ME THE "HOLLYWOOD HABIT," THAT INTRODUCED ME TO THIS DELICIOUS RY-KRISP!



BEAUTIFUL WIFE YOU HAVE, JIM. SHE'S SURELY POPULAR!
JANE BLAKE HAS TWO CHILDREN BUT YOU'D NEVER GUESS IT TO LOOK AT HER FIGURE.
HEY, JIM--DONT BE A SELFISH HUSBAND I HAVEN'T DANCED WITH JANE.
GOSH, HONEY, YOU CANT BLAME ME FOR BEING JEALOUS OF MY BEAUTIFUL WIFE, CAN YOU?
WHY, JIM-- HOW ROMANTIC YOU SOUND!
TO HERSELF-- WHAT A LOT I OWE JOAN BENNETT FOR TELLING ME ABOUT RY-KRISP

"GET THE HOLLYWOOD HABIT AND HAVE A FIGURE YOUR FRIENDS WILL ENVY AND YOUR HUSBAND WILL ADMIRE!"

says lovely JOAN BENNETT

now appearing in "PRIVATE WORLDS"

A WALTER WANGER PRODUCTION FOR PARAMOUNT

TAKE a tip from Hollywood's loveliest stars—if you want a slender, youthful figure. Get the Hollywood Habit—exercise regularly, eat sensibly, and use Ry-Krisp in place of heavy, starchy foods. You don't starve and you do reduce, because Ry-Krisp is filling but not fattening. Brittle-crisp and delicious, Ry-Krisp is a safe, natural aid to reducing and a wholesome, healthful food all the family will enjoy. Genuine Ry-Krisp comes only in red and white checkerboard packages. Look for the name RY-KRISP on each wafer. Ralston Purina Company, Checkerboard Square, Saint Louis, Missouri.

RY-KRISP tastes so good

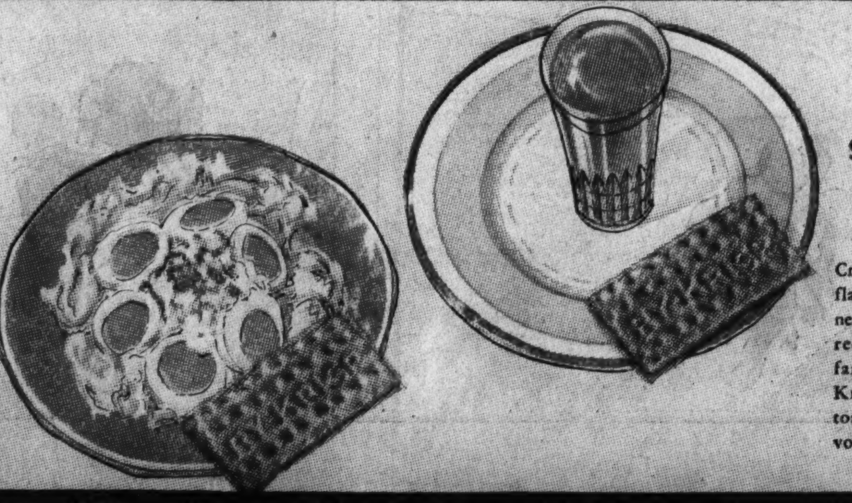
SERVE RY-KRISP WITH "CHEESE NESTS"

Try hard cooked eggs, cottage cheese and Ry-Krisp—a tempting, low-calorie luncheon treat. For a crispy, delicious party touch with soup or salad—toast Ry-Krisp spread with cheese.



SERVE RY-KRISP WITH ORANGE JUICE

Crisp, golden, delicately flavored Ry-Krisp adds new zest to the simplest reducing foods. The family will love Ry-Krisp buttered, then toasted, with their favorite breakfast dishes.

"GET THE HOLLYWOOD HABIT—EXERCISE REGULARLY, EAT SENSIBLY, USE RY-KRISP INSTEAD OF HEAVY, STARCHY FOODS—WATCH YOUR WAISTLINE WASTE AWAY

DeLEE University of Beauty Culture
Attn. Mme. Louise, Educational Director,
Chicago, Ill.
Dear Mme. Louise:

I want to tell you how pleased we are with Adele Humblet. She is capable, conscientious, and thorough in her work. As you know we have a very exacting clientele, for the most particular folks on the North Shore come to our shops. We are therefore very careful in hiring our operators. I have hired many operators and tried out many more, and have come to the conclusion that I would rather have a DeLEE graduate.

It is essential that an operator have the right training in the beginning, if she would make an excellent operator, and I know that she gets that correct training under skilled instructors at the DeLEE University. I think one reason that your operator graduates are capable of going right to work in a creditable shop is because your students stay in school long enough to thoroughly master their work. The fact that they can stay as long as they desire, having unlimited opportunity for practive, without any extra charge to them, means that your students become skilled operators by the time they graduate. The interest that you take in your students after they leave your school also means a great deal to the operators.

Again let me thank you for sending Adele Humbert to us.

Sincerely yours,
[Signed] Carrie Baker Buck, president.

YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Would you be interested in starting in business for yourself without one cent of investment on your part?

Well, that is exactly what we have done for many men in this territory.

These men were previous storekeepers, doctors, lawyers, shop workers, mechanics, etc., and are now earning and receiving in net profit as much as $50 for a single day.

We are an old line, nationally known manufacturer of electrical units that defy competition and for which there is a constant, increasing demand.

Now here are our requirements—you must be under 50, preferably married, honest, reliable, present a neat appearance and possess at least a grammar school education.

At this time we will only interview men living on the South Side of Chicago, northern Indiana and northeastern Illinois.

Every man answering this advertisement will be given a confidential interview and if selected will be trained at our expense in our methods, which are successful.

There are no strings attached to this offer, as we even pay rent, light, heat, telephone, girl hire, consign your merchandise, and finance your accounts.

Apply Monday only between 9 and 11 a. m. Ask for Mr. Albert, Suite 404, Maryland Building, 63d-st. and Maryland-av.

IT IS STILL 1935'S PARAMOUNT OPPORTUNITY

ONE CASH SALE EVERY TWO MINUTES

was what our boys did last week—$48,430 worth of business in one week. The First National Institute of Allied Arts has been in business 17 years and yet last week showed the biggest production in the history of the company. We have an opening in our ranks for a few high class men to take advantage of one of these lucrative positions; commission and expense basis.

ON THE LAKE SHORE
IN EVANSTON.

It's rather nice to live in a house built high on a walled-up terrace sheltered from the noise and the dust of the street, and where the view to the north and the south is into thick woods and over beautiful lawns, and to the east, out over the colorful waters of Lake Michigan. A little secluded spot, yet it's right in the midst of Evanston, within 25 minutes by motor or train from Chicago's loop; a marvelous retreat, both summer and winter, for a busy business man who cannot afford to spend much time commuting. We have 2 such houses for rent. Each of 12 rooms; large living rms. and porches; 2 car garages, and everything that one needs in a marvelous home. One furnished, the other unfurnished. You may not believe it, but a pair of cardinal birds live in the woods the year round.

NEAR NORTH SIDE

It's very nice when you close your desk at the end of the day to know that after a short, brisk walk just 5 blocks north of the river, you will come to a studio in a quaint little lamp-lighted court that makes you feel far away from Chicago, or a place where a large family can live with the spaciousness and comfort of a nice home. All with fireplaces and large living rooms, all interesting; a little charm about them that makes you glad you live there. Also furnished studio apt., the kind you want but never seem to find, for rent from 1 to 6 months. All within about 3 blocks of Lake Michigan and so cool and comfortable even in the good old summer time; 3-5-6 and 7 rooms; also shop space.

Finance Co. Liquidates
Former Simmons Estate
AT
for Summer Homesites.

The former estate of G. Z. Simmons [Kenosha bed manufacturer] at Twin Lakes, Wis., long known as one of the show places of the Wisconsin lakes region, is now offered for home sites. The new development, known as Edgewater Park, offers a most unusual opportunity to secure a summer home site in one of the finest estates remaining in the near-Chicago district [only 55 miles from Chicago].

Improvements include large community beach, boathouse and pavilion, winding roads, running water, gas and electricity. Beautifully wooded tract, with 1,000 ft. of lake frontage, forms a natural terrace, giving all lots commanding view of lake. Building restrictions insure desirability.

Only 125 large choice lots available, all priced for quick sale; cash or easy terms. For information write or phone.

California.

IN CALIFORNIA SMALL FARM HOMES beat the depression. Such homes are the solution for many of our economic and social problems. Less working hours per week make it possible to derive a good part of the living for the average family from a small tract. California offers this opportunity, where many varieties of fruits and vegetables are grown the year round. The small Farm Home is a proven success in many localities in California. The Santa Fe Railway has no land to sell, but offers free information service to help you get right location. Low fares to California. Write for illustrated Southern California folder and our farm paper, "The Earth," free for six months. Agricultural Development Department, Santa Fe Railway, 900A Railway Exchange, Chicago.

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

Are Our Used Cars Really Better?

YES!

And here is the reason:

We fully realize that we must make our cars splendid examples of mechanical goodness to meet the competition of the hundreds of Used Cars now on the market.

We are concentrating on that ideal so we can really say to our customers: "More value per dollar"—and we mean just that.

FOR OUR
Pre-Holiday Clearance Sale

We are offering a very wonderful selection of 154 CARS —FORDS, CHEVROLETS, PLYMOUTHS, and many other makes. ALL reconditioned. All ready to go. Many of these cars can be bought for as low as

Norman-French House a Blend of Old and New

Traditional and Modern Designs Combined to Give Beauty, Strength.

By Louise Bargelt.

IT must be that the love of a home of one's own lies deep in most hearts—there's such a pleasure to be had from just seeing a lovely house! It may be larger than we dream of affording, or smaller than we anticipate building. It may or may not be the type which most appeals to us. But its beauty strikes a responsive chord, and its various features are often those we can appropriate—or approximate—for our own.

Today's Norman-English home is a gracious, happy commingling of the traditional with the functional virtues of the modern. There is strength in the exterior, of brick and stone and heavy timber work; loveliness in the random flagwork and stone retaining wall, in the rounded tower entrance with its painted door. As for the built-in garages, an integral part of the house, they are an asset and a need of the twentieth century born!

Doors Are Papered.

Inside one feels the same prevading spirit of the combined modern and the traditional.

Distinctive and arresting is the circular entrance hall, with its delicately patterned brick floor and papered walls—even the doors here are papered to insure the circular effect.

Two steps down to the right is the large living room, with French doors on the far side leading to terraces and lawn, gardens and pool. The furnishings and accessories blend with the soft colors in walls and woodwork and rugs. At the left is the sunlit dining room, overlooking the garden areas. In the kitchen soft shades of blue on the walls harmonize with the softer blue of the painted woodwork and the gleaming silver of the metal sink and drainboard.

There is also on the first floor a charming breakfast room, with peach tones predominating, a large library-study, and a tile lavatory.

Chromium Handles on Doors.

Throughout the house, excepting in baths and lavatories, the walls are covered with washable wall paper and the woodwork painted in blending colors or in ivory. The lighting fixtures have all been specially designed, and many of them imported from Germany. On the doors there are chromium handles instead of knobs.

The central hall on the second floor is as spacious and sunny and open as that on the first floor.

The master bedroom has woodwork a soft blue. Instead of closets there are wardrobes. The house contains seven rooms and two baths, a lavatory, and a breakfast room.

The mechanical equipment is extremely modern and adapted to the particular house design. There is a warm air conditioning furnace, gas fired. The house is heavily insulated. The distribution and placing of plumbing fixtures is practical and convenient. An efficient wiring system affords abundant electrical outlets throughout the house.

Of graceful proportions and line, this built-in desk, which was designed by the architect, is painted a soft tone, in harmony with walls and woodwork. The floor is covered with a broadloom carpet.

Women Slaves to Styles of No Single Nation

Movement to Okay Only U. S. Designed Clothes Leads to Monotony.

By Bettina Bedwell.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—In certain quarters an effort is being made to suppress the style consciousness of American women. Homespun patrioteers, mostly male, but with a few rabid women helping them, are ranting against any word of Paris fashions reaching the ears of American womanhood. Their arguments make me think that they consider us weak in the head, and silly enough to follow any French style however ridiculous.

This brave little band is noisy over Hollywood styles, most of which are designed solely for theatrical purposes, but they keep a stern silence when it comes to the real American designing talent, which is devoted to making fashions for the woman in private life. These Hitlers of the clothes closet would have us think that it is degrading, no less, for us to see and learn about the whole pageant of fashions. Yet this knowledge is the only weapon that will enable us to master and make use of the aristocracy of taste that will lead us to real beauty and distinction in our clothes.

Americans Have Sense of Timeliness in Style.

No women in the world are more alert, more eager to learn, or more intelligent when they do learn about dress as an art than American women. They have that sense of timeliness in dress which is the essence of style, to a far greater degree than the European woman en masse.

There is the coming fashion of the wider and shorter skirt. Just because this revival originated in Paris, the patrioteer would strangle it. Fortunately, however, it is already lusty enough to live and prosper. Paris is again making a drive for wider daytime skirts. Our talented American designers are promoting it, and Hollywood is climbing on the band wagon, too. The wider daytime skirt gets going just now because of you and me, and all women, actually. To go on indefinitly wearing the same kind of dress or coat or skirt would make us feel, and look, stale and uninteresting even to ourselves. After the long slim-line skirt of the last few seasons, the slightly shorter, and considerably wider skirted dress makes us feel younger, walk with more spring in our feet, and altogether gives us a pleasant sense of vitality.

The new French evening mode is cast in a more slender silhouette, with drapery as its outstanding characteristic. This is a refreshing change after the thousands of full skirted evening dresses of the last season. It has a thousand versions, this new draped style for evening, and style conscious women are going to welcome it, that's a certainty, no matter who says, "Don't touch. Naughty! Naughty!"

Mainbocher Suggests Coat Dress for Dining Out.

The hot weather fashion of a coat dress for dining out is another Paris entry in the style pageant. It is something that is new and exciting, and made in Paris. Maybe the fact that Mainbocher, who designed it, is American born will dam the wrath of the patrioteers. See it, upper right, and tell me what you think? Made of pale blue crêpe satin, this coat dress has a double sash of velvet, pale blue, and water green, and on the left shoulder Mainbocher places a pink and red rose and a cluster of blue grapes—all made of satin. The blouse is smocked on the shoulders and sleeves.

Schiaparelli, brooding about the summer suit and trying to give us novelty, designed the suit shown lower left and made it of the material used for covering mattresses—much finer and more supple, but just as practical and impervious to wrinkles. It is blue and white striped and has a navy blue blouse printed with stars and crescents. Already Famous Forty-ites have ordered this suit—the Hon. Mrs. Reginald Fellowes, a half-American; Mme. Peralta, who was Millicent Rogers, full blown American; Kay Francis of Hollywood, a member of the Movie Famous Forty, and a lot of others. The new Schiaparelli bag is a slipover, and you slide it on like a bracelet. It is made of navy blue box calf. The hat is navy baku.

Hon. Mrs. Fellowes Defends Importations from Orient.

The draped Schiaparelli evening gown, shown lower right, will, if they spot it, cause an explosion among the style antis because it is draped at the bottom of the skirt in a fashion faintly reminiscent of the harem. However, the Hon. Mrs. Fellowes, who has intelligence and dignity, is wearing it. This model is made of pink and white striped chiffon, and looks as cool as ice water on a hot night. The skirt is draped in a loop at the back and has two floating panels in front. A new way of wearing flowers for the girl with long hair is shown with this dress. Schiaparelli makes this chignon garland of bright green and gold flowers.

The plaited chiffon ensemble shown upper left is the newest wider-shorter-skirt ensemble from Marcel Rochas, the young Frenchman who started the whole movement. This ensemble is made of black chiffon, and two enormous white organdy flowers are placed like headlights on the front of the cape. Both dress and cape are entirely knife plaited, and the dress has a wide girdle of bright green taffeta. The shoulder yoke is horizontally tucked, the rest vertically. The big hat is black and trimmed with velvet leaves.

ONE DAY'S WARDROBE FOR A PARISIENNE

Travel Thousands of Miles to Be Married

AFTER a journey of 12,000 miles from Edinburgh, Scotland, to Melbourne, Australia, Miss Christine Wighton has become the bride of Adam Wilson, a school teacher, who traveled 1,500 miles from Tangao, New Hebrides, for the ceremony.

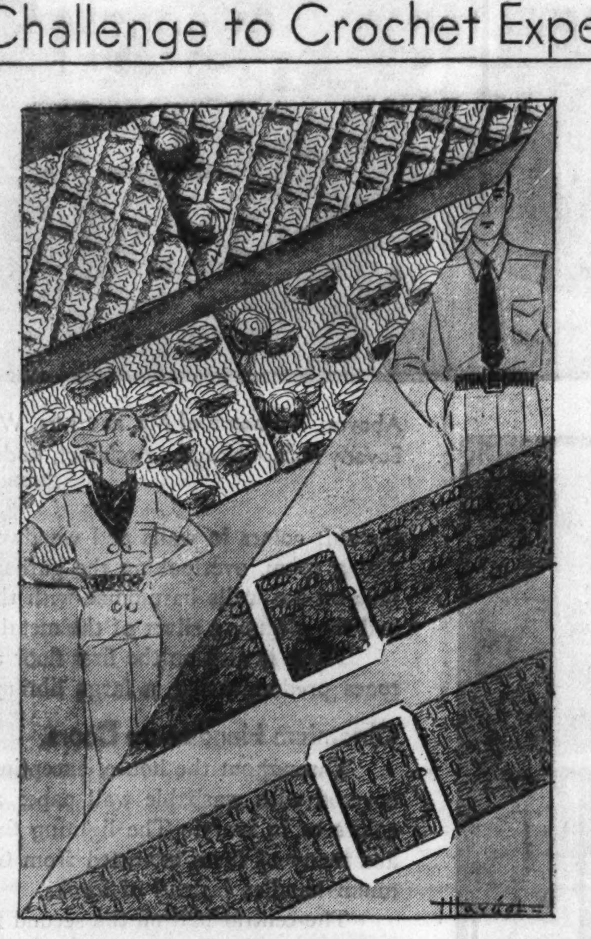
One of the youngest brides in Tennessee is Pearlie Mae Wood, 12 years old, of Knoxville. She was married recently to Willie Broyles, 22, after three weeks of courtship.

Fashion's Decree of Gay Belts a Challenge to Crochet Expert



By Ellen Bruce.

FASHION decrees gayly colored crochet belts for women and sturdy, good looking ones for men, to be worn with summer ensembles. Today we offer designs by which the crochet worker can make some of the most attractive belts of the season. Plain, ordinary carpet warp is the material used for the belts illustrated today, and any woman who can handle a crochet hook can make a supply of these belts in a short space of time. The men's belts are the simplest of crochet jobs and they may be done in white, tan, brown, or gray, or even the brightest colors of the rainbow. No matter what the color, they are as cool and comfortable as they are good looking and durable. The women's belts have raised stitches which are not at all difficult to make.

Those who insist on matched accessories may make a hat and purse like the belt. One inexpensive spool of carpet warp will make four sets of matched accessories, and what more can be asked in the name of economy!

If you wish instructions for crocheting the two men's and two women's belts illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Ellen Bruce, Chicago Tribune; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

Snapshots from Paris

- Boas made of flowers that match the flowers in the print of your dress are being shown by Maggy Rouff.
- Printed coats, cut something like Russian tunics, and printed jackets over plain frocks are much worn this summer in Paris.
- Lelong is making white and pastel colored piqué evening dresses with bloused, peasant waists and long, slender skirt. They look chic and different among the wide skirted cotton frocks.
- Paquin's flowered cotton beach dresses cut like those worn by Tyrolian peasant girls are charming for the girl who likes to be sweet and feminine on the shore.
- A beautiful color for summer sports, worn with white or alone, is Schiaparelli's new ruby-rose, a light ruby color.
- Jeweled girdles are chic worn with chiffon evening dresses. Molyneux has them, made of colored stones, and Maggy Rouff makes them of rhinestones.
- Heim has new beach capes and coats made of a new transparent silk voile that transmits the health rays of the sun without the sunburn.

Glassware from Paris Delicate in Its Execution

SEARCHERS for the unusual in table decoration have a treat in store for them at a Michigan avenue shop. The latest addition to a rarely beautiful collection of glassware is a newly arrived shipment from Paris, the work of a woman glass manufacturer.

Delicately blown birds of clear glass, resting demurely in solitary state or perched in chummy twosomes on crystal clear branches, are charmingly different. The little songsters also may be had in colors, a happy bluebird blue or springlike green.

Diminutive glass trees, transparent or of palest green, add an unusual touch when arranged with the fledglings on a mirror table placque. Many intriguing effects are possible for the hostess who wishes to achieve an inviting summer luncheon or dinner table.

Diminutive Scoops Ideal for Cooking Measurements

AT first glance you'll think the new and useful little scoops are toys. Although they would please little sister in her cookery exploits, they're handy measurers for mother to use in the kitchen. Each scoop holds one tablespoonful, and is small enough to repose in a coffee, sugar, and flour container. These scoops are of heavy cast aluminum which will not dent, and have handles.

Swimming Ideal Exercise for All Reducing

Offers Silhouette Control Under Healthful and Pleasant Conditions.

By Antoinette Donnelly.

IF any women in this land, from coast to coast, escapes the lure of the current beach togs, then only her figure will draw her into the water. Figure needs, I mean. Did you ever see such beach and swimming concoctions as are this year's swim suits, beach pajamas, fitted robes, hats, and caps for beach and water wear?

I have been telling you, these many moons, about what swimming and only swimming will do for that silhouette of yours. Whether it's in a stage of inflation or depression that you find your body, if you never did it before, go in for swimming right away this year, and swim as you never did before. There's an autumn season ahead of us, let me remind you, with warnings already flashing from our best fashion centers that, if your figure isn't extra good, you and your romantic hopes are just doomed.

Legs and Hips Come in for Reducing Benefits.

Your legs are going to be on display. Your hips are going to be expected to conceal themselves, the better to display the draped skirts, some of which, one hears, are going to be draped to look like trousers at the bottom. That calls for "line," and a gorgeous silhouette line. And, in the meantime, there's that gorgeous beach figure you might just as well be making of yourself. Don't let any one fool you that fat isn't as hated an encumbrance on yourself or on others as it ever was.

Too thin or too fat, take to your swimming: But I mean swimming, not just splashing around at the shore's edge. For all the good that's going to do your figure, you may just as well splash around in the bath tub. Don't let any one tell you you're too old for a swim suit, or that you are too skinny or too fat. You're not too anything for this God given gift of health and youth and silhouette beauty. No matter how you think you look in a beach costume, there'll be others feeling the same way and probably looking a great deal worse.

Swimming Strokes Provide Ideal Reducing Exercises.

Big towns and smaller towns right now are full of swimming places where one may learn the crawl that will do more for stroking off fat than you'll get in a season of mat exercises, although these last named aren't to be belittled either, as substitutes. For arm fat, and ugly fat this is, for leg fat, waist, hips, abdomen, you have an exercise in swimming that just can't be beaten. And the muscles get hardened so that the fat, once gone, isn't likely to come back and camp on such rocky muscle.

The crawl and the breast stroke are equally good for bust development and for reducing the ponderous, flabby bustline. Here you have, in their best working conditions, the exercises found on charts and forms for this sort of reduction. And you have at their best all the stretching movements now recommended as the ideal type of exercise work for women, not too strenuous, not too tiring, and not bad for one who has been out of exercise for months and years.

You can't even raise the "I get sun blistered" alibi. The market is flooded with oils, ointments, and protective creams that will go right into the water with you and save your skin. Besides, it's all pretty good fun to be one of that arrogant, sun tanned cult whose golden skin bespeaks a health worshiping nature.

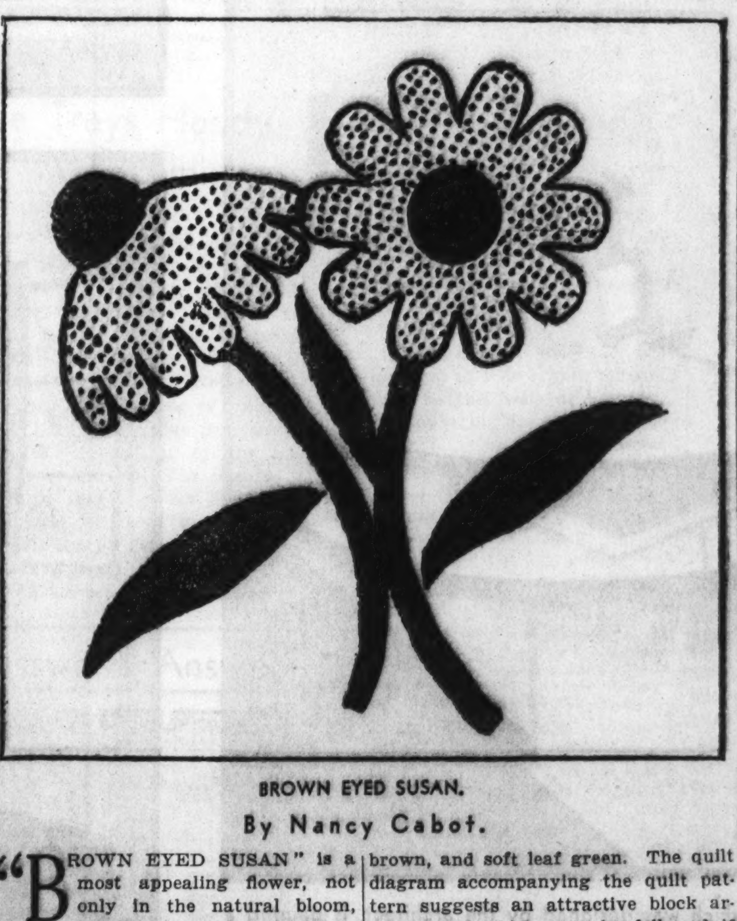
Rich Colors of Brown Eyed Susan Lend Beauty to Applique Quilt



BROWN EYED SUSAN.

By Nancy Cabot.

"BROWN EYED SUSAN" is a most appealing flower, not only in the natural bloom, but also when transferred to a quilt as a floral applique pattern. The block shown today is one of the more simple applique designs. It follows the tried and true principal of two warm colors and one cool color, by the use of a deep yellow, rich brown, and soft leaf green. The quilt diagram accompanying the quilt pattern suggests an attractive block arrangement which may be followed if desired.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

Avenues of Fashion

Readers are invited to submit questions pertaining to men's fashions. Address Men's Fashion Department, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self addressed envelope.

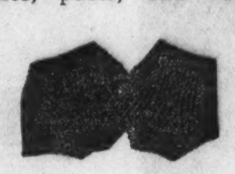
It is but natural, with the growing realization of the benefits that accrue from sun and bathing, that attire for this purpose should grow apace in variety and appropriateness. Those who folow the sun both in winter and summer have set certain surf and beach standards of fashion which any one would do well to follow in order to achieve correctness and smartness.

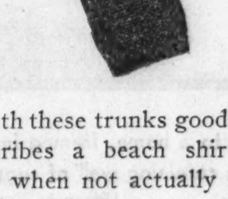
All of the articles of apparel noted in this column were seen worn by "well-undressed" men at such authentic sources of beach fashions as Palm Beach, Nassau, Biarritz, Cannes and other French fashionable places.

While the current opinion may be that attire for the beach is growing scantier and scantier and less and less, the contrary is really true.

TRUNKS WITHOUT SHIRTS

Habitues of the beach are constantly finding new and interesting articles of apparel to add to the comfort and color of their beach costumes. At many beaches, pools, and bathing places there is no longer any objection to the so-called "shirtless" bathing, and for this purpose several smart models in trunks have been developed. The most practical of these is the fairly heavy ribbed worsted trunk which, by nature of its construction, adheres closely to the lines of the body and affords a high degree of comfort, freedom of action, and support.

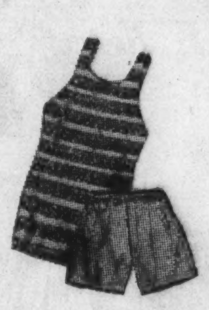




With these trunks good taste prescribes a beach shirt for wear when not actually basking beneath the sun or in the water.

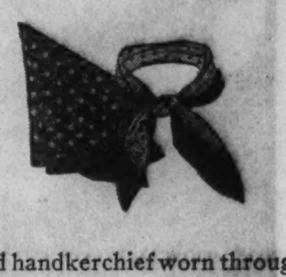
HORIZONTAL STRIPES

Many men, however, still prefer a top to wear in bathing, and the smartest of these is the even spaced horizontal two inch striped worn with the grey or blue flannel bathing shorts. The most favored color scheme for the shirt is grey and white and blue and white to harmonize with the respective trunk colors.



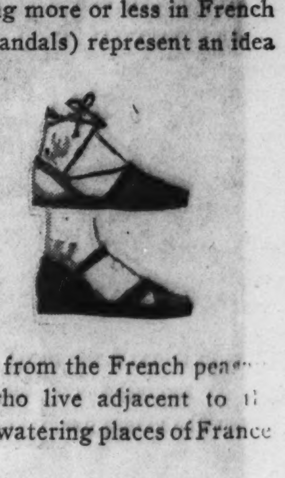
THE NAUTICAL FLAVOR

A string belt, either white or colored, is the modern variation of this necessity. String belts, by the way, have the true nautical flavor that is in keeping with watering places. Another smart touch for wear with flannel bathing trunks is obtained with the use of a large silk foulard handkerchief worn through the belt loops and knotted in the front to achieve the effect of a belt.



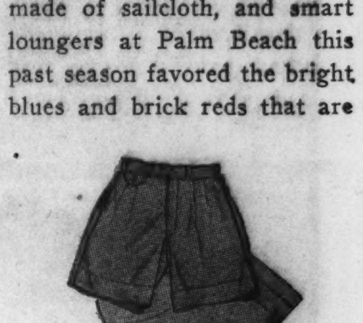
FRENCH FOR SANDALS

Espadrilles (which means nothing more or less in French than sandals) represent an idea taken from the French peas try who live adjacent to the great watering places of France



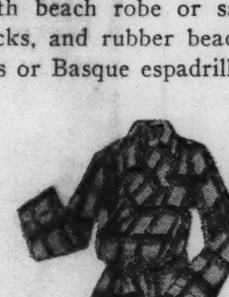
SLACKS OF SAILCLOTH

Beach slacks are preferably made of sailcloth, and smart loungers at Palm Beach this past season favored the bright blues and brick reds that are available in this very effective fabric. The slacks are cut full in sailor fashion, with wide bell bottoms. The use of this same fabric in knee length shorts is an innovation for beach wear and has recently become fashionable at French waterin places, particularly at that po ular rendezvous of America Juan-les-Pins.



TERRY CLOTH

For general loafing and lounging about the beach, or for wear when a walk is necessary both to and from it, needed items of apparel are a Terry cloth beach robe or sailcloth slacks, and rubber beach sandals or Basque espadrilles.



A particularly smart variation of Terry beach robes is one that carries an overplaid. Another smart variation of the Terry cloth robe is in solid colors or plain white, and follows closely the model of a polo coat.

Home Treatment For Keeping Skin Young

MERCOLIZED WAX is the one beauty aid you can afford because this single preparation embodies all the essentials of beauty that your skin needs. It cleanses, softens, bleaches, lubricates and protects. It is so simple to use, too. Just pat it on your skin each night as if it were an ordinary cold cream. That's all. Mercolized Wax seeps into your pores and dissolves grime and dust and all impurities. It absorbs the discolored surface skin in tiny, invisible particles, revealing the beautiful, soft, young skin that lies beneath. It clears away freckles, tan, oiliness, sunburn or any other blemishes. You use such a tiny bit of Mercolized Wax for each application that it proves an inexpensive beauty investment. Beauty cannot be taken for granted. It must be cared for regularly if you want to hold it through the years. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin.

POWDERED SAXOLITE dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel quickly reduces wrinkles and other age signs. It is a refreshing, stimulating astringent lotion. Use it daily. At all drug and department stores.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Soothing Eye Bath Liquid Preserves Beauty of Orbs in Summertime.

If you would have your eyes be the deep and dreamy pools of romance that they might be, take heed to their care at this season of the year, for, beneficial as summertime is to most of the system, it often is rather hard on the eyes, and they demand a little extra thought and attention.

An eye bath that is excellent for both cleansing and soothing is an old and respected product, but one that deserves being called to the attention of the world again as the summer season swings into step. It's definitly antiseptic, but has none of that medicated odor or feeling that usually accompanies such products. It is to the eyes what a luxurious facial is to the skin—equally soothing and restful.

Activity in Outdoors Puts Added Strain on the Eyes.

Most of us spend much more time out of doors in the summer months than we ever do in winter. Golf, tennis, swimming, driving, all these take one out into the direct glare of the sun and the path of the wind, and whether we're conscious of it or not, it's an added strain on the eyes.

Bathing the eyes with the aid of the good old eye cup and this tried-and-true eye bath is an excellent before bed treatment. This is both cleansing and restful, and will prove more soothing than you would ever imagine, unless you already are an eye bath addict. A great deal of dust and grime flies around our city when summer breezes blow, and one of the grandest ounces toward prevention of trouble is the regular use of an eye bath.

Soothing Liquid Aid in Extricating Bits from Eyes.

That horrid sensation of having a large piece of the beach in one's eye may be dispensed with quickly if you have had the forethought to tuck a bottle of this soothing liquid into a pocket of the car. A little of the solution poured onto a clean hankie helps in the extrication of real estate from the orbs, and overcomes, to a large degree, the pinkish tinge that usually follows such an operation.

This eye bath comes in a tall, generous bottle, and it is not at all a strain on the pocketbook to add it to your list of household necessities, as we feel strongly that you should do.

[For information about this eye bath, telephone Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0100, or write to her in care of the Chicago Tribune.]

Summer sun, and the winds that land the dust right in milady's eye, makes the use of a good eye bath essential. It's soothing to the orbs and plays an important role in keeping them beautiful. Forethought will direct a bottle into the pocket of the car.

Modernism Lends Distinction to Playing Cards, Score Pads

Lovers of contract bridge, either in the urban surroundings of the family living room or out in the wilds, will be interested in some sets being shown in a Chicago store. Neatly boxed in silvery paper containers, two score pads and two decks of cards, in modernistic designs and colors, will fill the bill at the most snooty card games. Without the score pads these same colorful decks come packaged in imitation suede, the perfect answer to "what to do with the cards" on the camping trip.

Canape Cutters Made in Variety of Clever Shapes

Canape cutters are smaller than cookie cutters, but they come in just as fascinating shapes. One set, packed six cutters in a box, includes everything from flowers to a miniature rooster. They're used to cut canape bases out of toast, bread, or unbaked pie crust.

Purifier Banishes Odors from Closets and Refrigerators

To take away that musty smell from a clothes closet, storeroom, etc., and to prevent odors in an icebox a new, handy little purifier, contained in a neat box, is on the market. You place it on the top shelf in a closet or in the refrigerator and it absorbs unpleasant smells.

The ingredients used in the manufacture of this purifier are noncombustible, safe, odorless. The average life of a box of it is from three to six months. Then it can be reconditioned about every three weeks by placing it outdoors in direct sunshine for a few hours.

Novelty Cutter Fashions Biscuit Square in Shape

Why not square biscuits, just for a change? You can cut them with a sharp knife and a ruler. Or a sturdy cutter, sold in a Chicago store, will cut the biscuits more quickly, in even squares with rounded corners.

Cleverly Designed Apron Serves Double Duty at Home or on Beach.

By Clotilde.

This clever wrap-around apron, pattern No. 3264, has a second rôle which you may not suspect.

It serves beautifully as beach apparel, being worn over the bathing suit except when one is taking a dip, in which case it slips off easily and quickly.

This model is ideal for any occasion on which an apron seems to be the most desirable garment—for household duties, relaxing hours on the porch, and marketing. Because of its ingenious cut it is easy to slip on and marvelously simple to launder and iron.

The original frock, designed from this pattern, was created in aqua and navy blue spongey cotton. Another attractive choice would be colorful, glazed chintz.

This style is designed for sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅜ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

For the fashion wise: The summer edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions is on sale. It includes disarming modes for vacation trunks, sports togs, beach wear, and evening models, with special patterns flattering to mature figures. The price is 15 cents; 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address Chicago Tribune, P. O. box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Simple Lines Give Chromium Gadgets Grace

Gifts in metal are distinctive and welcome, but especially so when they are created in chromium, that distinctly modern medium. A manufacturer has fashioned an endless variety of smart articles in this ware.

An electric snack server has a hot water dish that keeps food hot for hours without further cooking it. The modernistic case is round, with beautifully chased border, and three heat-proof casseroles contained in it keep midnight lunches delectably warm.

"Jigger" and Swizzler Spoons Gleam Brightly.

A unique set of "jigger" and swizzler spoons, for measuring and mixing drinks, comes neatly boxed. The articles are of polished chromium, which any host or hostess might be proud to use.

For breakfast or after-the-theater pancakes or waffles there is a graceful set in polished chromium. A spherical pot, with a spout and a slender, rounded handle, contains the sirup. Two globes hold the sugar, or salt and pepper, the latter condiments being in order should the occasion call for pop corn, in which case the spouted vessel would be employed for melted butter.

Lamp Adjustable in Four Directions.

Two graceful lamps are included in this list of chromium articles. One is especially perfect for the desk. The light is adjustable in four directions, throwing ideal rays for reading. The stand is modernistically simple, and the curved bar which holds the shade is slender.

The other lamp has the shade suspended from a circular rod. The shade and bulb work on a swivel, and light may be directed conveniently.

Flexible Metal Ice Trays Handy Aid to Hostess

Now it is ice trays of flexible metal to gladden the heart of host and hostess, who know only too well how cubes of ice will cling to the regulation ice trays. One often loses half the ice trying to extract it from the tray. Not so with this modern article made of stainless steel. It also aids water in freezing quickly. It is made to fit any mechanical refrigerator. The beauty of this tray is that one can pinch out a single cube of ice or turn out the entire eight cubes. Simply flex gently sidewise, and ice pops up. By this method unused ice is left undisturbed.

Adults Should Let Youth Think Independently

If He's Allowed to Discuss Ideas, Child Will Have Courage of Convictions

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

Advisers in child training lay great stress upon independence. We talk about the small child's buttons being in the right place so she can dress herself—and putting her in a dark room to sleep and leaving her and closing the door—and refraining from saying "Look out! You'll fall! Be careful!"—and in general teaching our boys and girls to "stand on their own feet," to use a hard worked expression.

Of course all that is extremely important. But how often do we give you advice on training your sons and daughters to be independent in their thinking? And by that I mean two things: to think for themselves instead of taking other people's opinions, and in addition, to have the courage of their convictions or not to be ashamed if those convictions are different from other people's.

Children need more training in this kind of independence—call it moral or intellectual independence or what you will. They need to be taught to do their own thinking and also not to be afraid to think differently from some one else—or from the children or people with whom they are thrown.

Children's books of heroes are usually chronicles of brave deeds. We praise and reward and publicize physical courage. What we need is more value placed on moral courage in the minds of our children.

Commuters Discuss Their Offspring.

Two men were on the train, both laden with golf clubs and packages.

"Here Sam," said one as he piled his purchases on the luggage rack," hand yours up—there's plenty of room."

"Not I," said Sam, "this is what you might call fragile. I'll hold it." So the first traveler sat down.

"What," he asked, "is the treasure?"

"Why, it's a bottle of choice whisky from the Old Man's cellar. I've had it at his house once or twice—and it's nothing to stow in a luggage rack."

And from that the talk went on to the subject of drinking and then to the subject of the children of these two men. And as nearly as I can, I'm going to relate to you the conversation—or rather the circumstance described by the man called Sam.

Jim Wouldn't Follow His Friends in Drinking and Smoking.

"Did you know," he said, "that Jim went on another fishing trip with Davidson? Davidson's a pretty reliable fellow for a man of 25 and highly intelligent—so I let him take the car and Jim asked his friend Al Lambert to go along—he's about 15, I guess—just a year younger than Jim.

"They got back late last night, a bit groggy from the heat and the long drive home and I went down in the kitchen with Jim while he raided the ice box.

"And while he ate we taked. Well, I'm not going to tell you about the whole trip, but about one thing that will interest you I think, because your Jim and mine are about the same age.

"It seems that they stopped for dinner both nights at a country hotel and Davidson had beer. Al with glee ordered beer too. And the young squirt also smoked a few times.

"'Did you, too?' I asked Jim when he got this far in his story.

"'No, I didn't,' he said. 'They say they like it. I guess Davidson does and maybe Al does—though I have me doots.' But that's okay if they do—only I don't. So I didn't take beer and I didn't smoke."

If Others Disapprove, "That's Just Too Bad."

"What did you do?" asked Sam's friend. "Express your paternal approval?"

"No, not especially, but I was mighty interested. So I asked him:

"'Did they bother you about it?'

"'O no, not especially,' he said. 'They called me Tetotal James—so I just told 'em how I felt—that I didn't like the taste of beer and that I didn't have any desire to smoke and that I didn't see any sense in doing either one of them if I didn't want to. I don't know whether they liked it or not—but if they didn't, well . . . that's just too bad.'"

I believe parents and teachers too, can do a great deal to foster independent thinking in children. "You don't have to agree with me—you don't have to think as I do—think for yourself" can be the basis of your attitude. Encouraging discussions around the dinner table or in the classroom helps children to express themselves and often to think clearly or to crystallize thoughts that might otherwise remain vague or unformulated.

If you once get the ball rolling, you will be surprised at the capacity for thinking that your children have, especially your young adolescents.

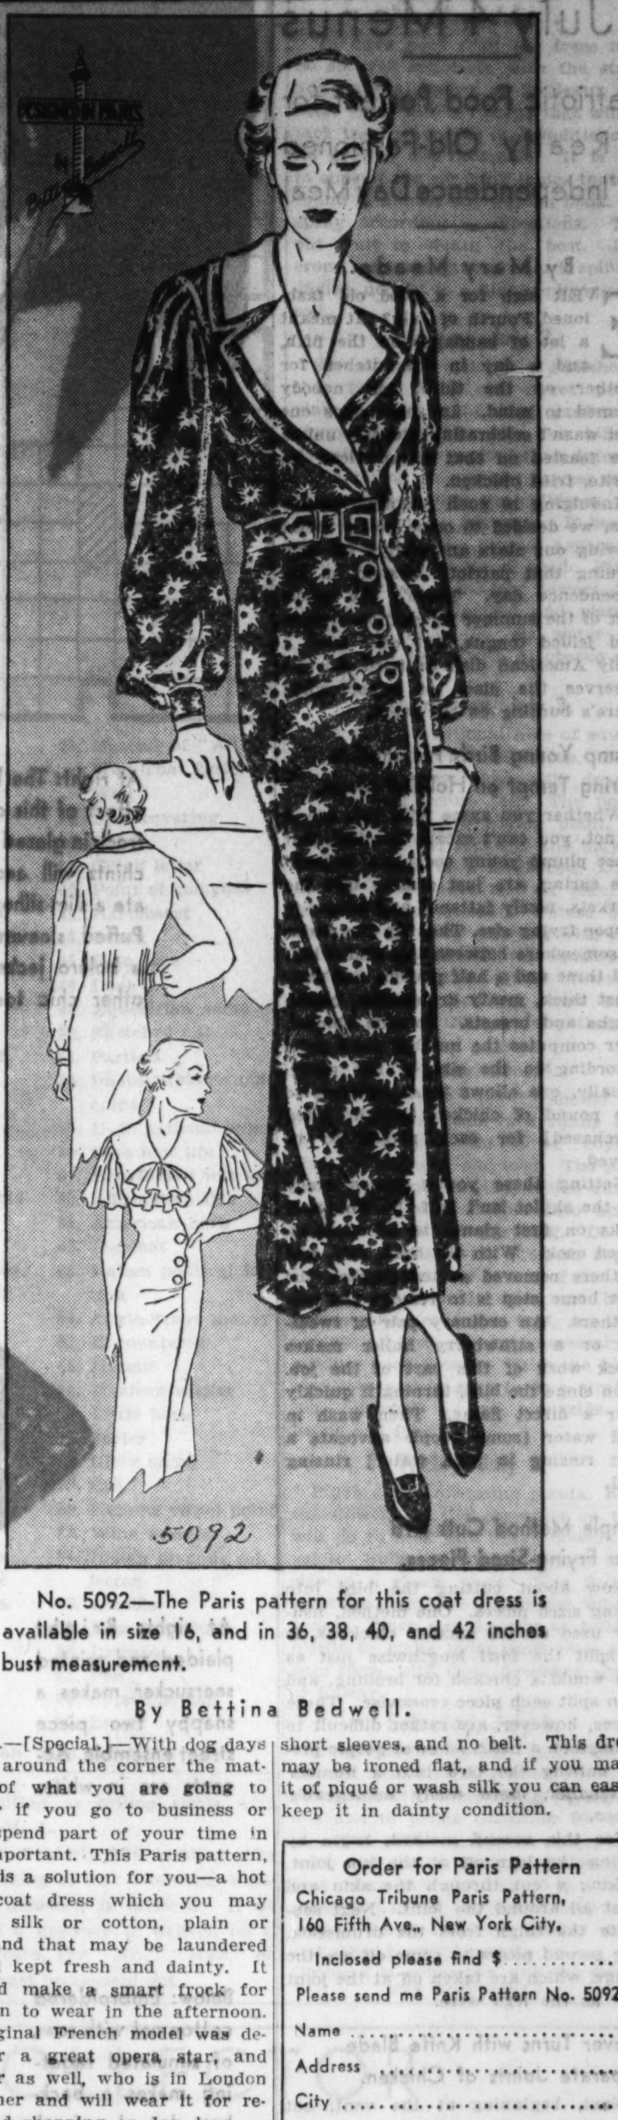
Paris Pattern Coat Dress Cool for Hot Weather Wear in Town



No. 5092—The Paris pattern for this coat dress is available in size 16, and in 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement.

By Bettina Bedwell.

Paris.—[Special.]—With dog days just around the corner the matter of what you are going to wear if you go to business or have to spend part of your time in town is important. This Paris pattern, No. 5092, is a solution for you—a hot weather coat dress which you may make of silk or cotton, plain or printed, and that may be laundered easily and kept fresh and dainty. It also would make a smart frock for the matron to wear in the afternoon.

The original French model was designed for a great opera star, and movie star as well, who is in London this summer and will wear it for rehearsals and shopping on dog days.

You can make this dress like the original model, of printed silk with white piqué collar, revers, and cuffs laid over the revers, collar, and cuffs of the material, and with a belt. Or you may make it in the other version I have designed with a white jabot, short sleeves, and no belt. This dress may be ironed flat, and if you make it of piqué or wash silk you can easily keep it in dainty condition.

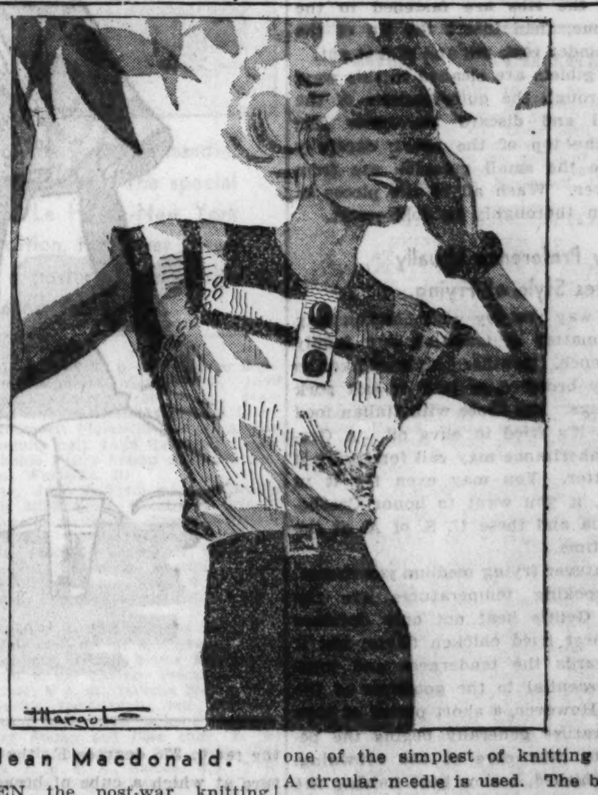
Amateur Knitter Gains Skill Making Simple Boucle Blouse



By Jean Macdonald.

When the post-war knitting flurry died out, little did we dream that its revival would be so complete and so powerful as it has shown itself to be in the last four years. Needlework prophets would have been incredulous about the use of bouclés and other novelty yarns which are in such demand at present. They would have used the word "impossible" if any one predicted the infinite beauty our modern linens, cottons, silky wool mixtures, bouclés, or the heights of popularity they would attain. Soft, perfectly fitted knitted suits, dresses, coats, and lacy blouses were undreamed of. Today most difficult patterns are attempted with the same avidity as the simplest of knitting jobs.

An example of smart simplicity is illustrated today. It's done in blue and white dull finished bouclé. It is one of the simplest of knitting jobs. A circular needle is used. The blouse may be worn as a tuckin or as an overblouse. The short raglan sleeves are not too close fitting, and they are extremely comfortable when one is participating in any active sport.

Fried Chicken Ideal Dish for July 4 Menus

Patriotic Food Perfect for Really Old-Fashioned Independence Day Meal

By Mary Meade.

EVER sigh for a good old fashioned Fourth of July? It meant a lot of bandages on the fifth, and a day in the kitchen for mother on the third, but nobody seemed to mind. In those days one just wasn't celebrating properly unless one feasted on that all-American favorite, fried chicken.

Indulging in such nostalgic memories, we decided to come boldly forth, waving our stars and stripes for continuing that patriotic custom on Independence day. There's the whole rest of the summer for salmon mousse and jellied tongue, but only such a truly American dish as fried chicken deserves the place of honor when there's bunting on the table.

Plump Young Birds Hatched in Spring Tempt on Holiday Menu.

Whether you agree with that stand or not, you can't escape the fact that those plump young cockerels, hatched this spring, are just coming into the markets, nicely fattened and grown to proper frying size. They tip the scales at somewhere between two and a half and three and a half pounds, and they boast thick, meaty drumsticks, plump thighs and breasts. Ye olde chicken frier computes the number she'll need according to the size of her party. Usually, one allows three quarters to one pound of chicken [weight when purchased] for each person to be served.

Getting these young fryers ready for the skillet isn't half the trouble it looks on first glance to an inexperienced cook. With the head, feet, and feathers removed at the market, the first home step is to remove the pinfeathers. An ordinary pair of tweezers or a strawberry huller makes quick work of this part of the job. Then singe the bird, turning it quickly over a direct flame. Then wash in cold water [some people advocate a first rinsing in soda water] rinsing well.

Simple Method Cuts Bird Into Frying-Sized Pieces.

Now about cutting the bird into frying sized pieces. One method, usually used on the smaller chickens, is to split the fowl lengthwise just as you would a chicken for broiling, and then split each piece crosswise. These pieces, however, are rather difficult to manage on a plate, so most people prefer cutting the bird into a number of smaller, more easily manageable pieces.

For this second method, begin by taking the legs off at the hip joint, making a cut through the skin and meat all around the joint. Next separate the thigh from the drumstick. The second pieces to come off are the wings, which are taken off at the joint just as the legs were.

Clever Turns with Knife Blade Separate Joints of Chicken.

Next, beginning at the vent, cut around it, and then, with the knife blade inside the body cavity, cut through the sides of the bird, right through the small angles in the ribs. Snap back the upper portion, the breast piece, and cut it lengthwise into halves. Remove the neck. Remove the entrails from the lower portion, saving the heart, liver, and gizzard, and cut the back crosswise into two pieces. The small oil sac just above the tail piece should be cut away carefully, for fear of imparting an undesirable flavor. For easier handling and serving, cut through the small joints where the ribs are fastened to the backbone, then insert the tip of the knife under each rib and pull it out.

The giblets are cleaned in this way: cut through the outer muscle of the gizzard and discard the inner sac; trim the top of the heart; carefully remove the small greenish sac from the liver. Wash all of the pieces of chicken thoroughly in cold water.

Family Preference Usually Dictates Style of Frying.

The way you fry your chicken may be a matter of tradition and family preference. Southern style chicken is usually browned in lard or salt pork drippings. For those with Italian food tastes, it's fried in olive oil. A German inheritance may call for frying it in butter. You may even fry it in cream, if you want to honor Czechoslovakia and these U. S. of A. at the same time.

Whatever frying medium you choose, low cooking temperatures are the rule. Gentle heat not only develops the finest fried chicken flavor, but it safeguards the tenderness and juiciness essential to the goodness of the meat. However, a short period of high temperature generally begins the period, to take care of the browning. That finished, a slow heat finishes the cooking.

Various Coatings Lend Extra Flavor to Fried Chicken Dish.

What you choose to surround each meat piece also is a matter of choice. Chicken may be fried just as it is. It may be rolled in sifted crums, seasoned flour, crushed prepared cereal, cornmeal, or potato meal, or it may be dipped in batter. To coat the pieces quickly and without muss, put a little of the crums or flour in a large paper bag, drop in the pieces of chicken, and shake. Or you may like the crisp, golden crust that's made by dipping the pieces first into crums, then into beaten egg, and again into crums.

If your chicken is destined for a deep fat kettle, it may be due for a batter coating. To insure the inside of the piece being cooked as soon as the outside surface is browned, heat the fat to 375 degrees F., the temperature at which a cube of bread browns in 40 seconds. The batter itself is simple. Just beat together 1 cup of flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2-3 cup milk, and 2 eggs, until the mixture is smooth.

Since southern fried chicken probably leads the lists in popularity, let's round off with a more detailed review of just how it's achieved. First of all, begin by heating a half cup of fat in a skillet. Salt pork drippings have the true southern vote, but half butter and lard, or one of the hydrogenated fats or cooking oils may be used. When the fat is hot, put in the chicken, which has been dipped in seasoned flour, egg, and more flour, and then reduce the temperature, clap on a cover, and finish the cooking at a low temperature. If several chickens are to appear on your Fouth of July table instead of just one, you probably will want merely to brown the pieces in a skillet, and finish the cooking in a moderately slow oven, from 325 to 350 degrees F.

A grand old recipe for a parsley cream sauce to serve with your fried chicken goes like this. Remove the cooked chickens from the skillet and toss in a little chopped parsley to fry in the remaining fat. Then drain off the fat, leaving the parsley in the "spider," and pour in a pint of sweet cream, add a bit of seasoning, and let the sauce boil. Pour part of the sauce over the chicken and send the rest to the table separately.

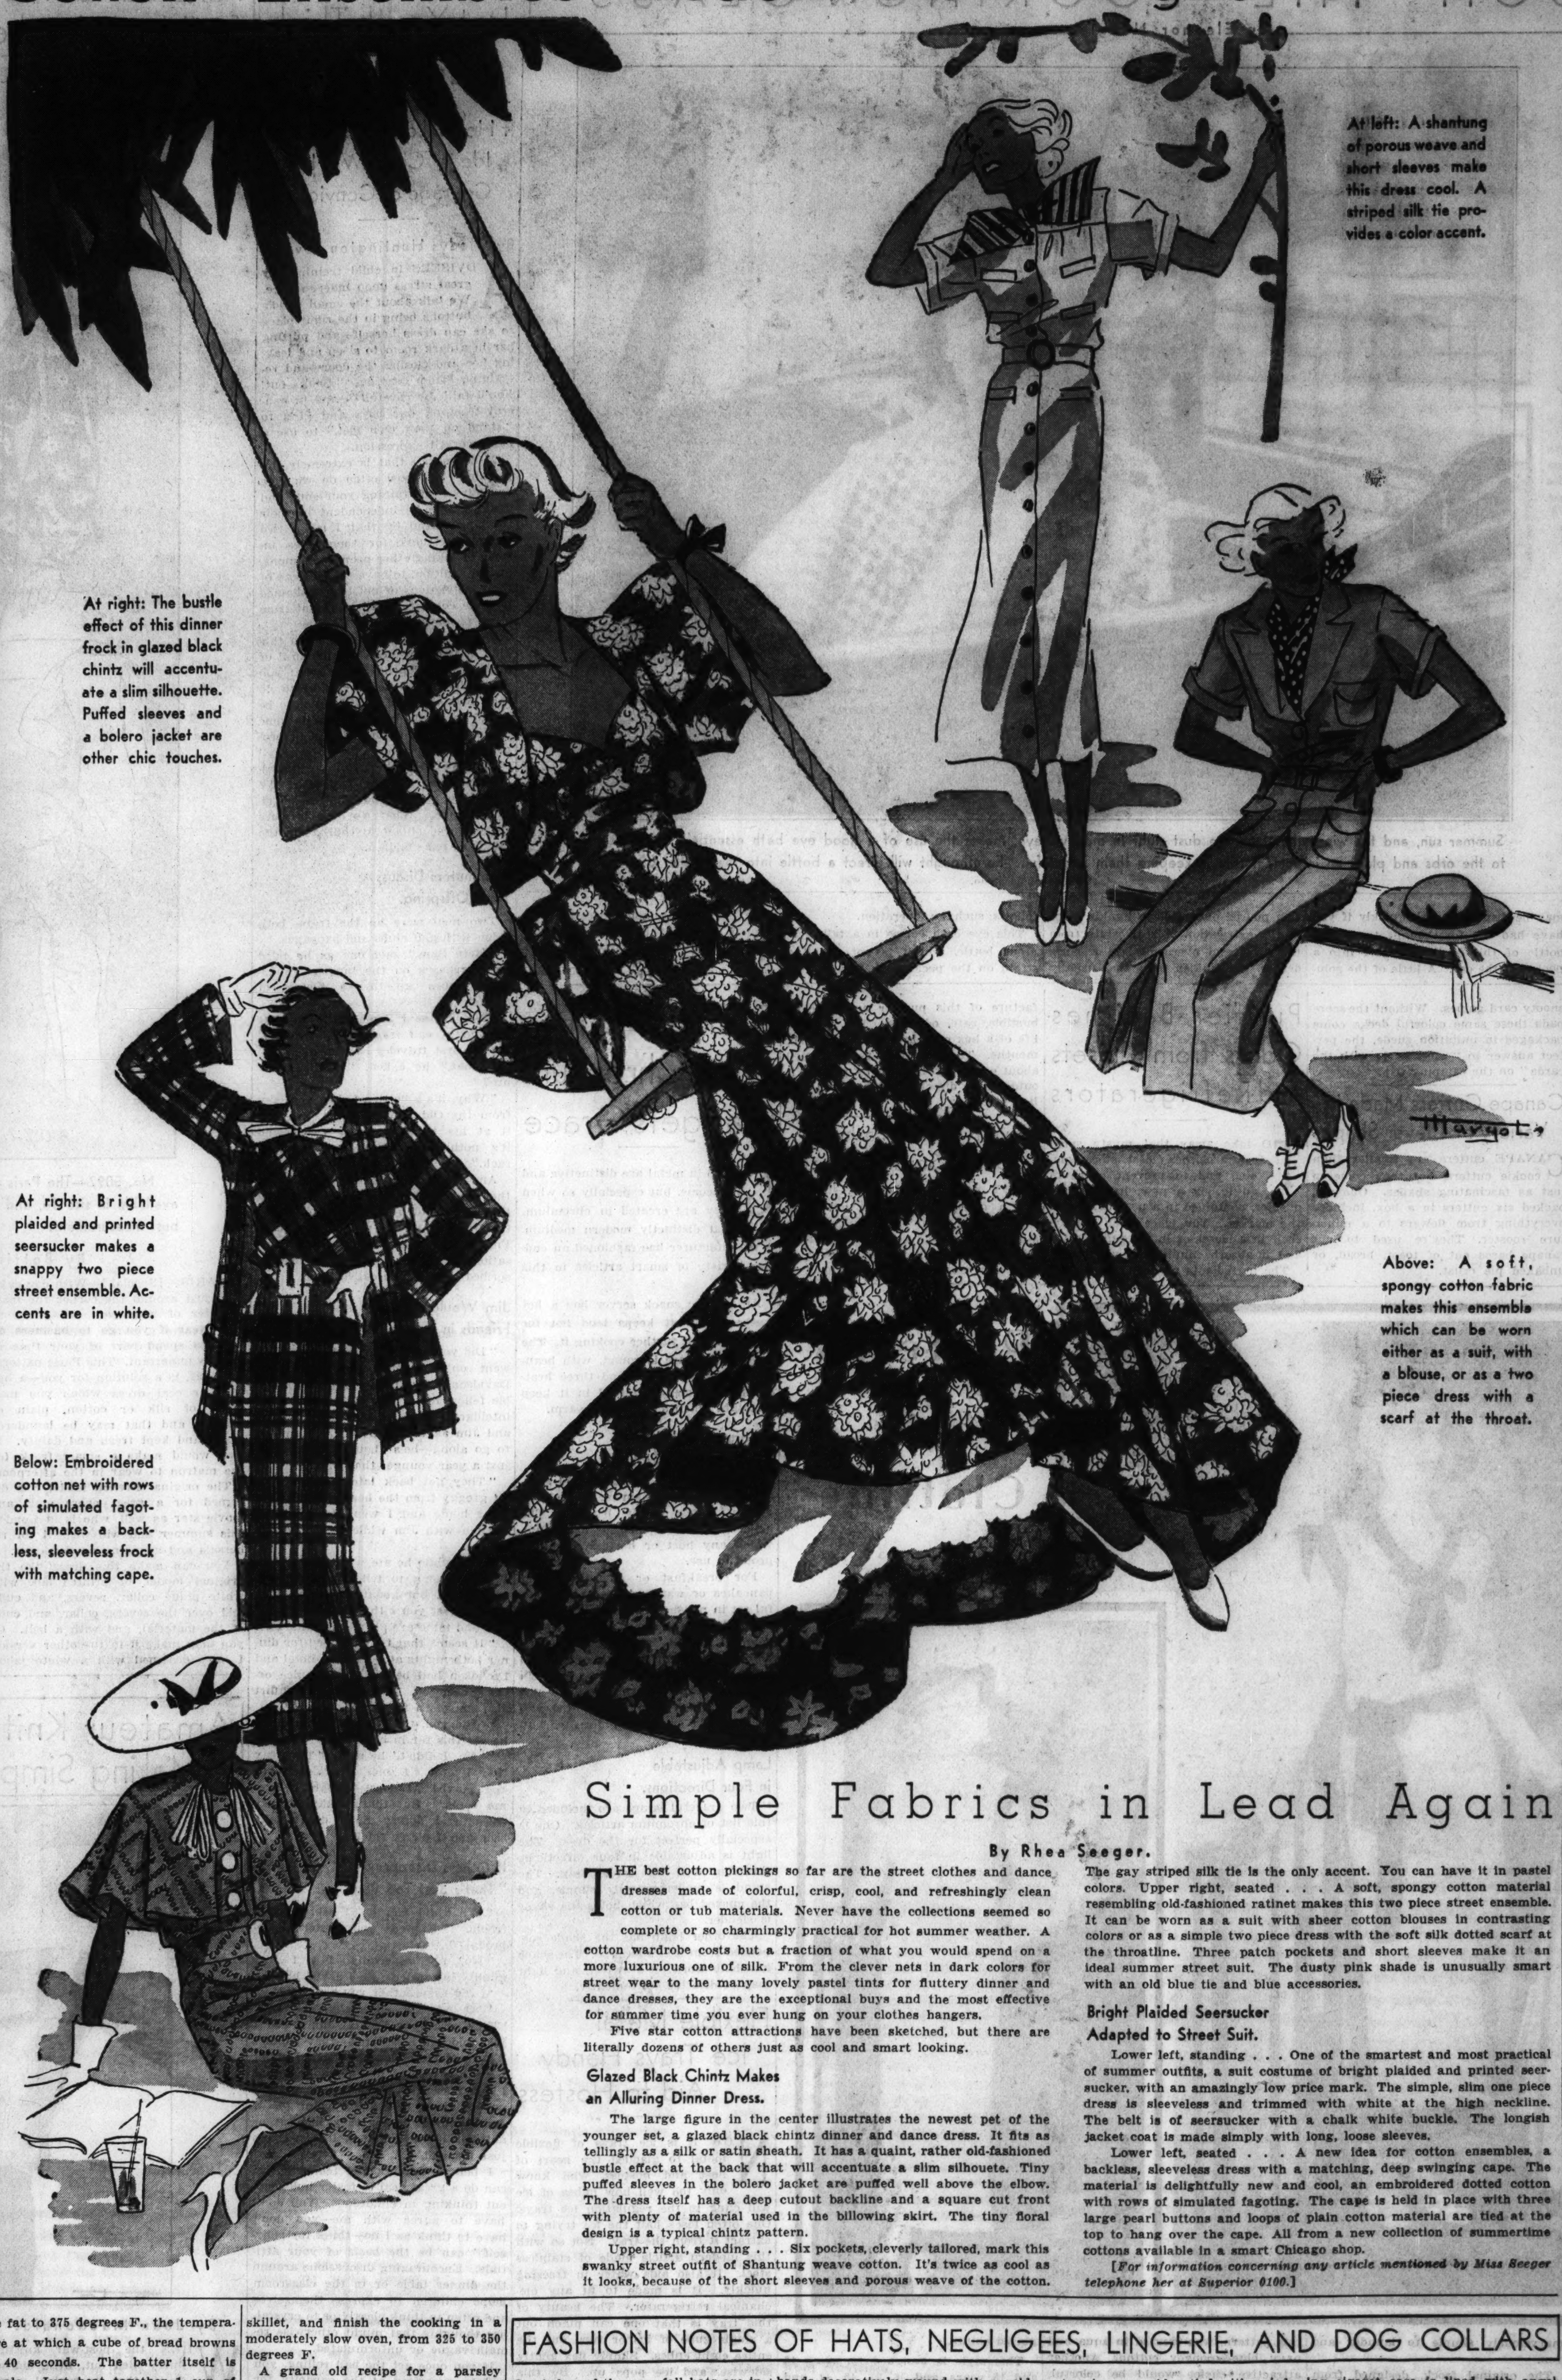
Cotton Ensembles Reach New Highs of Chic



At left: A shantung of porous weave and short sleeves make this dress cool. A striped silk tie provides a color accent.

At right: The bustle effect of this dinner frock in glazed black chintz will accentuate a slim silhouette. Puffed sleeves and a bolero jacket are other chic touches.

Below: Embroidered cotton net with rows of simulated fagoting makes a backless, sleeveless frock with matching cape.

Simple Fabrics in Lead Again

By Rhea Seeger.

THE best cotton pickings so far are the street clothes and dance dresses made of colorful, crisp, cool, and refreshingly clean cotton or tub materials. Never have the collections seemed so complete or so charmingly practical for hot summer weather. A cotton wardrobe costs but a fraction of what you would spend on a more luxurious one of silk. From the clever nets in dark colors for street wear to the many lovely pastel tints for fluttery dinner and dance dresses, they are the exceptional buys and the most effective for summer time you ever hung on your clothes hangers.

Five star cotton attractions have been sketched, but there are literally dozens of others just as cool and smart looking.

Glazed Black Chintz Makes an Alluring Dinner Dress.

The large figure in the center illustrates the newest pet of the younger set, a glazed black chintz dinner and dance dress. It fits as tellingly as a silk or satin sheath. It has a quaint, rather old-fashioned bustle effect at the back that will accentuate a slim silhouete. Tiny puffed sleeves in the bolero jacket are puffed well above the elbow. The dress itself has a deep cutout backline and a square cut front with plenty of material used in the billowing skirt. The tiny floral design is a typical chintz pattern.

Upper right, standing . . . Six pockets, cleverly tailored, mark this swanky street outfit of Shantung weave cotton. It's twice as cool as it looks, because of the short sleeves and porous weave of the cotton. The gay striped silk tie is the only accent. You can have it in pastel colors. Upper right, seated . . . A soft, spongy cotton material resembling old-fashioned ratinet makes this two piece street ensemble. It can be worn as a suit with sheer cotton blouses in contrasting colors or as a simple two piece dress with the soft silk dotted scarf at the throatline. Three patch pockets and short sleeves make it an ideal summer street suit. The dusty pink shade is unusually smart with an old blue tie and blue accessories.

Bright Plaided Seersucker Adapted to Street Suit.

Lower left, standing . . . One of the smartest and most practical of summer outfits, a suit costume of bright plaided and printed seersucker, with an amazingly low price mark. The simple, slim one piece dress is sleeveless and trimmed with white at the high neckline. The belt is of seersucker with a chalk white buckle. The longish jacket coat is made simply with long, loose sleeves.

Lower left, seated . . . A new idea for cotton ensembles, a backless, sleeveless dress with a matching, deep swinging cape. The material is delightfully new and cool, an embroidered dotted cotton with rows of simulated fagoting. The cape is held in place with three large pearl buttons and loops of plain cotton material are tied at the top to hang over the cape. All from a new collection of summertime cottons available in a smart Chicago shop.

FASHION NOTES OF HATS, NEGLIGEES, LINGERIE, AND DOG COLLARS

- A few of the new fall hats are in, dashing affairs, totally different from anything we have ever worn before. French designers are stressing the aureole hats, copied from the large diameter halos seen in stained glass windows showing saints. Even the jewel-like colors of these stained glass reproductions have been used—Madonna blues, deep, glowing reds, and tawny shades of deep gold and green. The crowns are molded snugly over the skull, and the brims stand straight up from the forehead a bit back from the hairline, for all the world like the halos painted above saintly heads in stained glass window pictures. Also, there are some new dinner and dancing velvet halos that are nothing more nor less than twisted bands decoratively wound with a gold or silver cord that ties at the back and leaves the entire top of the coiffure showing. The smartest fall hats are of soft, dull black felt. The dancing and dinner halos are of soft velvet.
- Dusty pink and sunny yellow are the most popular summertime colors. All kinds of yellow are used for spectator and active sports outfits. On the tennis court, however, white still reigns supreme.
- Double chiffon negligees with amazingly low price marks are plentiful. They are fascinating models with angel sleeves and two toned chiffon belt sashes, usually of contrasting colors. The white models are especially lovely, with sashes of citron yellow and deep orange. You can also get all the many violet shades and a stunning navy blue tied with a jade green and lilac colored sash.
- Underthings for summer wear are mere wisps of sheer material. Short scanties have tiny val lace edgings. Vests are likewise trimmed around the top.
- Cotton mesh lingerie well punched with holes for extra coolness can be tubbed as easily as a pocket handkerchief and dried almost while you wait. These cotton mesh all in one models are cut like the most revealing of swim suits. A "bra" top is attached to the shorts just in the front.
- New evening compacts that can be carried with all your evening clothes for both summer and winter are square cut oblong boxes covered with rhinestones. Inside there is room for powder, lipstick, and rouge, and even a flat front door key. A matching cigaret case is lined with angelskin ivory white satin. Other stunning compacts and matching cigaret cases come in golden toned tortoise shell, marvelous and most appreciated gifts to any redhead you may know.
- Old-fashioned dog collars done in the modern manner are the latest pets of the younger set. You will find them in pearled collars with a large oblong plaque effect in the center, of rhinestones and pearls. They also come in flexible metal and in silver with rhinestones and the new maline bands in colors to match your dress. The rhinestones form a glittering clasp that is worn directly in front, with the bow of the tulle or net tied at the back. These last described beauties are most attractive and are especially alluring against the many drooped shoulder gowns for evening.

Announce Plans for Second of Sally Parties

Children Who Write Best Letters Will Attend Movie Called 'Ginger.'

By Sally Joy Brown.

TIME to announce our second big party, boys and girls!

As the next entertainment of our series of good times this summer I've been invited by the management of Balaban and Katz to bring my small guests to the Roosevelt theater. They are featuring a picture I know you youngsters will enjoy, so I promptly accepted the invitation.

On Thursday, July 11, 50 boys and 50 girls will come with me to see "Ginger," which features little Jane Withers. Some of you may have seen her in "Bright Eyes," and this is her first starring picture. She's only 9 years old, but she's a first rate actress.

* * *

I'll tell you more about the picture tomorrow, but today I want to explain about invitations. Any boy or girl may try to win one, and here's the way you do it. Write a letter to me, telling why you think you'll enjoy seeing "Ginger." You see, I will try to select the youngsters whom I believe will most appreciate the party, and your letter will have to be your request and your means of telling me just how much such a movie would interest you. Your letter must reach me by Thursday, July 4, and it must include your name, address, and age. There are no coupons or subscriptions or anything of that sort necessary. I'm simply interested in seeing that you children have a good time, and knowing that children have natural likes and dislikes I want to invite the youngsters who like movies! All letters will be read carefully, and the names of the winners printed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE, just as the winners of our exciting College inn party will find their names listed in today's column.

* * *

Here you are, boys and girls! If you can find your name in this list you can expect the mailman to bring you an invitation any minute now. If your address is wrong please phone me in order that the correction may be made. I know there will be some disappointed youngsters, but read the rules over carefully and try again. The whole summer stretches before us, and we've many good times coming, so don't give up, but sit down and see if you can't win an invitation to see "Ginger." The address, you know, is simply Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Fluted Chintz, Slick Oilcloth, or Waterproof Fabric Makes Crisp, Colorful Edging for Linen Cupboard

Bright Thumb Tacks Not Only Secure Them, but Serve as Decoration.

"Furnishing Your Home on a Modest Budget," a new booklet by Claire Winslow, tells how to have attractive rooms without running up large bills. It is full of helpful suggestions. Price, 5 cents by mail, 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower lobby.

By Claire Winslow.

ALMOST as much fun as pottering around in a garden with trowel and fork, and not nearly so messy, is decorating your closet shelves. Every well dressed linen cupboard, nowadays, wears its crisp, colorful edging of fluted chintz or oilcloth or waterproof fabric—a nice foil for the neat, snowy piles of towels, wash cloths, sheets, and pillow cases.

And the pretty little pink, blue, yellow, or green thumb tacks not only hold the trimmings in place, but serve as decorative accents as well. For instance, if you choose a gay, polka dotted oilcloth in scarlet and white, you use scarlet tacks at regular intervals to secure it to the shelf edge, and these are not concealed at all, as they furnish their bit of smartness to the total effect.

Many of the best looking new edgings come in double layers, one above the other, and in two colors. Thus you'll see wide blue scallops over cream white smaller ones, and green over yellow.

One especially pretty pattern shows a tiny red and white check ending in a little pure white fluted edge, like a frill. Or you can have this with the checks in green and white, or black and white. It's dainty and different.

The larger checks in bold colors we've seen for some time, but there is always a demand for them, especially in kitchens where the windows are curtained in checked ginghams. Thus, your shelf edging of oilcloth matches your curtain pattern.

Simple and tailored is a fairly deep V edging showing first a V of white, then one of green. This also comes in green and orange, black and beige, white and yellow, coral and green, and in the ever popular scarlet and white.

One Edging Shows Silhouette of Girl in Hoop Skirt.

For a linen closet off the bedroom an adorable shelf edging displays a repeat pattern picturing the silhouetted figure of a girl in hoop skirt watering her garden with an old-fashioned watering pot. In oilcloth you can have the figure in black on beige with a tiny black, scalloped underflounce, or in powder blue on cream, over yellow, or in scarlet on cream over black.

Also, perfect for linen shelves near bedroom or bath is the narrow fluted edging of chintz, and this comes in a wide variety of lovely tones—in butter yellow, light green, powder blue, white, rose, brown, red, and lavender.

The picture today shows a smart new waterproof fabric pattern decorating the shelves of a linen closet. It is a red, white, and black plaid over a little scalloped underflounce of solid red. Although it is not oilcloth it can be kept clean simply by wiping with a damp sponge. And you see how greatly it adds to the appearance of the shelves.

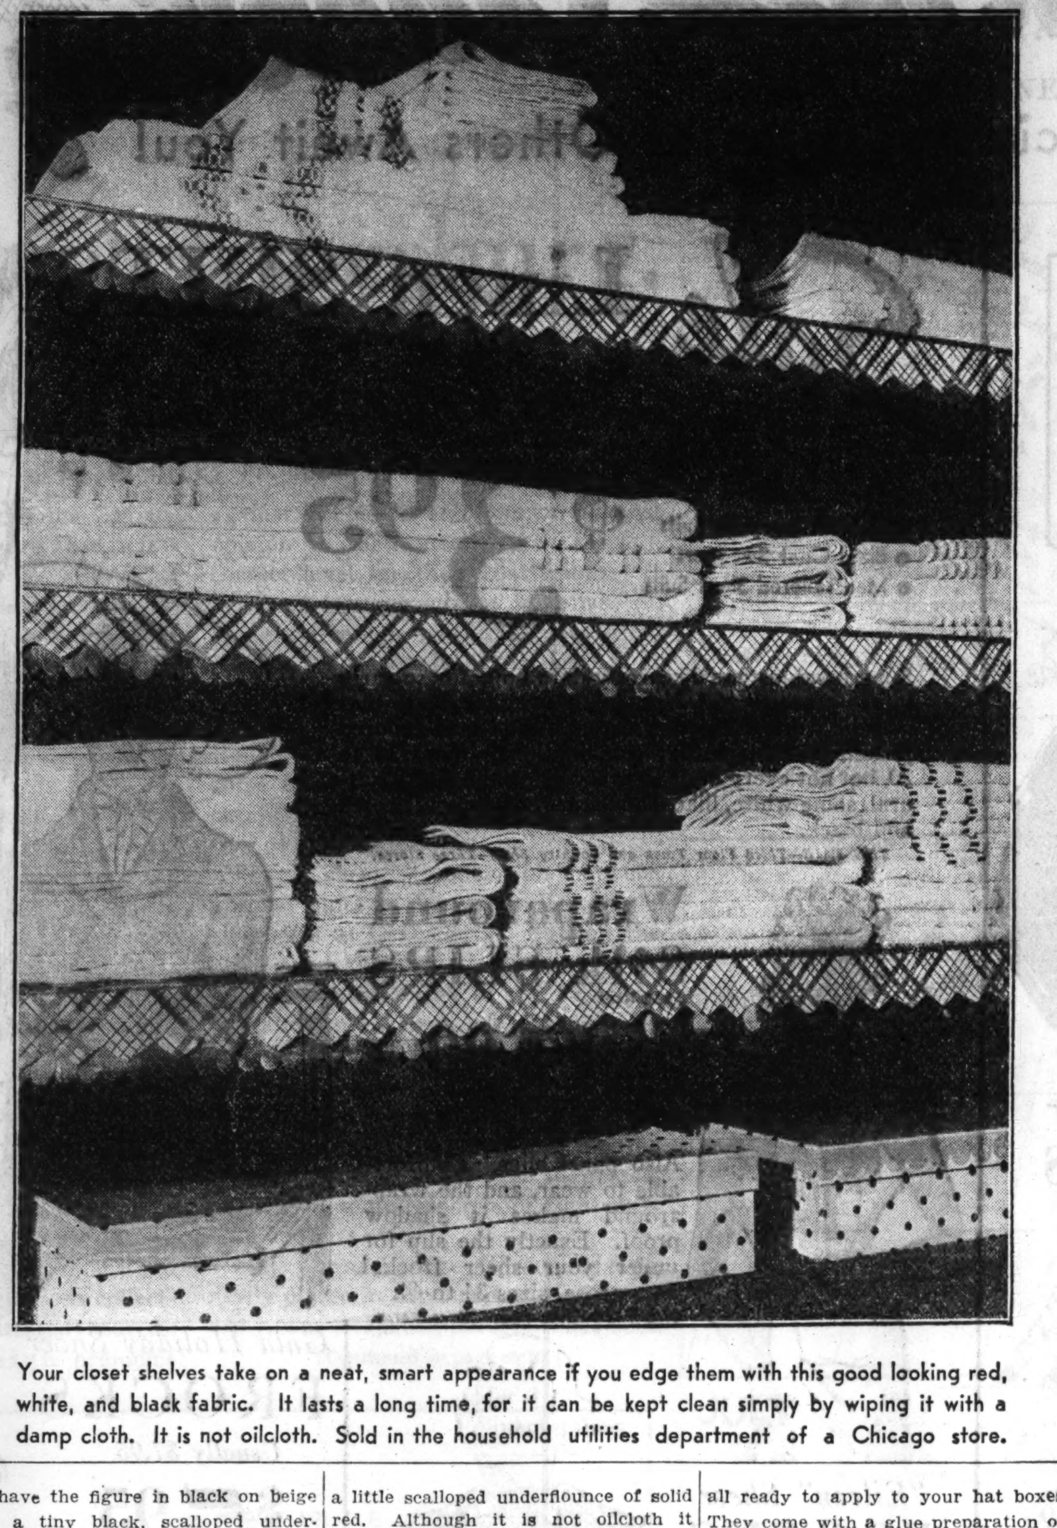
Black Cutouts Are Smart for Hat Boxes.

The smaller pieces of linen are kept in the large boxes on the lowest shelf. These are covered in the same material in a polka dot design.

And if you want something clever, get the new black initial cutouts, all ready to apply to your hat boxes. They come with a glue preparation on their backs, so all you have to do is to moisten this and stick 'em up.

Just on the market is a line of paper, paste backed decorations that come 120 to the package, so you can do an entire wall border with them if you wish. Amusing patterns for nurseries, kitchens, bathrooms, and playrooms, and conventional designs, as well.

All the items described today are available in a Chicago department store.



Your closet shelves take on a neat, smart appearance if you edge them with this good looking red, white, and black fabric. It lasts a long time, for it can be kept clean simply by wiping it with a damp cloth. It is not oilcloth. Sold in the household utilities department of a Chicago store.

Etiquet Editor Devotes Space to Questions

Clarifies Miscellaneous Problems Pertaining to Correct Social Conduct

The following booklets on wedding etiquet are on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and the Tribune Tower lobby: "Planning the Church Wedding," 3 cents; by mail, 5 cents. "Selecting the Trousseau," 2 cents; by mail, 3 cents. "Correct Wedding Apparel," 2 cents; by mail, 3 cents. "Small Weddings at Small Cost," 2 cents; by mail, 3 cents. "Color Ideas for Spring and Summer Weddings," 2 cents; by mail, 3 cents.

By Helen Bartlett.

FOR the last month or so this department has been devoting its space rather exclusively to wedding etiquet and the innumerable problems of the prospective bride. Perhaps we have been too faithful to this single subject, at the expense of the interest of readers who have no immediate concern with questions of the sort. Now another June has passed, and we can depart for a time from the topic of the altar.

Several topics of more general interest will be touched upon in the following answers to questions which have accumulated in the last few weeks to be answered in our column.

A young woman inquires: "When a woman is walking with two men, does she walk between them?"—E. F.

No, both men should walk on the curb side. And the same is true when one man is accompanying two women. He does not walk between them, but on the curb side.

"If a widow remarries may she have a large wedding?"

A widow who remarries should have a small, quiet, informal ceremony with just the families or witnesses present.

"Does a woman ever rise to greet a man?"

When a woman is hostess she rises to greet all her guests, including the men. A woman also rises to meet men of great distinction or venerable age.

"May candles be used on a luncheon table? And, if so, are they lighted?"

Candlesticks or candelabra may properly be used on a luncheon table as decoration. They are not lighted unless the room is dark and the illumination is necessary. Lighted candles would be ridiculous in a bright room at midday.

"Would it be correct to write notes of thanks on a typewriter? A friend tells me that it is all right nowadays to type all social correspondence."

It is perfectly true that the typewriter now is used for letters between friends, letters that are everyday, chatty ones. But a purely social note, a note of thanks, of condolence, or of invitation, always is written in longhand.

From Mrs. H. A. comes the question: "Should a guest at a large formal tea or reception speak to other guests to whom she has not been introduced?"

Yes, indeed. At large parties individual introductions are quite impossible.

"Is it correct to inclose one's personal visiting or calling cards with gifts?"—M. L.

Yes. Particularly with wedding gifts is it the thing to do. The card, without any message, is inclosed. If at any time a message is written on a personal card, the "Mr.," "Miss," or "Mrs." must be crossed out.

[Answer on page three.]

THIS WEEK IN THE GARDEN

Monday, July 1.

To have good fruit the trees must be sprayed regularly with the standard material known as Bordeaux mixture. This kills a fungus that will attack trees whenever the conditions for its growth are favorable. It is best to consult the spraying tables that are found in almost any garden book, and spray according to directions. Thin out fruit to obtain the best. Leaf crops, such as lettuce, chard, spinach, endive, delight in a highly nitrogenous soil.

Tuesday, July 2.

Sow summer varieties of radishes at this time. Plant out sweet potato vines. A few in the small garden are always interesting. If a few hills of peanuts can be planted their interesting habit of growth will arouse much enthusiasm among the children. Sow tomatoes for the fall crop. If beetles are noticed on the tops of asparagus, spray with arsenate of lead. Finish all plantations of outdoor flowers. The pool should be finished and planted. Watch for green fly on water lily leaves, and spray with a tobacco concoction.

Wednesday, July 3.

Try a few additional hills of squash and pumpkins for a late crop. Some annuals, if sown now, will develop flowers long before fall. The portulaca makes a fine edging plant. It does well in the rockery, and may be used en mass in a large bed. Great masses of a single kind of plant always arouses interest. Potato bugs are easily killed by spraying with arsenate of lead. Watch for suckers on grafted roses, the double flowering plum [prunus triloba], and other grafted plants. Remove any that appear.

Thursday, July 4.

The amaryllis plant should be plunged, pot and all, in a sunny spot in the garden and given copious amounts of water and food. The plant should be kept growing, rested during the winter, and started into active growth the following spring. Do not try to keep it growing the year round. Liquid cow manure is one of the best foods for roses. It does not burn. Commercial foods are best, for they contain all food elements necessary to produce good flowers. Trim the hedge row now, and be sure to do a straight job. Stretch a line alongside the hedge and trim to it.

Friday, July 5.

Pinch chrysanthemum plants. Keep the flowers of the coreopsis or they will go to seed and fewer flowers develop. Stake perennials. Plant fuchsias in a shady place. The trailing varieties make fine plants for window boxes. Pinch out the tips of bedding plants to make them grow in a compact form, with more flowering shoots or foliage.

Saturday, July 6.

Many perennials can easily be increased from cuttings after flowering, young growths becoming more numerous and in prime condition for rooting. The sedum, aubretia, phlox, madwort, and similar plants may be used. Just place the cuttings in a box of sandy soil, in the shade, and keep them moist. Spray trees for canker worm and other harmful insects.

Unique Model Marks Advance in Piano Design

Almost as Small as Upright, It Has Larger Sounding Board Than a Grand.

"What's Wrong with Your Rooms?" a booklet by Edith Weigle, explains pleasing and balanced arrangement of furniture. If you'd like to change the appearance of your living room, or if you have any problems in placing certain pieces send for this booklet. Price 5 cents by mail, 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

By Edith Weigle.

MOST home owners and apartment dwellers have dreamed of owning a grand piano at some time or other. But because of the expense and also because of the comparatively small size of the average living room thousands of people never realize this ambition. Now, along comes a brand new instrument that combines the good points of the grand with the lesser area of space filled by the upright. And it is being sold at such a low price that a budget which can't afford the regular grand can compass this with ease.

A large Chicago music store is displaying the new piano and vouching for its workmanship and quality. The company manufacturing it is an old one. The tone sounds mellow, rich, and deep to the ears of this listener, and we're told the action is excellent.

String Length Also Exceeds That of Old Grand.

You will see by studying the picture today just why this model is equal to a five foot grand type. The strings, instead of running parallel to the floor, are housed in a large vertical section that extends from the rear end right down to the rug. Thus the sounding board has an area one-third greater than has a grand piano of the five feet six inches size. Also, the string length is greater. This instrument measures 45 inches high, 59 inches wide, and 25½ inches deep, so you see it does not take up much room in your home.

In the illustration you see it in mahogany in colonial style. One pretty feature is the lyre standard for the pedals, just like that on a grand piano. In a living room furnished in colonial or Victorian mahogany this piano would be a charming addition, fitting into the scheme perfectly.

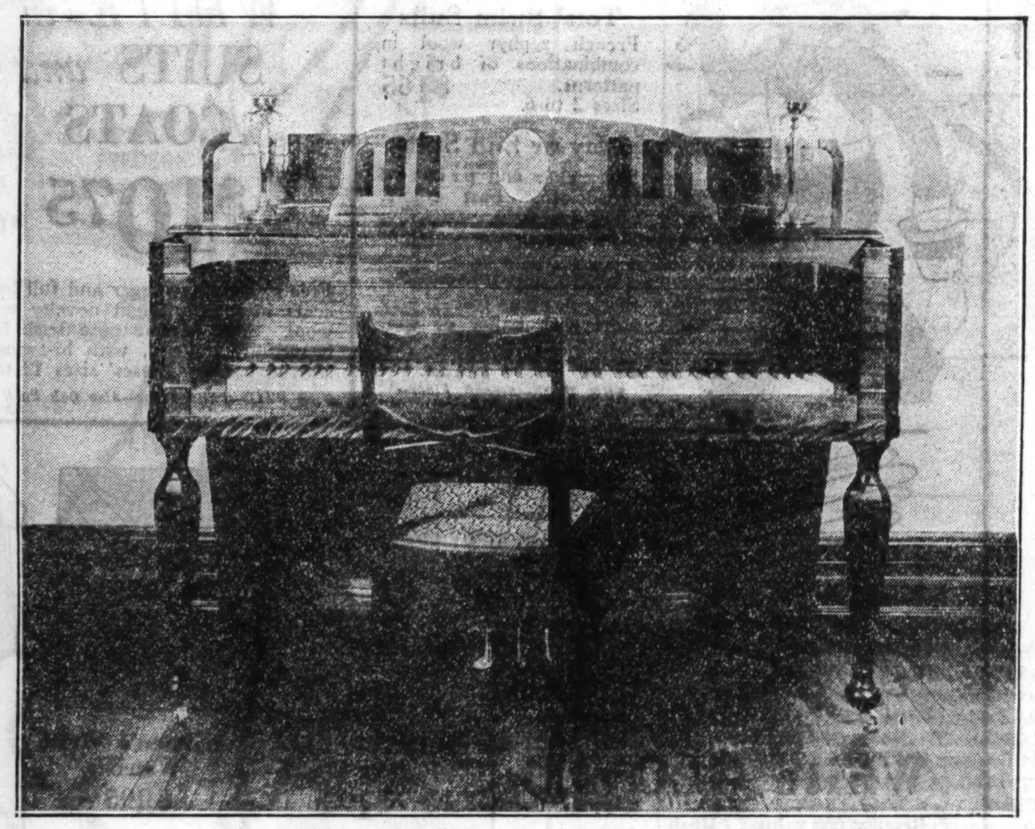
There's Instrument to Blend with Every Period of Design.

Or if you have Chippendale furniture you can choose the Chinese Chippendale model, simple and beautifully styled. It, too, is of mahognay. So is the Sheraton case, which has tapering, fluted legs and a lovely, mellow finish. The fourth choice is a walnut console, rather modern in its lines and general build.

No matter what period your living room furnishings are, it is possible to find one of these new pianos to harmonize.

After viewing hundreds of nondescript uprights, each looking as much like the other as peas in a pod and having no relation whatever to the other furniture in a room, and after admiring the gorgeous extravagance of the usual grand piano which calls for luxurious oriental rugs and costly furnishings to accompany it as clearly as that well known childish treble on the radio calls for a certain brand of cigaret, we quickly came to the conclusion that here is a practical piano for the average American family, enjoyable both because of its good styling, its new mechanical features, and its low price.

IN COLONIAL MAHOGANY



Here's a brand new style in pianos. It has the advantages of the grand with the small size of the upright. And it's good looking as a piece of furniture in your living room. The strings are housed in a section that goes straight down to the floor at the rear end of the case. There are three other styles available beside this colonial model. Sold by a large Chicago music store.

Decoration Queries

Miss Winslow will be glad to answer queries on interior decoration. She cannot send a personal reply, however, unless the reader incloses a stamped, self addressed envelope. Confine your questions to one room of your home, and please number each one.

Question—What will remove smoke stains from a marble faced fireplace?

Answer—Try scrubbing with powdered pumice and water. If this does not do the work, apply a cloth soaked with carbon tetrachloride. This can be purchased at a drug store. It should be used in a room with the windows open. It is not inflammable, but its fumes are not healthy to breathe.

Query: "Will you please suggest an inexpensive, washable material for summer bedspreads for twin beds? I'd like to make them myself, but want something rather plain and tailored. I'll appreciate your advice.—V. S."

Answer: Here's an idea that New Yorkers are keen about. Doubtless it will hit this part of the country soon. Simply take solid colored gingham and make your spread in perfectly plain, tailored style, outlining the rectangular top surface of the bed with two rows of contrasting plaid gingham about one inch wide each. This makes a huge frame, as it were, and in the upper center of this—the top center of the spread—hand appliqué your initials of the plaid and make them 20 inches tall. You can have two or three letters in block style. The effect is extremely smart and the spread costs next to nothing.

Query: "My 8 year old son has a small room with ship wallpaper. The bed is a spool bed painted ecru and would require a ruffle around it. What material would you suggest for the bedspread and curtains? I am considering monk's cloth trimmed in a colored brush fringe or a large checked gingham.—R. H. R."

Answer: As you did not send a stamped, self addressed envelope I cannot reply in a letter, Mrs. R. Your son's room sounds most attractive. The monk's cloth for the spread will be good, but it will be easier to ruffle gingham than this heavier material—and you state a ruffle is needed. Another excellent material would be plain, solid color sail cloth, matching the background of the wallpaper. The brushed edging is a fine idea.

THE STAMP COLLECTOR

By Richard McP. Cabeen.

Mr. Cabeen will be glad to answer questions about stamps, except questions concerning value. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamp Exchange contains offers to buy and sell. Please enclose a self addressed stamped envelope for reply.

THE second commemorative stamp of 1930 was issued on July 9, 1930, at Braddock, Pa. This is somewhat of an anomaly among stamps for it commemorates a defeat rather than a victory. The design of the stamp shows George Washington in the uniform of a colonel of British troops and is taken from a statue by Vittor which was dedicated on the battlefield in 1930.

In the engagement of 1755, now called the Battle of Braddock's field, French troops defeated the English under Gen. Braddock, and through the loss of the leader Col. George Washington of Virginia found himself at the head of the English troops. It is generally assumed that the outcome of the battle would have been different had Washington been in charge at the start. His suggestion that the troops be deployed as skirmishers went unheeded, and the column of brilliant red coats offered a perfect target for the French and Indians who were hiding behind every tree along the line of march.

The qualities which Washington displayed at this time led to his appointment by Gov. Dunwiddie as commander in chief of the British forces in Virginia and eventually to his selection as the leader of the revolutionary army.

Only 25,609,470 copies of this stamp were sold. These were printed by the flat plate process from four plates of 400 subjects each.

Stamp from Abyssinia.

Emperor Haile Selassie I. occupies a prominent place in the news of the day on account of the punitive expedition being organized against his country by Mussolini, Italian dictator. Haile Selassie, which means "the Power of the Trinity," was crowned emperor of Ethiopia, as they prefer to call their country, on Nov. 2, 1930. Before that time he had been known as Ras Tafari and in addition to being heir apparent, was governor of the province of Harar.

In 1916, at the age of 25, he became regent of Ethiopia, succeeding his father, Ras Makonnen, and following the death of Empress Waizeru Zauditu he was crowned emperor under the title Haile Selassie, king of kings of Ethiopia, conquering lion of the tribe of Judah. His dynasty claims direct escent from Menelik I, son of Solomon and the queen of Sheba, and rules over what is unquestionably the world's oldest sovereign state.

Ras Makonnen is shown at the left, Haile Selassie I, at the right, in this illustration made from a cover recently received from Harar by S. Hyman of Chicago.

National Philatelic Week.

At a recent meeting, the Gateway Philatelic society adopted a resolution looking toward the institution of a National Philatelic week during which clubs throughout the country would schedule special meetings. It was felt that this week should come at the opening of a new philatelic season and the period from Nov. 4 to Nov. 10 has been tentatively selected. The suggestion has been made that a philatelic broadcast on a national hookup would acquaint the noncollector with the merits of this hobby.

Cachet Notices.

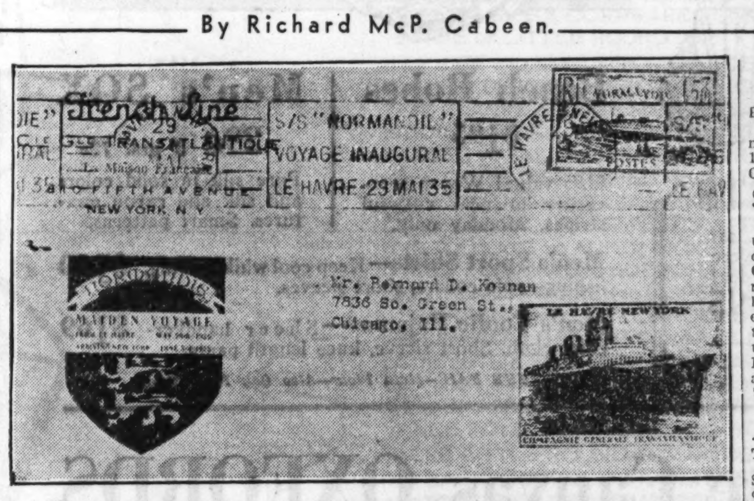
Specialty Albums.

The specialty album pages of the series under publication by the Lake Publishing company of 4440 North Ashland avenue, Chicago, now includes sections for ships, maps, birds, animals, locomotives, and bridges. These are printed in two colors on extra heavy paper and it is understood that the title pages and hand lettered inscriptions under all stamp spaces are the work of E. L. Bloomster, the well known Chicago artist.



This cover, carried on the initial voyage of the liner Normandie, shows an interesting series of philatelic attributes. The special Normandie stamp is postmarked with the Le Havre-New York sea post markings for the trip and, in addition, the cover shows a cachet in colors at the lower left and a poster stamp at the right. Bernard Keenan kindly loaned the cover.

Mighty Gettysburg, Peak of Civil War

By WHITLEY NOBLE

MILITARY annals of the Confederacy contain more than a few explanations as to why the Army of Northern Virginia lost at Gettysburg. In the north for many years after the close of the Civil war there lingered bitter disappointment over the fact that the victory at that historic engagement was not more nearly complete.

Few major military actions have been written about more copiously than Gettysburg, and few, indeed, have been the battles that have given rise to greater conflicts of opinion than the one fought in southern Pennsylvania meadow, grain field, and orchard through three long, sultry summer days 72 years ago this week.

No man who took part in the fighting at Gettysburg could have been capable of writing an unbiased report of the battle, no matter how honest his intentions. Historians have had to depend on accounts written by generals and other officers, on official dispatches and documents, and on observations collected from many and scattered sources. They have had to weigh prejudice against prejudice and opinion against opinion in their attempts to reach a correct level for their conclusions. It has been a tough job for historians all along the line, but with the mists of old hatreds now dissolved by the bright rays of a better understanding—even as sunshine today routs fog above Little Round Top and Culp's hill—there has come out at last that which we may accept as a fairly accurate reconstruction of the battle.

With closer co-operation between various units of his army Lee might have won at Gettysburg. But, on the other hand, there was faulty maneuvering also in the Army of the Potomac. Mistakes and errors of judgment on one side just about balanced those of the other. From a distance of more than seventy years it appears that the stronger army won because it was the stronger and not, as has been suggested, because of some principle of righteousness upon its side.

Maj. Gen. George Gordon Meade, newly placed in command of the federal army, was a capable, though, it has been

1-NEWTON REPLACES DOUBLEDAY WHO RETURNS TO HIS DIVISION.

2-MEADE ESTABLISHES HEADQUARTERS. ◉

3-BY 9 A.M., SIX CORPS ARE IN UNION LINE FROM ROCK CREEK TO BASE OF LITTLE ROUND TOP.

11 A.M.-LEE WHO, NIGHT BEFORE, HAD DETERMINED TO STRIKE UNION LEFT, DESPITE LONGSTREET'S COUNSEL TO FILE AROUND THAT FLANK AND FORCE MEADE TO ABANDON HIS STRONG POSITION, ORDERS LONGSTREET TO ATTACK. HIS CORPS ADVANCES TO FALL IN LINE AT HILL'S RIGHT ON SEMINARY RIDGE.

WARREN FINDS LITTLE ROUND TOP (FROM WHICH THE UNION LINE COULD BE RAKED BY ARTILLERY) ALMOST UNDEFENDED. HE INTERCEPTS SYKES WHO RUSHES VINCENT'S BRIGADE (16TH MICH., 44TH N.Y., 83D PA., 20TH ME.) TO HOLD THE HILL.

6-LAW'S BRIGADE (LONGSTREET'S RIGHT) LEADS THE ADVANCE FOLLOWED BY REST OF HOOD'S DIVISION. LAW ATTACKS LITTLE ROUND TOP AND DEFENDERS ARE FALLING BACK. 140TH N.Y., AND HAZLITT'S BATTERY JOIN THEM AND TOGETHER THEY BEAT OFF THE ASSAULT.

7-4 TO 6.30 P.M., LONGSTREET'S ATTACK CENTERS ON SICKLES' SALIENT THROUGH THE PEACH ORCHARD AND WHEAT FIELD. HIS FLANKS ARE TURNED IN A PERIOD OF EXTENDED HAND-TO-HAND SLAUGHTER, HIS LINE TURNED WEST AND FACING SOUTH. HEAVILY REINFORCED, THE REMNANTS OF HIS CORPS ARE ABLE TO FALL BACK TO CEMETERY RIDGE. DURING THIS RETIREMENT THE FIRST MINNESOTA HOLDS A CONFEDERATE BRIGADE IN CHECK.

SICKLES IS WOUNDED. BIRNEY TAKES COMMAND

8 LONGSTREET'S ADVANCE ENDS AS SEDGWICK COME UP NORTH OF ROUND TOP. THE CONFEDERATE TROOPS ARE COMPLETELY FRUSTRATED IN ALL ATTEMPT TO DISLODGE THE UNION LINE ON CEMETERY RIDGE AND LITTLE ROUND TOP. LONGSTREET'S RIGHT HOLDS IT GROUND BUT HE WITHDRAWS HIS LEFT WHILE HILL'S EXTENSION OF THIS FLANK RETIRES TO SEMINARY RIDGE.+++++++++++++

9-AT 5 P.M., TO DIVERT MEADE FROM LONGSTREET'S ATTACK, JOHNSON'S BATTERIES OPEN FIRE ON THE UNION RIGHT. HIS GUNS OVERPOWERED BY MEADE'S. HE CEASES FIRE AT 6.

10-AT SUNDOWN, EARLY MOVES HIS THREE BRIGADES AGAINST CEMETERY HILL. RODES, IN SUPPORT, IS SOUTHWEST OF GETTYSBURG. JOHNSON ADVANCES AGAINST CULP'S HILL. THE CONFEDERATE ATTACK ON HIS LEFT WING HAVING FAILED, MEADE IS ABLE TO SUPPORT HIS THREATENED RIGHT AND EWELL'S DIVISIONS ARE REPULSED THOUGH JOHNSON OCCUPIES ADVANCED POSITIONS.+++++++

Summer Drama Festivals in Chicago and Elsewhere

NoAmateurism Is Slogan for Glencoe Plays

Pasadena to Give Ten Plays by Shakespeare; Mohawk Festival Bills.

By Charles Collins.

NOW is the time when all theatrical writers not on vacation must come to the aid of the drama festivals. These affairs appear to be scattered all over the map of the United States, and their propaganda, beseeching tourists to refresh their souls with the art of acting, litters my desk.

Chicago's own drama festival, the North Shore, got a promising start last Monday night with a revival of Barrie's "Mary Rose." This is a new adventure in summer playgoing for a prosperous suburban region, and it differs from certain other exploitations of the festival idea by a firm adherence to professional standards. It has no school of acting; no schedule of lectures on the quintessence of Ibsenism or other burning subjects; no groping amateurs to be prayed over as they fumble their speeches. It has made a promising start in the right direction without any grandiose festival gestures, directing its appeal not to tourists or students but to the regular playgoers of Chicago.

Good Place for Summer Drama.

The fact that the North Shore Drama festival is lodged in a school auditorium should not be interpreted as a lapse in dignity or as a symptom of slipshod technique. The playhouse of the Central school in Glencoe is an excellent example of theatrical architecture, and its stage provides space and equipment that would suit the most exacting director. The hall's only handicap is acoustical; the place is somewhat reverberant, and on that account the quiet first scene of "Mary Rose" suffered from the flurry of late arrivals seeking their seats. The location is within easy walking distance of the Park Avenue [central] station in Glencoe—two blocks west and two south.

Pasadena, Cal., is beating the bass drum for a drama festival which has an ambitious and unusual schedule. Its community playhouse, which has been active for seventeen years, will offer a complete course in the "chronicle plays" of William Shakespeare. It is claimed that this will be the first time that these plays have been produced as a group, in their proper historical order, on the English speaking stage.

Pasadena and Mohawk Festivals.

Here is the Pasadena festival schedule:

"King John," July 1 to July 3; "King Richard II.," July 4 to July 6; "King Henry IV.," part 1, July 8 to July 13; "King Henry IV.," part 2, July 15 to July 20; "King Henry V.," July 22 to July 24; "King Henry VI.," part 1, July 25 to July 27; "King Henry VI.," part 2, July 29 to July 31; "King Henry VI.," part 3, Aug. 1 to Aug. 3; "King Richard III.," Aug. 5 to Aug. 7; "King Henry VIII.," Aug. 8 to Aug. 10.

Turning toward the east, one may hear the siren call of the Mohawk Drama festival, to be given in association with an Institute of the Theater at Union college, Schenectady, N. Y. Charles D. Coburn and Mrs. Coburn, of high standing in the art of acting, will be the leaders in this series of productions. They will have professional support, but students attending the auxiliary Institute of the Theater will appear in minor rôles.

The Mohawk festival will begin July 23 with Shakespeare's comedy, "The Merry Wives of Windsor" [five nights]. The production for the following week will be "Lysistrata," by Aristophanes, in the Gilbert Seldes version, easily remembered from its successful staging of four years ago. "Rip Van Winkle," by Dion Boucicault and Joseph Jefferson, will then be revived as a specimen of Victorian comedy. The fourth and last play of the series will be modern and new to the footlights—"Master of the Revels," by Don Marquis. It deals with episodes in the life of Henry VIII.

Union college, which sponsors the Mohawk festival, is one of the oldest liberal arts colleges in the country. Founded in 1795, it was for several decades the largest college in the country. The Greek letter fraternity system had its genesis there in the first half of the last century.

STAR OF NORTH SHORE DRAMA

Edith Barrett has the title role in Barrie's "Mary Rose," now in performance at Glencoe as the first play of the North Shore Drama Festival. She is a distinguished actress and is ideal for a Barrie heroine.

BOTH IN "BECKY SHARP"

Can-Can Era in Revue at Central City

CENTRAL CITY, Colo., old gold mining town in the shadows of the continental divide, is ready for its fourth annual play festival, July 6 to July 20, in the opera house which was built in 1878 and reopened in the summer of 1932.

Robert Edmond Jones, designer and producer, has assembled a large cast for this year's production. It will be a revue called "Central City Nights," in twenty-four scenes.

"We want to recapture the entertainment of the period, 1875 to 1895," says Jones, "but we do not intend to sacrifice the progress made by the modern theater.

"In rapid cinematic style we shall present twenty-four acts embracing the scope of the drama in the late 1800's. We shall present scenes from Shakespeare, but we shall not overlook the more ribald moments of the old theater."

In that connection Jones is planning to produce the original of the famous old "Can-Can" dance that once horrified audiences with its daring.

The Shakespearean scenes will have Nan Sunderland, wife of Walter Huston, in the lead. She played opposite him on Broadway in "Dodsworth," and also played "Desdemona" to Walter Huston's "Othello" in last summer's revival at Central City.

The production will open with a Welsh chorus, according to Jones, in tribute to the many Welsh miners who were among the first to settle in Central City.

Music for the production has been arranged and will be conducted by Frank St. Leger, who has been conductor at Covent Garden, London, co-conductor of the Chicago Opera company, and at the present time director of the Houston Symphony orchestra.

In addition to Nan Sunderland some of the other players in "Central City Nights" will be Nica Doret, dancer; Halen Freeman, Kathryn Nelson, Dorothy Chapman, Clifford Newdahl, Perry Ivins, Paul Porter, David Williams, and others.

Veloz-Yolanda Continue Run Until Aug. 1

Gus Van, Singing Star, at Coconut Grove; Cabaret Programs.

VELOZ and Yolanda, the ballroom dancers heading the floor show in the Empire room of the Palmer house, have assured the management that they will continue their engagement until Aug. 1. This couple are at that fortunate stage in their career in which they are besieged with offers. Hollywood has an option for another motion picture; they are desired by the Rainbow room in Rockefeller Center; the Savoy hotel in London has an option on their services.

Reservations are accepted by the Empire room for the period to Aug. 1. The room is over 50 per cent sold out now for the remainder of Veloz and Yolanda's contract. The Veloz and Yolanda orchestra, directed by Shep Fields; Cardini, the magician, and The Three Nonchalants make up the supporting cast.

● Gus Van, singing comedian, has brought his bag of entertainment tricks to the Coconut Grove, Dempster road café. Famous for his dialect characterizations, he gives a new répertoire of songs. For eighteen years a member of the vaudeville team of Van and Schenk, he carried on as a "single" after the death of his partner. As early as 1913 they appeared in some of the Edison experimental talkies and they were the first team to sing over the first modern broadcasting station.

● The Hotel Sherman started a series of melodrama features for its Saturday parties at the Old Town taproom last night. Each will contain one scene in which "supers" will be recruited from among members of the audience, who will be handed scripts and given the chance to act. Such old plays as "The Drunkard," "No Mother to Guide Her," "Nellie the Beautiful Cloak Model," and "Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl" will be among the offerings. A floor revue and singing and dancing acts will augment the programs.

● The Sunday night dance concert program by Horace Heidt and his Brigadiers is a popular feature at the Silver Forest room in the Drake hotel. Every performer in Heidt's organization is a specialist in his line. Each was engaged for ability to do solos when required.

Heidt's glee club sings an unusual arrangement of Ravel's "Bolero."

● Joe Sanders, current band leader at the Blackhawk restaurant, is a top notch song writer. A few years ago his "Beloved" sold over two million copies. For the last two years away from the bandstand he has concentrated on song writing.

Earl and Josephine Leach, who came here from the Coconut Grove in Los Angeles, present a series of ballroom dance numbers which are well adapted to the music of Zito, the Argentine orchestra leader. Russell Swann, magician, is master of ceremonies.

● Heading the floor show in the Casa de Alex is the Dick Ede-Jess Cowan duo piano team. Harry Maxfield, master of ceremonies, supplies the necessary comedy for the program.

● The "Carnival of Gypsies" is in the Walnut room of the Bismarck hotel. The six shows that comprise this cabaret sequence are alternated each night. George Nelidoff is entrepreneur and master of ceremonies. Four of the singers and dancers in Nelidoff's group have appeared with the Chicago Opera company. Leonard Keller's dance orchestra supplies the musical background for the gypsy revues.

● The Seneca hotel opens its open air roof tonight to the music of Eddie Smyth and his orchestra. This band, new to Chicago, has played successful engagements during the last season in Tucson, Ariz.

● The Hotel Sherry, East 53d street at the lake, has opened an outdoor dancing café called the Sherry Gardens. Hal Munro's orchestra provides the music.

Long Tour for 'The Old Maid' Next Season

REMINISCENT of the record breaking tour of "The Green Pastures" a year ago will be the 1935-'36 expedition of "The Old Maid." This play was written by Zoe Akins and is based upon the novel of the same name by Edith Wharton.

The stars, both of whom will appear on tour, are Judith Anderson and Helen Menken, and the producer is Harry Moses, whose past contributions to the stage have been such successful productions as "Grand Hotel," "Dangerous Corner," "Four Saints in Three Acts," and "The Warrior's Husband." The latter vehicle, incidentally, served as the springboard that propelled Katherine Hepburn from the legitimate stage into prominence as a screen player.

"The Old Maid" will begin its tour in Philadelphia on Sept. 30, and will play 76 cities in 33 states before terminating its travels in Richmond, Va., late in March, 1936. It will also be presented at more than 20 universities.

In "Tthe Old Maid" Miss Akins the author, tells a story of the struggle of two women for the possession of a child born out of wedlock. It will remain at the Empire theater in New York until the start of its tour.

"The Old Maid" will come to Chicago on Dec. 23 for a three weeks' engagement, probably in the Harris theater.

Cab Calloway at the Chicago; Variety Bills

THE Chicago theater offers two stage features this week. The Harlem orchestra leader, Cab Calloway, makes his annual appearance with his Cotton club orchestra, offering such auxiliary talent as Elma Turner, dancer; Alda Ward, singer; Dynamite Hooker, dancer, and the comedy team of Chuck and Chuckles.

The other section of the stage entertainment is a Balaban and Katz production entitled "Moods Elegants," featuring Ruth Pryor, Chicago opera ballerina; Bentley Stone, the Chicago theater string quartet, and the Evans ballet girls.

The Palace theater retains its "Intimate Revue," starring Bob Hope and including Dolores Reade, "Honey Child," Dorothy and Harry Dixon, Kay Mayfield, the Beau Brummels, Manya and Martin, "Dinky" Ozment, and the American Rockets. On next Thursday, July 4, the Palace will present a new stage entertainment headed by the 35 collegians of the Texas Mustangs band and revue from Southern Methodist university.

The State-Lake theater's vaudeville bill is headed by Ann Lester, new prima donna. She is scheduled for a rôle in an operetta next fall.

The supporting acts include: Hen Youngman with Kay Hoevel; the Yellow Jackets, dancers; Fortunello and Cirillino, Italian clowns; Waller and Lee, comedians; the Kam Tai trio, oriental contortionists, and Verne Buck and the State-Lake ballet.

New Lincoln Play.

Abraham Lincoln at 21 is the central figure of a new play by Ellsworth Prouty Conkle which will be presented by the University theater at the University of Iowa on July 9, 10, 11. The play is entitled "Prologue to Glory," and deals with the years which Lincoln spent in New Salem, Ill.

Leslie Howard to Have a Fling at 'Hamlet' on Broadway

In 40's and 'Made,' He Tries Classics

May Be Most Sympathetic Prince Since Forbes-Robertson, Says Critic.

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Leslie Howard, well on his way through his early forties, and having banked a sizable nest egg, is ready to have a try at Hamlet. This he announced at a cocktail party in New York the other day. A going away cocktail party, because he has decided to quit playing "The Petrified Forest" Saturday night and return to it no more.

This, I think, is a wise decision on Howard's part. Not because quite surprisingly he has reached his forties [you are always a little startled to realize that a favorite juvenile has achieved middle age], but also because he stands now at the probable peak of his popularity. Next season he still will be able to hold his audiences by merely being himself, and all that he adds to that as the melancholy prince will be so much gain.

Howard Will Add Touch of Youthful Fire.

I am prepared to predict that Howard will be, not the greatest Hamlet of our time, but the most sympathetic Hamlet since Johnstone Forbes-Robertson played the rôle. His gentleness, his soft English speech, his sensitiveness and natural feeling for sentiment will all contribute to another such Dane as Forbes-Robertson brought to life, and he will have a youth and a touch of fire that the older actor lacked, at least when last we saw his Hamlet, which was in 1913.

Sir Johnstone was 60 then. He, too, was 44 before he first played the part. Now he is 82 and comfortably rounding out a distinguished career in England by watching the progress of the daughter, Jean, born to Gertrude Elliott-Forbes Robertson in 1905. This being the Gertrude Elliott who was born a Dermot in Rockland, Me., sixty years ago, and who had a sister, Maxine, who gained wide fame as a world beauty.

Maxine's fame may have helped Gertrude to her start in the theater—she was only Maxine's little sister at first—but it was never thereafter needed as an aid, for Gertrude made her own way and, in variety and importance, the parts she played as Sir Johnstone's leading woman built for her a much more impressive repertory than Maxine's beauty ever permitted her to acquire.

Barrymore and Gielgud Will Offer Stiff Competition.

Howard, as I say, should be the gentlest and sentimentally the most appealing of the newer Hamlets, but he will have stiff competition if present plans hold and John Gielgud, England's entry, comes over to play the Dane for Guthrie McClintic, and John Barrymore carries through his somewhat vague threat to revive the the tragedy for his own return to the stage.

No one can ever tell about John Barrymore. There are present indications that he is through in Hollywood, for the time at least. His reputation stands sadly in need of such resuscitation as a successful return to the stage could give it. It is, it seems to me, about the only thing he can now do to recover the ground he has lost through following those first page adventures in which he apparently has been trying to escape from a troubled mental state.

Barrymore Might Also Revive Richard and Petruchio.

If Barrymore should fit himself for the test, there is no question of his ability to draw back a considerable portion of that public that hailed him the greatest of present day Hamlets in 1922. And the greatest of American Hamlets since Booth. Also he will have a large motion picture following, added since then, to draw from; a following that knows a lot more about handsome profiles than it does about Shakespeare, but a loyal and a loving public accustomed to the eccentricities of its accepted geniuses. John is 53 now and should be in his histrionic prime. There is no good reason why he should not revive Richard as well as Hamlet. He can add his own Petruchio if he wants to profit from Theater Guild advertising and compete with Alfred Lunt and Lynne Fontanne in "Taming of the Shrew." The three plays would give him a fine "comeback" repertory.

All that Barrymore does depends entirely upon Barrymore. He can, if he will, but will he? John, by his own confession, is naturally a lazy fellow, and he never has greatly enjoyed acting. If his money lasts he may never act again, either on the stage or before a camera. It might be to our gain as well as his if the money didn't last. . . .

As to this young John Gielgud of England of whom we hear so frequently, he is likely to upset both the Howard and the Barrymore chances for popular acclaim. He is twelve years younger than Howard and twenty-two years younger than Barrymore, having turned 31 last April. He is the son of Kate Terry, sister of Ellen, and heir to all the Terry greatness on the English stage. So far he has lived up to his obligations magnificently, training himself in every division of the modern theater, playing Ibsen and Chekov and a variety of lighter moderns, but specializing, evidently from choice, in the classics.

Gielgud has had a season or two at the Old Vic, the cradle of Shakespeare so far as the bard's present day disciples in London are concerned, where the prices are low but the enthusiasm of the audiences is high and their attitude critical. It was to the Old Vic that Charles Laughton returned a couple of years ago and voluntarily put himself through a course of Shakespearean parts the better to fit himself for the work he has since done for the screen. Gielgud became an idol at this fountain head of inspiration. Played a round of old English comedies there as well as the Shakespearean list, including Hamlet, Macbeth, Richard II., Romeo, Antony in both "Julius Caesar" and "Antony and Cleopatra," Malvolio and Lear. . . .

First American Appearance Ill Starred.

He has done a lot of the modern plays, too. Once he succeeded Noel Coward in "The Vortex," and again in "The Constant Nymph." He has played Oswald in "Ghosts" and Inigo Jollifant in "The Good Companions," both on the stage and on the screen, which would indicate a pretty pliable technique.

It is not generally known, but young Gielgud has acted once before in America. When he was 24 he came over with the company Gilbert Miller imported to play "The Patriot," with Lyn Harding, Leslie Faber, and Madge Titheradge featured members of the cast. Gielgud was the Grand Duke Alexander [the story being that of the mad Czar Paul of Russia], and apparently gave a competent performance in a small part. The play was an expensive failure, closing a few weeks after it started, despite a good deal of critical acclaim. Thus young John, arriving in January, sailed back to England in February. His next trip, I'm thinking, will be a far different experience. . . .

"Charmania" Will Invade the Classics.

So it appears we are threatened with large doses of what one playwright spoke of last season as "Charmania" with our "Hamlet" revivals next year. Three actors, each of whom has progressed on charm and on the glamor of personable attributes. I hope the plans of all three carry. Both contrasts and contest will be interesting. . . .

Meantime, to get back to the present, Leslie Howard could doubtless go on playing "The Petrified Forest" through the better part of the "Taming of the Shrew," and summer, and enjoy a highly successful tour with this same Robert Emmett play next season. But he is tired of it, and obsessed, too, with the idea that this is the time of all times for him to establish himself as an actor-manager in America. He hails from a theater in which the actor-manager is supreme, and he has been itching to be his own boss and his own backer these last several years—ever since he had a financial interest with Gilbert Miller in the importation of "Berkeley Square." He was similarly a partner in the production of "The Animal Kingdom."

Four Other Shakespeare Plays to Be Revived.

Interesting the turn we have taken toward Shakespeare. In addition to the trio of promised Hamlets we have the austere but likable Philip Merivale and the lovely Gladys Cooper combining for a tour of "Othello" and "Macbeth," Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne scheduling a romping production of Katharine Cornell announcing an early tour of "Romeo and Juliet" before she revives Bernard Shaw's "St. Joan."

All these are promising ventures, buttressed both by players equal to creating the glamor as well as the illusion of the theater. If it should happen that the return of the Shakespearean drama revives an ear for fine English, eloquently read, a definite lift will be given the standards of current dramatic production which our theater can well stand. I think you will agree with me in this.

SMILING HERE, BUT WAIT!

Valerie Hobson and Lyle Talbot are smiling here! But wait till you see 'em in "Chinatown Squad!" There's plentee in that filmee, fans-ee, to wipe the smile off anybody's face! INCLUDING mur-dah! At the State-Lake.

Summer Plays

FOUR new plays had their first acting last week in the summer theaters of the east. Here is the record:

"Mad Morning," by Gladys Hurlbut, at the Red Barn theater, Locust Valley, N. Y. Selena Royle and Burgess Meredith led the cast, which also included Eduardo Ciannelli and Kent Smith.

"Prelude," by Frederick Jackson, at the Beechwood theater, Scarborough-on-Hudson, N. Y. Gaston Valcourt, a French actor, and Jessie Royce Landis had leading rôles.

"Henrietta the Eighth," by L. du Rocher MacPherson, at the North Shore Summer theater, White Stone, N. Y.

"Nothing Up Her Sleeve," by Raymon Van Sickle, at the New Barn theater, Saugerties, N. Y. Louise Groody was the star.

Final Scene of 'Siegfried' on New Record

Florence Easton, Lauritz Melchior Are Superb in Dramatic Love Duet.

By Edward Moore.

IN the accumulation of records that have been arriving lately there is a Victor release deserving by matter and manner earlier consideration than it has been possible to give. It is the album numbered M-167, and it contains the entire final scene of Wagner's "Siegfried," plus the prelude to the third act on the final side.

Florence Easton and Lauritz Melchoir are the artists chosen to sing this spacious and dramatic love duet, and they come pretty nearly being the world's choice for the assignment. Miss Easton has apparently retired from active participation in operatic affairs, but whatever the cause for the retirement it is not a vocal one. I was one of those who heard her when she made a pronounced hit in her first appearance with the Chicago opera the first time that the organization presented this work. That was quite a few years ago, but her voice in this record is just as pure and true and thrilling as it was then. As for Mr. Melchoir, he is universally admitted to be the outstanding Wagnerian tenor of the present day.

The scene is played by the Royal Opera orchestra of Covent Garden, London, and conducted by Robert Heger. It is a companion volume to Victor's M-161 which contains excerpts from acts I. and II. of the same work, with the same orchestra, conductor, and tenor, also some other artists who do not appear in the final scene and without Miss Easton, who does not appear until the final scene. With the two books one can rejoince in the ownership of a first class recording of most of the high spots of "Siegfried."

Claudio Muzio's "L'Annuncio" Touched by Flame of Inspiration.

There is another operatic excerpt recently released for which sincere recommendations may be made. This is the Columbia 9089-M, a single record containing the aria "L'Annuncio" from the Rev. Linicio Refice's sacred opera, "Cecilia," sung by Claudia Muzio and conducted by the composer. The work is unknown in the United States, but one learns by cabled news that it and Miss Muzio made a success far beyond the ordinary in Rome and in Buenos Aires. One can begin to understand why through this record. If the rest of the score is in any way commensurate with the aria it deserves a success far beyond the ordinary. It has been touched with the flame of inspiration. Miss Muzio has emotion as well as lovely quality in her voice. Both shine through the mechanical processes of what turns out to be an excellent bit of recording.

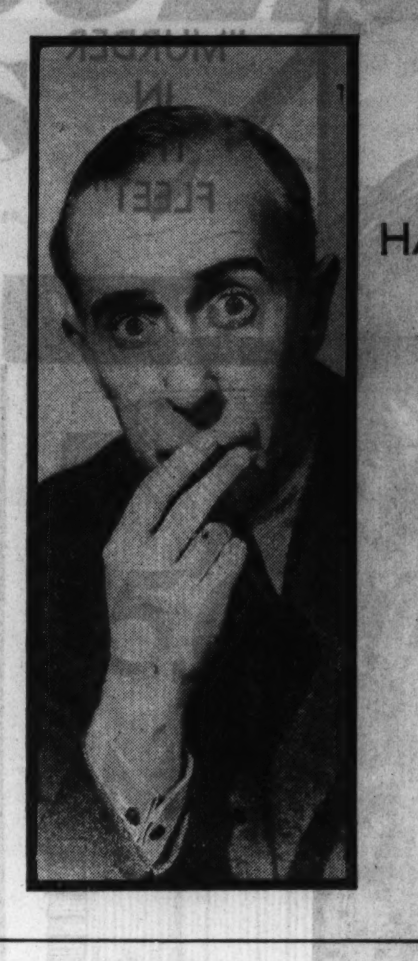
Columbia has been putting out a number of interesting things, though usually not at great length. One of the longer ones is Schubert's "Unfinished" symphony in the Masterworks volume 216, presented by Sir Henry J. Wood and the London Symphony orchestra. Immediately alongside of it is Rossini's overture to "La Gazza Ladra," the single record 68301-D, by Sir Thomas Beecham and the London Philharmonic orchestra. Of the two the Rossini number is by far the better in both performance and recording.

Stravinsky's Versions of Ragtime Highly Amusing.

There is some highly entertaining Stravinsky in 68300-D. One side has the "Piano Rag-Music" played by the composer, the other the "Rag-Time for Eleven Instruments" conducted by him. They are not the same, but they are both Stravinsky at his airiest and most imperturbably insolent, musically speaking. Neither of them is within a thousand miles of being American ragtime, because no European composer ever came any closer to understanding the popular idiom of American music than a European cartoonist came to making a picture of American life. But they are both fascinating Stravinsky.

With another out of the ordinary record this account can close. This is the ten inch 4105-M, Jessica Dragonette, she of the radio, singing two lovely 17th century melodies to two lyrics by rare Ben Jonson. One is the familiar "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," the other the less well known and lovelier "Have You Seeun But a Whyte Lillie Grow?" Her accompaniment helps to establish the 17th century atmosphere. It is by the Renaissance quintet, a group that plays those ancestors of modern instruments, the harpsichord, pardessus de viole, viole d'amour, viole de gambe, and basse de viole, according to the French listing. It is a charming combination of tone. Miss Dragonette is not overly emotional in her singing, but her voice is strictly true to the pitch and her projection of the English texts is a delight to the ear.

"BABY FACE HARRINGTON"



Here's Charlie Butterworth wearing that "gentle asinine expression" that Emerson speaks about. Mr. Butterworth has a prominent role in "Baby Face Harrington." It's the Oriental's new movie.

Music Notes

Paul Des Marais, 13 year old pianist, assisted by La Vonne Osborn, violinist, will appear in recital at 825 Fine Arts building this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

◆

G. Schirmer, Inc., music publishers, have made an interesting addition to their catalog by issuing five hitherto undiscovered songs by Brahms. They were written to be sung by Ophelia in a performance of "Hamlet." Dr. Karl Geiringer of Vienna discovered them and has written an introductory note in which he gives their history. They are simple melodies, as simple as the English airs to which Shakespeare wrote the words, in fact there is considerable resemblance in manner to the Elizabethan tunes, and as they were intended to be sung on the stage without accompaniment, their setting is likewise of the simplest character.

◆

The Society for the Publication of American Music has selected two string quartets for publication this year. One is by Frederick Jacobi, the other by Arthur Shepherd, both prominent American composers.

"MURDER IN THE FLEET"

"Murder in the Fleet" is the name of the picture Una Merkel's appearing in, but, shucks—what's a murder more or less to Una? At least, what is it, judging from the grin we see before us here. Jean Parker and Robert Taylor are starred in the film. At the Chicago theater.

Foster Finds Classic Garb Too Feminine

Uneasy in Curls and Skirts He Must Wear for 'Last Days of Pompeii.'

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—"These long skirts and a head full of curled hair give me a strange, feminine feeling," said Preston Foster deprecatingly. "I know it's authentic Pompeiian, but it still feels funny." All around him were others, likewise with curled hair and long skirts and much heavy jewelry about the neck and wrists. At that, modern men are more comfortably clothed than the ancients.

Foster is playing the leading rôle in this huge production of "The Last Days of Pompeii," a sort of character lead as they say in the business. He's a likable villain, in other words.

Foster's rise to stardom in the short space of a year in films is remarkable even for Hollywood where anything can and does happen. It isn't exactly accurate to say that it happened in a year, for he has played rôles in films for longer than that, but the upgrade began with his work with May Robson in "Strangers All." This gave him the contract with Radio which, within twelve months, has brought him to the lead rôle in the biggest production of the year at that studio.

Played Role of Cermak in "The American."

Following Foster's first rôle at Radio came "The Informer" with Victor McLaglen, and then "The Arizonian" with Richard Dix. Before his Radio work he played the rôle of Anton Cermak, assassinated mayor of Chicago, in "The American," an ill fated picture that did not meet the success expected. He was in "Hoopla" with Clara Bow, and that also was a drizzle. "The Last Mile" in its screen version brought him some picture following.

The curls dictated by the Roman fashion of the time caused considerable difficulty on the set, for young David Holt refused to have his hair "all sissied up," but when he saw Foster [who stands 6 feet 2 and weighs 200 pounds] with his curls, and Basil Rathbone and Louis Calhern as well, Davy gave in. Next, young David's voice didn't record, but the script girl discovered that he had two sticks of gum in his jaws, wadded away like a chipmunk.

Classic of Roman History Completely Revamped.

"Even the names of the characters have been changed," said Foster. "The story we are using is entirely unlike the classical 'Last Days of Pompeii' known to school children. Our story is a real blood and thunder melodrama with plenty action that seems to me sure fire. I play the rôle of a poor blacksmith who becomes a Roman gladiator to help his little family. He loses his wife and child and becomes hardened by it, turning professional gladiator to accumulate money, which becomes his god.

"I have to do some callous things in this rôle, which fan mail has taught me is not always wise, but in the end the sympathy is for me, when after a life spent in the accumulation of money I am forced by tragedy to turn to the Christ I spurned in my hardened youth. I hope the audiences like it as much as we do on the set."

Beautiful and enormous sets are used in this story woven about the destruction of Pompeii. Some of the most sensational scenes are those showing the destruction of the city. Already twenty-two destruction shots have been taken under the direction of Ernest Schoedsack and his associate of many years, Merian C. Cooper, who is supervising the story. None of it is being done in color.

Foster Thinks Color Detracts from Drama.

Foster says, "I'm glad enough not to be used in any color pictures until more have been made. I have the uncomfortable feeling that the color steals the interest from the drama of the story. Eventually, of course, I'm sure color will be universal but, as with sound in its early days, the difficulties to be overcome are likely to distract the actor from giving his best performance."

Foster quit his job as a reporter on a Philadelphia newspaper some years ago to go on the stage. He became a chorus man and later a featured baritone in grand opera. He turned to dramatic acting, appearing in his first rôle as a featured player on Broadway and remaining to star. He came to Hollywood because of his work in "Two Seconds," which was spotted by studio scouts. He says a deaf and dumb comedy rôle on Broadway was the best thing in comic rôles that he has ever done.

One interesting fact about his private life is that he bows out as a husband when he is working in a film. His wife is spending her present marital vacation in Palm Springs, the third this year. Foster says frayed nerves from working eight to eighteen hours a day in front of a camera are too tough on a wife when a man goes home. That's his recipe of how to be happy in marriage when one is a movie star.

"Three Musketeers" Being Made as Sound Film.

The unusual sight of an automobile full of the cardinal's guards and the king's musketeers, riding along in obvious amity, led us to investigate the matter further and we found ourselves on the set where "The Three Musketeers" is being filmed. And an interesting set it is, indeed. Discounting the musketeer outside that we spotted wearing a ten-gallon cowboy hat over his long curls, we soon found ourselves in the romantic atmosphere of the immortal Dumas story. The court of an inn and Athos bringing in Planchet, whom he had found spitting in the stream from a bridge and meditating, which latter impressed Athos with his desirability as lackey for d'Artagnan, was the scene being shown.

Paul Lukas, arrestingly handsome in his uniform with the swaggering shoulder cape, plumed hat, and flaring boot tops of the musketeers, plays Athos, and the rôle will bring him plenty of gasping fan letters when it hits the screen.

Walter Abel, the stage star who achieved the much envied rôle of d'Artagnan, for which a string of Hollywood's famous were named at one time or another, is handsome and romantic looking enough to please the most devoted Dumas fan. Abel, who starred in New York in "Merrily We Roll Along," and is known to Chicago theatergoers for his "Mourning Becomes Electra" and "When Ladies Meet," was brought to Hollywood a couple of months ago to play the rôle of Gen. Grant. But since that opus is being shelved until September he is at liberty to take the tests for the Gascon hero.

Sticks to Dumas' Version of the Role.

"I'm not making any attempt to portray the rôle as Douglas Fairbanks did when he made his famous and deservedly popular silent version. I'm playing it as close as possible to the character that Dumas described in his novel; the boy from the country who went to town and made good," says Abel. "Fairbanks, you see, was way up top, and it was all right for him to give his interpretation of the rôle. My position is different, and I don't think I can do better than rely on the good old Dumas description and flavor of d'Artagnan."

Abel is not new to films, for five years ago he was brought out by Fox to make "Liliom" and in New York he did many films for Famous Players and Vitagraph in silent days. Two years ago Paramount saw him in a stage hit and brought him to Hollywood but did not find a rôle for him, so after four unproductive months he returned to the stage. "The Three Musketeers" is his first talkie rôle.

GOOD Morning!

Murder!

Murder!

Two more murders in Cinema Land!

As he sits waiting for his dinner in a Chinese restaurant a white man's heart is punctured by a fork

And—

A completely stabbed yellow ancient goes over the side of a San Francisco ferry boat shortly after it has left its dock.

What's behind all this?

Bus Barker Smarter Than Police Sergeant.

Well—just plain two-timing on the part of occidental slickers. Two-timing that John Yee, oracle of Chinatown and prominent in the affairs of his own country, had not taken kindly to . . .

Ted Lacey, once of the police force, but now a bus barker who conducts tourists through Chinatown, is the boy who solves the mystery connected with the deaths—and by so doing, wins back his badge—and a promotion.

Why had he left the force? The picture doesn't make that point clear. Anyhow——

He's a right smart lad—far brainier than Sergt. McLeash, who heads the Chinatown squad and with whom Lacey is continuously, and not always good humoredly, sparring.

Jack Mulhall Deserves More Important Roles.

I wish—don't you?—that the picture folks would get over this yen for making all police officers dumb and bad tempered. And that they'd cut out at least two-thirds of the wisecracking in murder mysteries! Funny wisecracks are so rare. SO rare!

Lyle Talbot, Valerie Hobson, et al., do their best to give "Chinatown Squad" class—and Jack Mulhall in a small rôle, lends a touch of distinction.

Why on earth they don't feature this fine actor any more is beyond me! But how I DO admire him for the grace with which he accepts and plays just any old rôle they hand him. He's one of those merely present in "The Headline Woman," too.

The mystery remains mystery for a laudable time in this production. But, all in all, "Chinatown Squad" registered with what in writing is—

Just another movie.

BitsaBOUTem.

A great many of Hollywood's screen celebrities have planned nice vacations for themselves, and they will be off on them whenever production will permit. As soon as JAMES CAGNEY finishes work on "The Irish are With Us," he and Mrs. Cagney and a party of friends will take a three weeks' cruise on his boat the Martha. PAT O'BRIEN and his family will go by train to New York, where they will remain for a few days before taking a boat for Cuba. They will return to California via the Panama canal. PATRICIA ELLIS is looking forward to a visit in Detroit with her father and brothers and sister. PAUL MUNI is still planning on that long delayed trip to Spain. DOLORES DEL RIO is interested in Hawaii and will go there as soon as her next picture is finished.

FRANK [Bring 'Em Back Alive] BUCK recently cabled RKO from the jungles of Malaya that he is bringing something new in the way of thrill and excitement in his new picture, which is nearing completion . . . The latest of Erle Stanley Gardner's mystery thrillers will soon go into production with WARREN WILLIAM again playing the part of Perry Mason, the most original of sleuths . . . BARBARA STANWYCK has been signed by United Artists studio to play the leading rôle in "Red Salute." Miss Stanwyck will be supported by ROBERT YOUNG . . . GINGER ROGERS and LEW AYRES, who have made several attempts to get away on a honeymoon ever since they were married last fall and each time were called back to work, at last think they may be able to get away. They are planning a trip either to Europe or Honolulu—if they are speaking again by that time. One hears they've had a mad on.

BEBE DANIELS who recently returned to Hollywood after appearing on the legitimate stage in "Hollywood Holiday," has been signed by Fox Film to play the leading rôle in "Ball of Fire." ALICE FAYE and JACK HALEY also will be featured in this comedy. This will be Miss Daniels' first appearance on the screen in nearly two years . . . TONY MORENO, at one time one of the most popular leading men in Hollywood, will make his comeback in English talkies in "Storm Over the Andes." He has been working in Spanish pictures on the coast for several years.

See you tomorrow!

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply, please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinée: With all the agitation against soviet propaganda, and justly so, I was surprised and disappointed when at the Chicago theater last night I saw the "March of Time" featuring soviet Russia, showing it in all its glory, with its officials and presumably happy people and the good things they are doing, leading the ignorant to think it a paradise. What setting could be more perfect for such propaganda, with the theatergoing public being forced to witness it? Was wondering if it wouldn't be worth while to check the officials connected with the "March of Time" so that it will not occur again.

Let those interested in the soviet live under the soviet in Russia and not here.

M. A. GRACE.

Catch Is in the Tight Collar

Japanese fisherman and his cormorants on a Nagara river fishing boat. Note the straw skirt worn by this man who depends upon trained waterfowl to catch his fish for him.

Birds Keep On Fishing, but Masters Get Fish

By KIMPEI SHEBA

Tokio.

AT ONE time or another you have no doubt seen a cartoon or a comic strip showing a horse or donkey chasing after a bunch of carrots dangled in front of its head but out of its reach. The principle behind this fantastic idea has been put into successful practice by fishermen in the east from ancient times.

Instead of a donkey, however, the Japanese and Chinese use cormorants, a species of waterfowl. This bird is incredibly voracious, is a wonderful swimmer under water, and has a long, elastic neck and very little brains, thus making it the ideal creature for the rôle the orientals have chosen for it.

Cormorants are able to retain four or five river trout—about six inches in length—in their elastic, pouchlike necks at the same time. To keep the birds from swallowing their catch a tight-fitting collar is attached to the base of their necks. The cormorants keep on diving for food to appease their voracious hunger, and, because they are practically brainless, apparently do not mind having their catch taken away from them as soon as their throats are filled with trout. When it comes to being "played for a sucker" it is hard to beat a cormorant.

In China and Japan cormorants two or three minutes a good worker will bring up four or five fish.

Cormorant fishing is especially popular in Japan at present because of the demand for live river trout. Being great eaters of raw fish, the Japanese put a premium on live fish. A river trout is worth almost double if it is alive. Most of the fish are transported to Tokio, where a fair-sized trout costs one yen, or about 28 cents. In Japan, where things are cheap, the yen has a relative purchasing power of a dollar in the United States.

Cormorants seldom breed in captivity. Therefore the fishermen must hunt for young wild birds along the seashore. This is extremely difficult. But even after the birds are caught they must be trained, and it often takes several months to do this.

⁂

Wild cormorants are usually caught with decoys. As soon as a flock of wild birds alight near the decoys the fishermen try to ensnare them with long bamboo sticks on the end of which they place a sticky substance.

The cormorants caught in this manner are then trained. They are given swimming lessons once each day. As they are apt to bite people until they are tamed, their beaks are bound with straw string.

In time they are released in shallow waters and, with the older birds to teach them, begin their education. To prevent them from escaping they are tied with a cord attached to their necks. It is a painstaking task to get the younger birds to imitate the older ones, particularly in the matter of bringing up their catch without harming the fish.

When they get through this stage of their education they are taught to fish at night. Most cormorants are frightened by the light of torches and it often takes one or two years before the training of a bird is completed.

⁂

The cormorants have their set places on a raft or boat according to their age and ability. When the fishing is over they take their positions on the edge of the raft much in the fashion of triumphant warriors, each having his allotted place. If any member gets into another's position a fight immediately ensues and there is trouble a-plenty for the fisherman.

Cormorants frequently live as long as twenty-five years, although their average span of life is between twelve and fifteen years.

The birds invariably swallow fish head first. If a bird should catch a fish by the tail it will rise to the surface, throw the fish into the air, and catch it head first as it comes down. Sometimes a cormorant will catch an eel by mistake, and then there is the deuce to pay, that is, if it tries to swallow the eel.

A couple of cormorants sunning themselves. Beside them is a basket into which are chucked the fish that they catch by diving into the water.

have been trained to fish for their masters from time immemorial, and early in the seventeenth century this practice was introduced into Europe as a sport. In the east the cormorants are taught to fish either from the bank or from a raft or boat. Invariably they wear a tight-fitting collar, to which a cord is attached, to prevent them swallowing their prey.

As the birds come to the surface after a long dive, their throats filled with river trout, the fishermen pull them into their boats or to the shore and force them to disgorge their catch. This is very simple, for all the fisherman has to do is to grasp the base of the bird's neck and squeeze its catch out.

⁂

In Japan cormorant fishing is done usually at night. Torches are lit, and as the fish, attracted by the light, gather around the boats or rafts, the birds are let into the water. This method of fishing also saves bait, for in daylight fishing with cormorants it is necessary to attract schools of fish by pouring a large amount of bait around each boat.

Because they are not fed all day, the cormorants, which are naturally greedy, dive madly into the water and often fight for their catch. In

Airplanes and Air Transport

New S-43 an Amphibian Marvel

By WAYNE THOMIS

AIRPLANE designers are turning to the amphibian machine—capable of alighting on either land or water—as the ideal general utility type of aircraft. Because they are utilizing modern construction principles in solving the peculiar problems inherent in this type, they have been successful recently in building amphibians which make no concessions in performance or efficiency to any other transport airplane.

One of the best of the new amphibians is the Sikorsky S-43 (the Sikorsky spelling is amphibion), launched three weeks ago at Bridgeport, Conn., site of the aircraft factory which builds planes designed by the great Russian aeronautical engineer, Igor Sikorsky. The S-43 is a baby sister of the renowned S-42 types, built to Pan American Airways' specifications for trans-Pacific flying.

Its cabin holds from 16 to 25 passengers, depending upon the range demanded by the user. It cruises at 181 miles an hour at 8,000 feet with the throttle three-quarters open. Its top speed at the same altitude is 200 miles an hour. It is capable of taking off either from land or water with either one of its two Pratt & Whitney Hornet engines, each of which develops 750 horsepower, shut off.

It is apparent that such performance compares very favorably with either the Douglas DC-2 or the Boeing 247D commercial transport land planes, which are favored by most of the transcontinental operators in the United States. Both the Boeing and the Douglas ships generally are cruised at between 170 and 175 miles an hour, although both planes are capable of speeds slightly in excess of 200 miles an hour.

Actually, the S-43 is more efficient aerodynamically than either of the two land ships. Efficiency of an airplane is calculated roughly on the ratio between useful load and weight empty, which compose the gross weight. The higher percentage of useful load, the more efficient the aircraft.

In the case of the Douglas, which weighs 17,500 pounds fully loaded and has a useful load of 4,710 pounds, the ratio is, useful load, 32.6 per cent and weight empty, 67.4 per cent. The Boeing is slightly more efficient, with gross weight of 13,650 pounds, a useful load of 4,710 pounds, and a ratio of 34.6:65.4.

The S-43 has a gross weight of 19,000 pounds and useful load capacity of 7,620 pounds. Its efficiency ratio is 40:60. The useful load, of course, includes gasoline and oil, passengers, pilots, express, and mail.

On the basis of these figures and performance of the S-43, it would be profitable for some of the lines flying between Chicago and New York City, where an all-water route is available to augment the federal department of commerce land airway, to use the amphibian. Schedules could be maintained at the same speeds and the profit load of the amphibian would be larger than for either of the machines now used.

⁂

Furthermore, at the principal cities along the Chicago-New York airway the amphibians would have the tremendous advantage of being able to land passengers on water only a few minutes away from the business centers. This is equally true in Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, and New York City, where airports are from 35 minutes' to 55 minutes' drive from business districts.

The S-43 is a development of the same general design of the larger S-42. The wing curve is one of a new series of airfoils developed by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. The wing has an 86-foot span and tapers in width and thickness. In the center section are the engines. Along the trailing edge from aileron to aileron is a flap which reduces landing speed and time for takeoff.

The hull is 50 feet long, constructed of duraluminum, and treated to prevent corrosion. Four main bulkheads divide the body into five compartments, any three of which will float the airplane. The tail surfaces are attached directly to the boat body, as in the S-42.

The cabin compartments are roomy and luxuriously appointed. The minimum height of the cabin is six feet. It is seven and a half feet wide. Seats are arranged as in Pullman railway cars, and the interior of the cabin has been sealed carefully and padded to diminish sound and vibration.

The ship is fitted with landing wheels 45 inches in diameter with a tread of 11 feet 2 inches, which should prevent any tendency to ground loop. There is also a tail wheel. Both the landing wheels and the tail wheel retract completely for water alighting.

The main landing gear folds into a recess at the side of the hull, and, since the wheels are streamlined, there is virtually no drag offered. The tail wheel is pulled into a compartment at the stern of the hull.

Engines are fitted with Hamilton Standard constant speed controlable pitch propellers and automatic mixture controls.

Government engineers are much interested in the S-43 as a military and naval type. Most of the ocean-going aircraft have been seaplanes, such as the Vought Corsair, shown in the picture at the botom of this page.

The Corsair's efficiency is reduced almost 30 per cent by huge floats. As a seaplane it is pitifully inefficient. The floats enable it to take off smooth or even choppy water. If there is a pronounced swell, however, this type of seaplane is waterbound. Moreover, the pontoons will not keep it afloat in really rough weather.

This model of the Corsair is an older type, strongly stressed for violent maneuvers, for dive bombing, and for the strains of catapult launchings. It was a good airplane of its day, but now it is being superseded by ships such as the S-43, which not only are efficient in the air but in the water are virtually as seaworthy as boats of equal tonnage.

Famous Steamboat Race of 1870 Recalled

By CHARLES LEAVELLE

ON A DAY late in June, 1870, the big packet boat Natchez was steaming down the Mississippi river near Baton Rouge, La., fresh from the greatest triumph any steamboat had known since 1844, when the second J. M. White set a record of 3 days 23 hours 9 minutes from New Orleans to St. Louis. The Natchez had just bettered that record by 1 hour 12 minutes. In her main cabin hung a pair of mighty elk antlers, presented to her commander-owner, Capt. Thomas P. Leathers, by the enthusiastic St. Louis shippers.

On this day Captain Leathers was mingling with his passengers and enjoying their compliments, which grew in extravagance as the chilled liquids in their tall glasses diminished. The austere captain was smiling and his fierce eyes twinkled merrily. Tall, rugged, and from Kentucky, he had spent a lifetime on the river, and it pleased him immensely that one of the dozen steamboats he had owned had toppled the White's 26-year record.

The St. Louis scene lingered pleasantly in his memory; hundreds rushing aboard to congratulate him and the other officers; the comments of the press, one newspaper in particular:

"The beautiful steamboat Natchez is undoubtedly champion of the river. It remains now only for her commander, that sterling gentleman and steamboatman Capt. Tom Leathers, to decisively beat the Robert E. Lee, the only other boat that seems eligible to offer competition to the Natchez."

Natchez Challenges Its Rival of River

And now on the return trip the passengers were crowded on the Natchez's second deck to enjoy the moment when they should overtake and pass the Lee, which had steamed out of Natchez, Miss., in advance of them. The moment was almost at hand. The Lee's smoke hung black over the bend just ahead and her deep, musical whistle could be heard signaling departure from a way landing.

A second later the Natchez swung past the wooded point and her big rival lay in full view. The Lee was leaving a plantation, wallowing through shoal water toward the current. Leathers saw it would be simple for the Natchez, under full headway, to give the other boat a rolling flood of sternwash in the most humiliating manner.

"Gentlemen," he boomed, "we will just be able to pass her before making our customary landing at Woods' plantation."

The gentlemen cheered and ordered their glasses to be replenished. Down on the forecastle head the Natchez's army of roustabouts took up the cheer and sent it ringing derisively across the water at the crew of the rival steamer.

Up on the hurricane deck of the Robert E. Lee her captain, another big Kentuckian, was watching resentfully as the Natchez bore down. She was so close now that John W. Cannon could make out Leathers' tall figure among the passengers.

"The old scoundrel!" muttered Cannon. "Those passengers don't realize we're caught in shoal water, and he knows it!"

Lee's Captain Sees His Chance and Takes It

The saucy Natchez swept by. Cannon's bronzed face flushed as the gentlemen's cheers and the rousters' yells carried to him. He was still staring after the other boat when he saw her wheels stop. Her speed slackened and she idled toward the shore. Cannon saw his chance. He shouted orders to his pilot, then rushed below and found the mate.

"Sure, captain, the first boat to Woods' always gets the freight, but we've got a full load," said that surprised officer. "I didn't think we'd stop."

"We're stopping at Woods'," Cannon told him briefly. "We'll make room for their freight if we have to throw some of your rousters into the river."

At this instant the Lee touched the swift down current and the big sidewheels bit into the water. The Natchez was now in the dead water near shore, going ahead on a slow bell. Before her officers could anticipate what was coming the Lee had plunged between the Natchez and the bank in a reckless head-down landing and was tying up. Another minute and the Lee's roustabouts, with gleeful howls, were coonjining down the landing stage to get the freight that was to have gone on the Natchez.

Captain Leathers rushed to his own hurricane deck. His shaggy brows were drawn down over flashing eyes. He bellowed at the smiling Cannon until he was out of breath. Lady passengers on both boats stopped ears that had suddenly grown pink.

". . . Underhanded . . . lowdown . . . shyster trick. . . . Natchez can beat a boat like the Lee with one engine dead . . . !"

Cannon's smile grew broader.

"I'll give the Natchez that chance, captain, this very month," he replied. "We're both registered to leave for St. Louis on the 30th. If you try to pass the Lee on that trip you'll think she's 1,200 miles long."

And so passed the challenge that culminated in the race of a century; a race that kept America hanging on telegraph wires and camping in front of bulletin boards for nearly four days; an event that gave the nation its biggest thrill since the Civil war; a sporting proposition that saw a million dollars change hands in America and an equal amount wagered in foreign countries.

People along the river had known for months that the race was inevitable. The Natchez and the Lee were the finest boats on western waters, and rivalry—keen among all owners as the steamboat trade awakened after the war—was a personal matter with Leathers and Cannon. Leathers hated Cannon and all competitors; Cannon hated all competitors—and Leathers.

THE GREAT STEAMBOAT RACE

The Lee an Hour and Twelve Minutes Ahead at Cairo—Immense Excitement Along the Route.

Dropping on board the Lee in mid-river as

How The Chicago Tribune played up news of the race as the boats were in the final stretch, Cairo to St. Louis.

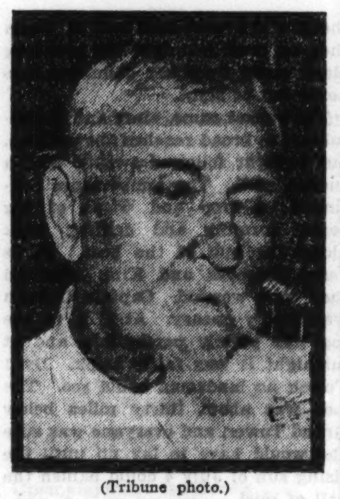
River Has Golden Era After Civil War

When the Civil war ended the railroads were not yet of much help, and there were thousands of tons of freight to be moved on the rivers. The south was planting every acre in cotton to supply a world almost without it for four years. The boats that would have carried it had either been destroyed by the northern forces or had rotted and sunk in tributaries where they had fled. As a result, anyone who could get financial backing was building a steamboat or a fleet of them.

By 1870 rivalry was at its keenest and the golden era of steamboating had begun. The boats were built finer and finer to attract the traveling public. They became "floating palaces," in fact. And they were fast. It was an age of speed, and the steamboatmen intended to be the leaders. It was in this setting that the Natchez and Lee found themselves the star performers; they were the fastest of them all.

The Lee was three years the older. She was built in 1866 at the Cincinnati Marine Ways and was launched without a name. As the work went on the builders urged Captain Cannon to christen the big steamer, but he smilingly put them off. At last the boat was finished and was towed away from the boat yard across the Ohio river to Kentucky. Painters set to work on her towering wheelboxes and outlined the letters that spelled "ROBT. E. LEE." Cincinnati was "Yankee country," and Cannon feared vandalism if the name should become known there.

The Natchez was built in 1869 to replace the General Quitman, used by Leathers following destruction of his fifth Natchez after the siege of Vicksburg. This launching also was unusual in that the Natchez plunged down the New Albany, Ind., ways with steam up. Her own wheels stopped her short when she hit the water.



(Tribune photo.)

The boats were fairly evenly matched in size and equipment, as is shown by the following measurements:

LEE—Tonnage, 1,467; length, 300 feet, beam, 44 feet; hold, 10 feet; number of boilers, 9; number of engines, 2; cylinder bore, 40 inches; engine stroke, 10 feet; wheel diameter, 38 feet.

NATCHEZ—Tonnage, 1,567; length, 307 feet; beam, 43 feet; hold, 10 feet; number of boilers, 8; number of engines, 2; cylinder bore, 34 inches; engine stroke, 10 feet; wheel diameter, 42 feet.

"Those wheels of the Natchez!" cried her followers. "Forty-two feet—as high as a three-story building!"

"Yes," replied friends of the Lee, "but where will she get steam to turn them? Only eight boilers. The Lee has nine, and larger cylinders. The Lee is faster."

So it went during the year the two packets ran in opposition in the New Orleans-Natchez trade, and it was still that way on the eve of the great race. But while the populace speculated, Captain Cannon was preparing. He was determined to win and left nothing undone that might insure victory.

His first decision was that the Lee should make a minimum of stops. He telegraphed for coal barges to be made ready at Natchez, Helena, Memphis, and Cairo. He made mysterious arrangements that concerned the fast steamer Frank Pargoud. This attended to, Cannon turned his attention to the boat. Most of the furnishings were sent ashore. Doors were removed from many of the staterooms to cut wind resistance. The boxing was ripped from around the wheels and the cattle dunnage and spars were removed. An amusing story with no factual basis was that Cannon threw his bedroom slippers off the boat and had his head shaved!

It is a matter of record that he refused all freight. The cargo space was filled with coal, pine knots, resin, and kerosene. Topping this off were several sides of fat salt meat to go into the furnaces when the hottest fire should be needed. Last of all, Cannon advertised that the Lee was bound for Louisville. This was partly for appearances' sake—steamboat racing was outlawed—and partly to keep St. Louis passengers off the Lee. Friends of the Natchez laughed heartily when a party of forty Louisville tourists bought their tickets and went aboard. Cannon had plenty of trouble landing them at Cairo.

Meanwhile Captain Leathers was doing nothing to prepare for the race. When word reached him that the Lee was being stripped he laughed contemptuously.

"The Natchez will win, and she'll do it just as she stands. I am not afraid of Cannon's trickery."

Leathers was a sound business man, and when he heard Cannon was refusing freight and trying to dodge pasenger business he sent word to those who generally shipped by the Lee that the Natchez would take their cargoes. He went so far as to insert a card in the daily papers stating that he did not intend to race and that passengers were welcome. The rush that followed brought him $4,000 in fares.

He did, however, follow Cannon's tactics in that he telegraphed for coal barges at Natchez, Helena, Memphis, and Cairo and sent the sidewheeler Thompson Dean ahead to make sure that the coal would be there. At the last minute he removed the Natchez's cattle dunnage from the main deck. Then he was ready for the race—and so was the rest of the world.

Excitement was at fever pitch along the river, and hardly less so in the inland states. Newspaper correspondents came from the eastern dailies and tried to get aboard the boats. Most of them were turned away by the Lee, Cannon ruling in favor of the newspaper men from the larger river towns, St. Louis, Memphis, and New Orleans.

Then came the day—June 30, 1870.

The vanguard of the throng that was to watch the start of the historic contest arrived on the New Orleans levee while the gas lamps were still burning. Up from the French market coffee stalls they strolled while the river took on a silvery glint. Soon the towering chimneys and masts of a hundred steamboats were silhouetted against the reddening sky.

A little upstream from Canal street in the serried line of packet boats lay the Natchez and the Lee, the one as trim and beautiful as ever, the other stripped as bare as though she had been through a hurricane. The crowd looked, and the betting, which until now had been fairly even, swung suddenly to the Lee.

By mid-morning the trek to the levee was well under way. With the lunch hour past, it seemed that the entire city was moving to the river front. At mid-afternoon every inch of space was taken and the crowd had overflowed to balconies, rooftops, and the hurricane decks of steamboats. Still they came, stretching out up the river until the levee for miles was black with people. At 4 o'clock the excitement increased. Several excursion steamers cast off and started up the river with decks crowded for a good view of "the champions under full steam."

At that moment each of the champions was a madhouse of activity. Freight and passengers were going aboard the Natchez, while Cannon kept his crew busy, making sure that the Lee was trimmed to the best possible advantage. One man alive today who was a part of that mad bustle, and who remembers it clearly despite his 91 years, is Chief Engineer Charles Smith of New Orleans. His name was famous on the river in the golden age of steamboating. On that afternoon in 1870 he was making last-minute inspections of the Lee's machinery, having been called by Captain Cannon to help Chief Engineer Perkins of the Lee prepare for the race.

Lee Gets Away First in Historic River Race

It was almost 5 o'clock when Cannon sent a messenger to the engine room to inquire if all was ready. Smith was far from satisfied with the Lee's engines, but there was little he could do in the short time that remained, so word went back that the start could be made at once. It was made so soon afterward that even the engineers were surprised. The Lee sounded her leaving bell and the landing stage was dragged in. Lines were cast off, and a pilot, who appeared at the wheel like a jack-in-the-box, backed her out into the current. It was 5 o'clock when, with smoke rolling and tumbling from her chimneys, the Robert E. Lee fired her gun and went flying up the river.

The people, taken unawares, stood quiescent until the cannon's blast broke the spell. Then they let go a thundering cheer.

Four minutes later the gay-plumed Natchez, also caught off guard, apparently, followed the Lee, firing her own gun amid another roar of applause. The cheers were answered from the boats as they stood up the river past the long line of spectators. Some of those on shore hurled their hats so high into the air that the wind whirled them into the river, and the semi-delirious passengers, thinking this was deliberate, promptly flung their own headgear into the water.

Scenes of Wildest Excitement on Decks

It was soon apparent that the distance between the two boats was increasing. Cannon, who had been watching tensely during the first few minutes, now smiled broadly. Passengers and invited guests on the hurricane roof of the Lee gave themselves up to the excitement of the moment. The St. Louis Times correspondent wrote:

"After shouting their voices into the deepest bass, stamping, running and jumping, and flinging their arms in every direction, as though all this could drive back the Natchez, men lay down on the deck panting and almost prostrate from sheer excitement. The manager of a lunatic asylum in quest of recruits could have secured his complement without investigating farther. . . .

"Others aboard, taking more practical views, fortified their confidence by descending to the boiler deck and viewing the Natchez through the base of the elegantly chased ware of Bohemia. The gentle oscillations of spoons assisted materially in these observations, and after taking them the quicksilver of confidence rose to the most giddy heights. Johnny Hawkins, the famous New Orleans provider of spiritual comforts, though a 'Natchez man,' had been carried off on the Lee, and he assisted materially in these astronomical researches. The fluids used had been supplied by his observatory, and the system worked beautifully. Johnny Hawkins' classic face beamed with gratification."

Meanwhile the Lee was flying up the river. She did the six miles to Carrollton in 27½ minutes against the current and reached Red Church (24 miles) in 1 hour 39 minutes. The Natchez dropped from four minutes behind to five.

It was just above Red Church that the Lee's "doctor pump," which supplied the boilers with water, sprung a serious leak. Chief Engineer Perkins examined it hastily and turned a chagrined face to Smith.

"We'll have to land her, Charley," he said.

"Land her?" shouted his outraged assistant. "Land her in the race? Cannon would throw both of us into

The Battle of Gettysburg - from a Distance of 72 Years

Decisive Fight of Civil War Reviewed

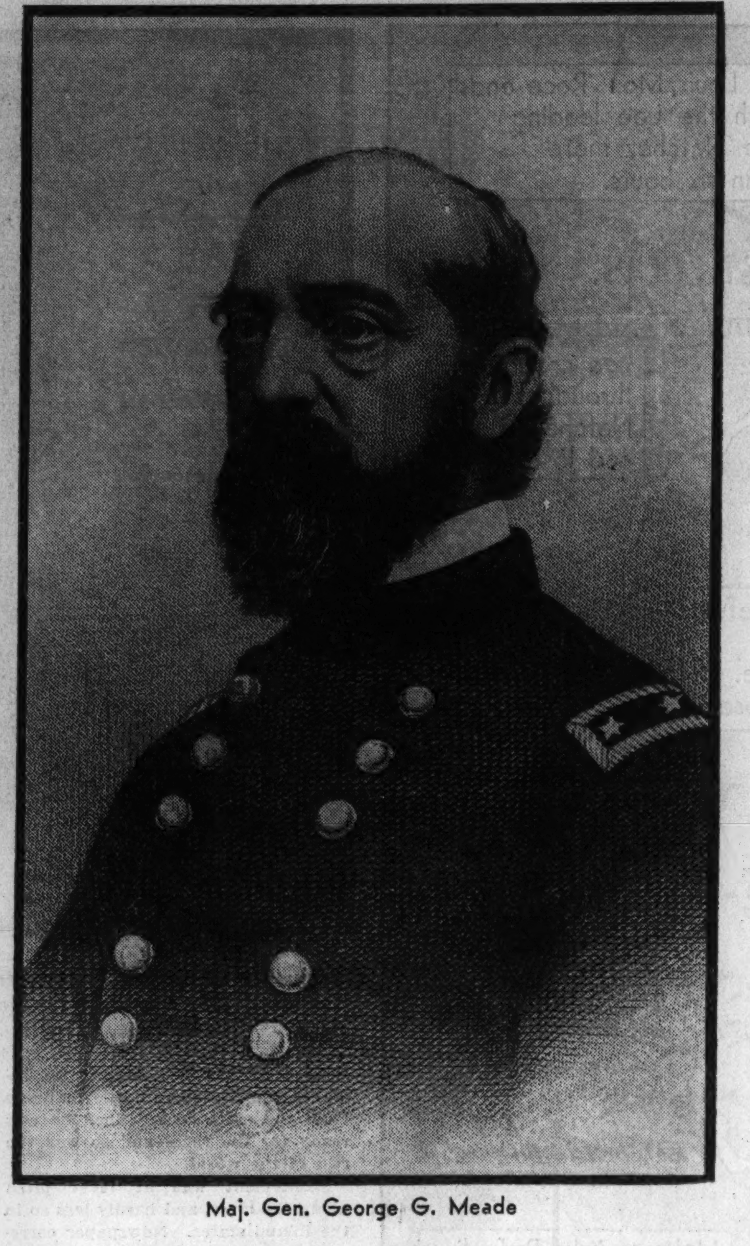
charged, a cautious leader. Gen. Robert E. Lee, chief of the southern forces, was a first-rate fighting man with an impressive list of victories to his credit, but on the eve of Gettysburg was quite in the dark as to the disposition and moves of his enemy. Neither expected to fight at Gettysburg. Neither wanted to fight there. It was opened by a chance encounter, this battle which has been described as the turning point of the war, peak of Confederate prowess.

Lee, with his reorganized Army of Northern Virginia, had crossed the Potomac, swung up through Maryland and into Pennsylvania, carrying the war deep into northern territory. His purpose was to live off enemy land, levy on cities and towns, relieve pressure on Vicksburg, far to the west on the Mississippi, by cutting off Union troop movements in that direction; and in general to put the north on the defensive. York and Harrisburg were objectives. The presence of the southern army in Pennsylvania was a threat at Philadelphia. Washington and Baltimore fell within range of a thrust by Lee. In the Army of Northern Virginia, which was strung out more or less in detached units and not advancing as a compact body, were three infantry corps — the First, under Gen. James Longstreet; the Second, under Lieut. Gen. Richard S. Ewell, and the Third, under Lieut. Gen. A. P. Hill. In addition there was a cavalry corps under command of Maj. Gen. J. E. B. Stuart. For the most part the men of these four corps at one time or another were engaged at Gettysburg. The south is said to have employed between 70 and 75 thousand men in the fighting there.

Meade, as aforementioned, was newly assigned to the command of the Army of the Potomac. On June 28, 1863, by order of Gen. H. W. Halleck, general-in-chief, he had supplanted Maj. Gen. Joseph Hooker. His order from Halleck read in part as follows:



Maj. Gen. George G. Meade

"You will not be hampered by any minute instructions from these headquarters. Your army is free to act as you may deem proper under the circumstances as they arise. You will, however, keep in view the important fact that the Army of the Potomac is the covering army of Washington, as well as the army of operation against the invading forces of the rebels. You will therefore maneuver and fight in such a manner as to cover the capital and also Baltimore, as far as circumstances will admit. Should General Lee move upon either of these places it is expected that you will either anticipate him or arrive with him, so as to give him battle."

* * *

Meade's army maneuvered to the south and the east of Lee's, strung out in about the same manner as the Army of Northern Virginia. It was between the enemy and Washington and carefully feeling its way. In the Army of the Potomac were the following corps:

The First, under Maj. Gen. John F. Reynolds (killed early in the fight at Gettysburg), 10,022 men; the Second, under Maj. Gen. Winfield S. Hancock, 12,996 men; the Third, Maj. Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, 11,924 men; the Fifth, Maj. Gen. George Sykes, 12,509 men; the Sixth, Maj. Gen. John Sedgwick, 15,679 men; the Eleventh, Maj. Gen. Oliver O. Howard, 9,893 men; the Twelfth, Maj. Gen. Henry W. Slocum, 8,589 men; the cavalry, Brig. Gen. Alfred Pleasanton, 11,501 men, and the artillery reserve, under Brig. Gen. Robert O. Tyler, 2,546 men. In all there were 95,659 fighting men in the army under Meade. In addition he was supported by the garrison at Harper's Ferry and by certain units of militia in the environs of Washington and Baltimore. Of all his troops it has been figured that about 82 thousand saw action at one time or another at Gettysburg.

Meade's plan was to give battle to the enemy along Pipe creek and from strong defensive positions. Gettysburg, lying at the crossing of the Chambersburg and Hagerstown roads in a peaceful pastoral setting, the blue line of the South mountain range at the west and lesser hills in its immediate area, had no part in the plan. Because of growing perils back in the south and pressure from Meade, Lee's plan was to collect his army and retire southward by one of two possible routes, one east of Harper's Ferry and one west. The Army of Northern Virginia was to rendezvous at Cashtown, at some distance northwest of Gettysburg. Lee, because of the absence of Stuart's cavalry, which had swung down in a general southerly direction, skirting the left flank of the Northern army, was in almost complete ignorance of the movement of his enemy. He swung his forces away from the Susquehanna river, while Meade was preparing to meet him along Pipe creek.

In the meantime Reynolds had advanced leisurely to occupy the obscure town of Gettysburg, having under him in a strung-out marching formation his own First corps, the Third, and the Eleventh, making up the left grand division of Meade's army. Brig. Gen. John Buford, commanding the First division of Pleasanton's Union cavalry, had occupied Gettysburg on June 30, the day before Reynolds advanced on the town.

Buford's troopers encountered a fragment of the enemy on the Chambersburg road, the van of Lee's army. The cavalry leader rushed word of the presence of the enemy to Reynolds, who found that the battle would have to be fought out on the field of Gettysburg. So began, on the morning of July 1, 1863, the most important engagement of the Civil war.

* * *

Details of this famous encounter between picked forces of the north and the south, a battle far more confusing to follow than the first battle of the Marne of the World war, in which many times the number of men were engaged, cannot be told in a running account in the space provided here. Four maps in colors, therefore, have been provided and apear on page one of this section. One tells more plainly than words the movements of the various units of the opposing armies in the days immediately preceding the battle. Another shows troop movements on July 1, the initial day of the engagement; another the maneuverings of July 2, the second day, and still another the movements attendant on the decisive actions of July 3, the final day of the engagement.

Longstreet, Lee's ablest adviser, urged his chief to refrain from a pitched battle at Gettysburg by marching aside by the flank to Frederick City.

"No," was Lee's reply, "the enemy is there, and there I mean to attack him."

* * *

Everyone familiar with events of the Civil war will recall the desperate hand-to-hand fighting for the possession of Little Round Top; the unsuccessful assaults on Cemetery hill; Lee's capture of the Emmitsburg road at a terrible cost of lives; the driving of the Confederates from their intrenchments near Culp's hill; the "Peach Orchard" and "Devil's Den"; and the final courageous but ill-advised onslaught of Pickett's division, assisted by men from Pettigrew's division, which crumbled before the withering fire of Union guns.

George Edward Pickett's failure at Gettysburg meant the battle was over, the Army of Northern Virginia defeated. The charge of Pickett's men is one of the most famous episodes of military history. More than three-quarters, 3,393, of his 4,500 men were left on the field, killed or wounded, when he was swept back from the "high water mark of the Confederacy."

Lee, shaken by the fearful consequences, candidly took the blame for this futile effort upon himself and with soothing words to his officers drew off to save the remnants of his army.

The morning of July 5 saw the Confederates in full retreat through the mountain passes. Meade had orders from Washington to give the foe neither rest nor respite. Lee, upon reaching the Potomac in his retreat, found the river at flood stage. He had to wait for the waters to recede. Meade's army came up and preparations were made from July 10 to 12 for attacking the intrenched southerners. The attack was called off, however, and Lee got away. Meade was severely criticized for not annihilating the forces of the enemy when he had them within his grasp. A dispatch to Lincoln which spoke of "driving the invader from our soil" brought from the President this comment:

"Will our generals never get that idea out of their heads? The whole country is our soil."

A volume of statistical records, a part of "The Army in the Civil War," by Frederick Phisterer, gives the losses in killed, wounded, and missing at Gettysburg as follows: Union, 23,186; Confederate, 31,277. Figures from other sources agree quite closely with the above for Union losses, but vary considerably for Confederate losses, some placing them at little more than 20 thousand.

Maj. William H. Medill

ON THE first page of the picture section of this issue is reproduced in full colors a portrait of Maj. William H. Medill, who played an important and heroic rôle in the battle of Gettysburg and received a fatal wound while engaged in an action resulting from that battle.

Major Medill was a younger brother of Joseph Medill, during the Civil war and for many years after the guiding genius of The Chicago Tribune. The major, too, was a Tribune man. He was born in Massillon, O., on Nov. 5, 1835. The outbreak of the Civil war found him a young man of 25 years and for several years past a resident of Chicago. On April 18, 1861, he enlisted in a military organization known as Barker's dragoons, with which he served and saw action until Aug. 20 of that year, when the dragoons were mustered out of service in Chicago. Four days later, upon receiving official permission, he set about recruiting a cavalry company known as the Fremont dragoons. He enrolled his quota of troopers in less than two weeks—a company that was mustered into the Union service as Company G of the famous Eighth Illinois cavalry.

The Eighth Illinois cavalry was not entirely a Chicago regiment, though Chicago and Evanston contributed valuable material to its formation. Company G, however, was recruited entirely within Chicago, as was also Company F. The first colonel of the Eighth was John F. Farnsworth. The regiment, which was organized at Camp Kane, St. Charles, Ill., was mustered into the service of the United States Sept. 18, 1861, and it was upon that date that Medill, who previously had been elected leader of his company, received his commission as captain.

Eleven hundred eighty-four strong, the regiment left Illinois Oct. 14 for the seat of war, arriving at Washington four days later. It paraded in Pennsylvania avenue, past the White House, and before Abraham Lincoln, the President from Illinois. Lincoln called the paraders "Farnsworth's Big Abolition regiment," a name which stuck throughout the war.

The regiment experienced some severe fighting in Virginia in the spring and summer of '62 and on Sept. 4 of that year was ordered across the Potomac into Maryland. Six days later Captain Medill was elevated to major, and when Colonel Farnsworth was made brigade commander the young major was placed in temporary command of the regiment, a responsibility which he bore with honor until Oct. 12, when Maj. John L. Beveridge took over the regimental command. At the battle of Upperville, fought near Aldie gap in the Blue Ridge mountains on June 21, 1863, Major Medill played a conspicuous part. Lieutenant Colonel Clendennin commanded the regiment in the first phase of the engagement. He retired from the field and the command fell upon Major Medill, who led three successive charges of his regiment and scattered three Confederate regiments. The losses of the Eighth in that fight were 40 killed and wounded. The losses of the enemy were 250 killed and wounded and 100 taken prisoners.

The Eighth cavalry reached Gettysburg on June 30. During at least part of the engagement there Major Medill commanded the regiment. Says the "History of Chicago," by A. T. Andreas:

"At Gettysburg he [Medill] held a whole division of the enemy in check three hours at the opening of the battle and until reinforcements came up."

The Eighth cavalry was publicly thanked by General Doubleday for its action at Gettysburg in saving his division from annihilation by the combined forces of Ewell and Hill.

After Gettysburg the Eighth, along with other troops, pursued Lee's army to the Potomac. The regiment reached Williamsport on July 6 and found the enemy busily engaged in constructing a bridge across the river to facilitate escape. Major Medill, at that time commanding the Eighth, led a part of his regiment forward in an attempt to seize the bridge. The attackers were dismounted and went forward in skirmish formation. Major Medill was struck in the breast by a Minié ball. Ten days later, July 16, he died in a hospital in Frederick City. His body was brought back to Chicago by his brother Joseph and interred with military honors in Graceland cemetery. Major Medill was still under 28 years of age when he died, a veteran of Manassas, Mechanicsville, Malvern Hill, Antietam (he commanded his regiment there), Gettysburg, and other notable engagements of the war.

Story of Famous Mississippi River Steamboat Race

the river! Keep your head and give me two men."

Smith got the men and put them to guarding the leak to keep it from growing larger. He started the bilge pumps to free the hold of water. Vibration aboard the Lee was terrific, and Smith feared the leak would enlarge and endanger the boat, so it was arranged that two men should be always on guard over the broken "doctor." Darkness had now fallen, but the Natchez was in plain view. Her furnaces glared like great globes of fire, while black smoke studded with sparks poured from her stacks, to be blown into fantastic patterns by the river wind.

The Lee was ten minutes ahead when she passed Baton Rouge (137 miles) at 1:28 a. m. of July 1. Her average speed was 16 miles an hour, but at times she had touched 20. Half the town had stayed up to see the boats pass, but the steamers chose the opposite side of the river and the people were unable to determine which was in the lead. It was a betting crowd, and new wagers were placed, to be decided later—which boat was it that passed first?

The racers disappeared around the bend "fairly flying" and vanished in the night, while Baton Rouge went to bed.

* * *

Shortly after 10 a. m. came one of the most dramatic moments of the race. The Lee rounded the big bend below Natchez, Miss., and headed straight for Leathers' wharfboat, the Natchez's home berth. Thousands were jammed about the steamboat landing in Natchez-Under-the-Hill. Most of them were Leathers fans.

On the wharfboat were nailed a pair of fine buck antlers which had been won by Leathers' old boat, the Princess, in 1856. Beneath the horns was the taunting placard: "The Princess' Time: 17 Hrs. 30 Mins. Why Don't You Take the Horns?"

The Lee slid alongside the wharfboat and paused, just 17 hours 11 minutes after leaving New Orleans. Cannon stood on the starboard side of the hurricane deck.

"Take down those horns!" he yelled.

Someone tore the trophy loose and it was carried aboard the Lee. Cannon bowed elaborately and the boat swung back into the stream. A little above she took on two coal barges, emptied them, cut them loose, and was soon out of sight. The Natchez now was only six minutes behind, although she had made several landings for fuel and to put off freight and passengers.

Above Natchez, however, the current is swifter, and the Lee's advantage of light draft and lessened wind resistance began to tell. On the run to Vicksburg she stretched her six minute lead into 18 minutes. She passed the foot of Crawford street at 5:35 p. m. and the Natchez followed at 5:53. Just above Vicksburg more of Captain Cannon's strategy stood revealed and told heavily in favor of the Lee.

Around a bend up the river lay the fast Frank Pargoud, loaded to the guards with pitch pine, resin, and kerosene. Her steam was up to a perilous pressure and her engines were hot. High in the pilot house two lookouts were keeping watch for the Lee. They could see black smoke over the trees and knew one of the racers was approaching. Just then they heard the rumble of a whistle. It was the Lee.

On the Pargoud that day was a young cub engineer, John Cyrus Gibbs of New Orleans, who is living yet. He tells it:

"She came around the bend trailing smoke and sparks. Her whistle was blowing constantly to let us know she was coming. Man! She loked like the chariot of the angel Gabriel. You never saw anything so grand. A fountain of water ten feet high spouted up from her bow as it cut through the water."

The thrill of it is still in his voice sixty-five years later.

"We swung the Pargoud out into the river and brought her alongside the Lee. We were going at top speed, but the Lee had to slow down while the darkies lashed the two boats together. The Pargoud rousters were naked to the waist, and they worked like wild men. The mates of the two steamers were big, husky white men with six-shooters strapped on them, and they swore till you could have heard them half a mile; but it wasn't necessary—those darkies were working faster than ever darkies worked before.

"When the last of the wood had been pitched over our crew started to untie the hawsers, but the Lee had men ready with fire axes. They swung those axes, and the Lee shot ahead like we were tied down."

Loaded heavier than at any time since the start of the race, the Lee flew on through the twilight. No more pauses for her until Helena, Ark., the next afternoon.

Memphis, Tenn., was in a state of wild excitement from noonday to midnight of July 2. The betting there had been heavy and reckless. Hundreds stood before newspaper bulletin boards and clogged the telegraph office. A mammoth celebration was being prepared for the leading boat.

The tension increased during the afternoon, and at 3:45 the telegraph line to the south went dead. The line to Helena was routed through Madison and thence for sixty miles through a howling wilderness. There was little hope that the break could be repaired until the following day, but in five minutes the Western Union company had trouble shooters galloping into the swamp on horses. There was an agonizing wait. No doubt the "gentle oscillation of spoons" again did its bit for the "quicksilver of confidence."

* * *

At 6:10 p. m. a telegraph operator rushed to the door of the Western Union offices, waving his arms and shouting:

"We are in touch again! News of the steamboats! News of the Lee!"

The crowds rushed back to learn that the Lee had passed Helena at 4:30 p. m. and the Natchez 54 minutes later. Friends of Cannon's boat now offered odds that she would reach Memphis an hour in advance of the Natchez, but there were few takers.

Ten p. m. found the levee a mile-long mass of humanity. At 10:45 p. m. the distant roar of a familiar whistle reached the crowd, and down the levee at half-block intervals great bonfires were lighted. The glare of the Lee's fireboxes became visible at 10:56. At 11:04 p. m., amid the bursting of bombs and the thunder of artillery, she reached the wharfboat—2 days 6 hours 9 minutes out of New Orleans. The Lee landed several passengers and took two coal flats in tow. She was on her way again at 11:15 p. m. The Natchez fired her first gun at 12:08 a. m. She, too, landed passengers, took one coal flat, and steamed out at 12:20, 1 hour 5 minutes behind the Lee. The city breathed easier, as most of its money was on the Lee to that point.

The Memphis scene was repeated at Cairo late in the afternoon of July 3. Artillery boomed from the shore, and a fleet of steamboats carrying race fans from Louisville, Paducah, Evansville, and St. Louis passed down the river to see the "champions under full headway."

The Lee was still in the lead. She passed up through a lane of deafening noise as the other boats tied their whistles down.

"Above all the commotion," one spectator said later, "I could hear the steam screaming through her safety valves from the tortured boilers. I never expected her to reach St. Louis."

The Lee signaled the fast steamer Idlewild to come alongside for the unwelcome Louisville passengers, who were to continue homeward up the Ohio river. The Idlewild tried to do so, but was left behind until the big boat's engines were stopped. At the last minute half the forty passengers, including five young women, decided to stay aboard.

On the Missouri side of the river were four coal barges, moored two abreast, for the two racing steamers. As the Lee approached, the tug Montauk grappled one of the outside flats and stood into the stream with it. Cannon ran his boat full speed between the tug's barge and the other outside barge, then reversed his wheels. As the barges were being made fast, Enoch King, a "lightnin' pilot," freshly posted on the Cairo-St. Louis run, hopped aboard, and the Lee was off again. The tug shrieked a fierce adieu and the big boat responded with the gruff voice of her own whistle.

The Natchez, coming along later, was forced to creep into shoal water after the remaining barges, moored directly to the bank, and it kept her twice as long.

Aboard the Lee, after shaking hands with Captain Cannon, Enoch King climbed to the pilot house, took the wheel, and ran the boat aground. The current swung her broadside across the channel. For five minutes she backed her wheels, swinging her stern from side to side, until she had pulled clear.

It was while the Lee was trying to extricate herself that the smoke of the Natchez appeared above the woods. It was the first time she had been so close since Vicksburg. Cannon was startled. It was small consolation that the Natchez, following the same course, a little later went aground at the same spot. Cannon thought she was hours behind. From then on until midnight the pursuing black cloud from her chimneys was never out of sight.

The sunset came, clear and beautiful on the broad reaches above Cairo, but twilight followed swiftly with a sudden chill. The temperature continued to drop and wisps of fog began forming and drifting back along the hull of the boat. Pilots Jesse Jameson and King admitted they were worried. Captain Cannon was openly uneasy. At 11 p. m. the fog was plainly perceptible, and at midnight it was fairly thick. By 1 o'clock no landsman could see. The Lee was about thirty miles below Grand Tower, and everyone was sure she would have to lay up until the rising sun of July 4 could banish the pall of mist.

Cannon and his pilots conferred. What would the Natchez do—lay up, or creep past in the fog? She was perilously near, and coming fast. Finally Cannon decided. He kept two pilots on duty and ordered out both the starboard and larboard leadsmen. The engines were throttled down and the Lee crept slowly through the pall with the voices of the invisible lead heavers floating dismally back. Once, as the boat appeared to stand motionless in the moist folds of the mist, the water dwindled suddenly from "no bottom" to "mark twain," to seven feet—and the Lee hit the shore. The pilots swung her out into the river. It was nerve-wracking, but Cannon knew he must not only beat the Natchez to St. Louis; he must beat her record of June 22, else this contest would be indecisive.

* * *

Then at 1:30 a. m. the fog thinned perceptibly. At 2:15 a. m. the Lee ran out of the mist into the clear night and resumed her speed. The fog area was only a few miles long; Cannon's daring had saved him a six-hour lay-up.

At Sulphur Springs, Mo., in the early morning, the Lee came upon the advance of the welcome prepared in St. Louis. The down train of the Iron Mountain railroad was stopped on the bank and the passengers stood along the right of way, waving hats and handkerchiefs. The locomotive screeched a welcome and the Lee boomed an acknowledgment.

A little farther on an excursion train waited. More cheers and whistling. Some of the passengers fired revolvers into the air. As the Lee came up the train got under way and ran alongside on the bank. Just below Jefferson barracks the ferry East St. Louis, packed to the guards with sightseers, was left behind. Other excursion boats, black with people, were in sight up the river. The Lee was steaming up the Missouri side, four-foot swells rolling from her bow. The barracks gave her a gun and she responded with her own. Thousands lined the bluffs.

* * *

At Carondelet the iron foundry whistles saluted. It was the signal for bedlam. The excursion steamers tied their sirens down and clanged their bells. Railroad engines cut loose in shrill greeting. Gunshots and cheers crashed from the shore. And above it all was the hoarse thunder of the Lee's big whistle as she answered every salute.

The greeting at the workhouse quarries was a bit too enthusiastic, and the steamer veered sharply toward the middle of the river. Three blasts, set off in honor of the Fourth of July and the race, showered fragments of rock upon her decks and pilot house.

It was just after 11 a. m. when the Lee rounded Market street and came into full view of the "greatest crowd ever gathered on the St. Louis water front." Scattered cheers greeted her and there was comparative calm until, passing her wharfboat at Walnut street at 11:14, the Lee fired her cannon, signaling the end of the race of a century. Then came a prolonged roar from the spectators. Artillery boomed. Church bells rang and factory whistles turned loose in a deafening chorus.

On the forecastle head the Lee's roustabouts were gathered, chanting a barbaric song of victory. She continued up the river as far as there were crowds to cheer her, then she turned gracefully about where the piers of the unfinished Eads bridge stood high out of the water and glided back to tie up at 11:25 a. m. Her time was 3 days 18 hours 14 minutes from New Orleans.

The crowd had followed her up the levee and back again, and now it poured aboard, sweeping twenty policemen ahead of it. These fans wanted first of all to see the boilers and engines that had made possible the fastest time on western waters. Then up into the main cabin they poured. They found it stripped as bare as the boat's exterior. All decorations were gone save an oil portrait of Gen. Robert E. Lee and the Princess' horns, taken from Leathers' wharfboat at Natchez.

It was almost 6 p. m. when the Natchez steamed in and tied up at her wharfboat amid the cheers of a crowd of surprising size, considering her lateness. Tom Leathers was a popular man.

The city learned next day with amazement that he did not consider the Natchez beaten. During an interview a tactless reporter asked:

"Captain, are you prepared to admit that the Lee is faster than the Natchez?"

"No!" Leathers thundered. "The Lee is not faster by a long sight. No, sir! I was not prepared to tear up my boat. I did not strip her. I had no help from anybody. I used nothing but Pittsburgh coal. I laid up for six hours in the fog, as any sane man would do. My running time was as good as the Lee's."

The Daily Democrat published a consensus of steamboat men. In effect it was that the Lee and the Natchez were about even as to speed, with slight odds favoring the Natchez; that Cannon was the better strategist; that Cannon could take the Natchez and duplicate the Lee's run; that Leathers could take the Lee and do no better than he had with the Natchez.

In America most bets were being paid. In Europe, however, most wagers were being called off, first, because the Lee had been stripped, and second, because the Lee "was assisted up the river by the power of the steamer Frank Pargoud." The second reason was, of course, ridiculous. Despite the welshing abroad, nearly a million and a half dollars changed hands, it was estimated.

St. Louis lionized both captains. Even the losers still sang praises of the Natchez and cheered her captain when he appeared in public. And the story was not ended—not quite.

* * *

In October, 1870, Leathers announced he was ready to beat the Lee's time to Natchez. The Lee was leaving the same day. Both boats made better time than they had in the big contest — and the Natchez won. Her time was 16 hours 51 minutes 30 seconds. The Lee came in more than eight minutes behind her. As the Lee was tying up, Leathers bellowed from his hurricane deck:

"Send me those horns!"

And Cannon sent over the Princess' horns by his chief clerk.

A week or two later, racing against time, the Lee steamed into Natchez 16 hours 36 minutes 47 seconds out of New Orleans. Cannon sent a note to Leathers:

"I'll thank you for those horns."

And Leathers sent them — by a Negro roustabout!

Flush Kidneys of Acid and Poisons

Stop Getting Up Nights

When kidneys are clogged they become weak—the bladder is irritated—often passage is scanty and smarts and burns—sleep is restless and nightly visits to the bathroom are frequent. The right, harmless and inexpensive way to stop this trouble and restore healthy action to kidneys and bladder is to get from any druggist a 35-cent box of Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules and take as directed—you won't be disappointed—but be sure you get GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules —the original and genuine—right from Haarlem in Holland — a grand kidney stimulant and diuretic. Remember also that other symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble are backache, leg cramps, puffy eyes, moist palms and nervousness.

NEVER GOT HUNGRY SAYS STOMACH SUFFERER

Fred Hyer, Tuscorora, Nev., suffered so badly with stomach trouble that he didn't feel like eating and says he went on for months without getting hungry. But after using one box of Udga Tablets he says he noticed a distinct improvement. If every stomach sufferer could read the 54,169 similar letters of praise received about Udga how much misery and expense they would save! A noted stomach specialist originated the Udga formula with more thorough medication than is found in common tablets, powders or soda. That's why hundreds of thousands have found quicker, more lasting relief. If you are troubled with chronic indigestion, gas, heartburn, sour stomach and other disorders caused by excess acidity, beware! These conditions frequently lead to serious complications. Get Udga from your druggist today. One trial must convince you or your money refunded.

Congress Waits With Glee Open Season for Inquiries

Just Vacation with Pay and Publicity

By WILLARD EDWARDS

Washington, D. C.

AS CONGRESS begins slowly to accept the unpleasant realization that it must adjourn some time, certain thoughtful senators and representatives are quietly preparing to enliven the dreary period ensuing before the next session with a series of those sprightly dramas known as congressional committee investigations."

If someone were to poll congressmen regarding their favorite amusement the vote unquestionably would show a ratio of about 100 to 1 in favor of committee investigations. The hearings entail no mental effort, because private investigators, paid out of a special federal appropriation, supply the information upon which the inquisitor frames his embarrassing questions. But most of all, the investigation provides publicity of the most refreshing type for the congressmen on the committee.

These inquiries have grown in number and size in the last decade. A Broadway showman might well regard some of the productions with envy. A good, above-average investigation, holding the stage for about a month, costs the taxpayer around $25,000. The all-star, super-special stock exchange inquiry, playing to packed houses, cost $260,000. The Nye committee, investigating the munitions industry, has spent $95,000 thus far and expects to play a return engagement soon, with more money at hand.

But the bulk of the committee investigations are modest, homely little shows, good for a half column daily in the news association reports whenever the committee meets. Production costs vary from $2,500 up, depending upon the amount of the appropriation the sponsor of the quiz was able to get approved by senate or house.

First Investigation Was Held in 1792

The first congressional investigation was held in 1792. It inquired into the disastrous defeat of Gen. St. Clair by the Indians of the northwest. There were many subsequent inquiries, but not for more than 130 years did either senate or house conceive of the modern version, which partakes of features of the Spanish inquisition, the English Star chamber, a grand jury, and a military court.

The Teapot Dome case was the parent of all modern congressional investigations. Conducted by that superb lawyer, the late Thomas J. Walsh, senator from Montana, its revelations regarding naval oil leases stunned the country. But the scrupulously legal Mr. Walsh, if alive, would be astounded at the lengths to which the congressional inquisitors of today go.

The ostensible purpose of the hearings is to obtain evidence upon which to base legislation of a remedial character. But such gathering of facts was dull business. When the depression made bankers and business men popular culprits, congressmen began to realize the political benefits as well as the wholesome fun to be derived from the browbeating of the high and mighty.

Whereas Senator Walsh did all of his own investigating, the present-day committee puts a hundred or more investigators on its pay rolls, sends them out to examine the files of any business or any institution about which it may be curious, and subpenas before it any person in whom it may be interested. The only qualification which must be possessed by a subpenaed witness is that he be prominent enough in the public eye so that the press will attend his examination. He must be a Lindbergh or a Morgan or a du Pont.

Real Information Senator Walsh's Aim

When Senator Walsh asked a question in the Teapot Dome inquiry he was really seeking information. When a senator at a present committee hearing asks a question he knows the answer. The witness knows that the senator knows the answer. The newspaper men present all know it, too.

But the situation has more dramatic flavor when the testimony is wrung from the lips of the nationally known witness. And the public next morning goggles at headlines about unexpected disclosures at the great Who-Done-It quiz.

The hearings are purely ex-parte. The committee members seek to bring out only that evidence which bolsters their own views. The witness is cross-examined, scarcely ever permitted to give direct testimony.

The recent munitions inquiry resulted in daily revelations about the explosives and chemical factories of the world. All this information had been gathered by a great force of investigators from the files of various concerns before the hearings started. If legislation alone had been the purpose of the committee investigation, all the evidence could have been reported on the floor of the senate.

The hearings, of course, were considered necessary not only to inform the public of the sterling work being done by the senators composing the committee but to stir up public sentiment in behalf of legislation later to be proposed.

Ferdinand Pecora, a New York assistant district attorney at the time of the stock market investigation, introduced the grand jury system into the congressional investigation. Hired as special counsel for the senatorial committee, he employed a staf of accountants, lawyers, and detectives.

(Acme photo.)

Representative Wright Patman, Texas Democrat, who is beating the drums for an inquiry into the "super-lobby" of chain stores.

When the investigators went to the banking houses of J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Dillon, Read & Co. they were permitted to examine all the business files. Not a witness was called from these three firms until Pecora had thoroughly digested all the information he thus received. He had photostatic copies of records to jog the memory of any vague witness. He had fifty-four file cases of evidence. The committee could have written a law regulating financial markets without hearing a single witness. But the country would not then have been treated to photographs of a circus midget seated on J. P. Morgan's knee.

The sensational publicity resulting from that inquiry taught other congressmen just how much fun there was in a committee investigation. Now, when a senator or representative wants to put on a really rousing performance, he consults a publicity adviser. So expert at presenting these shows have the committee members become that they tactfully provide fresh news leads for both morning and evening papers. Incidentally, newspaper reporters frequently send up questions to the committee chairman, which are invariably put to the witnesses.

There is another politically valuable feature of an investigation. The sponsor of the inquiry is usually named chairman of the committee. The chairman has full power over the expenditure of the appropriation allotted to him. He appoints the investigators, the clerks, the stenographers, and fixes their salaries: Some years ago, when economy was not in such disfavor at Washington, congress passed a law limiting the salaries of committee employés to $3,600 a year. But that is the only restriction placed upon the spending of the money.

The roving committee is especially favored in the house of representatives. This permits a sociable group of statesmen to travel throughout the nation at government expense, stopping here and there to hold a hearing or to investigate. Almost yearly a proposal is made in the house to look into the condition of the national parks or to survey matters in Alaska. Senator Borah once remarked, apropos of such committees, that he had noticed that such "investigations incline to inquiries in the south during the winter and in the north in the summer."

For many years Representative Lindsay C. Warren, chairman of the house committee on accounts, to which falls the duty of approving appropriations for such investigations, has fought against them on the floor of the house. But once the house has approved an appropriation, he said, he feels that it is the duty of his committee not to go against the expressed desire of the main body.

"It is rare indeed," he said, "that legislation comes out of these special investigating committees. Usually government bodies could do the same work better and much more cheaply. The recent inquiry into Nazi activities, for example, could have been carried on by the department of justice."

Many proposed investigations, he asserted, are obviously so absurd that determined opposition on the floor of the house can defeat them.

"I helped to defeat a proposed quiz of the motion picture industry three years ago," he recalled. "It was typical of these special inquiries. It was nothing but a joy ride to Hollywood and would have cost half a million dollars."

A popular and perennial investigation is the inquiry into the conservation of wild animal life which takes the committee members into pleasant vacation spots. It has cost congress $75,000 in the last five years. Hints that some of the wild animal investigating has been done in big-city cabarets have been met with indignant denials.

Big Game Hunted by Senator Wheeler

Pending are two proposals for investigations by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, the Montana radical, into railroad financing and the American Telephone and Telegraph company. Certain senators are envious because Senator Wheeler thought of these first. They carry luscious appropriations and have fine publicity possibilities.

Representative Wright Patman, Texas Democrat, is beating the drums for the investigation into the "super-lobby" of the chain stores and has expressed hopes of getting some big names before his committee. Other pending investigations are into the Morro Castle and Mohawk steamship disasters; farm board, cotton prices; "kick-back" racket in public works; 1934 senatorial campaign expenditures; District of Columbia crime; utility holding companies ($90,000 of $100,000 appropriation spent thus far); tin resources of the world, and national defense expenditures, which has a $20,906 balance of a $30,000 appropriation and which has by no means given up the good fight.

It is in the waning days of a congressional session, however, that the congressmen come leaping forward with their proposals for special quizzes. A round score were approved in the last ten days of the 1934 session, and the dog days were thus made more interesting for many a senator and representative.

The "rackets" investigation by Senator Copeland was one of those which helped to make news last summer. The appearance of Edward ("Spike") O'Donnell at the Chicago hearings is pleasantly recalled by Senator Copeland and other members. Remaining—$7,000 balance of a $35,000 appropriation.

Some of the more important investigations of last year were those into California bankruptcies and receiverships, cost, $20,000; public works financing, $15,000; internal revenue laws, $10,000; Nazi and un-American activities, appropriation $30,000, spent $29,820, and profiteering in military aircraft. The last-named committee spent $30,000, charged Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the air corps, with misconduct, and recommended his removal, a recommendation thus far not acted upon.

The famous investigation of statements by Dr. William A. Wirt was another committee inquiry which achieved much publicity in 1934. The committee reported that "no one in government service is planning to overthrow the existing social order."

Started last year and still going strong, with an unexpended balance of $31,000 from a $65,000 appropriation, is the investigation into real estate bondholders, championed by Representative A. J. Sabath of Chicago.

An inquiry into the petroleum industry cost $25,000. The Akron airship disaster, CCC camp purchases, race discrimination in the house restaurant, financing of the Mayflower (D. C.) hotel, and old age pensions also occupied the attention of busy investigating committees in 1934.

A survey of such committee investigations over the period from 1921 to 1934 showed that approximately 215 such inquiries had been held at an approximate cost of $4,000,000. Of the 215 quizzes, fewer than a score resulted in legislation. Reports were made by the committees in about 100 instances. Nearly 100 more made no reports at all.

The growth of these special committees is shown in condensed tables of investigations carried on by committees beginning with the Sixty-seventh congress in 1921 and including the Seventy-second congress, ending in 1933. The investigations conducted in the Seventy-third and Seventy-fourth congresses have already been sketched in some detail. In many of the early investigations the costs were not shown, the committees drafting sums as needed from the contingent funds of house and senate.

It is possible that some day some congressman will suddenly realize the dazzling possibilities inherent in a stupendous committee investigation (with a million-dollar appropriation) into all congressional committee investigations.

Summary of Investigations Made by Six Congresses

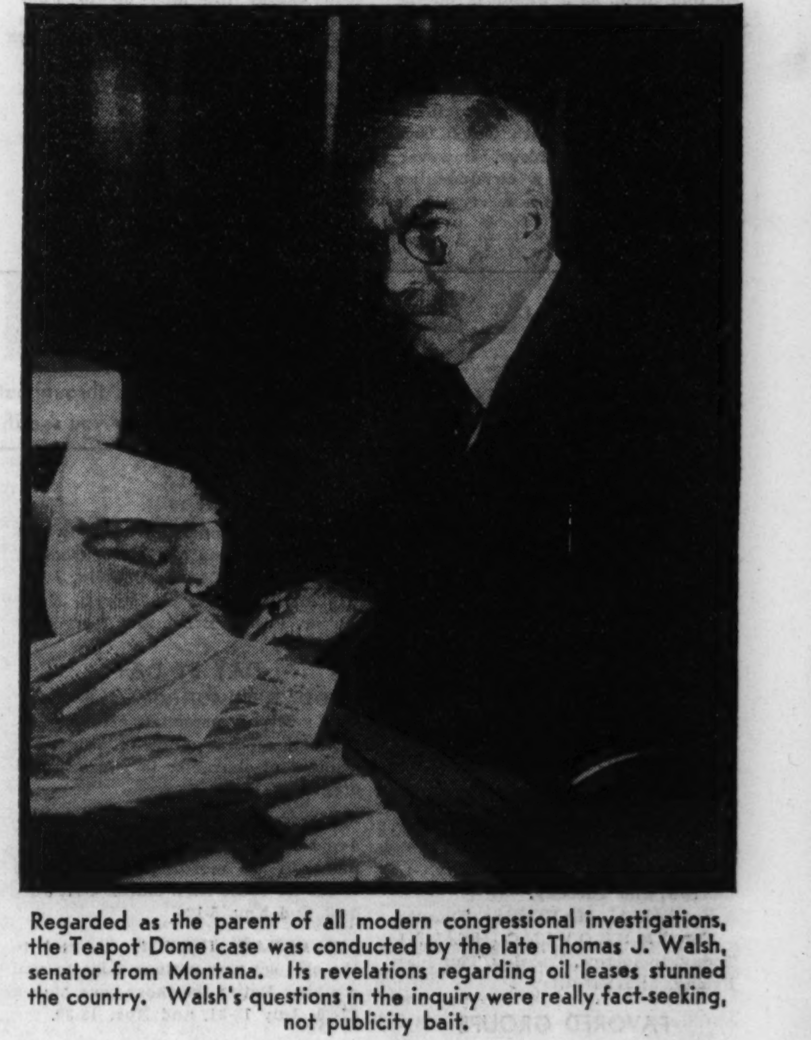
Use of the grand jury system in congressional investigations was the idea of Ferdinand Pecora. He was an assistant district attorney in New York and cross-questioner in the senate stock market inquiry.



Regarded as the parent of all modern congressional investigations, the Teapot Dome case was conducted by the late Thomas J. Walsh, senator from Montana. Its revelations regarding oil leases stunned the country. Walsh's questions in the inquiry were really fact-seeking, not publicity bait.

FOUR WINDS

By Roland Pertwee

Rawdon Investigates "Edward Vellandy's" Automobile and Learns Some Interesting Things—Edward and Johnny Fight

THE STORY TO DATE

Beth Vellandy has lived her whole life in Four Winds, gaunt old English manor. Her father is killed by a stag while hunting. He leaves his fortune to his crippled son, Philip. Enraged, Beth loosens the brake of Philip's invalid chair and he hurtles to his death. Philip leaves the fortune to Beth, with the stipulation that if another brother, Weldon, who ran away to America, is found to have married and has children, the fortune is to go to his eldest, providing this child comes to live with Beth at Four Winds. Joan Vellandy, eldest daughter of Weldon, who is dead, learns of her inheritance through a newspaper ad. She comes to England and receives a threatening reception from Beth. Joan is befriended by a neighbor, Capt. Rawdon Purbright. They fall in love and become engaged. Chick Miller, jail breaker and murderer, leaves America for England after altering birth records to establish his claim to being Edward Vellandy, son of Joan's father by an earlier marriage. From Cander castle, owned by a distant relative of the Vellandys, Miller steals a family portrait of three brothers, one Joan's grandfather. In an automobile caravan near Four Winds, Miller forces an old artist to change the features of one of the faces in the stolen portrait to resemble his own. Next day the charred remains of a caravan are found by the local police. Rawdon takes Joan salmon fishing. They discover the body of a man in the river. Beth moves a boarder into Four Winds. He is a man with a purple scar on his face. He is her son. The stolen portrait is returned to Cander castle. Beth steals germs from Rawdon's laboratory and puts them in Joan's drinking water. Her son drinks it. Beth confesses to Rawdon. Miller, in the role of Edward Vellandy, appears at Four Winds.

INSTALMENT XIII.

THEY heard the gate clang and then the front door open.

"He's coming."

Edward Vellandy walked into the room. He looked at Miss Beth, but his words were for Johnny.

"You can blow."

Johnny edged toward him.

"Who says so?"

"I say so. And when I say something, once is enough."

Miss Beth said:

"Tell Violet there will be one extra for supper, dear."

Johnny went out, muttering. Edward and Miss Beth faced one another. Neither was afraid, and each was aware that the other was dangerous.

Edward was first to speak. He said:

"I want a room and a bath."

He had been quick to realize that the faux bonhomme attitude adopted on his arrival was wasted on Miss Beth. In their future dealings he would say what he meant.

She replied:

"There is only one room with a bath. Mr. Taylor has that."

"Has?" he echoed. "Had is the word. Listen, lady, making difficulties will get you no place. I'm master here, and what I say goes. Treat me right and I'll treat you right. Come on."

A very different Edward presented himself at Kindar-Omary at nine o'clock that night. His social graces were well to the fore.

Chaucer met him on the driveway and offered to put the car under cover, as it looked like rain. Edward reflected that English servants were very civil and efficient and was rather more profuse in thanks than so small a service merited.

Chaucer drove the car to the garage, shut and bolted the doors, turned on the lights and an inspection lamp, and went to work. The instructions he had received from Rawdon were to examine the dates on which the car had been licensed and insured, but professional zeal determined him to carry his investigation beyond these very simple details. It made a nice change to be doing a bit of Sherlock stuff after all these years. With a pad to jot down his notes upon, he set about the job methodically.

Meanwhile, Edward Vellandy was drinking coffee and old brandy with Rawdon, Joan, and Mrs. Purbright. He told them, as a wanderer on the face of the globe, that nothing could exceed his joy in coming at last to such a peaceful haven.

Claiming to have been a bit of a traveler himself, Rawdon sought to find foreign places with which both were acquainted. None, however, were to be found; a circumstance which went to prove how very large was the world.

On the subject of his father, Edward had very little to say.

"When my mother perished in that terrible fire it almost turned his brain. He just walked out; the home was gone, and it seemed he could scarcely bear to look at me because of the likeness I bore her."

Joan asked:

"Were you so like her, then?"

"The living image, I've been told. Resemblances are very strange. It's hard to believe one set of features could reproduce not only that poor woman but a grandfather who expired before I came into the world."

Rawdon saw Joan squirm. He thought:

"Much more of this and I'll be sick."

He was saved by the arrival of the parlor maid.

"If you please, sir, you are wanted on the telephone."

"Right."

* * *

HE WENT out. Chaucer was waiting for him in the gun room.

"Following your instructions," he began.

"Come to the point, man."

"Car was purchased from the West Road Mart, Brentford, last Tuesday week. I found receipt for same in off-side door pocket. Alpha Car and Life Assurance cover note, also dated Tuesday of last week, in same location."

Rawdon nodded.

"What name was on the receipt?"

"Edward Vellandy Hesquire."

"Thanks, Chaucer. I'll be getting back."

"Begging your pardon, sir, I 'ave got a few more notes."

"Important?"

"I wouldn't say so."

"Well! But be quick about it."

Chaucer read:

"A number of minute scratches on wings and bonnet. A few thorns and bits of dried vegetation in the runway of sunshine roof and roof gutterin'. Similar dried vegetation between junction of wings with runnin' boards." He added: "Should never have noticed that if I hadn't run one of them thorns into the ball of my thumb. He must have been running the car up some of these narrer lanes."

"Yes. Must have." Rawdon walked to the door and turned. "I don't know, though. There are no lanes between here and the main London road except the lane up to Four Winds—and those hedges had been trimmed. Come to think of it, don't all road hedges have to be trimmed by the fourteenth in this country? Isn't there some law about that?"

"It's more what you might call a borough bylaw, sir."

"Just so. Hm! Interesting!"

A look of tremendous excitement came into his eyes.

"What's in your mind, sir?"

"Nothing that makes any sense." He stopped and rubbed his nose. "Chaucer, did you notice anything about the back axle?"

"No, sir."

"Have another look. See if, by any chance, there are marks on it that might have been made by a rope or a coupling of some kind. On the axle's casing."

Chaucer whistled.

"Captain! You don't think——"

"Never mind what I think. Do what I say at the double." A fresh idea flashed into his brain. "Wait! One thing more. Have a look at the back tires. Compare the treads on them. Let me know if there is more wear on the off side than on the near."

Chaucer looked dazed.

"I 'aven't picked up that one."

"Wheel spin," said Rawdon laconically. "Come and let me know. Don't mind him being there. You'll be talking about the electric light plant. Get it?"

"I get it," said Chaucer.

When Rawdon returned to the drawing room Mrs. Purbright was at the piano. She was singing an old Hebridean folk song to her own accompaniment.

Edward had had about as much of it as he could stand. A dust-up with Miss Beth would be preferable to the appalling atmosphere of peace and good will which here enveloped him. He looked at his watch.

"I've had a long day, folks!"

He rose.

Rawdon said:

"Don't hurry away. I'll get you a drink."

He caught a reproachful glance from Joan and ignored it.

"We don't often have a chance to entertain somebody new in this backwater."

The lights faded and came up.

"That's Chaucer messing about with the engine again. How do you take it?" He started to pour whisky into a glass slowly. He thought, "Why doesn't that fool hurry up?" Then he heard feet on the gravel. "Soda?"

"Half way, please."

He gave Chaucer another quarter minute before holding the glass to the siphon.

"I should like to see that portrait of your grandfather," he said. "We three might run over to Cander tomorrow, perhaps."

"Let's make it a date," said Edward.

"Right. We'll call for you."

He was squirting the soda when Chaucer entered.

"What is it?"

"The light plant 'as been givin' a bit of trouble, sir."

"I'll look over it in the morning."

"One of the couplings has scored the shaft very bad, sir."

"There are no couplings on a dynamo."

"I 'ardly know what else to call it, sir."

* * *

RAWDON picked up the glass and nodded a dismissal.

"All right, all right."

But Chaucer lingered.

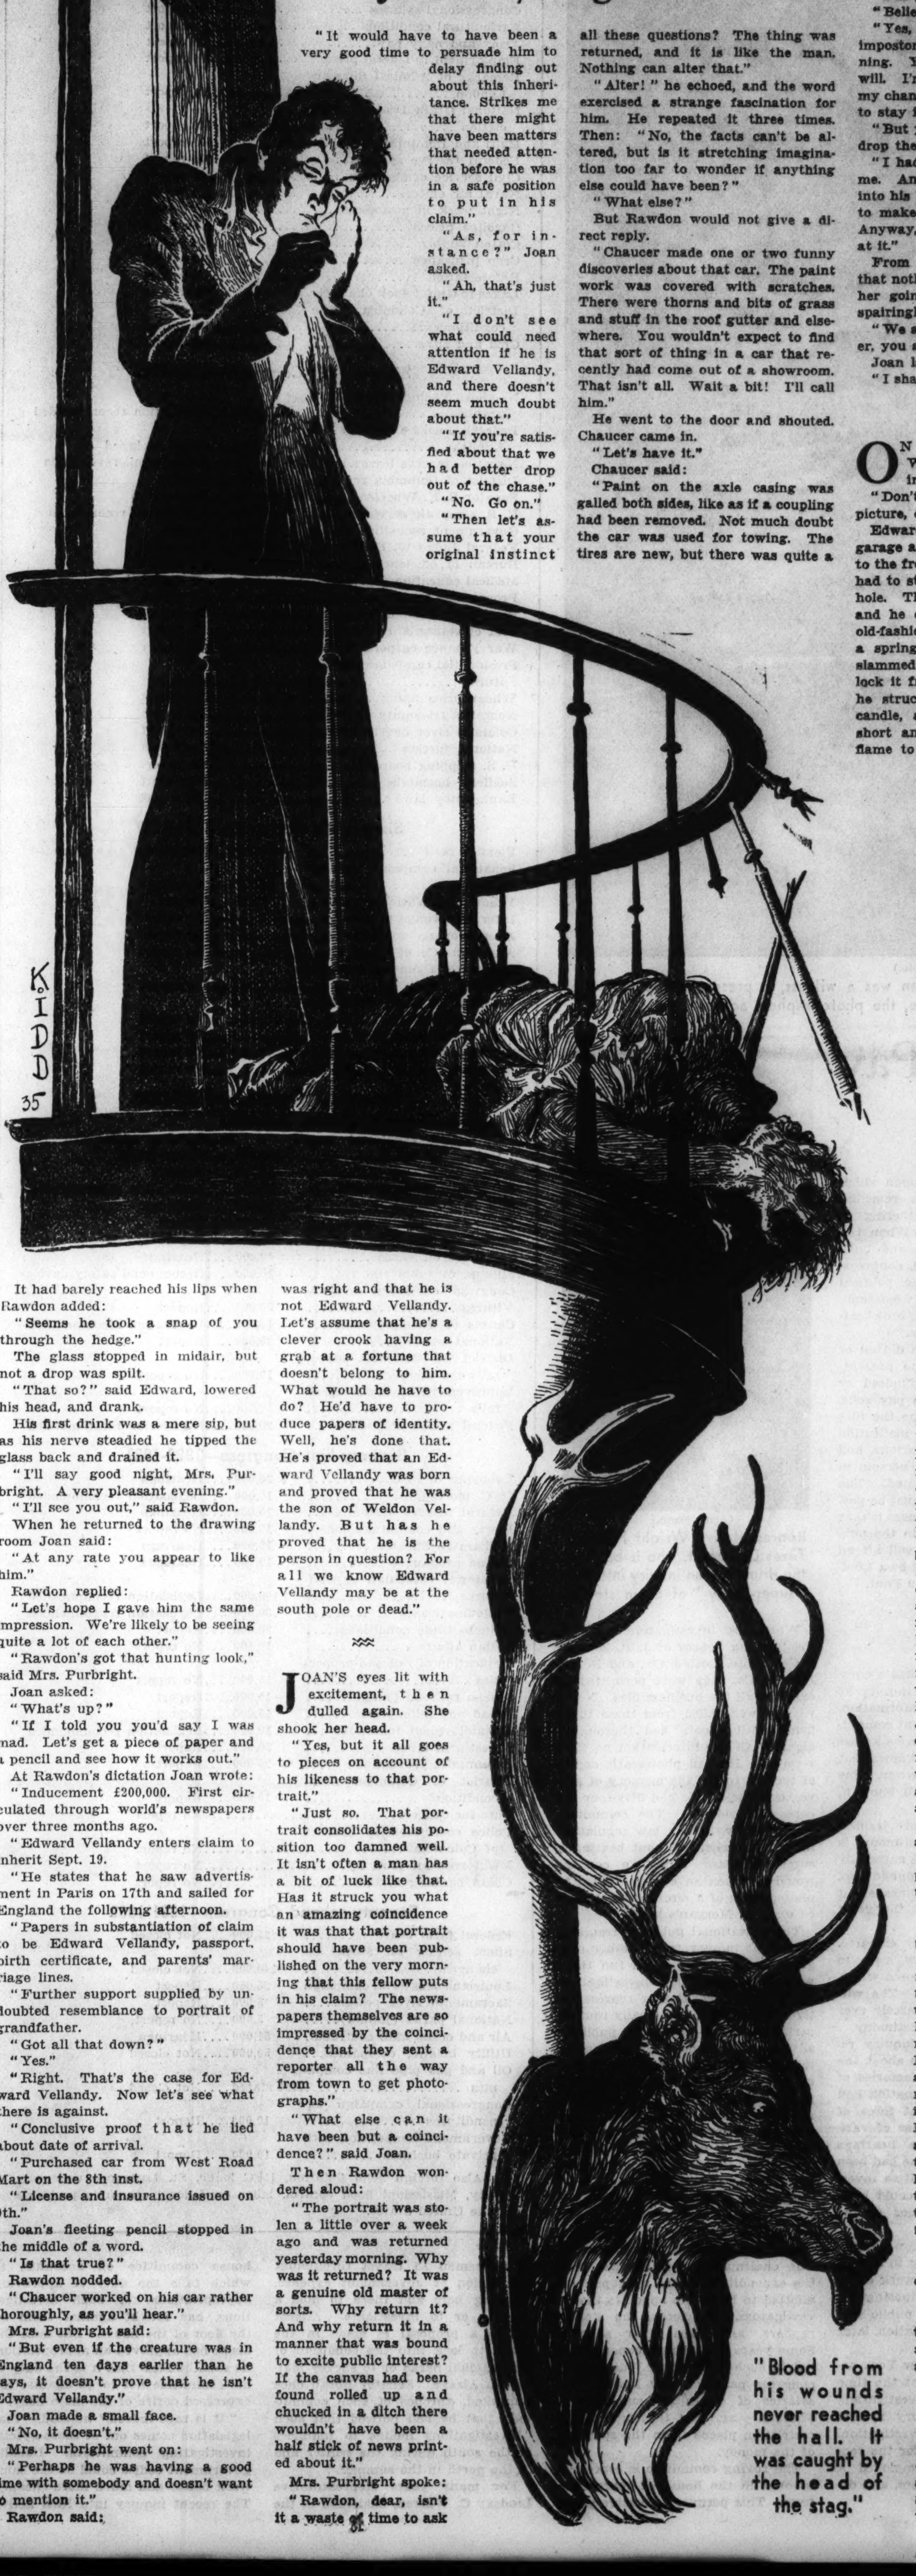
"Beggin' your pardon, sir, but you'll soon be needing a new tire for the Sunbeam. It's pretty near through to the tread."

"Tomorrow," said Rawdon. Then, "Mr. Vellandy's car."

As Chaucer went out Rawdon put the glass, which he had filled to the brim, into Edward's hand.

"That newspaper reporter was a pretty tenacious sort of bloke."

"They are all alike," said Edward, and raised the glass.



"Blood from his wounds never reached the hall. It was caught by the head of the stag."

It had barely reached his lips when Rawdon added:

"Seems he took a snap of you through the hedge."

The glass stopped in midair, but not a drop was spilt.

"That so?" said Edward, lowered his head, and drank.

His first drink was a mere sip, but as his nerve steadied he tipped the glass back and drained it.

"I'll say good night, Mrs. Purbright. A very pleasant evening."

"I'll see you out," said Rawdon.

When he returned to the drawing room Joan said:

"At any rate you appear to like him."

Rawdon replied:

"Let's hope I gave him the same impression. We're likely to be seeing quite a lot of each other."

"Rawdon's got that hunting look," said Mrs. Purbright.

Joan asked:

"What's up?"

"If I told you you'd say I was mad. Let's get a piece of paper and a pencil and see how it works out."

At Rawdon's dictation Joan wrote:

"Inducement £200,000. First circulated through world's newspapers over three months ago.

"Edward Vellandy enters claim to inherit Sept. 19.

"He states that he saw advertisment in Paris on 17th and sailed for England the following afternoon.

"Papers in substantiation of claim to be Edward Vellandy, passport, birth certificate, and parents' marriage lines.

"Further support supplied by undoubted resemblance to portrait of grandfather.

"Got all that down?"

"Yes."

"Right. That's the case for Edward Vellandy. Now let's see what there is against.

"Conclusive proof that he lied about date of arrival.

"Purchased car from West Road Mart on the 8th inst.

"License and insurance issued on 9th."

Joan's fleeting pencil stopped in the middle of a word.

"Is that true?"

Rawdon nodded.

"Chaucer worked on his car rather thoroughly, as you'll hear."

Mrs. Purbright said:

"But even if the creature was in England ten days earlier than he says, it doesn't prove that he isn't Edward Vellandy."

Joan made a small face.

"No, it doesn't."

Mrs. Purbright went on:

"Perhaps he was having a good time with somebody and doesn't want to mention it."

Rawdon said:

"It would have to have been a very good time to persuade him to delay finding out about this inheritance. Strikes me that there might have been matters that needed attention before he was in a safe position to put in his claim."

"As, for instance?" Joan asked.

"Ah, that's just it."

"I don't see what could need attention if he is Edward Vellandy, and there doesn't seem much doubt about that."

"If you're satisfied about that we had better drop out of the chase."

"No. Go on."

"Then let's assume that your original instinct was right and that he is not Edward Vellandy. Let's assume that he's a clever crook having a grab at a fortune that doesn't belong to him. What would he have to do? He'd have to produce papers of identity. Well, he's done that. He's proved that an Edward Vellandy was born and proved that he was the son of Weldon Vellandy. But has he proved that he is the person in question? For all we know Edward Vellandy may be at the south pole or dead."

* * *

JOAN'S eyes lit with excitement, then dulled again. She shook her head.

"Yes, but it all goes to pieces on account of his likeness to that portrait."

"Just so. That portrait consolidates his position too damned well. It isn't often a man has a bit of luck like that. Has it struck you what an amazing coincidence it was that that portrait should have been published on the very morning that this fellow puts in his claim? The newspapers themselves are so impressed by the coincidence that they sent a reporter all the way from town to get photographs."

"What else can it have been but a coincidence?" said Joan.

Then Rawdon wondered aloud:

"The portrait was stolen a little over a week ago and was returned yesterday morning. Why was it returned? It was a genuine old master of sorts. Why return it? And why return it in a manner that was bound to excite public interest? If the canvas had been found rolled up and chucked in a ditch there wouldn't have been a half stick of news printed about it."

Mrs. Purbright spoke:

"Rawdon, dear, isn't it a waste of time to ask all these questions? The thing was returned, and it is like the man. Nothing can alter that."

"Alter!" he echoed, and the word exercised a strange fascination for him. He repeated it three times. Then: "No, the facts can't be altered, but is it stretching imagination too far to wonder if anything else could have been?"

"What else?"

But Rawdon would not give a direct reply.

"Chaucer made one or two funny discoveries about that car. The paint work was covered with scratches. There were thorns and bits of grass and stuff in the roof gutter and elsewhere. You wouldn't expect to find that sort of thing in a car that recently had come out of a showroom. That isn't all. Wait a bit! I'll call him."

He went to the door and shouted. Chaucer came in.

"Let's have it."

Chaucer said:

"Paint on the axle casing was galled both sides, like as if a coupling had been removed. Not much doubt the car was used for towing. The tires are new, but there was quite a lot more wear on the off-side rear tread than on t'other."

Mrs. Purbright made nothing of that, but Joan's eyes were wide.

Rawdon said:

"I'm going out. I've got to see Lord Cander. If there are any developments I'll give you a call when I come back."

"I shan't be here," she said.

"What are you talking about?"

"I'm going back to Four Winds."

"Believe me, you're not."

"Yes, I am. If that man is an impostor, then I'm still in the running. You know the terms of the will. I'm not going to throw away my chances through being too scared to stay in the house."

"But you'd made up your mind to drop the whole thing."

"I had—before she tried to poison me. And I'm not going to drop it into his lap. I guess the time is ripe to make a bargain with Miss Beth. Anyway, I'm going to have a shot at it."

From the way she spoke he knew that nothing he could say would stop her going. He shook his head despairingly.

"We are in for a tough life together, you and I."

Joan laughed at him.

"I shall love every minute of it."

* * *

ON THE drive back to Four Winds Edward kept repeating:

"Don't worry! Even if he got a picture, don't worry."

Edward parked the car in the garage and walked around the house to the front door. He had a key, but had to strike a light to find the keyhole. The match burnt his fingers, and he cursed that. The lock was old-fashioned. It did not fasten with a spring. He pulled out the key, slammed the door, and omitted to lock it from the inside. In the hall he struck another match, found a candle, and lit it. The wick was short and he had to wait for the flame to steady. From the wall of the staircase the stag's head glared down at him malevolently.

Edward went upstairs, turned the handle of his door, and entered his room. Johnny, in shirt and pants, was lying on the bed. He was snoring. On the bedside table was a bottle of sloe gin, nearly empty. The drink had decided him not to be bullied out of the best room in the house.

Edward grasped Johnny by the neck of his shirt and the waist of his pants and slung him on the floor.

"Get out of this, you filth . . ."

Johnny woke up fighting. The drink in him gave him courage. He had his own methods in a rough-and-tumble, methods learnt on the water front. In something less than a second his belt was off. The buckle was of heavy brass. He gripped the lether two-thirds of the way down and swung at Edward's temple. But Edward was boring in and the buckle struck behind the ear. It hurt like hell but did little harm. He came on. He had a bit of ringcraft picked up from boxers at the Hollywood stadium. He employed Art Lasky's chopping punch. His knuckles laid bare Johnny's cheek bone—a full inch of it. Johnny had no defense. His fighting was purely offensive. Edward was too near for the belt to be effective. He reeled back, spun around, gripped the ewer from the washstand, and crowned Edward with it. The main force of the blow landed on an upflung forearm. Edward and the room were drenched with water. Broken earthenware littered the floor. One of Johnny's socked feet bore down on a sharp-edged fragment as he plunged forward, head down, and aimed at the pit of Edward's stomach.

"Ouch!" he squealed, and lost direction.

Edward uppercut him professionally, knocking out two teeth.

He said:

"Laugh that off, you prune-faced boob!"

There was blood in Johnny's mouth and eyes and there was broken china under his feet. The stool he made a dive for was reached, but overreached. Edward rabbit-punched him as he went by. Johnny rolled over and over and into the passage outside. His head and body struck and smashed out some of the banisters. Blood from his wounds never reached the hall. It was caught by the head of the stag four feet below.

A voice said:

"For the future keep out of here."

The door slammed.

Johnny was beating on the panel, lusting for vengeance, when Miss Beth came and dragged him away.

* * *

BEFORE knocking Joan tried the handle of the door. It opened and she entered the house. Someone was moving on the landing above. There was a shadow parade of banisters against the wall which moved and slanted as the light which cast them traveled. For a moment the light stopped and the shadows were still, and in that moment Joan heard Miss Beth denounce crackily:

"Devil! You're a devil! You ought to be flayed alive with a red-hot knife!"

Came a sound as if she had kicked a closed door, and a muffled voice, Edward's:

"The next person who disturbs me is going to get it."

The light went on after that. The shadows lengthened, scurried up to the ceiling, and were lost.

Joan climbed the stairs in the dark. There was a fillet of light beneath Miss Beth's door and murmurous sounds on the other side.

"There! There! My boy will be all right."

Joan knocked lightly.

The murmurs ceased and Miss Beth's voice raved high:

"If you dare to come in I'll shoot!"

Joan knew that the words were not intended for her.

"It's Joan," she said, and entered.

Johnny was lying back in a rocking chair. Miss Beth was bending over him, sponging his injured face from a bowl of warm water. There was no hostility in her eyes, although she snapped the question:

"What's brought you back?"

Joan had no need to ask what had happened. What she saw and heard told her plainly enough. Johnny was in a horrible mess. Before she came in he had been groaning and moaning, but the sight of her inspired him to grin and even to boast:

"I didn't half set about him! Caw! I'll bet he's a sight. I'd have finished him off if he hadn't locked himself in!"

Joan looked at Miss Beth.

"Can I help?"

She came back with:

"Do you think I'm not capable?"

"Go on," said Johnny, "let her help. Why not? They say a chap soon mends if he has a pretty nurse."

Miss Beth bit her lip and sponged gently but defiantly.

Berhaps Edward's knuckles had knocked a little understanding into Johnny's thick skull. He looked at his mother, then winked a swollen eye at Joan.

"She's not a bad old sort."

"Stick to that, Johnny," said Joan, and struggled against a rush of tears. Through them she saw happiness creep over Miss Beth's gray features.

Joan walked to the window, parted the curtains, and looked out. She thought:

"All these years she has been counting on his love and sympathy, and that was the first rose he has thrown her."

It was a mean sort of blossom, withered and deformed, yet to Miss Beth it was payment in full. She was satisfied. Joan knew with uncanny insight, that this one clumsy tribute supplied a complete vindication for every crooked, cunning act she had committed.

How short is the distance between despair and rapture, and how easily that distance can be bridged if the right words are found! Johnny had found them without effort and probably without even guessing what they meant to a soul long starved of affection.

Joan said:

"I want to talk to both of you."

* * *

MISS BETH was at the medicine chest fetching a roll of plaster.

"Yes," she nodded.

"There is no chance of that man overhearing?"

"No."

"I shan't give my reasons for saying this, but I'm certain he isn't the man he pretends to be. Perhaps there is no such person as Edward Vellandy. That I can't say. If it can be proved that there isn't, that will mean that Four Winds will belong to me."

"We shall see," said Miss Beth, with a faint echo of the old fighting spirit.

Joan went on:

"But I don't want Four Winds. You said once that it was an evil house and bred evil. I believe that now. Well, I don't want it, but after all that has happened here—all you have done, or tried to do—I'm not going to withdraw my claim entirely. There's plenty of money—enough for all of us. I think it's clear that we aren't suited to live together, so it'll be up to us and to the law to make some arrangement. I shan't be too difficult to deal with, but, you see, I may have sons of my own some day. Well, that's about all, so perhaps you'll turn it over in your mind." She rose and came to Miss Beth. "But don't waste time thinking of new ways to get rid of me. You've tried plenty, and they've failed. So just think it over."

Fertile Soil Man's Aim

By DR. THOMAS M. BECK

IN THE closing years of the eighteenth century an English clergyman, Thomas Robert Malthus, saw the handwriting on the wall announcing the impending doom of civilization. He had made a long study of statistics of population and food supply. He concluded that population increase takes the form of a geometric progression, like compound interest, while food supply cannot be expected to do more than increase arithmetically, like simple interest.

It follows from this, Malthus reasoned, that population must always tend to outstrip food supply. The result, of course, would be starvation. But Malthus did not regard this dreadful fate as inevitable for mankind. He suggested that war and pestilence were effective means for holding population within the limits set by food supply and thus warding off famine.

Nearly 140 years have passed since Malthus published this cheerful book. Population has increased just about as rapidly as he believed it would, but his more dire predictions have not yet come to pass. The standard of living has increased during the years. Indeed, within recent times it appears that the food supply has outstripped the population to such an extent as to produce symptoms of acute distress.

Malthus' interpretation of cause and effect seems logical enough, yet apparently it has led to a totally wrong conclusion. What factors did he overlook? For one thing, he failed to consider the opening up of immense new areas of fertile land for cultivation, such as the Mississippi valley. This particular factor, however, accounts for only part of the phenomenal increase in food supply during the last century.

The enormous increase in wheat acreage within comparatively recent years has been made possible through the invention and use of harvesting machinery. Above, huge combines harvesting and threshing wheat on the Pacific coast. (Ewing Galloway photo.)

Since cotton became a vast industry men have tried to devise a machine that would pick the crop. Here is one solution of the problem, the work of two young Texans. In tests it has picked 8,000 pounds in 7½ hours. This is as much as one man can pick in ten weeks. (Acme photo.)

Perhaps the most important thing that he failed to see was the fact that agriculture, which at that time had changed very little since the days of the Roman empire, was on the eve of undergoing a number of drastic modifications as a result of the combined influence of modern science and the machine age.

⁂

Only bare mention can be made of the engineers who by draining and irrigating have converted great areas of swamp and desert into productive farm lands. Likewise we must quickly pass over the profound effect on our present civilization wrought by certain machines; in particular the railroad, which has brought distant farm lands within reach of the great centers of population; the harvester, which has made cheap bread almost as commonplace as air or water; the cotton gin, which has provided us with cheap clothing; or artificial refrigeration, which has permitted the shipment of perishable goods over long distances.

The two scientists whose works have done most to revolutionize agriculture were an Austrian monk, Gregor Mendel, and a German professor, Justus von Liebig. The former, by discovering a theoretical basis for the study of heredity, provided the world with the knowledge necessary to enable it to develop new varieties of plants and animals having more desirable characteristics.

Gregor Mendel, the Austrian monk, whose experiments in plant breeding paved the way for a vastly greater productivity in the realm of agriculture.

This knowledge has been especially useful in increasing the yield per acre from newly developed varieties of plants, such as sugar beets, or from recently domesticated ones, such as the rubber tree. In addition, it has enabled us to adapt crops to new environments and thus increase the acreage available for their production. For example, the development of quickly maturing and cold-resisting varieties of wheat has permitted the cultivation of this grain to be extended into fertile new districts in Canada.

To Von Liebig goes the credit for having made the first scientific attack on the problem of artificial fertilizers, about the middle of the last century. True, farmers had been familiar with the uses of manures for thousands of years, but such natural fertilizers were able to restore only a part of the lost fertility and thus could only delay the eventual exhaustion of soil through cultivation.

Von Liebig showed by means of chemical analyses of farm products that these products contained appreciable amounts of certain chemical elements, in particular nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, and calcium, which must have come entirely from the soil. Of these four only one, nitrogen, could be replaced by naturally occurring processes, and this replacement occurs very slowly. Moreover, manures are satisfactory for replacing only the nitrogen, yet the amount of natural fertilizers available is insufficient to furnish even this element.

⁂

As a result of this work there has grown up a huge industry for the manufacture of artificial fertilizers. At the present time the world consumes roughly a million tons annually of each of these four elements, in the forms of the chemical compounds used for this purpose.

The first nitrogen-containing artificial fertilizer to be used consisted of dried waste protein materials, such as scraps of meat or fish. As a cheap supply of this material was limited, the manufacturers, about 1880, began to turn to the use of sodium nitrate, obtained from certain salt beds located in northern Chile.

The nitrogen of the air, while readily available and practically unlimited in quantity, is in elementary form and cannot be used directly by plants because of its chemical inertness. By the use of extremely high temperatures or pressures, however, it can be "fixed," that is, made to combine with either oxygen or hydrogen to give compounds that can be easily assimilated by plants.

This fixation of atmospheric nitrogen was first tried out about thirty years ago and since the World war has become so efficient that fertilizers made from air have driven the Chilean nitrate from the market. Because the raw material, air, is available everywhere, and because the fixation process is a complicated one with many technical difficulties, synthetic nitrogen fertilizers are made almost entirely in the highly industrialized countries, principally Germany, England, and America.

The first source of phosphorus fertilizers was the ash left after burning animal bones, which consisted largely of calcium phosphate. When this source failed to supply the increasing demand the manufacturers turned to naturally occurring deposits of phosphate rock, which consists of impure calcium phosphate. This material is usually treated with acid to render it more soluble and hence more easily available to plants. The chief sources of phosphate rock at the present time are located in the United States and in northern Africa.

The third essential element to a plant's diet, potassium, is marketed in the form of the so-called potash salts. These are obtained chiefly from certain salt lakes or salt deposits, the richest of which are located in Germany and France.

The fourth element, calcium, is of comparatively little importance as an artificial fertilizer. Its chief source is limestone, one of the commonest of minerals. Consequently most soils have more of it than they can ever use, and lime can be readily brought to those that do not have it.

Within recent years the agricultural chemists have begun to conclude that the feeding of hungry soils is a matter involving a lot more than these four elements, just as problems of human nutrition are concerned with many factors other than the correct amounts of fat, protein, and carbohydrates. Delicately complex problems of physical chemistry and physics are involved. There has been found evidence that minute amounts of other elements are essential to the health of plants, in a manner analogous to the relation of vitamins to animal nutrition.

Since this country has not yet exhausted the virgin fertility of its soil through excessive cultivation, it has not had the incentive to equal the achievements of Europe in regard to the application of fertilizers. In Germany, where most of the work along this line has been done, the yield of grain per acre has doubled during the last century.

These increased yields would be wasted, however, if they simply went to feed insects. Consequently it is necessary that scientific agriculture concern itself with trying to control the depredations of insects, fungi, and plant or animal diseases. This phase of the problem of evading the Malthusian doom has been discussed in more detail in a recent article here. On the whole, the insecticides have not been quite so successful up to the present time as the fertilizers, but some progress has been made, and much more is to be expected in the future.

Scientific Queries Answered

Address questions of scientific nature to Dr. Thomas M. Beck, Graphic Section, Chicago Tribune. For personal reply inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

At a recent chemical meeting in the east there was mentioned a chain of gasoline filling stations that for a year or more have been adding 2½ per cent of alcohol to their gasoline. It was stated that this improved the gasoline in starting and burning. (1) What type of alcohol would be necessary to mix readily and permanently with the gasoline? (2) Is there any foundation for the claims? (3) Can alcohol be mixed with other petroleum products, such as kerosene, to advantage?—W. E., River Forest, Ill.

(1) The alcohol must be almost completely free from water. (2) This is still a debatable subject. The presence of alcohol increases the cost and decreases the amount of heat available. On the other hand, it has an anti-knock effect. (3) To the alcohol manufacturers' advantage, but that is about all.

Mostly About Dogs

By BOB BECKER

These four bulldog pups are all of the same litter. Their sire is Champion Limehouse Happy Hooligan. (Tribune photos.)

The Bulldog

THE English bulldog, that amiable dog which looks as if it were bowlegged, has one of the most interesting backgrounds of any breed developed in England or fostered by English dog lovers. He has a formidable appearance, but if you know bulldogs you realize that the forbidding appearance of the breed is not to be taken too seriously, because our modern bulldog is very docile, never loses its temper with children, has a friendly disposition, and is a well behaved pet around the home.

Possessing these qualities, the "sour-mug" makes a delightful companion—faithful and incapable of treachery. Yet underneath this friendly disposition there is the old bulldog courage and tenacity. Whenever I see one of these dogs or play with one of them, as I did a few days ago, I have the feeling that the bulldog is a pretty substantial canine citizen, even though some dog fanciers decry the way it has been changed in type from the original bulldog of the early days.

Anyone interested in bulldogs is bound to be intrigued by the early history of the breed and by pictures of the dogs living about 1850. In the early days the bulldog was used in the sport of bull baiting, a pastime that appealed to many in England about a hundred years ago. Dogs that were brave to a fault were pitted against bulls and also against bears. And how the bulldogs would hang on to antagonists! It was here that the bulldog was required to show his courage and his tenacity—the proverbial bulldog tenacity which has come down through the years as one of the outstanding attributes of the breed.

Bull baiting continued in England until about 1840, and one of the fascinating things about this sport was that the public actually believed baiting a bull before slaughtering it improved its flesh. In fact, an Englishman was telling me that many people still believe a hare or rabbit that has been coursed is improved for table use and much better than one you and I knock over with a shotgun or rifle.

Examining pictures of these early bulldogs, I am impressed by their build and size. They seem to be much larger than our squatty modern bulldogs, appear to be extremely active dogs, judging from their body lines, and look more like an old-fashioned bull terrier than the modern bulldog. At any rate, the bulldog already had made a name for himself more than a hundred years ago. Therefore it is not surprising that English writers were describing the English bulldog as the most courageous animal in the world, possessing tremendous power, strength, and perseverance.

Here in Chicago there is an active group of bulldog fanciers banded together in the Chicago Bulldog club. Adolph F. Kramer, one of Chicago's best known bulldog fanciers, president of the Western Specialty Club association and a licensed American Kennel club judge, who has picked the winning bulldogs in scores of big dog shows in recent years, is president of the local club. The organization held an informal puppy match recently at the home of Conrad Olmstead in Lake Forest. It brought together several champion bulldogs, and a number of pups that gravely stalked around the lawn as if they realized that the puppy match was a mighty serious occasion—a sort of coming-out party for them.

These puppy matches are a lot of fun. At least, I found amusing the "sour-mug" parade in Lake Forest the other day, because few pups are as appealing and distinctive as the bulldog offspring.

Among the members of the Bulldog club who were at the puppy match (some of them with their puppies) were Adolph Kramer, president of the club; Dr. W. T. Buchbinder, whose puppy, Little Woman, was a prizewinner; Conrad Olmstead, owner of the champion bulldog Limehouse Happy Hooligan and the imported English champion Cloverly Brightstar; Murphy O. Tate, owner of Champion Drinkmoor Homebrew; and Chester Davis. Buddy, a sober-faced pup just three months old, was the youngest pup in the match. This pup was so camera-shy that when I opened up my camera to take his picture he growled as if he were going to chew the big black box to pieces!

A puppy match serves many purposes. It brings members of a club together for a pleasant afternoon of dog talk, sometimes results in sales, provides fun in the competition for prizes, and, more important, gives the puppy owner an idea of what his fellow club members have in the way of future competitors in a dog show.

DOG NOTES

Wood ticks that burrow into the skin can be quite a pest and cause both dogs and humans no end of annoyance during the summer. I haven't had any trouble with these insects in Chicagoland, although a Kerry Blue owner has been telling me that his dog picked up plenty of ticks while romping around in the open fairly close to the city. In fact, this dog owner had such a time with the ticks that were on the Kerry that the veterinarian finally gave the dog a "dip" treatment. This called for immersing the animal in a bath containing an antiseptic to kill the ticks.

Two weeks ago I was playing with a Sealyham pup that had just come from northern Wisconsin with a fine crop of wood ticks. To get the insects to pull their heads out of the dog's skin, so that one could remove them from the pup, the dog owner applied a dab of cotton wet with alcohol. This alcohol had one or two other ingredients in it. When the liquid was applied to the tick it apparently stupefied the insect, so that its hold was released. Then you could lift the tick from the dog's skin without any trouble. It's important to get the whole insect and not leave the head of it in the skin of the dog. The same procedure applies to removing ticks from a human. I usually have used chloroform on ticks that I pick up in the woods on camping trips. Just a dab puts the tick out of commission. Then it releases its hold and I can remove it easily.

An eastern dog lover's whimsical comment about the two fleas that were saving their money to buy a dog for the summer "biting season" draws attention to the fact that this is the time of the year when fleas can worry the life out of both a dog and its owner. Nothing is quite so disturbing as having a dog establish himself on a rug or porch and then attempt to get at fleas that are biting a more or less inaccessible part. So far I have been able to keep the flea situation under complete control by (1) a thorough cleansing of the kennel with hot water and a strong antiseptic, (2) use of cedar shavings in the kennel plus a small amount of a powder that contains ingredients mighty distasteful to any insect, and (3) one application of flea powder, followed by a bath for the dog, during which the animal is well lathered with a reliable flea soap.

In buying a collar for my dog a short time ago I was reminded again of the value of a name plate on a dog's collar, because, although the collar was a round one instead of a flat one, a section of it was made so that a plate could be attached to it. In case a dog is lost this name plate, giving the name, address, and telephone number of the owner, may be the means of having the pup returned. The form of the wording on the collar can be simply "Tel. John Doe, Westgate 5000."

I have noticed that many dog breeders are expressing a preference for dog collars that are made round like a piece of rope. One prominent cocker spaniel breeder points out that flat collars on long-haired dogs can cut the hair on the dog's neck.

Cod liver oil is a valuable medicinal agent in rearing strong, healthy puppies. You will notice that many breeders give young pups this oil because it is rich in vitamins. However, cod liver oil is not a cure-all. In starting a dog on cod liver oil make sure that you give him a very small amount at first. Too large a dose will upset the dog's digestion at first.

Prohibition Humor

Rummate

"Do you know that bootlegger's son?"

"Yes; he was my rummate at college."—J. P.

Tough

Two gentlemen came upon a policeman, late of a December twilight, bent over a splash of crimson liquid on the sidewalk. They looked around for the victim, but there wasn't any, except the policeman. "Guy gimme a swell bottle of dago red and I dropped it," he explained sadly.—The New Yorker.

Safe and Sound

Several young whippersnappers spending a day in Canada last week had only a few dollars to get them back to New Jersey, yet they felt they must smuggle in something. The cheapest item on what they thought was a wine list was Perrier at thirty-five cents a bottle. They bought a dozen bottles, hid them under baggage on the floor of their automobile, worried a good bit, and got through the customs without a challenge.

No Depression There

"Do you find that prohibition has depressed Crimson Gulch?"

"No," answered Cactus Joe. "We're more cheerful than usual. Everybody seems to think it's a great joke on all the rest of the boys."

Discreet

A woman who still believes in prohibition, no matter what you say, fired her butler recently when she came across a cache of empty beer bottles in the pantry behind some things. When the ashman called next time—this was up in a town on the Hudson—she personally led him to the pantry. "I hope you won't assume," she said, "that these bottles are mine." "Lady," he said, "I never pay no attention to nothin'."

New Fashions and Fads Bloom in Hollywood in Summer

By ROSALIND SHAFFER

Hollywood, Cal.

HOLLYWOOD in the good old summer time is any young person's dream of delight—and if you're not too old to enjoy looking, it's great for the old folks, too. What a climate! What beaches! What swimming suits! What figures in 'em! What a to-do generally! Summer is Hollywood's high spot and no mistake.

The homes and estates of Hollywood and Beverly Hills flame with gorgeous tropical bloom. It is quite the rule for a home of a movie star to boast a swimming pool, a tennis court, a barbecue pit, or perhaps all three of them, with a midget golf course thrown in, or even a full-sized one, such as Harold Lloyd possesses. It's hard to decide whether to go down to the beach house, probably at Malibu or Laguna beach, or to stay home and have the mob come over. You won't need to ask the said mob; they'll be there, dressed in anything from riding clothes to garden party dresses.

If you're a good host your dressing room beside the pool will be well stocked with swimming suits of all sizes. Your patio will be well stocked with food and drinks to suit all tastes. If you have some specialty you'll be sure to have plenty of it on hand. Carl Brisson always has trays of Danish pastry, made in his own kitchen, spread out temptingly.

The English crowd likes tennis. Fay Wray's court, with its tall trees shading the sides, sees many gatherings with Fay and her husband, John Monk Saunders, playing hosts at tea to Ronald Colman, Leslie Howard, and others, following the matches. There are few picture people who do not go for tennis; it is such a good conditioner that it is almost universally popular. Malibu Beach has many tennis courts and plays off a tournament every summer. Badminton is popular, too, especially as the courts are more easily adapted to a yard, not needing the space nor the proper surface that a tennis court demands.

≈

Richard Wallace, the director, has a badminton court on his hillside estate that is busy almost constantly. Nobody has any conscience about using the swimming pool, tennis or badminton court of someone else. It's general property, and there's always a free lunch.

Those given to serious hospitality boast outdoor barbecue pits. Leo Carrillo, scion of an old California Spanish family, does it up in the really traditional style. His Mexican rancho in Santa Monica canyon is equipped to serve a couple of hundred guests, with its tables under the trees adjacent to the pleasantly sizzling and enticingly gustatorial-scented barbecue pits. Tamales, enchiladas, Mexican punch, barbecued beef and pork are the main constituents of a Carrillo barbecue. There usually are native musicians plunking guitars.

This year there is a new custom, or rather a revival of an old one, in which Carrillo and others are happily active. That is the visitadores of the old Californians. A band of friends on horseback ride from one rancho to the next, engage in feats of horsemanship and dancing, eat heartily, and ride on. This is continued until ranchos are exhausted. It is really the modern house party on an informal basis, with Spanish flavor added.

Doug Fairbanks, before he departed for England and the freedom of the seas, was much taken with this idea and was organizing most everybody down at Rancho Santa Fe to revive the old custom.

Among the ranch owners now down there is Don Bing Crosby. He spends much of his vacation time playing golf there when he can tear himself away from or bring along his pal, Dick Arlen, from Toluca lake, where reside W. C. Fields and Dick Powell as well.

Anyway, about this visitadores business, it's a good excuse for the boys to wrap sashes about their waists, put on hand-embroidered hats, and wear those trick silver-inlaid saddles given 'em by the chamber of commerce of Ponca City, or some place. Sometimes it frightens the horses, but mostly the horses are camera broken and can take it without a laugh.

≈

Fishing calls forth the he-men of the movie colony. Clark Gable and Preston Foster like to let their beards grow and go forth and struggle with game fish of the ocean. Ronald Colman has been known to round up his pals, Dick Barthelmess, Warner Baxter, and William Powell, and charter a boat to cruise off the coast of Mexico, where the fishing is fine and film fans are scarce. Wallace Beery prefers to jump into his plane and fly to his mountain cabin to do his fishing for the mountain trout.

There are plenty who are devotees of yachting, and with the building of the new Santa Monica harbor, which is the nearest ocean front to Hollywood, yachting this year is more popular than ever. A cruise up to Malibu, down to Balboa, or across to Catalina is a nice Sunday trip. Warren William, Dick Arlen, Henry Wilcoxon, Preston Foster, Lew Stone, Charles Farrell, Jimmy Cagney, Cecil B. De Mille, and many more enjoy the summer aboard ship. Charles Chaplin, with his yacht, and Paulette Goddard for company, is usually found anchored off Catalina, loafing on deck or fishing idly.

The popularity last year of General Lodijansky's Palm Grove lunch spot adjacent to the Russian Eagle café has brought out other similar open-air eating places. The Trocadero has tiny red and white tables along the pavement in front of the café. The Hotel Knickerbocker has just opened its outdoor cocktail and tea room lounge, set outdoors on the flagstones in the heart of Hollywood and just off the boulevard.

Hollywood has had more to do with setting the style for beach wear and summer sports wear than any other place in the world. This is natural enough when one reflects that daring styles in abbreviated beach and sports wear look most charming on perfect figures. And where are more to be found than in the film capital?

Pajamas and slacks are almost a uniform for informal wear. The new vogue for tricky overalls, worn with crisp blouses, for beach, garden, and sport, had just begun to take hold here last year. Nancy Carroll wore one of the first seen at the beach home of Raquel Torres and Stephen Ames at Malibu one Sunday. This year shops are full of them and they are very popular.

Jean Harlow created quite a sensation last season with a pure white sailor suit, made on regulation lines, and plaited skirt for tennis and golf. This year the plaited skirt and pure white ensemble is very much the vogue for sports. The rubber beach suit, the Tahitian suits with their bold, large designs, were forecast last year on the beaches of Hollywood.

Launch Free Music Series Tomorrow

Sixty-four Free Programs to Be Given by Noted Orchestras and Bands.

By Edward Moore.

BEGINNING tomorrow night, the most elaborate series of concert programs that Chicago has ever known under similar circumstances will be started in the band shell of Grant park, just east of Eleventh street. Sixty-four concerts, all free to the public, by the most noted orchestras and bands of Chicago are scheduled.

It means that nightly, with one single exception, from tomorrow until Labor day there will be a musical program between the hours of 8 and 10 o'clock. The single exception is the night of Saturday, Aug. 17. That is the night of the Chicagoland Music Festival, the mammoth annual event sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and associated newspapers and held in Soldiers' field. In deference to that program the band shell will be vacant.

All-Chicago in Both Musicians and Subscribers.

This series is so big an undertaking that it almost deserves the name of civic. As a matter of fact, it was made possible by a number of public spirited organizations and persons. One announcement reads that it is under the sponsorship of the Chicago Federation of Musicians in coöperation with the National Broadcasting and Columbia Broadcasting companies. Another bit of information reads that there were many other subscribers who have requested that their names be not mentioned.

A fine summer series has been put across, and since the committee of Chicago citizens headed by Chauncey McCormick has been made a permanent organization, there is reason to believe and hope that this is the beginning of a permanent series of other notable public entertainments in the Chicago parks. Not the least of its merits is that it is all-Chicago, musicians and subscribers.

The first four concerts, from tomorrow until Thursday night, will be played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra under the direction of Eric DeLamarter. Frederick Stock, who hoped to inaugurate the series, is on his way to Europe. On Friday night Thaviu's band will occupy the shell, on Saturday night the Chicago Grand Opera orchestra, and on Sunday, a week from tonight, the Armin Hand band. From then on there will be bands headed by Max Bendix, Glenn Bainum, Victor Grabel, and many other well known bandmasters, as well as the Woman's Symphony orchestra. In all, there will be three symphony orchestras in eight concerts each and eight bands in five concerts each. Soloists will appear from time to time.

"1812" Overture to Have Accompaniment of Gun Shots.

Mayor Kelly and Robert J. Dunham, president of the park board, will make short introductory addresses tomorrow night. Thursday evening, July 4, promises to be something of a special occasion, since the program will include not only Tschaikowsky's "1812" Overture with appropriate gunfire by shot guns, machine guns, and light artillery, but the presence of Henry Hadley, Robert Saunders, and Leo Sowerby, each directing a composition of his own.

News of Interest to Lovers of Music.

Looking over into next season it is learned that Kirsten Flagstad, who was the Wagnerian soprano hit of the year in New York last season, will make her first Chicago appearance at Orchestra hall on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 20, when she will give a dual recital of Wagnerian solos and duets with another famous singer, the tenor, Lauritz Melchior.

Born in Oslo, Mme. Flagstad comes from a musical family. Her father is a conductor, her mother is an operatic coach and pianist, one brother is a conductor, another is a concert pianist, a sister is another singer. Up to 1933 all her singing was done in Scandinavian countries. That summer she was invited to sing at Bayreuth, where she was heard by Giulio Gatti-Casazza and engaged for the Metropolitan.

Melchior comes from Denmark. He has been the leading Wagnerian tenor of the Metropolitan for nine years, though he has also sung Italian and French works as well as other German operas. He sang Tristan at the Chicago Opera last season under the direction of Frederick Stock.

On Oct. 23, three days after her Orchestra hall appearance, Mme. Flagstad will open the Winnetka Music club's artist recital series in the auditorium of the New Trier High school.

◆

Barbara Darlys, Chicago soprano, who is likewise Chicago trained, has been invited by the Lithuanian government to sing the leading soprano rôles in "Aïda" and "Il Trovatore" in August at the National theater in Kovno, Lithuania, during the national congress there. A product of the Sacerdote studios, Miss Darlys has been a member of the Chicago Opera during the last two seasons. She is the first American singer without European training to be engaged by an European government. She will also give several recitals, and is mentioned as guest artist for the theaters in Riga and Stockholm. During her entire trip she will be the guest of the Lithuanian government.

◆

Emily Anderson, 38 Arkwright-road, London, N. W. 3, England, writes thus:

"I am preparing a complete edition in English of the Mozart family correspondence, based on that of Prof. Ludwig Schiedermair, published in 1914 by George Mueller, Leipzig. I should be grateful if any of your readers who are in possession of unpublished letters of Mozart or his family would kindly place them at my disposal. They will be copied and returned at once, and treated with the greatest care while in my possession.

◆

That beautiful organization, the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe, sends word that it will be back at the Auditorium for ten performances beginning Nov. 24 and ending Dec. 1, and with several additions to its répertoire. An interesting feature is that some of the additions have been designed by Bronislava Nijinska, sister of the famous dancer who was a Diaghileff star in former days.

One of these is "A Thousand Kisses," with decore and costumes by Jean Hugo, son of the author, Victor Hugo, and music by Baron Frederick Erlanger. It will have its first presentation at Covent Garden, London, in July. Mme. Nijinska is staging other ballets based upon the music of Bach, Beethoven, Rimsky-Korsakoff, and Stravinsky.

Other new ballets for the Monte Carlo organization will be "The Good Humored Ladies," with choreography by Leonide Massine, "Scheherazade," and "Thamar."

THAT HAT, MISS LAYE?

Unforgettable moments in romantic melodies

"GEMS FROM ROMBERG OPERETTAS"
by Nathaniel Shilkret and his Salon Symphony Orchestra
Soloists and Chorus

YOU who have seen Romberg operettas on the stage—you who have listened to Romberg on the air—to you who know and love Romberg's romantic melodies—Victor offers a great album. In 5 Victor Red Seal Records, 10 sides, Nathaniel Shilkret re-creates the magic wrought by the most famous Romberg compositions . . . This is a marvelous series of higher fidelity recordings that catches every nuance, from the sparkle and swing of the "Drinking Song" and the "Riff Song" to the melting tenderness of "Deep in My Heart, Dear" and "This Is My Song of Love".

Here is music that touches the deepest emotions—music that lives, laughs, loves, and weeps. You'll relive some of your most romantic and unforgettable musical moments in selections from:

"Maytime" "The Student Prince"
"The Desert Song" "Blossom Time"
"The New Moon" "My Maryland"

Remember that the Victor Higher Fidelity Process brings you a realism such as has never been heard except in the actual presence of the performers. This magnificent Romberg collection comes to you complete with album for $7.50. Hear it at your RCA Victor dealer's today.

Wedding in a Garden Delights Chicago Society

White Oaks Provides Old English Setting for Jean Wilhelm's Bridal March.

By Cousin Eve.

MRS. FRANK WILHELM said that her only daughter, Jean, should have a garden wedding, even if there were a cloudburst and thunder and lightning and snow with hail.

The Wilhelms had taken the magnificent Robert Thorne estate, White Oaks, for an entire season in order to have the setting of a brick walled English house, its circle of woods, with hedges and terraces, for one great day. And its glorious gardens and lawns as well.

The marriage of a beautiful daughter, the pearl of great price, wonderfully educated, a product of happy home life and study and travel, is, after all, the greatest event in life. The daughter must have the loveliest wedding ever, and Jean had it.

We arrived by the great hall, tapestried, superb, crossed the terrace, and there was the wedding scene, a bowl of beauty. Musicians played softly, guests were being led to terraced coigns of vantage, and en face, way down along a path edged with clumps of white peonies from Mrs. Thorne's gardens at Milburn, a small white altar held up by angels. Ushers came up, white boutonniéred, not to seat but to stand arrivals rapidly where they listed. Would it rain or wouldn't it? That was the question.

Mrs. Dempster's Prie-dieu Is Sorely Missed.

Over all hovered the important element of suspense, as well as a few big gray lowering clouds, ready to do their stuff. But they didn't. Everything went off superbly. Mrs. Wilhelm had her way and there was a charming pageant, which had the look of being simple and informal but which the sophisticated know means days of generalship.

The high contracting families stood at the right and left of the altar. One missed Mrs. Charles Dempster's prie-dieu, on duty in town. Seems as if a marriage in society cannot be legal without this time worn white velvet hassock. Mrs. Wilhelm's frock was of peachy pink crêpe with a wide, pink garden hat. Mrs. Byron Harvey's gown was pale primrose quilted stuff that billowed out, with a little taffeta jacket. Tres smart.

Finally the wedding march, the ushers trekking along the stepping stones, Durand Smith, Lloyd Laflin, Charles S. Dewey Jr., Edward Wilhelm, Stewart Harvey. Then the maids—only most of them were matrons. Lovely Jean Schweppe and Mary Senior have so far escaped the knot that binds—sometimes. Other attendants were Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr., Mrs. Edward B. Smith, Mrs. Byron Harvey Jr., and Mrs. John Bent (Mary Reed), married at another wonderful wedding a fortnight before.

Bride Simply Gowned in White Satin and Tulle.

Then came the bride with her father. A quite tall bride with a glint of red gold in her hair, dark brown eyes, fair fresh complexion, a shining sweetness about her that wins all hearts. In plain white satin and tulle clouds which blew in the wind. In her ungloved hands a shower of white orchids and lilies.

The maids wore garden dresses of white lawn patterned lightly in primrose with little capelets. Leghorn hats turned sharply up from their charming faces, they carried bouquets of yellow peonies which never grew that way on land or sea. We girls going home in Lawrence Viles' car decided that peroxided peonies are marvelous.

The words of the Catholic marriage service are beautiful. They conjured up visions of a new young couple starting on a long journey together, with high ideals of honor and loyalty. There is much of courage and steadfastness—one rarely hears the words at any service.

Receiving Line Forms in Heart of Garden.

Turning about, the entire wedding party formed a receiving line in the heart of the garden, and congratulations were in order. Over under the trees many little white tables were set out, men servants passed sandwiches and champagne, and the crowd flocked. Prettiest of little Greuze heads, that curly blonde one of Mrs. Lloyd Laflin with a tiny bonnet of pink roses. The most demure beauty, Mrs. Granger Blair, our long lost Martha, all in black, staying with Mrs. Donald Ryerson. Mrs. Charles F. Glore in red, with a tall subdeb. Mrs. Robert Thorne in plaited red chiffon with several handsome daughters and two sturdy Ellis grandsons. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cable, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Kirk, the Donald MacPhersons. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Reid, who gave a large, gay dinner-dance for the bridal party at Shore Acres Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bennett, Olive lovely in dark blue, Mrs. Hambleton Kirk a picture in red, Mrs. W. McCormick Blair, Mrs. Edward H. Brewer, Countess Cardelli, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Morse, Robert and Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Samuel Rinaker, Newton and Mrs. Perry. Several hundred more.

Katrina McCormick Bids Graceful Farewell to Girlhood.

Martha Blair gave me the high spots of Katrina McCormick's wedding to Courtlandt Barnes Jr. of New York last week in Washington. Seems that the undecorated cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul made a more beautiful picture on this hot day, in its cool stone severity, than if it had been wreathed in white flowers. The tall, lovely bride in traditional satins and tulle wore her mother's gift, a string of large, lustrous pearls. Another beautiful jewel from a favorite uncle and aunt, a pair of diamond clips. According to Mrs. Blair the reception was informal and gay in the Georgetown gardens of Mrs. Simms. Many of the guests sitting on the grass—people from all parts of the country.

From another source, Katrina's last journey as a young girl, accompanied by her younger brother and sister and an old governess, was the night before the wedding. They all motored up to her house at Middleburgh for a last final visit together. Sort of a farewell to the free, unconsidered days of youth. It seemed to me a touching gesture full of real feeling.

The Winston Eltings are happy in Washington, where Win has a billet with Secretary Ickes—these Winnetkans have lucky breaks! John Elting, lately graduated at Princeton and now berthed in the state department, has made things easy for them socially and materially. They are all lodged in a glorious old house in a good street where some Biddles, yes, the self-same Philadelphia Biddles, très chic and all that, are taking a few paying guests. Nothing could be more ideal. The house is there with all its splendid appointments and service, the Biddles are there, and the depression is sending them young and charming guests. It's an ill wind that blows nobody good!

Many of City's Leaders Off for Class Days.

Speaking of Princeton, Harold F. McCormick drove down last week to his fortieth class day anniversary, feeling younger than he did in the gay nineties. He says. Robert Hall McCormick, too, was off for his thirty-fifth class day exercises and get together at New Haven. Also to pick up his son, Robert Hall Jr., with whom he goes for a short stay at Bar Harbor, after which father and son sail for Europe. The two men go to London and Paris and finally to Venice. At this beautiful port Mr. McCormick nourishes the secret and fond hope of finding his cherished trebarccalo, a converted fishing boat, motor driven, now an elegant combination of houseboat and yacht. On several occasions returning to Venice the owner has found vital parts of his trebarccalo missing; the engines, for instance, the steering gear. And once he found some quite filthy natives living in his exquisitely appointed quarters. Several large water front families had moved in. A few weeks later, having cleaned the yacht, the owner had a party of New York friends aboard, invited for a cruise.

Before they sailed, however, in the middle of the night, two ladies, unable to sleep, effected a getaway with the help of a passing gondola. They left a note saying that a sudden illness had left them unable to make the glorious cruise. So sorry, etc.

So in going to Venice Bob McCormick thinks two conflicting thoughts: either he will find the precious trebarccalo missing altogether or—he will find it there and full of uninvited, unseen, and utterly undesirable guests. Blessed be nothing, say we all of us.

Eames MacVeagh Says His Classmates Have Changed a Lot.

Another man having his umptieth class day at Harvard is Eames MacVeagh. He writes home that the boys in his class have changed a lot. The depression, of course, has done it! No real Harvard man ever loses his perfect contours.

The MacVeagh country estate lies not far from Boston to the northwest in the lower foothills of the White mountains. Knollwood is in most beautiful country, unchanged from the earliest times. Heavily wooded, with lakes and wild distant views, it is an unspoiled part of our land. I have stayed up there in a tiny village which was a posting station 250 years ago between Montreal and Boston. Deer roam in the woods. The late Mrs. Franklin MacVeagh was almost as great a builder as Mrs. J. Ogden Armour. She bought a huge acreage, including a mountain, and built a grand country house. All about in the woods are log cabins and cottages for guests. Six in all, and, I believe, an old mill.

"Love Through the Ages" Room at Tavern Highly Distracting.

Donna Carla Orlando is the daughter of a former Italian premier, Orlando. She came here last week to give a lecture on old Italian gardens in Lake Forest before the Garden club. So the Italy-Americans fêted her in town at the Tavern. In that new room, "Love Through the Ages." I would say, generally speaking, that the room is not ideal for any lecture, because one's mind automatically runs on the adjacent murals and wonders. I, for instance, found Eve strolling with Adam, and did not care at all for Edgar Miller's idea of Eve. He had her streamlined and with most badly coiffed black hair.

And then there was Henry VIII., and dear knows what thoughts that conjures up—such a fat, red faced man! And Cleopatra with an asp as big as an octopus. And Pocahontas with Capt. Smith, and Catherine the Great, who created the gigolo. Decidedly not the place for lectures.

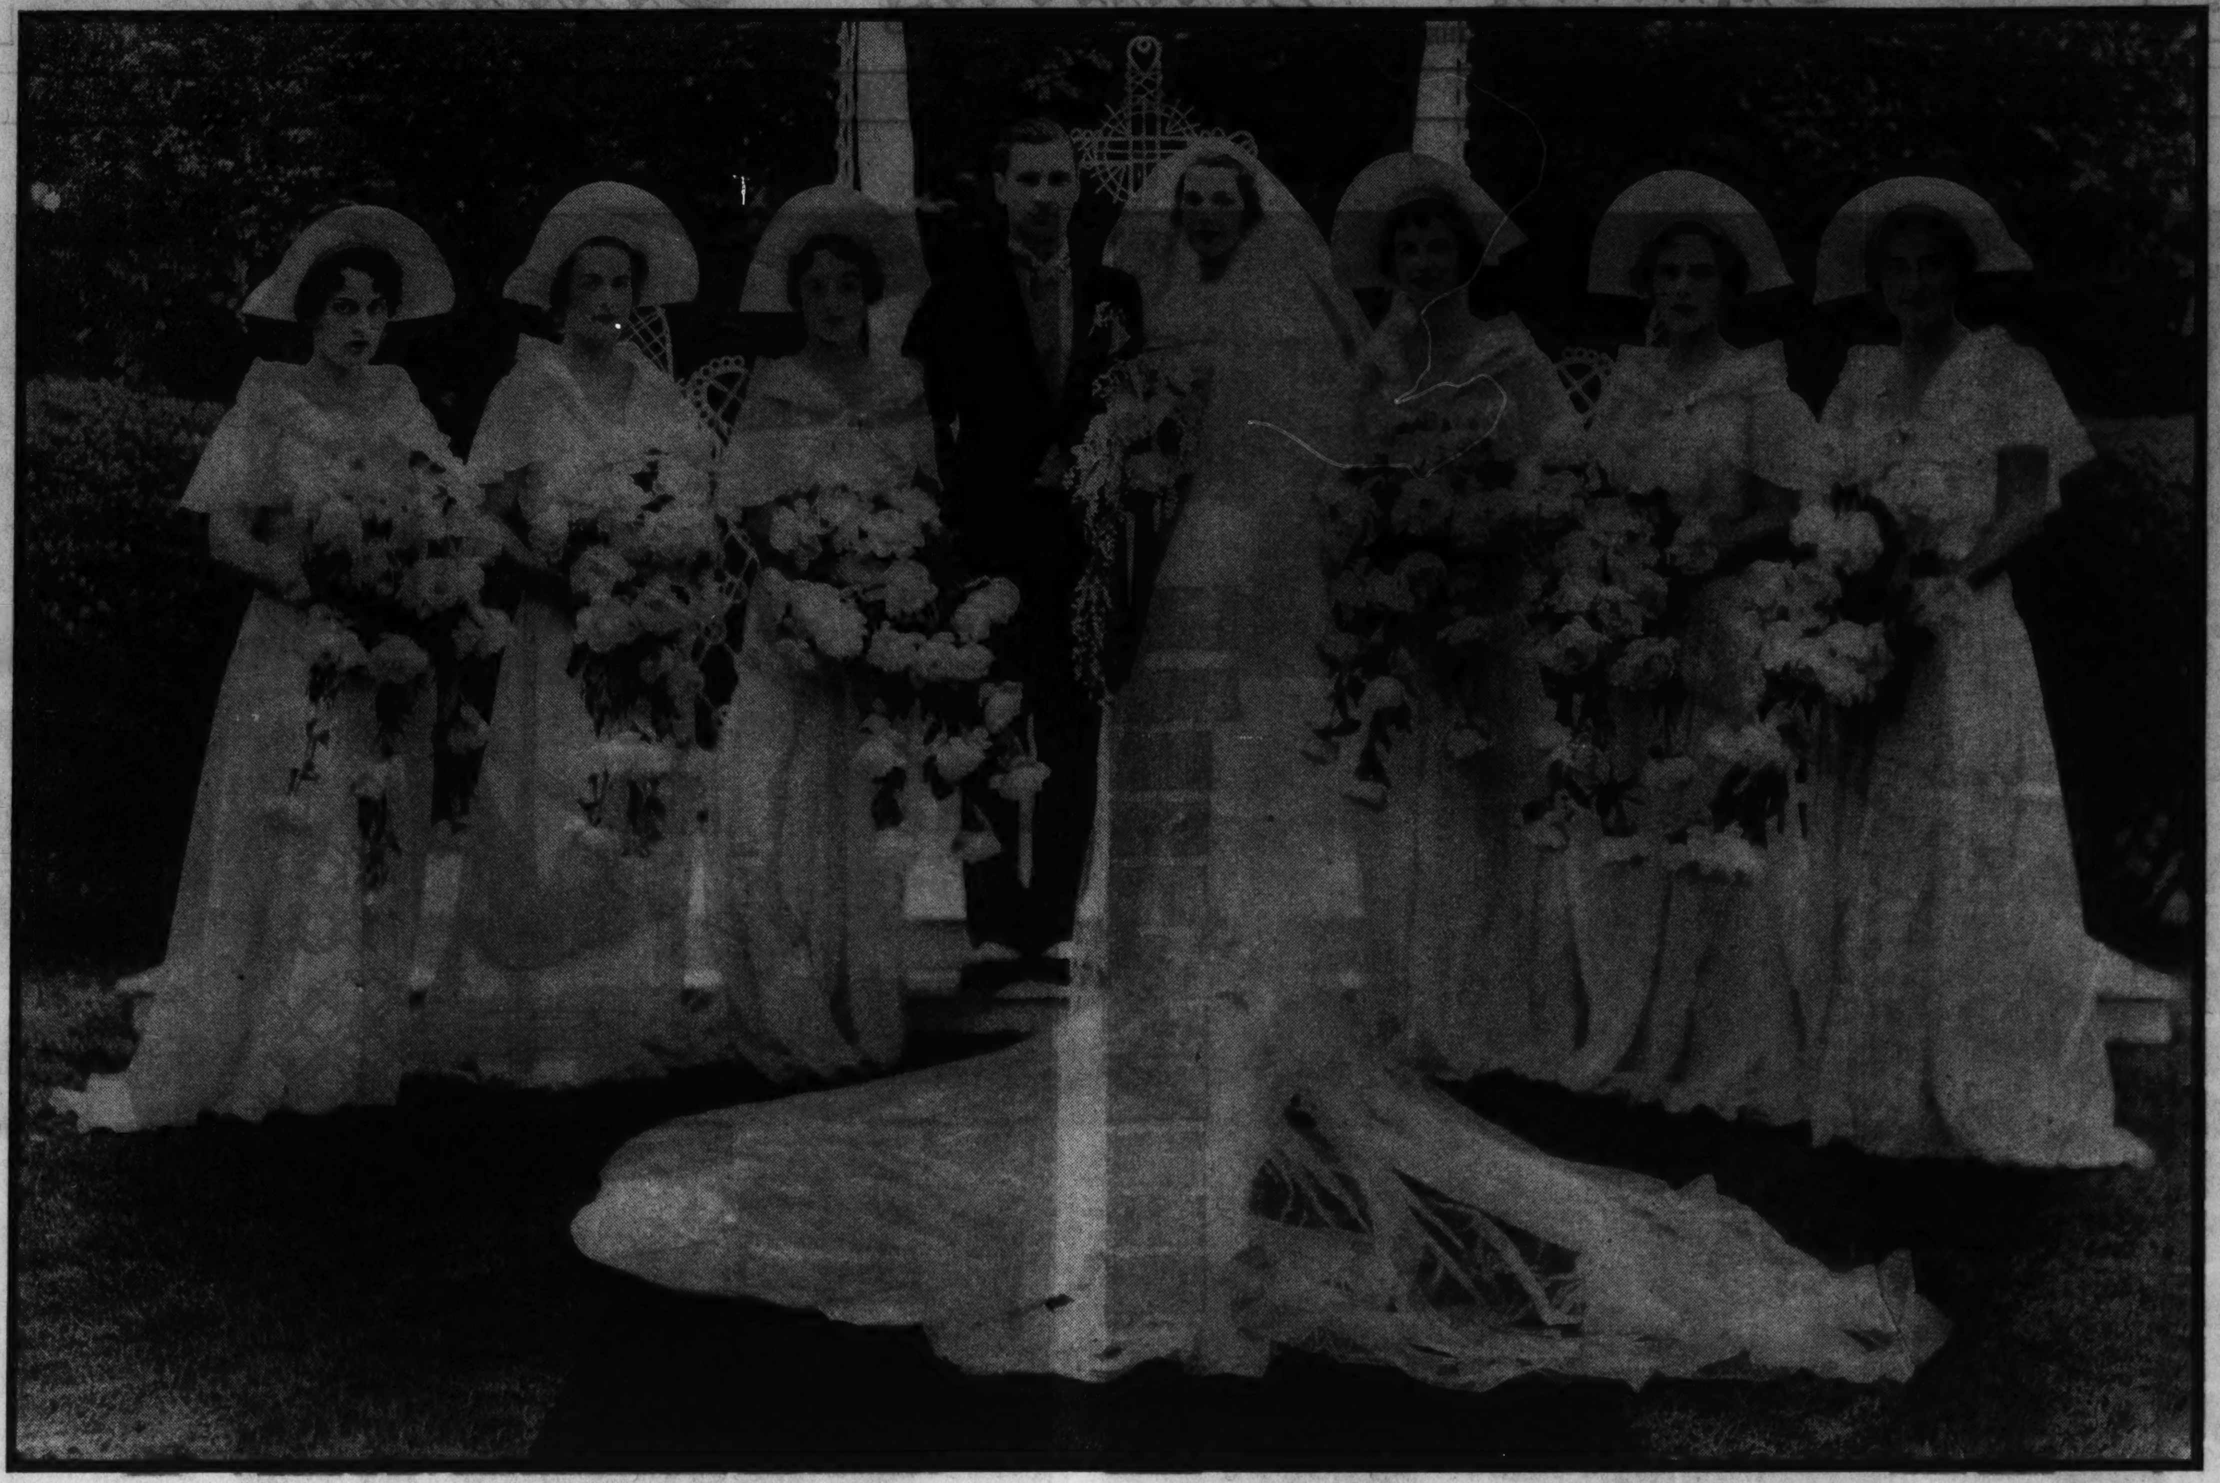
Italian Gardens Simple and Sans Mosquitoes.

But Donna Orlando had the most divine slides. It gives my heart strings the most frightful jitters to see pictures of Italian gardens—Villa d'Este in the Alban hills, the pope's private garden at Castel Gondolfo, Countess Kessler's ancient Tuscan garden out of Florence. In fact, I was intimately acquainted with about half of the gardens shown. Many of them are now open to members of the Italy-America society and their friends. Naturally these are not gardens full of flowers and grass according to the English or American ideals. They are out of door places of retreat, sans mosquitoes, with fountains splashing and flat umbrella pines set up against an azure sky.

Pouring tea, Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde, Mrs. William A. Yager. Decorated for Red Cross work, Mrs. Wentworth Field, who, I believe, still owns a lovely house in Italy at Ravello, perched high above the sapphire sea. An Italian visitor, Count Giovanni Cordelli, young, tall, black haired, handsome, who came with Italian Consul General Giuseppe Castruccio. The next meeting of the Italy-Americans will commemorate the Bellini quatrecentennial and Count Cordelli will be the speaker or essayist.

A strange era we live in. One or two men I know who still have a few millions tucked away have been watching Washington closely. Like J. P. Morgan, they have been aware of the present drive against the ownership of anything and have been studying the face of the earth.

It seems that Switzerland offers the best European refuge for people to live comfortably and not have taken from them by force what they have earned honestly in their working years. A prominent couple has just sailed in order to pick the place in Switzerland where their future home is to be. Other wanderers on the face of the waters, Mrs. William P. Conger and her daughter, Cornelia, who have sailed for the south seas to be gone three months. First they go to Honolulu and remain there until late September, when the Chicago merry-go-round begins its always interesting whirl.



On the Lawn at the Wedding of Jean Wilhelm and C. D. Harvey

Mr. and Mrs. C. Daggett Harvey and the six young women who attended Jean Wilhelm when she became young Mr. Harvey's bride on June 22. The attendants are, left to right: Mrs. Byron S. Harvey Jr. (Kathleen Whitcomb), Mrs. Edward B. Smith (Louise Dewey), Miss Jean Schweppe, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr. (Marjorie Goodman), Miss Mary Senior, and Mrs. John Peale Bent (Mary Reed). The wedding took place before an improvised white altar on the lawn of the Robert J. Thorne estate in Lake Forest, which the Frank E. Wilhelms are occuping this summer. Mr. Harvey is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron S. Harvey of Chicago.

Gayety in Paris Marks Return of Normandie

Ritz Transforms Its Decore for Party in Honor of France's Super Liner.

By May Birkhead.

PARIS Interest in the Normandie continues at a high pitch in Paris, and elaborate fêtes marked her return from her maiden voyage. One of the gala dinners, with several hundred covers, was given at the Ritz. The Regence dining room and the garden opening from it, as well as the ballroom, the Psyche salon, the spacious corridors, indeed the entire ground floor, were decked out, as much as possible, in the general decorative scheme of the now famous liner.

The Prix de Diane, or French Oaks, which opens the summer races at Chantilly, brought out not only internationally famous turf figures but remained true to its tradition of being one of the most brilliantly dressy affairs of the grande saison. When the sun shines, as it did for this event, the Prix de Diane is the great style revelation, and the first of the big season major racing meets.

Huge Felt Hats Have Innings at Prix de Diane.

The devotees of fashion always watch with particular care the novelties that are worn for this occasion inasmuch as the best of them are adopted for the coming season. This year the outstanding feature was the broad felt hats with cart wheel brims in a great variety of shades. Some of the traditional large velvet hats were also worn. Mme. Martinez de Hoz, the dainty Argentinian brunette, whose costumes are always striking without being ultra, wore one of the large felt hats to match her dress of crêpe marocain of porcelain blue, the modish color of the season.

Princesse de Faucigny-Lucinge, related to the Rothschilds and owner of more thoroughbreds than any woman in France, had a huge hat of sapphire velvet trimmed with cornflowers, a dress of light blue Roman crêpe, and a dark blue coat.

Aga Khan Plans to Build Finest Stables in World.

The Aga Khan, over from England, where his Bahram just won the Derby, was being congratulated for that and other turf successes. He is planning to create the finest stable in the world, and has spent already something like $3,500,000 on it, some of it for experiments, and has recovered $2,500,000 in prizes.

A week-end party at the Arthur Moultons' château near Versailles was given last week for Charles Grey, formerly of Chicago, and his fiancée, Mrs. Cornelia Wallace, who have since been married at London. Other guests were Col. and Mrs. Bentley Mott. Col. Mott has been hard at work for the last few months on a book which will appear in America in July. One of the chapters is devoted to the period when he was military attaché to the late Ambassador Robert S. McCormick in Russia.

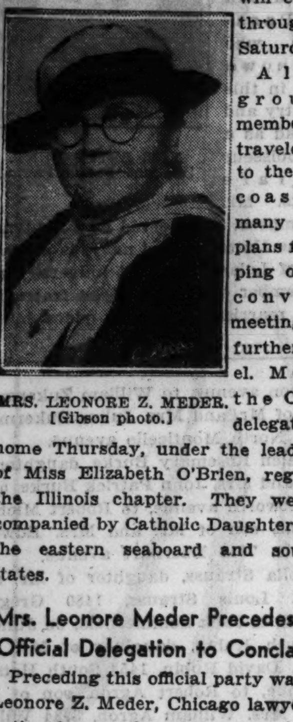
Catholic Group to Convene in West Tomorrow

Daughters to Stage 16th Biennial Conclave in Seattle for Six Days.

By Ruth DeYoung.

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA who live east of the Mississippi are congratulating themselves that their 16th biennial international convention is opening tomorrow in Seattle, Wash. Sessions will continue through next Saturday.



MRS. LEONORE Z. MEDER. [Gibson photo.]

A large group of members has traveled out to the west coast and many have plans for topping off the convention meetings with further travel. Most of the Chicago delegates left home Thursday, under the leadership of Miss Elizabeth O'Brien, regent of the Illinois chapter. They were accompanied by Catholic Daughters from the eastern seaboard and southern states.

Mrs. Leonore Meder Precedes Official Delegation to Conclave.

Preceding this official party was Mrs. Leonore Z. Meder, Chicago lawyer and national counselor of the organization. Mrs. Meder left Chicago a week ago yesterday. After the convention sessions she will proceed to California and then board a boat for Alaska, to be gone until the middle of August. Most of the other delegates, who include Miss Ann O'Neill, Mrs. Mabel Braun, Miss Linnie Austin of Effingham, and Mrs. Robert Knittle of Kankakee, will return from Seattle either by way of California and the San Diego Exposition or through the Canadian Rockies.

Noted Catholic women leaders from every state in the Union, Canada, the Panama Canal Zone, Cuba, and Porto Rico will be in Seattle this week for the Catholic Daughters' conclave. As the largest Catholic woman's organization in the world, the Daughters order has a membership of 200,000 women and girls in 2,000 subordinate courts. There is a junior membership of approximately 35,000 young Catholic girls.

Miss Mary Duffy to Preside at All the Business Meetings.

Miss Mary C. Duffy of Newark, N. J., who recently received a papal medal from Pope Pius XI. at the Vatican in Rome, will preside at the business meetings. Miss Duffy has been recognized also by recent presidents of the United States by appointments to major national emergency relief and social service committees.

A report to be made by Miss Duffy will show approximately $5,250,000 contributed by the supreme, state, and subordinate courts of the order for charitable, religious, educational, relief, and welfare aid during the last 15 years.

Three convention sessions daily will be supplemented by social functions, sightseeing trips, receptions, musicals, patriotic exercises, and literary programs.

Seattle also is to be host in July to the National Federation of Business and Professional Woman's Clubs. The federation will hold its biennial convention in the Washington city July 14 to 20, with headquarters at the Olympic hotel.

JULY FOURTH

By Eleanor Jewett.

This is the Fourth!
The jubilant snapping
On every street
Of caps under children's Scuffling feet—
Salutes the Fourth.

This is the Fourth!
In village and city
From windows fly
An army of flags
Against the sky—
To grace the Fourth.

This is the Fourth!
And the dusk brings stars
To hang in the night
And men match their brilliance
With others in flight—
To honor the Fourth.

Mementos Fill London House of Prime Ministers

LONDON Mr. Baldwin, moving into 10 Downing street, finds many mementoes of its past occupants. For example, the up to date gas stoves in the kitchen were installed by Dame Lloyd George, who loathed the huge old coal stoves which she found there, while Mr. Lloyd George has left behind him innumerable built-in bookshelves, utilizing every otherwise wasted nook and corner.

Mr. Baldwin will find window boxes. Those were installed by Miss Ishbel MacDonald in an attempt to take the curse off the view, the somber crowding walls of other government buildings, but when Miss Ishbel sent the bill to the home office the solicitor combed the records for guidance and reported to the then prime minister's daughter that she would have to pay for them herself, as he could find no precedent. So she did.

Another custom is for the outgoing prime minister to leave behind a memento in the form of a portrait of himself.

Mrs. Fisher Is New President of Hadassah

City Chapter Announces Slate of Officers for the Coming Club Year.

MRS. HARRY M. FISHER, identified with civic affairs both by virtue of her own club career and her husband's long service on the judicial bench, has been elected the new president of the Chicago chapter of Hadassah, women's Zionist organization. Mrs. Fisher succeeds Mrs. Harry Berkman.

MRS. HARRY. M. FISHER. [Bloom Photo.]

During the last twenty years Hadassah has concentrated its service in Palestine. There it has built a complete health system offering to all elements of the population, without regard for race or creed, both curative and preventive medical care.

During the last year Hadassah has entered the realm of scientific research and teaching by laying the plans for the establishment of the first university connected hospital. Here Jewish doctors, under world famed scientists, will perform clinical and laboratory research into diseases of the orient that may result in discoveries invaluable to mankind.

Vice presidents of the organization for the coming year include Mrs. Simon H. Soboroff, Mrs. Jacob Lebovitz, and Mrs. Joseph Prochep. Mrs. Edward Lapkoff is the financial secretary, Mrs. Benjamin A. Levitan, recording secretary; Mrs. James Olshan, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Martin Maremont, treasurer.

British Formally Open Season of "Coach and Four"

LONDON That harmless, semi-sporting, semi-antiquarian foible of the English rich, the passion for driving conspicuously through London in a coach and four, once again was gratified with the formal opening of the "coaching season," when seven handsome turnouts assembled in Hyde Park and drove to Hurlingham with their guests. Lord Leconfield has succeeded Lord Desborough as president of the Coaching club.

A big crowd assembled in the Magazine in Hyde Park and saw them off, rather silently, it must be confessed. Another meet has been arranged for next Saturday, but that will be no treat for the Londoner, who sees coaching daily in the shape of the handsome, picturesque vehicle, with uniformed coachman and footmen, which drives daily from the Ritz hotel to Richmond and back for a not unreasonable fee for passengers.

But the only strictly social occasion on which four-in-hands appear as a matter of course is the annual Eton-Harrow cricket match at Lords. That invariably provides several. In the old days coaching parties to see the Derby were numerous, but nowadays the jam of motor vehicles on the roads makes it all but impossible, although occasionally one appears from some country house on the rural side of Epsom Downs.

However, coaching is said to be growing slowly and steadily in favor.

Four-Star Debs Insure Newport Lively Season

Routine Events Scheduled at Other Resorts; Grand Splurges Passe.

By Nancy Randolph.

NEW YORK

By the time the first firecracker is let loose in honor of Independence day, every fashionable playground in the country will be open for business—and plenty of it—is the nation-wide hope. With the exception of Newport, whose horizon will glow brightly with a constellation of four-star debutantes, the season promises nothing more than the same old sixes and sevens in the swank resorts.

The days of the Big Summer Splurge seem to be gone forever. Gone are the days when the famous hostesses of Newport and Southampton spent untold thousands on a single party. Now some of 'em consider themselves lucky if they're able to bear up under the economic strain of keeping their summer homes open. Furthermore, even some of the old familiar faces will be missing from Newport and Southampton. Newport can abandon all hope of seeing Jimmy Cromwell and his bride, the former Doris Duke, in its midst during the season. Their honeymoon will be prolonged and it's doubtful if they'll return to New York much before October.

Former Doris Duke and Husband Cruise for Rest.

At present the tall, good looking Jimmy and his heiress bride are cruising among the Dutch East Indies in a chartered yacht, Sea Belle. They were so worn out by the lavish hospitality of India and its maharajahs that the cruise, not originally included in the honeymoon itinerary, was decided upon in an effort to Get Away From It All.

China, Japan, and the Philippines are on the itinerary before the Cromwells head for home. So, if Newporters had looked forward to some big parties given by Doris' mother, Mrs. James B. Duke, at Rough Point this summer in honor of the returning honeymooners, they'll have to bear up as best they can under the blow.

Kenneth O'Briens Also in Retirement.

And the gay young set at Southampton will have to struggle along without the Kenneth O'Briens this summer. The O'Briens have leased their magnificent estate, Chateaubrien, where the O'Brien hospitality has been doled out generously for years.

Kenneth's health hasn't been any too good recently and it's fair to assume the excitement in the Hamptons might not be the best thing in the world for him. Mrs. O'Brien has taken the children to White Sulphur Springs, Va., where she'll soon be joined by her husband.

Particularly during the Fourth of July celebration will Mrs. O'Brien be missed. For years, the former Katherine Mackay has been major domo of this holiday, which is always celebrated jointly by the natives and the 400 in Southampton. During the annual parade of floats, the lovely dark haired Katherine is always in the chairman's seat of the judges' stand.

Moffett Sisters Sail for San Francisco.

Addie Moffett and her subdeb sister, Ruth, have just sailed on a cruise through the Panama canal to San Francisco. So East Hampton and New York won't see much of James A. Moffett's eldest daughter after all. Both had thought to claim her time after she broke her brief engagement recently to Hank Gibbins of Washington, D. C.

Nor will the Hamptons see much of Jim and his bride, the former Kim Moran. They won't be home from their belated honeymoon cruise until the middle of August. It's possible, however, they'll top off the season at Mr. Moffett's big estate in East Hampton, where the Moffetts have spent their summers for years.

The former Barbara Loew Post will be missing from Bellevue avenue, too. Barbara's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Goadby Loew, will be in Newport early this month, but their daughter and her bridegroom, Nicky Holmsen, are in Europe for the whole summer.

Holmsens to Visit Parents in Paris.

The blond and Russian Nicky and his bride sailed immediately after their wedding last week and will be gone until September. While abroad, they'll visit his parents, Gen. John Holmsen, formerly of the Russian imperial army, and Mrs. Holmsen, who now live in Paris.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late George F. Baker, banker and dean of Wall street until his death several years ago. Despite the inroads of the depression on his fortune, once estimated at so much as a half billion, he was able to leave his children [George F. Baker, Mrs. Loew, and Mrs. George B. St. George Sr., who lives in London] a nest egg of $75,000,000.

This is a second marriage for both Barbara and Nicky. Barbara divorced her first husband, Edwin Main Post Jr., via the Rhode Island courts about six months ago. Barbara and her first husband have a half grown son.

Nicky's first wife is an American, too, the former Mildred Tilton, daughter of Mrs. Herbert Claiborne Pell. Mildred obtained a Reno decree nine months ago, but not until she had donned shorts, thrown away shoes and stockings, got into an argument with a waiter and made the front page. She and Nicky have two children, a small son and daughter.

Former Katrina McCormick and Husband in Europe.

Courtlandt D. Barnes Jr. and his bride, the former Katrina McCormick, have just arrived in Europe on their honeymoon. They were married in the cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul in Washington, D. C., two weeks ago.

Erskine Gwynne has gone to Hollywood. He has forsaken Park avenue for movieland. But it is not as bad as it might be—Erskine isn't going out to the cinema as an actor.

"I'm going out as a G-man," Erskine said as he tossed his belongings into his luggage. "I've got a job as a Hollywood gag man."

FACES A BUSY YEAR

Mrs. Arthur W. Rogers, the former Margaret Fuller, has a busy year ahead of her, for she was elected first vice president of the Evanston Junior league last spring.

DE MIRACLE
DE MIRACLE

Hair Simply Falls Out This Easy, New Way

NO RAZOR, no dread of causing a stiffer, faster, stubble-like new growth. No messy pastes or powders; no terribly offensive odor, strong enough to "smell up your whole house." Instead a marvelous liquid discovery, entirely new to most women, that makes hair fall right out and leaves "no dark hair root shadow." A new, quick, 3-minute way that is as easy to use as soap and water—a way that simply cannot make hair grow faster, stiffer or coarser, because it actually discourages the growth of hair itself. See the ugly, hairy skin replaced by the soft, smooth beauty of a clear, hair-free skin.

Just do this

And get rid of ugly leg or arm hair entirely without encouraging a coarse stubble-like new growth

What To Do

There are just two simple easy things to do. First pat skin lightly with De Miracle, as this new miraculous-like liquid discovery is called—wait 2 or 3 minutes, then wash hair away with water—pleasant, easy, quick and inexpensive. See how smooth, clear, youthful and free of hair it leaves your skin. Be happier and perhaps more unafraid of letting others see your skin than you ever have in your life.

Mrs. Leigh Is Hostess at a London Debut

Her Own and Husband's Daughter Make Their Society Bows Together.

By Ann Whittingham.

With jubilee celebrations still going on in full swing, one of the most outstanding balls of LONDON the season was given recently by Mrs. Claude Leigh for the "coming out" of her daughter and her husband's daughter, two charming debutantes of the same age.

It was held at the Carlton hotel, the management of which, under Mrs. Leigh's guidance, contrived to make one feel that the party was in a private home. Floral decorations, the favors, the music, and the general arrangements for dancing and sitting out all were so adroit the occasion was marked as one of the outstanding dances of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Robinson Receive Congratulations on Son.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roland Robinson, in a way holding a reception all their own, receiving congratulations on their new son, and every one anxious to know the christening arrangements, which will take place in the crypt of the house of commons later this month.

Other guests were the marquess and marchioness of Carisbrooke [cousins of the king], the maharaja of Rajpipla, Aga Khan, and the Begum Aga Khan, Earl Poulett and Lady Bridget Poulett, the countess of Mar, the earl and countess of Winterton, the countess of Gainsborough, Lady Mureen Noel, Viscount Monck, Lord and Lady Hirst, Lord and Lady Selsdon, Baron and Baroness Baubigny, Dowager Lady Stanley of Alderley, the Hon. Victoria Stanley, the Hon. Mrs. James Rodney, Lady Baron, Sir Francis Goodenough, Sir Henry and Lady Curtis-Bennett, Sir Maurice and Lady Jenks, Sir Malcolm and Lady McAlpine, Mr. and Mrs. Ormond Lawson-Johnstone, and Capt. and Mrs. Redmond McGrath, the latter the former Rosita Forbes.

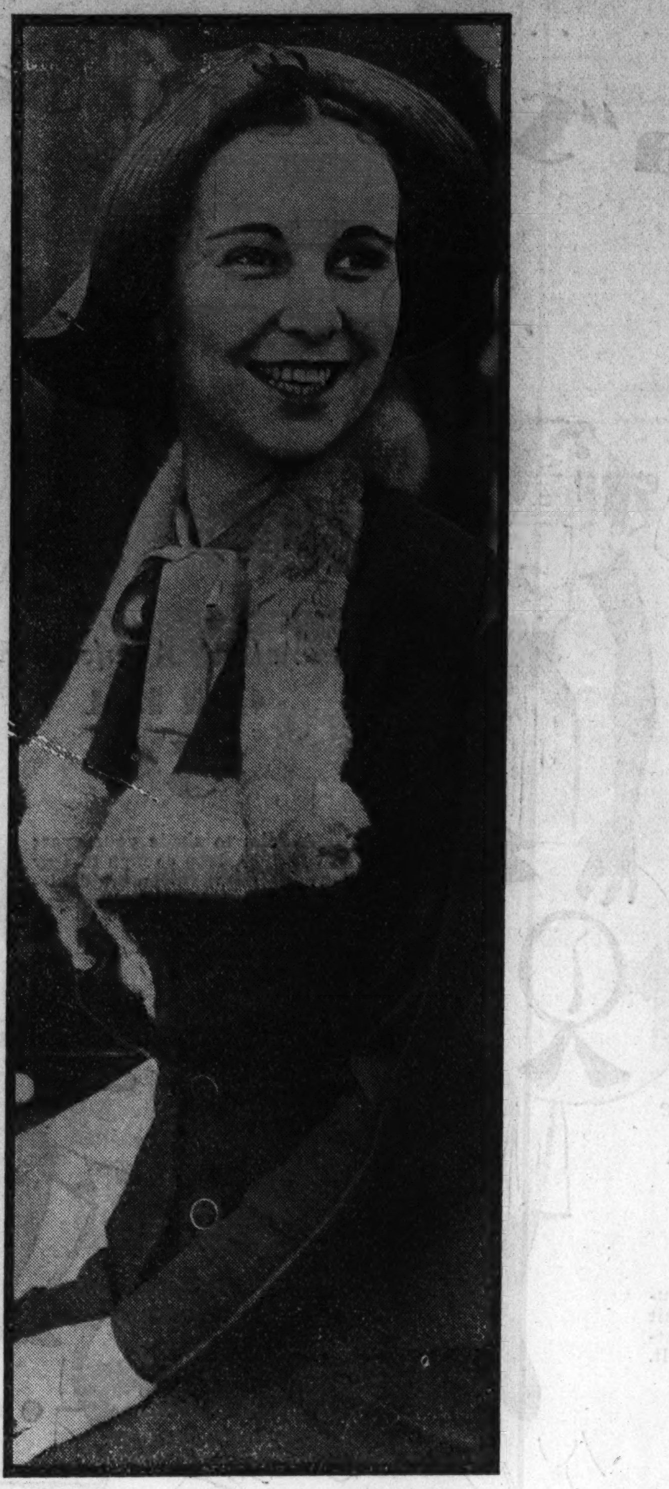
Rural District Council Honors Diamond Wedding of Martins.

The rural district council and the Local church of Leavesden honored recently with celebrations the diamond wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martin, for which their son E. E. Martin traveled 4,000 miles from Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martin are 81 and 80 years old respectively, and they have never seen their son since he left home forty years ago. With E. E. Martin are his American wife and daughter, who are rightly thrilled with the homage being paid to the old couple.

Mr. Martin Sr. is a justice of the peace of Hertfordshire, and has been on the Watford rural district council for twenty years, having twice been chairman. He has sung in the local church choir for fifty years. He gave up his blacksmith business twenty-two years ago and retired.

The reunion of Hertfordshire father and Chicago son is being shared by other members of the family equally long lived. Fred Martin's brother, 84 years old, and his three sisters—Eleanor, Susan, and Laura—all in the late 70s, were present when the celebrations took place.



LIKES THEATRICALS

Miss Barbara Beal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sarell Wood Beal, was lunching at the Glenview Golf club when this picture of her was made. One of Miss Beal's major interests is amateur theatricals and she often is seen in productions of the Country Club of Evanston or those of the North Shore Little Theater. She also is active in affairs of the Evanston Junior league.

Mrs. Manville Gould Sets New Entertainment Standard.

London's newest "American hostess" is Mrs. Manville Gould, who has set a new standard for hotel entertaining in this metropolis. She gave a dinner to some fifty guests the other night at the hotel in which she is staying. She received her guests in the customary private drawing room, lavishly decorated with blue hydrangeas and pink flowers.

In the private dining room on the horseshoe shaped dining table she had laid her own beautiful service, which she takes with her whenever she expects to entertain. A filmy cover of cream lace was laid over cream satin, and her own candelabra and silver of exquisite design were used. All down the center of the table were trails of lovely white orchids and every woman present was given a corsage spray of white orchids tipped with mauve and tied with mauve velvet ribbon.

The hostess wore fine rubies and diamonds with a turquoise blue gown. Many Americans were among her guests: Mrs. Adams [daughter of the American steel magnate], Mr. David and Lady Anne Rhys, Mr. and Mrs. Ormond Lawson-Johnstone, and Sir Ribert Throckmorton.

Mrs. Gould is living up to the name made by her mother, Mrs. Manville, who in 1910 gave a party at a London hotel which started with a breakfast at 8 a. m. and lasted until the next day.

Mrs. James Corrigan Gives Outstanding Dinner Party.

No season is quite complete without Mrs. James Corrigan, whose former husband was for so long the resident physician at the Blackmore hotel. The duke and duchess of Kent were among her guests when she entertained at dinner recently at 16 Grosvenor street, the home of Mrs. Gerard Leigh [formerly Miss Helen Goudy of Chicago], which she has rented for the season. Mrs. Corrigan's guests numbered nearly 130, and they were seated for dinner at small tables scattered throughout the dining and drawing rooms. Among her guests were Prince and Princess Nicholas of Greece, the duke and duchess of Marlborough, the duchess of Rutland and Lady Ursula Manners, Lord Rosebery, Lord Herbert and Lord Westmoreland, Capt. and Mrs. Gerard Leigh [being entertained in their own home], and that other semi-Chicagoan of so much charm and distinction, Lady Alexandra Metcalfe, and her husband the major.

Two Anglo-American Betrothals Engage the Interest of Society.

There are two Anglo-American engagements of interest. One is the engagement of the Lady Mary Crewe-Milnes to the duke of Roxburghe. It is a case of wealth marrying wealth. Lady Mary Crewe-Milnes, 20 years old, is the daughter of the marquess of Crewe and the granddaughter of a Rothschild on one hand and of the late earl of Rosebery on the other side. The duke of Roxburghe, 21 years old, succeeded his father in 1932, and is the son of the former Miss Mae Goelet of Newport. The duchess of Roxburghe inherited $25,000,000 from her father and another $3,000,000 from her mother, with all of which she has done a great deal to keep up Floors castle in Scotland and the home in Carlton House terrace in London and the country place of Crockford's.

The other engagement is that of Viscount Maidstone, only son of the earl and countess of Winchilsea and Nottingham, and the Countess Gladys Szechenyi, the third daughter of Count and Countess Laszlo Szechenyi. Viscount Maidstone is the grandson of Anthony Drexel of New York. This is the second engagement in the Winchilsea family. Their elder daughter, Lady Daphne Finch-Hatton, has announced her engagement to Mr. Whitney Straight, son of the former Mrs. Willard Straight of New York, who now is Mrs. Elmhurst and the founder of the now famous school Dartington hall, Devonshire.

ENJOYED THE DANCE

Mrs. Lawrence D. Milligan of Lake Forest and Harold Leahy were among the many who enjoyed the opening dance of the season at the Knollwood club.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend, Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, January 7, 1886.

DEAR Julia: "Culture is on the rampage here in Chicago." Will said last night, when I told him of my occupation of the morning . . . a delightful meeting of the Friends in Council, one of our oldest literary societies. Will likes to tease me about my literary aspirations, but I don't care. I think he is secretly proud of my membership in the Chicago Woman's club . . . and pleased to know that I was invited to the Friends in Council meeting. Indeed, if he didn't recognize the position all these ladies hold in Chicago, I should be ashamed of him.

The "Friends" met yesterday in the pleasant, if old fashioned, home of Mrs. E. M. Hale, wife of our great Dr. Hale, one of the most highly esteemed and beloved physicians in the city. Their house stands at the southwest corner of Prairie avenue and Twenty-second street, and is a center of culture. The neighborhood is one of the finest in the city. North of Twenty-second street, especially on Prairie avenue, are the new homes of the men who have been making fortunes in grain, railroads, stockyards industries, banking, and real estate . . . "stately mansions" indeed. The Hales' frame house, built in the sixties, is not so handsome, but is most comfortable, and lovely I thought, as I took my seat in the long parlor.

Mrs. E. M. Hale, a social and intellectual leader of early Chicago.

Mrs. Robert Nicholas, a niece of Joseph Medill of THE TRIBUNE, was the member who invited me. Her husband is employed on that newspaper. I was gratified at being introduced to Mrs. Ellen Douglas Stedman, a niece of the New York poet, Edmund Clarence Stedman. She is visiting Mrs. Porter of Chicago, and is being much entertained. She is pretty and distinguished looking [a grass widow, I believe] and had with her a beautiful little daughter, Laura, about 7 years old, who went upstairs at once to play with Mrs. Hale's little granddaughter, Evelyn.

The Hales have a daughter Fanny Hale Gardiner, widow of the well-known Dr. Gardiner, who has lived in Spain for many years. On Dr. Gardiner's death, his young widow returned to the home of her father, Dr. Hale. She is much in demand for essays and talks by the Friends in Council and the Fortnightly, being a member of both those exclusive and intellectual groups. Fanny Hale Gardiner speaks Italian, French, and Spanish fluently and write so easily that she is the despair of the rest of us. I am self conscious and my tongue is the "poor, lisping, stammering" one, of which the hymn writer spoke, when I get up in such a meeting. But I find I have improved in this respect, as a result of my club work, and I mean to persevere, until I can rise on less wobbly legs and address the members.

The Friends in Council takes its name from a club in Quincy, Ill., one of the oldest literary groups in the west. The Quincy club took its title, I believe, from a book by Sir Arthur Helps. The Chicago Friends in Council dates back to the early seventies . . . a little earlier than the forming of the Fortnightly or the Chicago Woman's club.

Fanny Gardiner read a paper on life in Spain, and I was charmed with her vivid manner of telling of that old country and her home there.

I saw many interesting friends . . . Mrs. Julius Coleman and Mrs. Clinton Locke, Mrs. Walter Page and Mrs. Walter Peck.

And now I must be off, for I have promised to stay with Baby Julie [your namesake] this afternoon, while the nurse is out. Little Esmond is to go with his mother on a shopping excursion, and my duties as nursemaid will be light, for Baby Julie is as good as gold. Ever lovingly,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

P. S.—I do wish you could see Dr. Hale's pet cat, Hafiz. . . . known to every one.

Dr. E. M. Hale, beloved physician of early Chicago, with his cat, Hafiz.

FOOTNOTES.

The Friends in Council, the oldest literary society in Chicago . . . according to its records . . . still holds its regular meetings on Tuesday, with well known women as members. Mrs. John Harvey Bass is president.

Mrs. Fanny Hale Gardiner, a widow at the time of Martha's letter, later became Mrs. H. H. Biddulph, and is now living in Westport, Conn. Miss Eva Manierre became Mrs. George E. Dawson.

Mrs. Albert Hale of Chicago is a daughter-in-law of Dr. and Mrs. Hale.

A Puzzle of "First Ladies."

1. What two First Ladies of the Land never lived in the White House?

2. Who was the only First Lady ever to be married in the White House?

3. What First Lady taught her husband to write?

4. What First Lady saved a portrait of Washington from the White House in war time?

5. What First Lady was a graduate of the same college with her husband, and recited Latin to him while he was a teacher in this college?

6. What First Lady was a niece of a bachelor President?

7. What First Lady was both the wife of a president and the mother of a president?

"Why we decided to buy our home NOW . . ."

Mrs. Evelyn A. Schelde, 5132 North Tripp Avenue, tells why she thinks now is a favorable time to buy real estate.

"THIS is our first home. We bought it on June 1st. We were married and moved in here Saturday, June 8th. We like our bungalow very much, and are very grateful to the Chicago Tribune for helping us to find it.

"When we first decided to get married we began to consider the problem of where we would live. After looking around at apartments we found we would have to pay $40 a month at the very least. But we also found out that we could buy a home of our own at a reasonable price.

"My husband is a truck driver for the Sunbeam Creamery. I had been working, too. We both had a little money saved up—more than enough for the first payment on a bungalow. It seemed to us that we could have a nicer place to live if we owned a place of our own. And in the end we would have something to show for our money.

"So we decided to buy. The next thing was to find the kind of a place we wanted. We studied the Tribune's want ads every day. We went house hunting several times. We looked at fifteen different places.

"On Sunday, May 5th, we saw an ad in the Tribune describing this place. We called up Edward Gregor, the agent, at 4204 Lawrence Ave. He took us over here, showed us the place and quoted a price. We liked the house and thought it was well worth the money, so we bought it.

"We are very well satisfied. We particularly like the location, the layout of the building and the garden possibilities in our backyard."

Traces 6 out of 11 Sales to Tribune Want Ads!

"We feel that you should know about our success in the sale of small homes this Spring, and particularly about the part which Tribune want ads played in this success. "We sold eleven homes in two and one-half months, which was more than we had sold in the previous three years. Of these, six sales were directly traceable to Tribune classified advertisments which yielded many more prospects than other newspapers."

ONE OF THE REASONS for Chicago's shortage of dwellings and consequent rising rents is to be seen in this chart. Since 1930, no land has been subdivided within the city limits of Chicago. Yet during this period people have been getting married, new families have moved into Chicago and the demand for places to live has been steadily increasing.

● Are you aware that rents are going up? Do you know that when your present lease is up you may have to pay more for the same apartment and the same service?

Consider the way in which the Scheldes solved their where-to-live problem. Their solution can be the solution to your problem, too. For it takes only a small down payment to secure a desirable house or bungalow. The balance of the purchase can be paid like rent.

Start reading the real estate columns of the Chicago Tribune now—today! There is no other way, so quick, so easy or so satisfactory, to find attractive real estate offers.

Far Flung Roads of Travel Lure Chicago Artists

C. P. Killgore's Airplane Tour of South America Ranks as Most Exciting.

By Eleanor Jewett.

THE close of the year in the school of the Art institute, and indeed in all of the schools and most of the galleries and studios, means a scattering of individual artists to the four quarters of the earth, or, if not that far, then as far as their purse or their inclination takes them. The Chicago painter who has the most exciting summer trip in prospect is Charles P. Killgore, who may, if the gods are kind, go by plane to South America and search its beauties carefully from the air.

Mexico is calling many of the artist instructors of the Art institute school. Karl A. Buehr, George Buehr, Mary Hess Buehr, Laura Van Pappelendam, Laura Bannon, and Charles A. Wilimovski are all contemplating sketching tours of Mexico. Louis Ritman is returning to Paris.

Michigan and Wisconsin Will Claim Many Painters.

Albin Polasek, head of the sculpture department of the institute school, is going to Czechoslovakia, his native country. Boris Anisfeld will spend the summer in Colorado, where he has a delightful summer class in the mountains. Elmer Forsberg is planning on a busy vacation in his studio camp in the upper peninsula of Michigan, and Edmund Giesbert will paint the landscape and fishermen and natives along the Mississippi at McGregor, Ia.

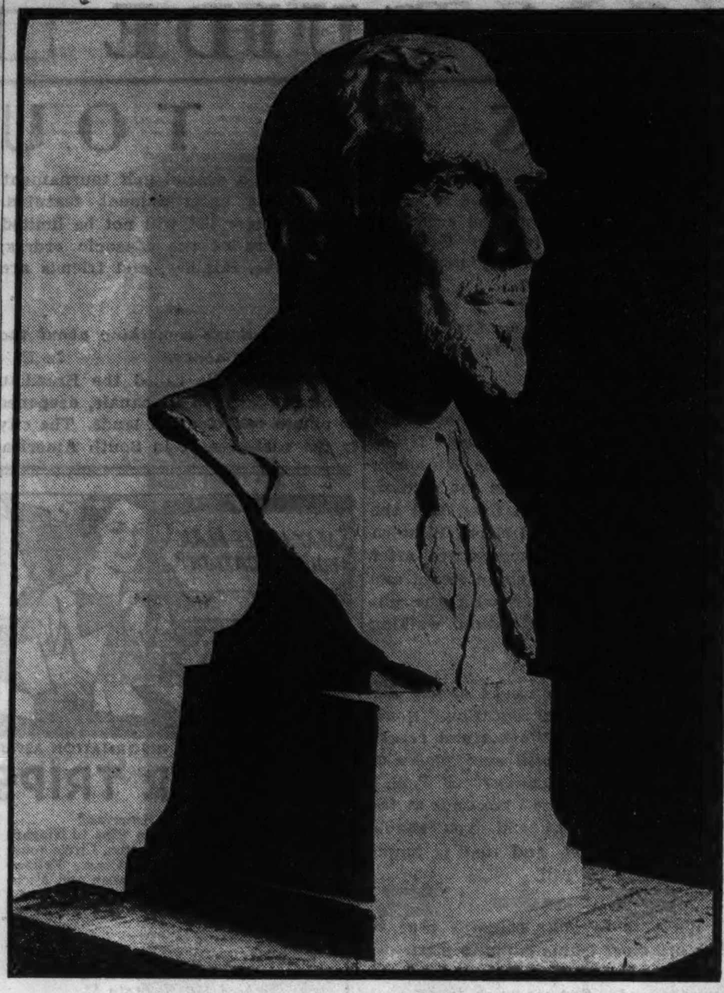
Wellington J. Reynolds, whose figure painting and landscape are so fine [it will be remembered that Mr. Reynolds was awarded the silver medal in the Paris salon not long ago] will be for the summer at his studio in Castle Park, Mich. F. De Forest Schook and Victor Poole will summer at Baileys Harbor, Wis. A picturesque spot called the "Cape Cod of the West," Saugatuck, Mich., will find Francis Chapin and E. H. Krehbiel walking its shaded streets, where they may, some July morning, meet Cora Bliss Taylor, whose summer school is there, and William Schwartz.

Allen Philbrick plans to paint on the Maine coast; Charles Schroeder will go to Dubuque, Ia.; Miss Jessie Lacey is summering in Connecticut, and Mrs. Myrtle French will teach ceramics at Alfred, N. Y.

British Oriental Commission Visits Art Institute.

A British oriental commission visited Chicago the second Monday in June and paid a long and interested visit to the Art institute. The Englishmen, George Eumorfopoulos, Oscar C. Raphael, Sir Percival David, and R. L. Hobson [the first three noted collectors of oriental art], had just returned from China, where they went to secure the most important Chinese art objects from the imperial collection and from private collections, to be sent to England for the exhibition of Chinese art to be held at Burlington house next winter.

The four travelers are really most important individuals in the art world. Mr. Eumorfopoulos owns a collection famed around the world—or rather did own it. Just recently it has been purchased by the British government for the British museum and the Victoria and Albert museum.



A CELEBRATED THEOLOGIAN

"Portrait Bust of James Mullenbach," by Alice Littig Siems, Chicago sculptor of note. The bust is a recent acquisition of the Chicago Theological seminary, 5757 University avenue, whose 1935 commencement exercises, held a short time ago, were built around the life and works of this famous thinker.

Hobson World's Greatest Authority on Pottery, Porcelain.

The catalogs of this collection and of the collection of Sir Percival David are in the Ryerson library of the Chicago Art institute, and are among the most sumptuous books known on oriental art. Mr. Raphael's collection is also celebrated among connoisseurs in Europe and America, and embraces objects of art from China, Japan, and Persia.

R. L. Hobson, keeper of the department of ceramics in the British museum, is without question the greatest authority on pottery and porcelain in the world today. He is the author of the two catalogs referred to above, and of many other indispensable books on this subject. His researches extend through the ceramic wares of all nations, and many years ago, when he was a guest in Chicago, he expertized the English and Persian collections of our Art institute. The distinguished visitors were conducted through their recent tour of the museum by Charles Fabens Kelly, curator of oriental art, and Miss Helen Gunsaulus, assistant curator.

News of Interest to Lovers of Art.

The Hoosier Art gallery, 211 West Wacker drive, has featured an exhibition of prints by artist members during June. It was an attractive show. Two out of town exhibits of work by members of the Hoosier Salon Patrons association will be continued through the summer, the one at Beverley Shores and the other at Lake Wawasee, Ind.

The North Shore Art league is holding a series of sketching expeditions [and picnics] Saturdays during the summer months. June saw the first of these successful and amusing affairs, and they will be continued into September. The trip is generally arranged so that the picnic meal is supper.

The Tudor gallery, Chicago Woman's club, is showing sculpture and paintings by students of the senior class of the Art institute school to Sept. 20.

Notes of Art and Artists

Anna Lee Stacey and John F. Stacey are summering in California. They left Chicago in March and may be gone six months or more.

It is a tossup whether David McCosh, on whose earlier work a deadly criticism has been leveled from this column, cares for approval from a nonmodern enthusiast, but, whether he likes it or not, his present exhibit in the Boulevard gallery, 540 North Michigan avenue, is stunning. His men and women are now human figures, well drawn flesh and blood with adequate muscular development to distinguish them from the mannikins that his figures of six years ago suggested. His landscapes are coördinated and he achieves beauty as well as strength in his color. His water colors are most impressive. "Transplanted," "Goose Island," "Oregon Sunset," "Wood Yard," "Neskowin"—each betrays the spectator into an involuntary ejaculation of praise. "Gas Works" is significant for the trudging figure it contains, a figure Mr. McCosh could not possibly have managed in his earlier technique.

The oils are negligible compared to the water colors or to the lithographs, of which Mr. McCosh is showing a number. "Bread Line," "Gangster Funeral," "Burial," "Shoppers," "Rush Hour" [extremely clever], and "Hide and Seek" are among the lithographs that you will return to for a second or a third look.

* * *

The Brush and Pencil club, exhibiting in the Allerton galleries, offers a diversified show. June Jordan, famous for her character dolls, contributes two charming sketches of children. Dorsett Jordan lends a melodramatic touch with "Murder," a corpse holding its own head while blood—was ever there so much blood?—stains the earth and reddens the river. One can easily visualize this tense moment on the cover of a mystery thriller.

Kenneth Brown Ransley shows five interesting portrait heads, and W. F. McCaughey presents a really excellent series of water colors. His technique is loose and spontaneous, and his color reasonable. His share in the exhibit is charming. Margaret Selleck paints in a less sensitive manner, but her various flower arrangements are decorative. Irma Bratton Mars shows three fascinating pastel portraits of little girls. Mrs. Mars is also exhibiting at the Chicago galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue.

Herbert J. Day, Frank Ranslay, and Kay Ransley, and Reginald D. Mars [with a glowing landscape, "October Gold"] are the other painters who make the exhibition enjoyable. They do not pretend to be superprofessional, but their amateur standing will be in danger if they continue as they have begun.

* * *

The fifty-six paintings exhibited by the Chicago Society of Artists in New York will be shown during the summer at the New Jersey State museum, Trenton. The exhibit is held under the auspices of the American Federation of Arts, Washington, which will send it on a tour of the United States during the coming fall and winter.

Travel Bureau of Jewish Council Increases Funds

THERE'S many an organization in and around Chicago that envies the Chicago section of the National Council of Jewish Women its travel bureau. Some weeks ago several of the smart minds in the council ranks had the idea for the establishment of a travel service with the proceeds swelling the council treasury. A complete file of information now is available through Mrs. Bernard J. Ecker in the council offices at 185 North Wabash avenue. The service is offered at regular rates and the benefits help out the various charities with which the council is affiliated.

TRIPS—VACATIONS

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

TOURS—CRUISES

DETOURS

By Frederic Babcock.

THE advice that helped to make Horace Greeley famous is being followed this year as never before, and that leading newspaper man of another day might be interested to learn—if there were some way of letting him know—that the newspapers of today are playing the principal rôle in getting people, young and old, to travel westward.

Chairman Harry G. Taylor of the Western Association of Railway Executives lets it be known that advertising and publicity have turned the trick.

"Reports received at our office from the passenger trafic managers of the western railroads prove that newspaper advertising has rendered an important service in linking the east and west through increased travel by rail," Mr. Taylor said yesterday. "Through this medium the mass of the American public seems to have become convinced that the western roads offer a superior form of transportation leading to America's wonderland."

● Prior to the opening of the vacation season this summer an intensive advertising campaign was launched by the western roads in newspapers throughout the country. The boss of the lines declares the campaign was the vital factor in developing prospects for the unusually heavy business now getting under way. Contributing factors were the matchless attractions of the territories served by the roads.

"These attractions," says the chairman, "include gorgeous scenery over a vast area of the North American continent, big government projects in the making, an international exposition at San Diego, new fast train schedules, improved equipment, including futuristic streamlined trains, and the new system of air conditioning on all the principal trains. Still another convincing selling point was the action of the western railroads in offering the lowest round trip excursion fares since pre-war days."

It might be added in passing that the showmanship demonstrated by Mr. Taylor and his co-workers in putting over Railroad week had a lot to do with the success of the campaign.

● Just how successful that campaign has been may be judged from the fact that the western lines are now anticipating the greatest summer business in their history. Here are excerpts from a few of the reports made by the passenger trafic managers of the various lines:

W. S. Basinger, Union Pacific—Our inquiries for western trips have increased 50 per cent over last year.

L. M. Allen, Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific—I believe we are safe in predicting a minimum gain of 25 per cent in western travel this year over 1934. This applies to the national parks as well as to the Pacific coast.

W. J. Black, Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe—Western national parks appear to be in for another big year. For months travel to the Grand canyon has consistently held near 50 per cent above last year and double that of two years ago.

Norman B. Pitcairn, Wabash—We will have an increase of around 25 per cent over last year. This summer will write a great chapter in the history of passenger trafic.

● Last year the national parks and other western playgrounds scored their greatest records. This year, as the foregoing statements show, they promise to do even better.

The reason? Maybe it's the revival in business generally. Maybe it's the improvement in train service. And maybe it's the advertising.

Columbia to Leave on Caribbean Trip

THE first of the National Tours summer cruises to South America and the West Indies will begin in New York next Saturday aboard the S. S. Columbia. Later on the Transylvania and the Rotterdam will be used. Each cruise will last for 13 days and will visit the principal ports of the Caribbean.

New Cruise to Norway Planned

A NEW CRUISE to Norway and the Baltic was announced last week by the Norwegian-American line. The S. S. Bergensfjord, leaving New York Aug. 10, will visit Norway, Copenhagen, Denmark, Helsingfors, Finland, Leningrad, Tallinn, Esthonia, and Zoppot.

Chicago officials of the line say the American traveling public is showing great interest in the lands of the north this year. The July and August sailings promise to carry capacity bookings Norway bound to see the fjords and the midnight sun.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations, to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped self-addressed envelope.

What and where is the Illinois Dunes park, and how is it reached from Chicago? T. J.

The park is a comparatively recent development consisting of about 3½ miles of Lake Michigan beach. It lies between Waukegan and the Wisconsin state line and is suitable for picnics, horseback rides, beach fires, and the like. The Chicago and North Western railway will make stops there after July 2. Other north shore steam and electric lines, together with the bus lines, will land you within walking distance.

I have only two weeks at my disposal for a summer vacation. Could I get as far as California and return and have time to visit such places as the San Diego exposition? H. P. M.

Yes. Counting the week-ends at the beginning and the end, you should have 16 days off, and that is ample for the trip by rail.

We note in your columns that all the principal trains running westward out of Chicago this summer are air conditioned. But we wish to go eastward—to Atlantic City. Are the trains to that point also air conditioned? B. L.

Yes.

I have heard something about a Masonic cruise to Bermuda this fall, but lack the necessary information. Can you supply it? E. S. T.

The cruise will leave New York City aboard the motorship Kungsholm Oct. 16. Five days will be spent in Bermuda, with a special golf tournament one of the entertainment features. The passenger list will not be limited to members of the Masonic orders; their wives, families, and friends are included.

Please tell me something about the city of Pernambuco. L. E.

Pernambuco is called the Brazilian Venice because of its canals, deepened to obtain filler for low lands. The city is the easternmost in South America. In the old part the streets are narrow and the houses tall, the idea being to get the maximum of shade.

BUSES—TRAINS THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE STEAMERS—PLANES

Nearby Spots to Get Crowds Over the Fourth

A NEW $10,000 city park will be opened to the public today by Wisconsin Dells. The day has been set aside by Mayor Thomas J. Howley as Jonathan Bowman day, in honor of the pioneer for whom the park is named. An elaborate dedicatory program has been planned.

The Independence day festival at St. Joseph will mark the official opening of the resort season in western Michigan. It also will mark the ripening of the tree grown fruits in Berrien and surrounding counties. The S. S. Roosevelt will carry nearly 2,000 Chicagoans across the lake to St. Joseph on Wednesday and Thursday.

Always a favorite vacation spot with people of this city, northern Wisconsin this year will attract an unusually large quota of outdoor fans, owing to the fact that the 4th of July holiday will be extended by many from Thursday to Monday.

"Advance reservations and reports from resort owners and our own agents in the northland indicate that travel over the 4th will be the heaviest in years," W. B. Dixon, general passenger agent of the Milwaukee road, said yesterday. "Improvement in the weather and reports of excellent fishing in the Wisconsin lakes will bring about the first big summer exodus. Another factor in the gain is the improved railroad service."

The Lawsonia hotel at Green Lake, Wis., has been reopened for the summer, this time with the idea of catching a larger share of the vacationists than ever before. Originally designed as the country estate of Victor F. Lawson of Chicago, the 1,000 acre Lawsonia has become a showplace of the middle west. Its golf course is one of the sportiest to be found anywhere.

The week-end holiday promises to draw thousands of Chicagoans to the dunes, beaches, parks, and summer resorts of northern Indiana and southern Michigan. R. E. Jamieson, general passenger agent of the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend railroad, says the people of this city are particularly fortunate in having so many outing and vacation spots within such close reach.

Another spot within easy reach of Chicago is Delavan, Wis. It has a lake ringed by gently rolling hills, an eighteen hole golf course of championship caliber, and a wide variety of sports, including motor boating, sailing, swimming, riding, and hiking.

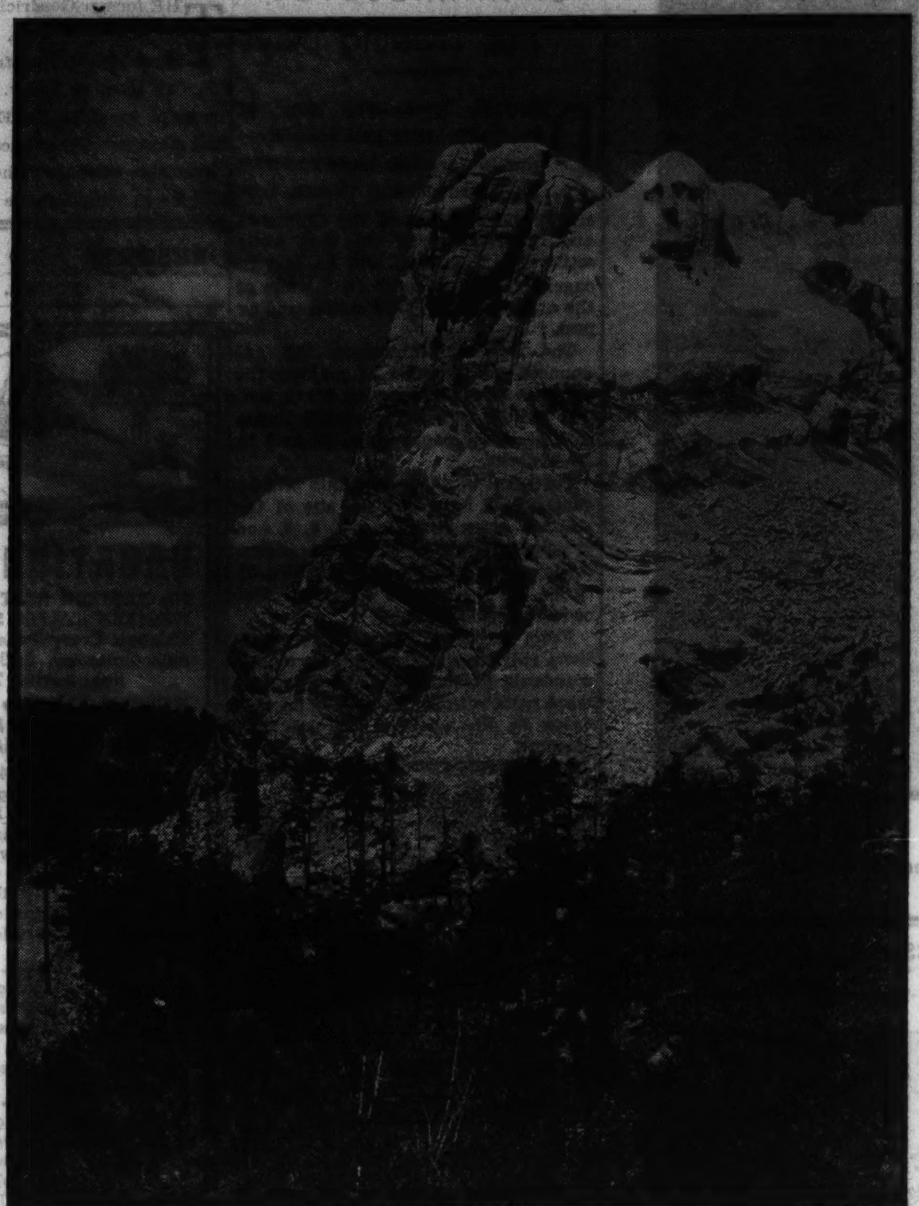
Breezy Point lodge, on Big Pelican lake in Minnesota, opened its fifteenth season last week. This summer a number of golf and trap shooting championship events will be held there, with participants from all over the middle west.

Said to be the only one of its kind in existence, the floating pool at Nippersink, Wis., was opened to visitors yesterday. Invented by E. G. Shinner, it lies on pontoons in a lake and is anchored to the shore by a boardwalk. Its bottom is made of rope covered wire.

Probably because it is surrounded by the three largest great lakes, the upper peninsula of Michigan has an average summer temperature of from 65 to 66 degrees. The cool air has proved to be a specific for hay fever and asthma.

One of the largest celebrations to be held this year in northern Michigan in connection with the state centennial program will be that at Charlevoix Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week. A feature will be a historical pageant with episodes depicting the reign and assassination of "King James J. Strand, Mormon king of Beaver island fame."

Petoskey, Mich., boasts of one 13 mile stretch of concrete highway entering that city with nary a signboard. Action of the citizens wishing to preserve the beauty of the new scenic entrance, paved last fall, was instrumental in removing all such boards along the right of way. Native Ottawa Indians are already rehersing for the staging of "Hiawatha" at the high school stadium in Petoskey, Aug. 14 and 15.



HONORING THE PIONEER STATESMEN

Workmen carving the faces of Washington and Jefferson on Mount Rushmore, in the Black Hills of South Dakota, look like tiny flies in contrast with the massive rock formation. Work on the memorial will continue this summer under the direction of Gutzon Borglum.

The Voice of the Traveler

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are invited. Please make them brief. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

Chicago, June 21.—To the Travel Editor: I was interested in your answer to the question regarding the gender of ships. I had always supposed that a ship is invariably referred to as "she" because navis, the Latin word for ship, is feminine. Even a man of war, navis longa, was feminine to the Romans. According to the same analogy, I accounted for our reference to the moon as "she" and to the sun as "he." Your answer was most amusing, but I shall appreciate it if you will inform me whether it was to be taken facetiously, or am I wrong in attributing our use of the feminine gender for ship to a hangover from the Latin?

ETHEL L. KIRBY.

Michigan All Set for Huge Tourist Crop

By Al Murphy.

A THREE day tour sponsored by the West Michigan Tourist and Resort association and the Grand Rapids Association of Commerce last week revealed Michigan resorts and hotels all set for a record breaking season.

J. Bingham Morris, chairman of the tour committee and manager of the Rowe hotel at Grand Rapids, arranged a trip covering Newaygo, Big Rapids, Cadillac, Traverse City, Elk Rapids, Charlevoix, Petosky, Beulah, Manistee, Ludington, Pentwater, Hart, Montague, Whitehall and Grand Rapids.

Recommended stops along the way for both scenery and recreation are Cadillac, for fishing in trout streams and lakes, and Traverse City, for golf and deep water fishing. There is splendid scenery all along the shore of Lake Michigan and a stop is suggested at one of the many resorts at Montague and Whitehall. There are all manner of outdoors sports. The golf courses are in excellent shape this year, due to plenty of rain this spring.

Michigan is served principally by the Michigan Central railroad, the Pere Marquette railroad, the Greyhound bus lines, and the Lake Michigan steamers out of Chicago.

Swedish Regattas Draw Yachtsmen

AMATEUR yachtsmen from the United States and European countries will gather this summer at Sandhamn, sailing center and headquarters of the Royal Swedish Yacht club, in the outer Stockholm archipelago. There, among the hundreds of islands, known as "skerries," a series of international races will take place. From July 31 to Aug. 4 the Sandhamn regatta wil be held. These sailings are sponsored by the Royal Swedish Yacht club, one of the oldest and largest organizations of its kind in the world.

The LUXURY of Quiet
QUIETNESS—that element which means so much to restful sleep, soothing comfort, peace of mind, and steady nerves—makes one's trip on "The Pocahontas" and "The Cavalier" a real pleasure. Modernized and completely air-conditioned, these two dependable Norfolk and Western trains, operating between the Midwest and the Virginias and Carolinas, afford the latest in modern luxurious travel.
Mounted on rubber to deaden noise, the riding qualities of the new air-conditioned luxury-coaches will amaze you. They are lighted indirectly. They have rotating, individual reclining seats, roomily spaced; a beautifully decorated women's salon; modernly furnished men's smoking room; large wide windows; rubber tile floors; and many other features for your convenience. The cheerful air-conditioned diners, with their immaculate tables, courteous service and famous cuisine add to your comfort enroute. Noiseless air-conditioned Pullmans, with their partitioned sections, deep adjustable seats, and long, wide berths, assure quiet by day and rest by night. Air-conditioned lounge cars, equipped with all modern conveniences, will add still more to the comfort of your journey.
You will enjoy the luxury of quiet when you travel on these two fine trains.

North Cape and Mediterranean Draw Travelers

Numerous Chicagoans Among Capacity Lists of Cruise Passengers.

THE Carinthia cruise to the North Cape and Russia and the Roma cruise to the Mediterranean sailed from New York yesterday with more than 150 Chicagoans and other middle westerners on their capacity passenger lists.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Thoresen, Mrs. Willet Spooner, Miss Helen Noyes, Mrs. Norman S. Florsheim, and Miss Mary Ritchie are some of the Chicagoans who left on the Cunard-White Star's Carinthia to see Reykjavik, Iceland, and to spend from July 8 to 12 north of the arctic circle. In those four days there will be no sunset. Hammerfest, the northernmost town in the world, is another of the ports of call.

Through the Fjords of Norway.

Miss Alice Bixby, Miss Ella Bell, Miss Anna De Merse, Mrs. J. F. O'Brien, and Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Lathrop are others on this liner, which will steam through the Norwegian fjords, on to the Free City of Danzig, and over the Baltic to Leningrad. Still others aboard are Mrs. Bernard Kirstein, Miss Barbara Brach, Mrs. Aurora Upton, Miss Rebecca Giles, Mrs. Stuart Laist, and J. Edward Williams.

Chicagoans traveling on the Italian line's Roma include Mrs. Frederick B. Cozzens and her son, Frederick; Mr. and Mrs. Grossinger, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Johnson, the Misses Jane Yoder, Marion Zoch, and Minnie Zoch, and P. S. O'Brien. They will leave their ship to visit such places as Funchal, Monte Carlo, Naples, Taormina, Haifa, Port Said, Phaleron, and Dubrovnik.

Also aboard the liner are Mr. and Mrs. Emil C. Lefman and their daughter, Martha; Matthew G. Klason, Mrs. Isaac Rothschild and her three sons, Robert, James and Edward, all of Chicago; Judge J. Elmer Peak of South Bend, Ind., and the Misses Clara Louise Genung, Volinda Lewis, Mary Haines, Evelyn Stephans, Charlotte Bromm, Sarah Louise Haber, May MacKenzie, and Mabel Washburn, all of Indianapolis.

This Liner Filled Last Spring.

Iceland, the North Cape, the Norwegian fjords, Sweden, Estonia, Russia, Finland, and Denmark are on the itinerary of the Viking cruise that left New York early yesterday on the Swedish-American motor liner Kungsholm. Among the well known Chicagoans aboard were Mrs. J. L. Valentine and Miss Jane Valentine, Mrs. O. W. Westphal and Miss Ellen Westphal, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Morris, Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Dutton, Miss Gertrude Graber, and E. Gustav Johnson.

Mrs. Albert G. Miller of this city was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. J. R. Vansant of Kansas City. Mrs. Peabody Lloyd was accompanied by her grandson, Howard B. Peabody Jr. Traveling with Mrs. William Munroe of Grand Rapids was her grandson, Joseph Munroe McNulty of Chicago.

Other passengers from Chicagoland were Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Keifer, Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Keifer, and Louis F. Keifer Jr., all of Terre Haute; Dr. and Mrs. Carl Henry Davis and their children, Mary and Clinton, of Milwaukee; the Misses Minnie and Caroline Draves of Milwaukee, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Kolmos of Wheaton, Miss Bertha Edwards of Indianapolis, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Smith and their children, F. Curtis and W. Chalmers, of Whiting. Dr. and Mrs. Davis were passengers on the Kungsholm's North Cape cruise last summer and immediately upon their return announced their intention of going again this year.

Thorsten Hanson, district manager of the Swedish-American line, said yesterday that a large percentage of the staterooms for this cruise were sold out early last winter, and that since the latter part of May the company's ships had been filled to capacity and it had been necessary to turn away nearly 1,000 applicants for space.

Floyd Thompsons Bound for North Cape.

With more than 500 passengers the Rotterdam of the Holland America line sailed yesterday for the North Cape and Russia. In addition she will call at Iceland, Spitzbergen, and Scotland. Among the Chicagoans sailing aboard were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Thompson and their daughter, Miss Mary Ellen Thompson; the Rev. Albert J. Dedera, Mrs. Henry W. Stern, Archibald T. Naugle, Mrs. Edmund T. Miller, Miss Janet Miller, Mrs. Frank C. Rathje, Theron L. Rathje, Ward Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Vial, Mrs. Grace Morey, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Barnaby, Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Block, Miss Babette Block, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Silberman and their son and daughter, Judge Samuel A. Walker, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Deahl.

The Volendam of the same line will sail at midnight Tuesday on a 54 day cruise to the Mediterranean and Scandinavian countries. This steamer will also carry a capacity passenger list, with a number of Chicagoans included. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. John Quincy Adams and their children, John Q. Adams Jr. and Misses Katherine and Mary Adams; Mr. and Mrs. Archibald C. Lauder, Christopher Norton and Miss Patricia Norton, J. M. Mills, Mrs. K. Van Steenberg, Miss Geraldine Hogan, Miss Loretta Fitzgerald, Mrs. George L. Chindahl and Miss Margaret E. Chindahl, Mrs. I. M. Mills and her children, Miss Lolita and Goodwin Mills; Miss Ada Dallas, and Miss Mary Heyburn.

Miss Ruth Dick Cutter of Chicago, a student at Northwestern university, was in a party of seven sailing on the Aquitania Wednesday for Geneva, where they will attend a seminar on world affairs. Members of the group were selected by the scholarship committee of the Students' International union. Other middle westerners included are Richard D. Harfst and Philip Van Zile of Detroit and Miss Gladys Sinclair of Minneapolis.

14,000 Passengers in One Month.

The total number of passengers booked by Cunard-White Star for June will exceed 14,000, say Chicago officials of the line. This is a considerable increase over the same month for last year. Last week was especially heavy, five ships having been scheduled to take out more than 5,200 passengers. So great was the demand for space to Cherbourg and Southampton that the Majestic and Aquitania were scheduled for the same week.

Pageants to Tell of Minnesota's Fur Trading Days

DULUTH, Minn.—The story of the northwest's first industry—the fur trading business—with its swashbuckling French voyageur, the war cry of the Chippewa and the romance of the first white settlers in this area, will be told in pageantry this summer on the site of the original John Jacob Astor trading post.

The state of Minnesota has announced its intention of making the progress of fur trading in north central United States the major theme of a series of pageants to be held in state parks.

Portrayal of these pageants will be climaxed at Fond du Lac, site of the original Astor post, Aug. 4, 5, 6, and 7, when officials of 50 Duluth organizations join with the state in the dedication of the rebuilt American Fur company settlement.

From northern Minnesota reservations will come native Chippewas, descendants of those Indians who bartered pelts with Astor, to take up residence at the site for the four day pageant.

Former Flagship to Sail to Milwaukee

THE former Goodrich flagship, City of Grand Rapids, will make its first 1935 sailing from Navy pier at 10 a. m. today. This was announced by Capt. E. E. Taylor, general manager of the Chicago-Milwaukee Steamship company. The all-steel liner will be in daily service from Chicago to Milwaukee and return throughout the summer.

Five hundred Wieboldt South Town store employés under the leadership of J. E. Fax will be among today's excursionists.

FOREIGN TRAVEL

Chicagoans Flock to Old World Ports

SHIPS outbound from the St. Lawrence ports, Montreal and Quebec, carried heavy lists of Chicagoans last week for England and the continent.

On the Montrose of the Canadian Pacific line were Miss Emma H. Sidenburg, who will tour the Scandinavian countries, and Mrs. Charles Adsit and her son. On the Duchess of Atholl were Judge and Mrs. R. J. Dunne, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Anderson, the Misses Mabel and Evan Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley G. Creagh, James Creagh, Mrs. C. C. Johnson, Miss Mary Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Manns, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Crofts, Miss M. L. Falls, H. D. Firth, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Grey, Mr. and Mrs. A. Levy, Mrs. B. M. Hamilton, R. W. Lovel, Miss Lily Morrison, Miss Agnes E. Walker, Mrs. Catherine Thompson, Mrs. Mary H. Griffiths, Dr. and Mrs. Fritz Neumann, John L. Robinson, Leeman C. Robinson, and Mr. and Mrs. M. Sax.

On the Empress of Britain were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Dickinson, Miss Elizabeth Dickinson, Mr. and Mrs. Liem Swie Hwa, Mrs. Arthur W. Newton, Miss Elizabeth Newton, John Osborne, Mrs. Frank Mullen, Mrs. Susan Hyde, and Miss M. Bernice Horton.

Isle of Wight and Torquay.

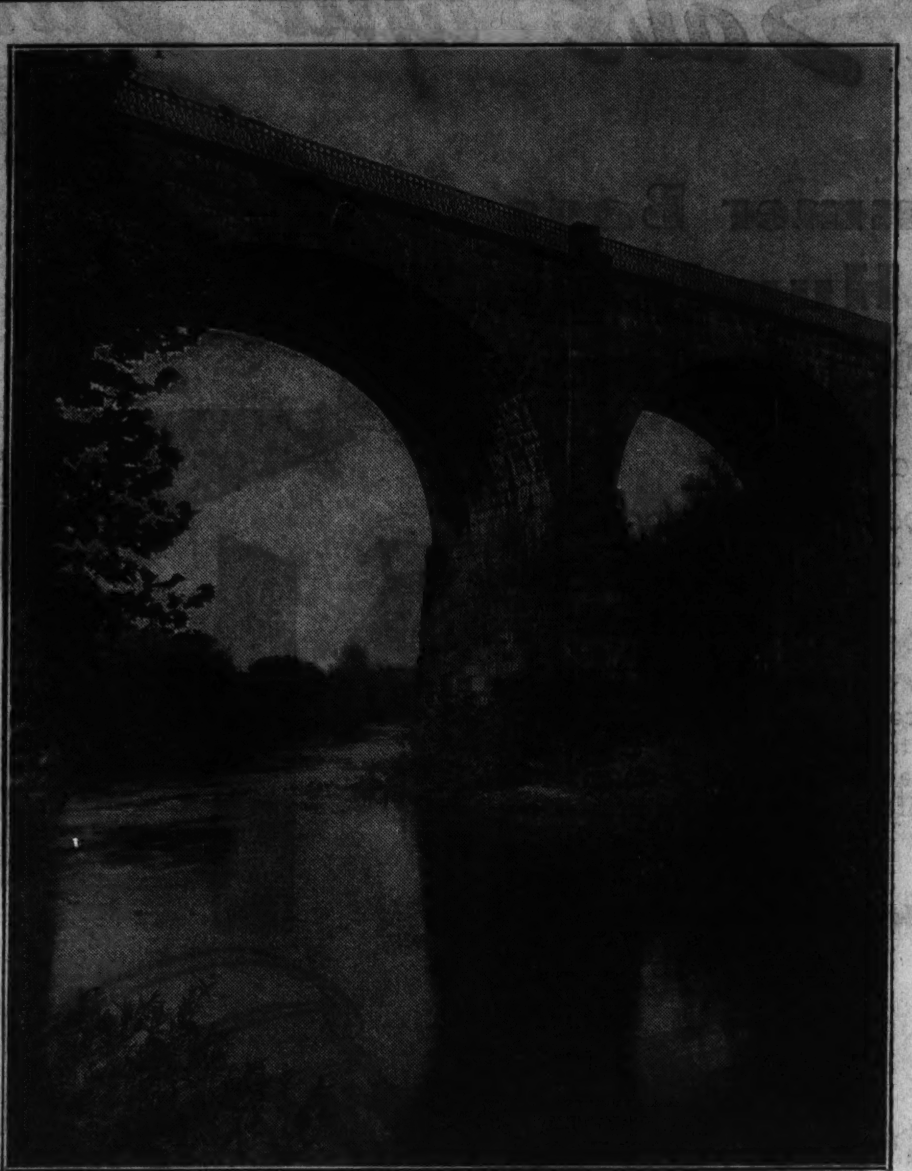
A summer in rural England, with a sojourn on the Isle of Wight and a visit to Torquay, comprises the travel plans of Miss Florence Hale, who sailed Friday on the American Banker. Her fellow passengers from this city included Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Sentinella and the Misses Katherine Davery, Mary Woodward, Frances Billings, Frances Hadley, and Elsie Routh. Frances Maycroft and Vivian Le Febvre will sail Wednesday on the City of Havre for several weeks in Paris and London.

Robert Howard sailed yesterday on the Ile de France with a party of eight Chicagoans for a tour of seven European countries, to be climaxed in London by the marriage of one of the members of the party—Miss Irene Tippler. Miss Marie Keachie, Mrs. W. O. Korten and her daughter, Jane; Miss Caroline Weise, Miss Mollie Butts, George McElroy, and Miss Doris Flagg comprise the rest of this party. They have planned a stay at the medieval city of Rothenburg, a motor trip through the Dolomites, and a visit to the cathedral at Chartres. When Miss Tippler reaches London she will be joined by Paul McCurry of Chicago, and they will be married in one of the great London cathedrals and then take a honeymoon trip through rural England.

Other Chicagoans on the Ile de France were Otto Eisenchimel, Mrs. Charlotte Engel, Mme. Maguerite Farre, Mrs. K. H. Bordner, Mrs. D. J. Buckley, Miss Marion Kopp, and Miss Eleanor Loveland.

Through the Panama Canal.

Mrs. Margaret Spencer, Mrs. Fletcher K. White, and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Higson left on the Pennsylvania yesterday for a trip from New York to San Francisco by way of the Panama canal. En route they will pass E. P. Hesser, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Hudson, Miss Irene Richmond, and Miss Ruth Kickenapp, who are aboard the California, sailing from San Francisco to New York.



WORLD'S OLDEST STONE ARCH RAILROAD VIADUCT

Engineers built better than they knew when, in 1835, they erected this stone arch railroad viaduct to Relay, Md., to enable the Baltimore and Ohio to carry its line toward Washington. After a century of service it is still in service and still in perfect condition.

Elevator in Cathedral.

TRIBERG, Germany.—(AP)—Persons who object to climbing 367 feet of steps to get an unusual view from the tower of the Triberg cathedral can now ride up in an elevator.

English Air Trafic Grows.

LONDON.—(AP)—Air transport between England and the continent increased nearly 200 per cent in 1934. One line alone carried 7,000 passengers 260,000 miles without one injury.

Mauretania to Leave Tuesday for Graveyard

"ON Tuesday, July 2, the Mauretania will leave the Southampton docks to proceed to Rosyth, on the Firth of Forth, Scotland, where 300 men will set to work to break her up," said a cablegram received yesterday by William Franklin Crum, Chicago manager of the Cunard-White Star lines.

"It will be like a funeral procession," said Capt. Andrew Chalmers, assistant marine superintendent of the company, returning from a visit to Southampton. "It is going to be a sad day for many of those who will watch the Mauretania depart. The fine old ship is now stripped of all her beautiful woodwork.

"The officials of the shipbreaking firm that bought the Mauretania seemed a bit reluctant to begin ripping her apart. The ship still engenders love for herself, just as she did when she was the trimmest craft on the seven seas.

"There were a great many suggestions as to what to do with the liner rather than tear her to pieces and cast her into the junk pile.

"The shipbreaking company received many letters asking that the Mauretania be anchored off some coast resort and used as a floating hotel. This was considered impractical, as a ship at anchor holds no lasting charm. She must be going, ploughing through the sea and scattering the fresh breezes through every part of her."

Caribbean Draws Summer Tourists from Chicagoland

SUMMER vacationists who are more or less limited as to time and budgets are flocking this year to the Caribbean sea. With their wide variety of scenery and peoples, the West Indies and Central America are the goals of a large number of cruises out of New York and New Orleans. Some of the trips go as far as the northern coast of South America; shorter ones call at such places as Cuba, Jamaica, Panama, and Costa Rica.

The United Fruit company, one of the steamship lines operating these cruises, this summer is running an all-expense affair out of Chicago in connection with the Illinois Central railroad. Embarkation at New Orleans is followed by eight days on the Caribbean, with shore excursions at Puerto Barrios in Guatemala and Puerto Cortes in Spanish Honduras. The tour is designed to appeal to travelers whose vacations are limited to two weeks.

L. J. McCalley, Chicago manager for the company, announced yesterday that 35 persons from Chicagoland had set sail from New Orleans on one of these jaunts to the southlands.

Among the steamships that will visit the West Indies this summer are the Franconia of the Cunard-White Star line and the Columbia of the Panama Pacific line.

Again

Perhaps the first time for you—but not for us! For our officers and crew, for our expert cruise staff—this of 1936 is the fifth, sixth, even seventh girdling of the globe. No, not a bit tired of it are we, but certainly experienced!

That is what you want: The know-how of making your voyage pleasant; Ports and lands selected for the vivid interest they are known to offer; The route, as experience has proved, of ideal weather; Even the cuisine adapted to every clime. Every feature proved, coordinated!

Sailing from New York Eastward, January 11th, 1936

World Cruise on the Famous Resolute

—a ship acclaimed by voyagers as ideal—yacht-like in style, but a large ocean-liner in size. Designed for restfulness, completely appointed for cruise recreation.

Features acclaimed by our voyagers: Sailing after the Holidays; Eastward cruise; 4½ months; 39 ports in 29 favorite lands; 38,000 miles on sea and land; extensive shore excursions under our own world-wide management and included in the rates (First Class Exclusively) . . . $1750 up—still based on undevalued dollars!

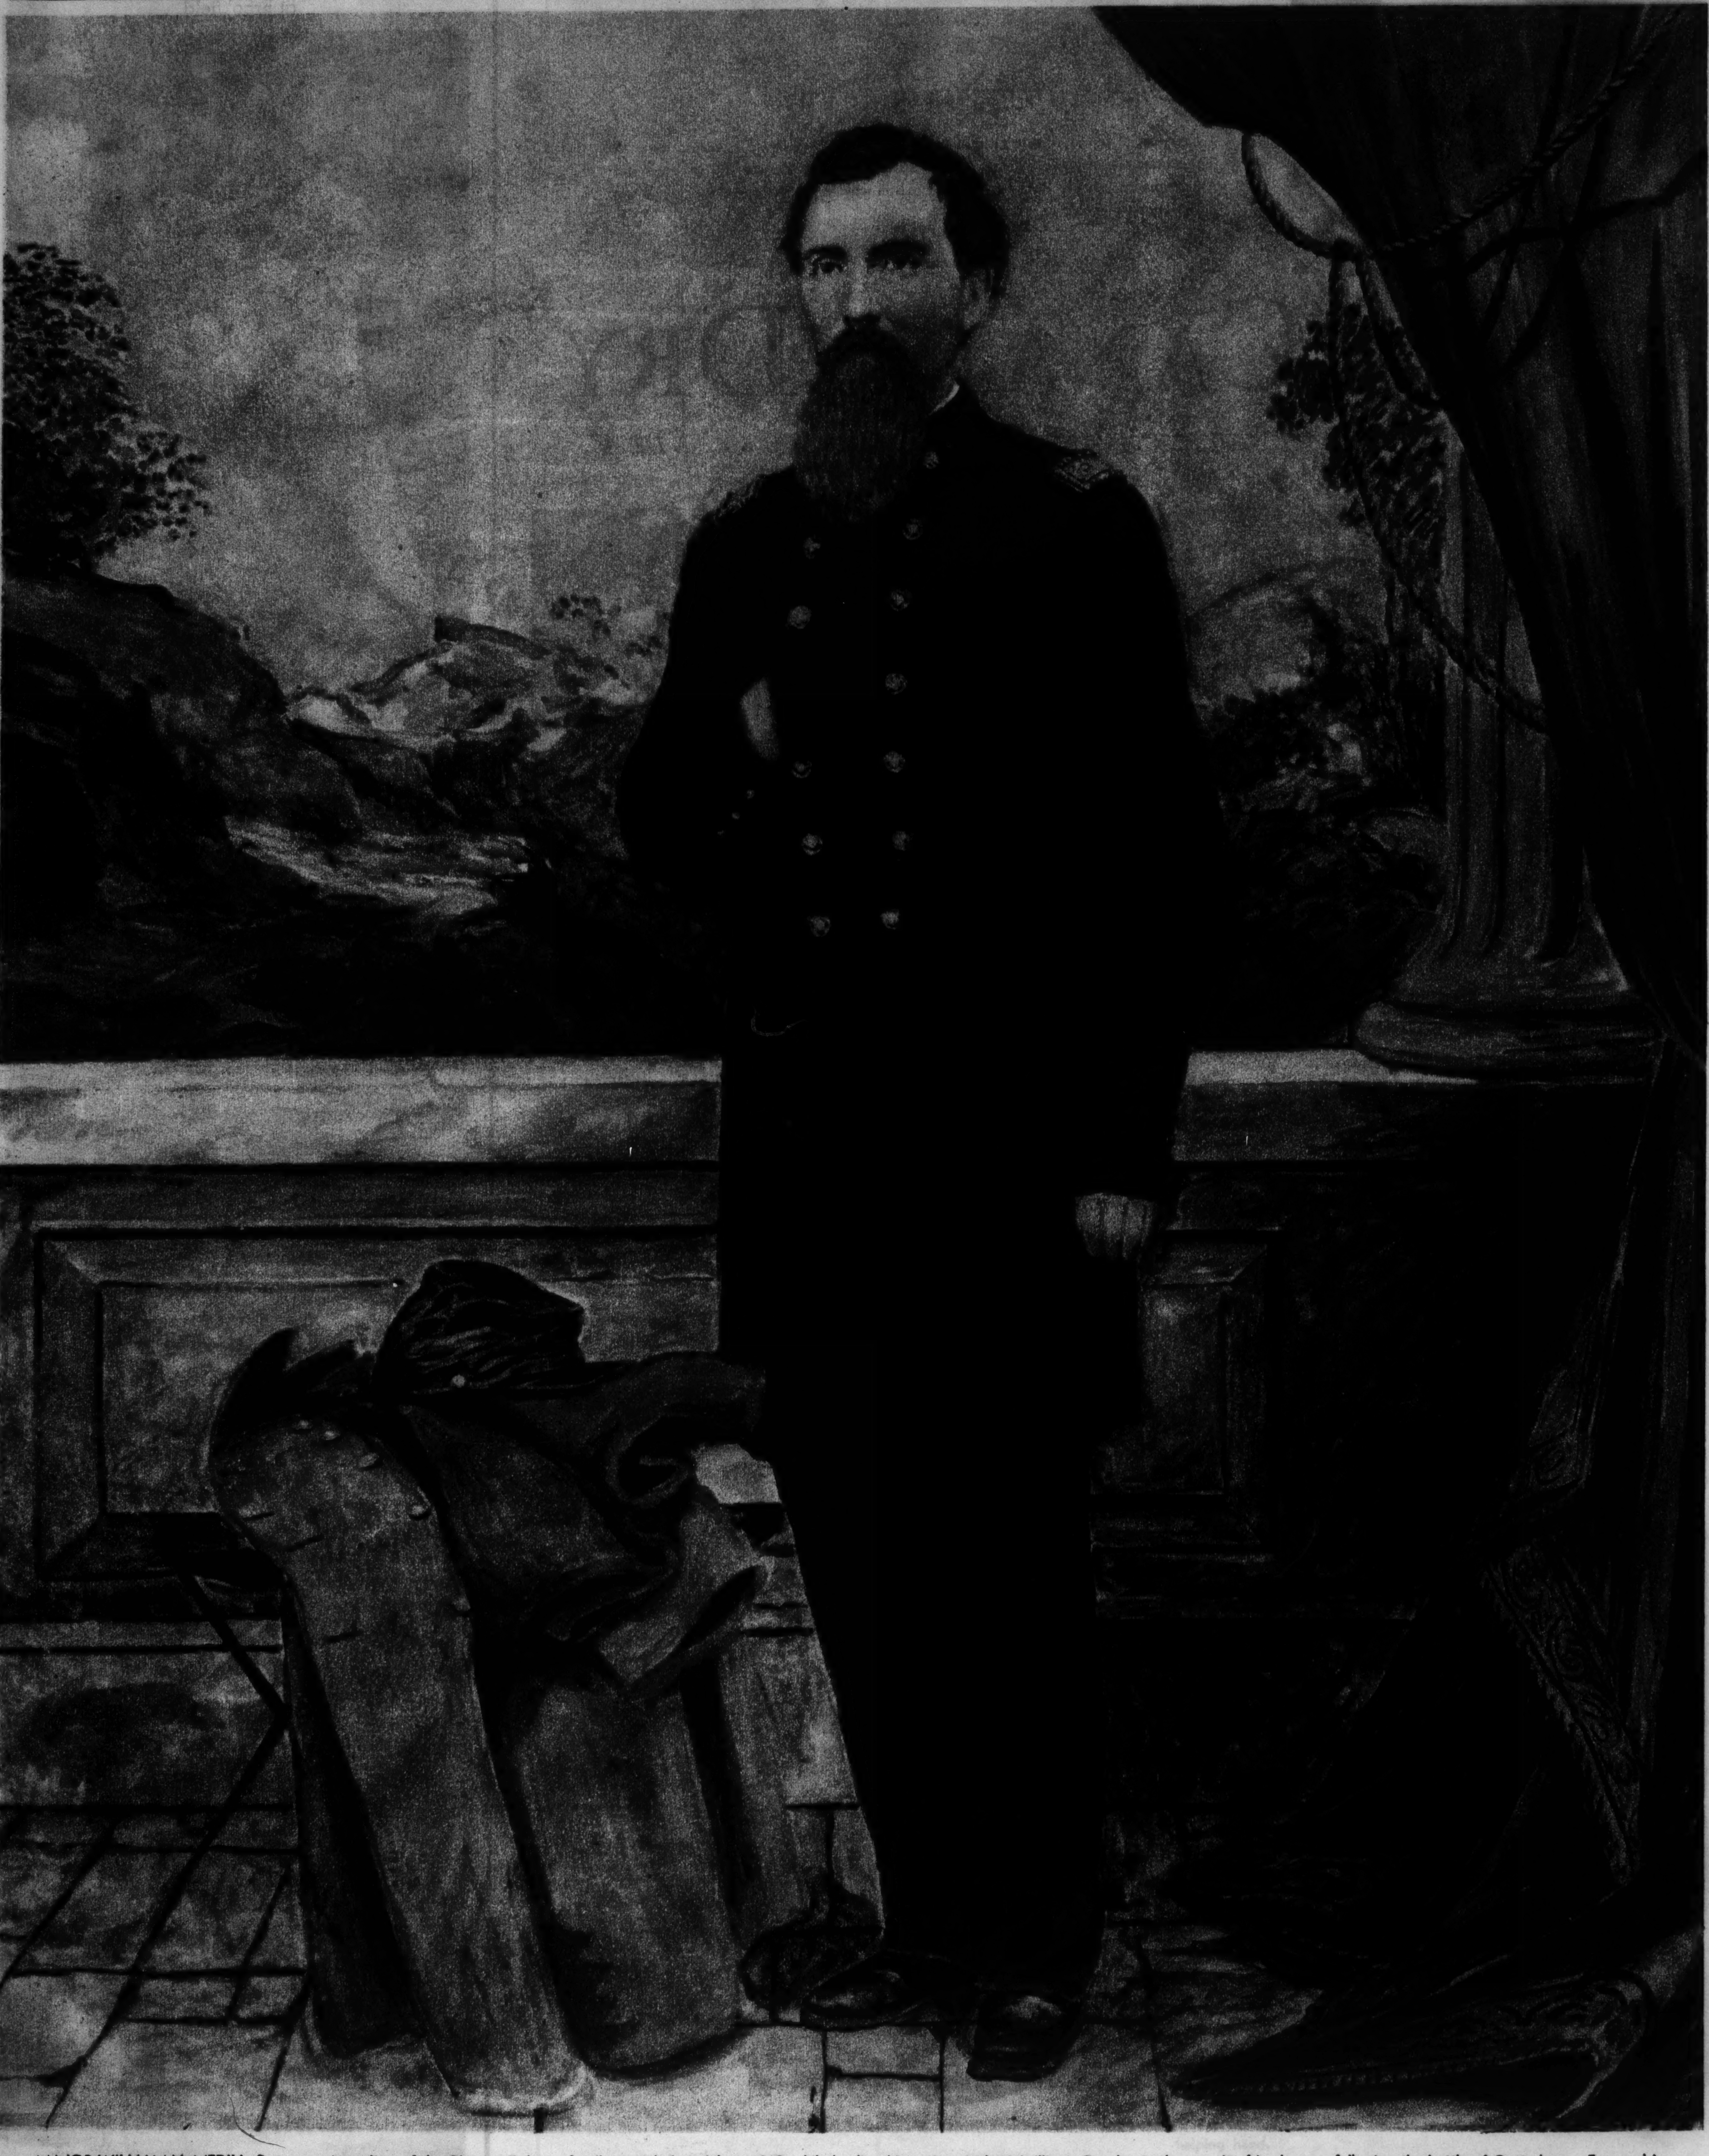
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

June 30, 1935



MAJOR WILLIAM H. MEDILL, first managing editor of the Chicago Tribune, fatally wounded on July 6, 1863, while leading his regiment, the 8th Illinois Cavalry, in the pursuit of Lee's army following the battle of Gettysburg. Engaged in numerous battles, he had reached one of the high points of his military career at Gettysburg, where for three hours, until Federal reinforcements came up, he had held an entire division of the enemy in check.

(From A. T. Andreas' "History of Chicago.")

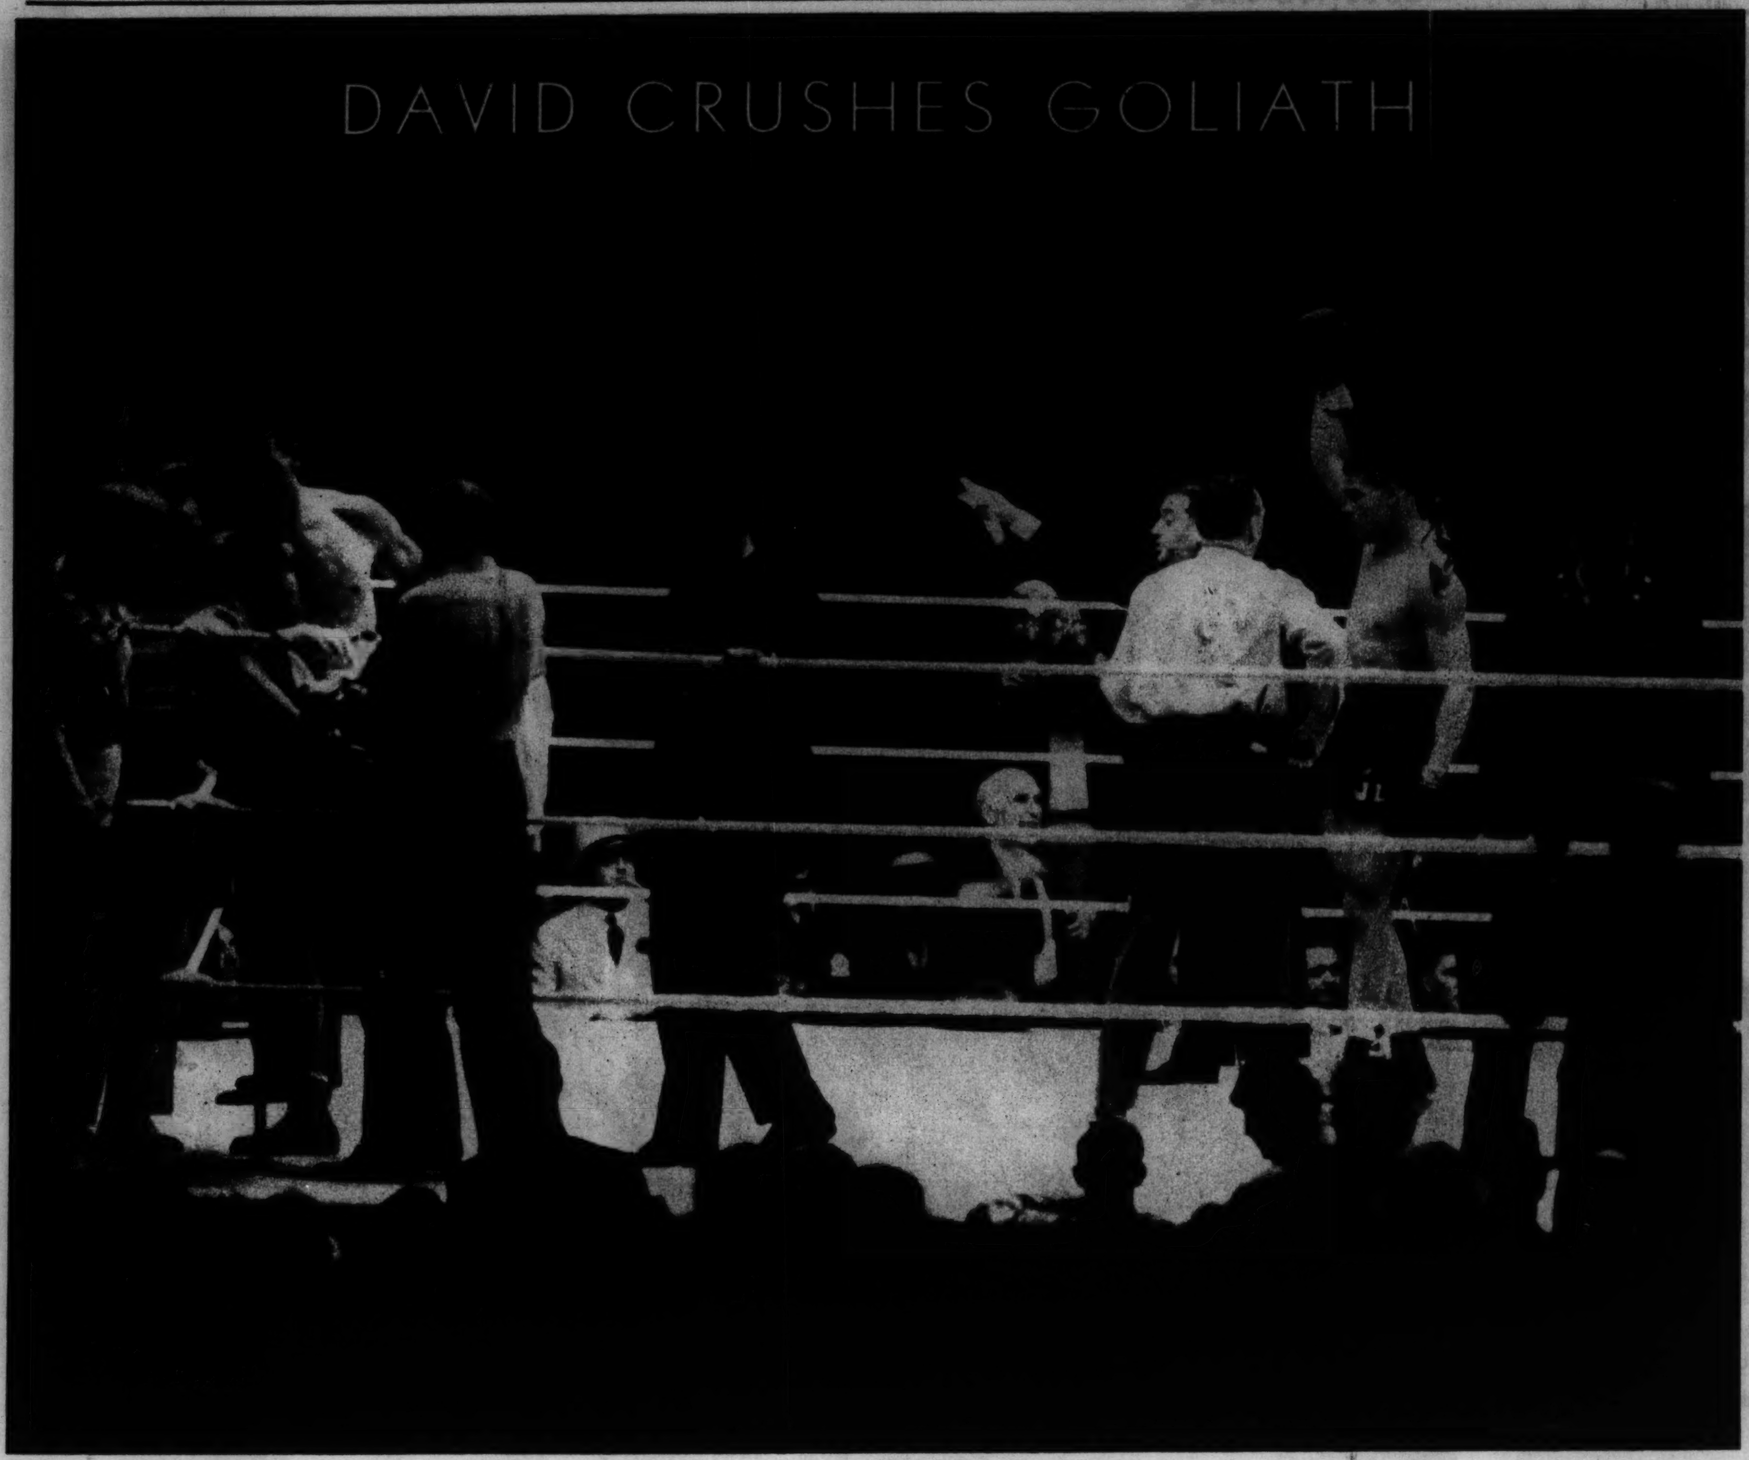
DAVID CRUSHES GOLIATH



THE TOKEN OF VICTORY—Joe Louis' hand held aloft following his technical knockout of Primo Carnera in New York last Tuesday night. The 1934 Chicago Golden Gloves champion waged one of the most spectacular battles seen in the ring since the days when Jack Dempsey was in his prime.

To make THIS BEER

yeast cells must be fed just as carefully as babies

Since the yeast discoveries of the great French scientist, Louis Pasteur, revolutionized brewing practices, we have learned many things. We know that to make good beer, yeast cells must be fed as carefully as we nourish our own infants. So, during the BUDWEISER fermentation period, we see to it that the yeast cells get just the right amounts of the various food values they need. Thus, BUDWEISER is always uniform—in flavor, bouquet, carbonation, color, clarity, and purity.

In the brewing of BUDWEISER, nothing is left to chance. By clock and thermometer, every process is controlled. You will always find in BUDWEISER that matchless bouquet that is the envy of all brewers. BUDWEISER is always rich in the flavor of the pick of each year's barley crop. Always BUDWEISER lives up to its age-old reputation—the one beer that sets itself brilliantly apart from all others. The very first sip tells all who try it why the world-wide demand for BUDWEISER built the world's largest brewery.

"I made my husband do the driving... UNTIL I CHANGED TO ETHYL!"

ALWAYS LOOK! Only pumps which are identified by the Ethyl trade-mark on the globe or body dispense gasoline containing Ethyl fluid.

I SAID TO MY HUSBAND: "You know I like to drive. But I lose my confidence in traffic; I can't be sure what the engine will do." "Well, Madge," he said, "since you can't avoid traffic these days to get anywhere, let's try a new idea . . . let's stop at the next pump marked Ethyl" . . .

AND HE SAID TO ME: "Automobile engineers say that Ethyl fluid makes driving easier. It's used only in the premium gasoline that filling stations are selling to bring out all the performance and power of the modern high compression engines . . . Let's try a tankful and you drive . . ."

WHAT A DIFFERENCE! The engine seems to say: "Sit back, relax. I'll do the work!" I can count on it to go when the light turns green, and to take me around slowpokes safely. I don't have to shift gears nearly so much! And my husband, too, tells all our friends: "It pays to change to Ethyl."

3 FACTS you should know about gasoline

1. Pumps marked Ethyl contain the coolest fuel for summer use. That's because, by the action of Ethyl fluid, more of the potential energy of each gallon is transformed into engine power and less sent as waste heat into the cooling system, already battling high outside temperatures.

2. Ethyl fluid is needed to develop full performance by modern high compression cars every season of the year. It makes older cars, too, run better as carbon and mileage accumulate. That is why approximately 95% of all premium gasoline sold in the United States and Canada now contains Ethyl fluid.

3. Sufficient Ethyl fluid (containing tetraethyl lead) is used to produce the highest anti-knock rating by the official test methods of the oil and automotive industries. The all-round quality of premium fuel so treated is protected by double inspection at the refinery and at the pump.

STOP! When the signal is "Stop," is your engine under perfect control; ready to glide away quickly, safely and without a knock on the signal to "Go"? Stop at an Ethyl pump today and fully enjoy your Sunday trip. To get all the power and pleasure from your car investment —NEXT TIME GET ETHYL!

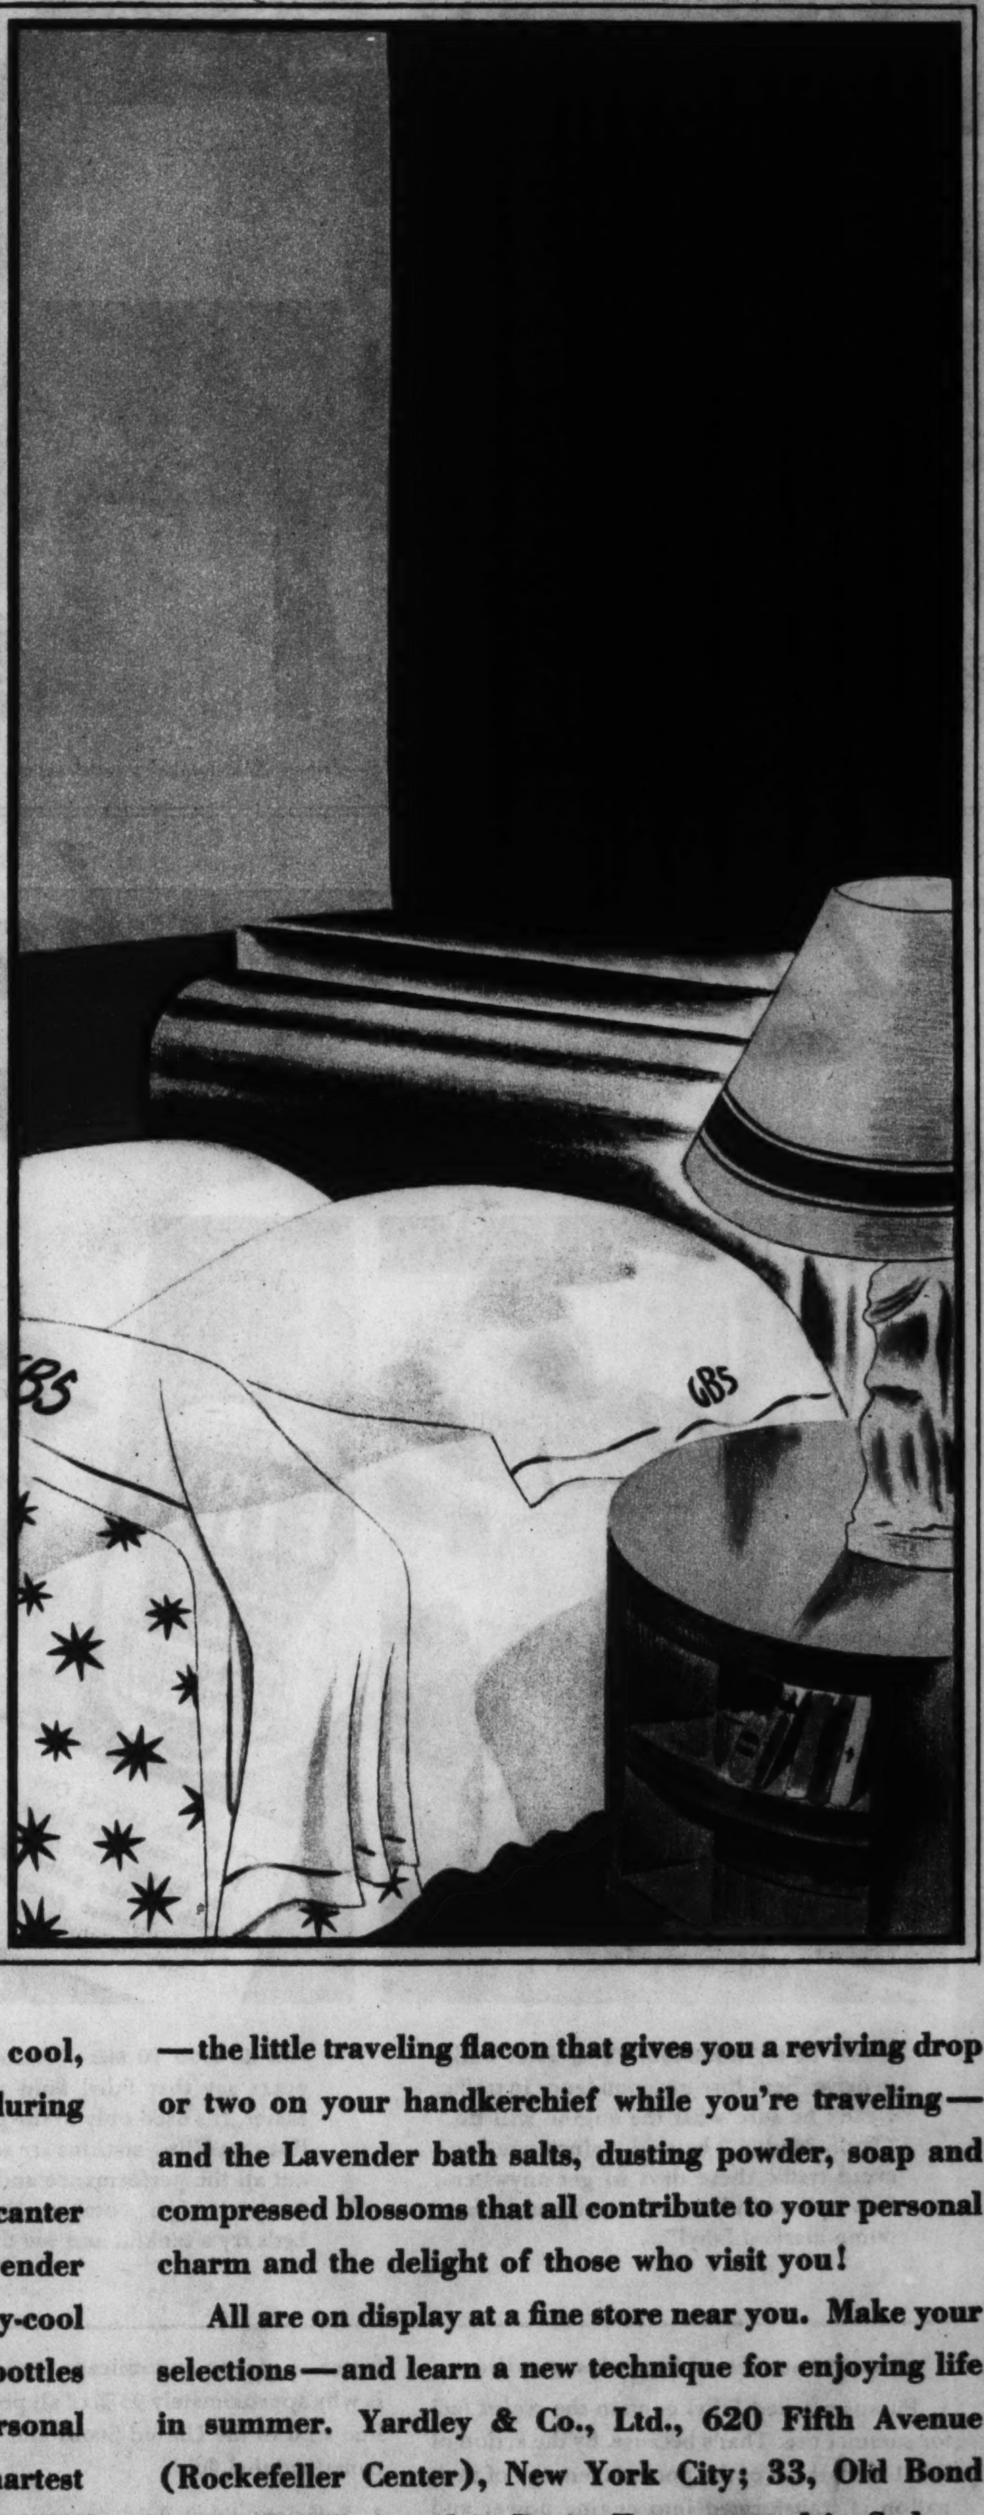
Yardley's English Lavender, in compressed blossoms to scent and cool your linen, $1.10 a box. The wicker-covered traveling flask with handle, $2.20, tiny gold-capped bottle, purse size, 45c, and gold-capped toilet bottles of Lavender, $1.10 to $3.30. Other Lavender luxuries, $1.10 to $13.20.



REST . . . at the close of a long, sultry summer's day. How it invites alike the heat-worn city dweller and the sun-satiated, tired vacationist. And how difficult it often is to obtain in summer—

Unless you try the recipe that makes life so delightful in great English houses, even in the tropics—

Slip beneath smooth sheets that bear the faint, cool scent of Yardley's English Lavender. And if it's very warm—pat Lavender onto your temples—and spray it in your bedroom. You'll think a wandering sea-breeze has strolled from an English garden to flutter right into your window!

Sleep under such circumstances is apt to be completely restful and refreshing—and in the morning there are a score of other exhilarating summer uses for English Lavender, also—

So many that we've prepared a host of containers for dressing-tables, guest-rooms, baths, cabanas, traveling. So that you may be cool, beautiful and fastidious, like the English woman during every hour of the hottest weather!

We recommend especially the great cut-glass decanter (or gold-topped bottle) that allows you to use Lavender liberally after bathing, to surround you with icy-cool fragrance for hours afterward—the dressing-table bottles that enable you to make Lavender your subtle, personal perfume—the wickered flasks found in the smartest cabanas and sports lockers for refreshment after sunning.—the little traveling flacon that gives you a reviving drop or two on your handkerchief while you're traveling—and the Lavender bath salts, dusting powder, soap and compressed blossoms that all contribute to your personal charm and the delight of those who visit you!

All are on display at a fine store near you. Make your selections—and learn a new technique for enjoying life in summer. Yardley & Co., Ltd., 620 Fifth Avenue (Rockefeller Center), New York City; 33, Old Bond Street, London, and in Paris, Toronto, and in Sydney.
